VON WALDERSEE TO GO

Germany to Withdraw the Field Marshal and Surrender the Command of the Troops In China.

Berlin, May 29.—The correspondent of the Associated Press learns authoritatively that all the powers have accepted Germany's proposition to withdraw Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee from China and surrender the command. In accepting the proposition, the United States expresses satisfaction at the extremely tactful manner in which Count Von Waldersee discharged his most difficult duties and at his great courtesy toward American officers. The other powers, especially Great Britain, have expressed themselves similarly.

In German circles the British proposition that China pay the indemnity by issuing bonds making interest and sinking fund payments yearly thereon, is now considered certain of being accepted. Perhaps the acceptance will be unanimous. Germany's contingent remaining in Pe Chi Li, it is learned on authority, will be somewhat over 4000 men. The officials here deprecate the idea that Germany has any private scheme in view in keeping so many men in China. The troops are only staying there as a guaranty of the fulfillment of the peace conditions.

AFTER DOWIE.

Grand Jury Takes Up Case of the Alleged Healer.

Chicago, May 29.—Consideration of charges made by the coroner's jury against John Alexander Dowie, that he was directly responsible, through neglect, for the death of Mrs. H. W. Judd, wife of one of his followers, recently at Dowie's "Zion," was taken up this afternoon by the Cook county grand jury.

No answer has been received from Dowie relative to the notice sent him yesterday by the city authorities, that he was required to procure a license to conduct a hospital or else shut up his Zion institution.

BOERS SURRENDER.

Cape Town, May 29.—Two hundred Boers have surrendered at Palapye, Bechunaland, and forty-two wagon loads of men, women and children have surrendered at Ft. Tuli, Rhodesia.

EXPERIMENT.

Steel Corporation Will Erect a Refrigerating Plant at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, May 29.—Preparations are being made by the United States Steel corporation for the erection of a refrigerating plant at the Lucy furnaces of the Carnegie company, which will probably figure largely in revolutionary reductions in the cost of making pig iron. The plant, while an experimental one, will be built on a commercial basis and will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. The idea is to deprive the air of a large percentage of its moisture by precipitating and freezing the water before the blast is sent into the furnace. Blast furnace owners have found that in winter, when the air is cold, dry and crisp, they can make pig iron more cheaply than in summer, when the air is filled with moisture.

The experiment will be watched with interest by all blast furnace men.

ACCOUNTANTS MEET.

Denver, May 29.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Association of Railway Accounting Officers opened today in this city. About 100 delegates are in attendance.

CHINA YIELDS

Indemnity Question Is Finally Settled.

Will Be Entirely Closed By June First.

Washington, May 29.—The department of state has been informed reliably that the Chinese government has issued a decree agreeing to pay an indemnity of 450,000,000 taels, equivalent to about $337,000,000 at the present rate of exchange. It is known now that the whole subject of indemnity will be closed up before the end of the present month. If that is not done, and evacuation is not under way on a large scale, then the Chinese government must be assessed $1,000,000 each day after June 1 next, to compensate the powers for the maintenance of their forces in China. Under this whip the Chinese government has been forced to yield. It is not known that the powers have agreed on form and extent of guarantee, but now that the amount of indemnity is fixed, not much difficulty is expected on this score.

The United States government has not taken part in the selection of a military commandant to succeed Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee in the supreme command. Having dispensed with our military force in China, the United States is not concerned in the personality of the military chief. Our legation guard will not owe allegiance or obedience to any foreign commander, but will be answerable solely to the United States minister or charge. In the event of common peril, the several legation guards may unite for the common defense, in which case they may select their own leader, as they did during the defense of the legationers last year.

SHE NEEDS THE MONEY

Mrs. Edna Muir, Who Recently Settled the Gambling Bills of Her Husband, Contests the Will of Her Mother.

New York, May 29.—At Jersey City today Judge Blair denied the motion made on behalf of Mrs. Edna Muir, daughter of the late United States Senator John R. McPherson, for the appointment of a temporary administrator for the estate of her mother, recently deceased. Instead, Judge Blair announced that he would appoint Judge Otto Crouse as administrator pendente lite in place of Aaron Baldwin, who was named in Mrs. McPherson's will as administrator of her estate. The court, however, directed that the management of the business of McPherson & Co. and so much of the estate as is now deposited with the Union Trust company, of New York, remain with the administrator named in the will, Mr. Baldwin.

By the terms of Mrs. McPherson's will, her daughter, whose marriage to Dr. Muir was displeasing to the testatrix, was given a life interest in the estate. In the event of her death the interest reverts to Baldwin, and at his death $50,000 goes to Christ hospital, Jersey City; $10,000 to Emergency hospital at Washington, and the residue to Yale university. Mrs. Muir is to contest the will on the ground of alleged undue influence and lack of testamentary ability. The estate is estimated at $1,000,000.

A JOINT CONFERENCE

Machine Manufacturers and Machinists Meet to Try and Adjust Differences---A Strike May Be Precipitated.

Chicago, May 29.—To a request sent to President O'Connell, of the International Association of Machinists, by the administrative council of the National Metal Trades association, asking that the international body agree to local arbitration, President O'Connell replied today that all negotiations could be carried on with a committee which he had appointed. This committee, which has full power to act, consists of W. D. Roderick, business agent of the Chicago district of the Machinists' association; Arthur Holder, of Des Moines, and William Rebbing, of St. Louis. Officers of the Chicago district of the Metal Trades association met again this morning and received Mr. O'Connell's answer. This afternoon the joint conference of machine manufacturers and machinists was held.

Among the rank and file of machinists a feeling obtains that a strike may be precipitated this week.

CLOSING.

Last Day of General Assembly of the United Presbyterians.

Des Moines, May 29.—This was the closing day of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church. The committee on bills and overtures on the membership covenant reported that there was a demand for a change in the form of questions put when members are being received. The committee held, however, that none of the memorials submited cover all the points desired and recommend that a committee of five be appointed to frame a membership covenant and subnait it to the next general assembly. The recommendations were adopted. The committee on nomination will select the committee which is to report not later than Jan. 1, 1902.

The assembly voted against recommendation of Dr. Samuel Collins' appointment of a committee to prepare a list of consanguinity and affinity within which marriage shall not be contracted.

Appropriations were made as follows: Foreign missions, $13,249; home missions, $100,350; freedmans aid, $55,000; church extension, $55,000; educational work, $8000; educational for colleges and seminaries, $25,000; ministerial relief, $10,000; publication, $1500.

Following is the committee appointed to make a revision of the membership covenant:

Rev. J. T. McCrory, of Pittsburg; Rev. E. S. McKitrick, of Los Angeles; Rev. T. H. Hana, of Monmouth, Ill.; Rev. J. G. Kennedy, of Ohio, and Rev. C. S. Cleeland, of Philadelphia.

Having completed its work the general assembly then adjourned to meet at Allegheny, Pa., in 1902.

FELL SIXTY FEET.

Eau Claire Man Killed at Spokane.

Spokane, Wash., May 29.—Frank Charles, a bridge builder working on the Great Northern's steel bridge across the Spokane river, slipped from a trestle and plunged headlong sixty feet to the ground. He was dead when his companions reached him. The remains will be shipped to Eau Claire, Wis.

EN ROUTE TO COAST.

Railroad Commissioners Pass Through St. Paul.

St. Paul, May 29.—One hundred and twenty-five members of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners arrived here late last night and left immediately for Winnipeg, en route to the national convention at San Francisco, June 5. Commissioner Staples, Secretary Tiesberg and Statistician Yapp of Minnesota joined the party here, and representatives of North and South Dakota will be picked up today. Twenty-five states are represented.

PHILIPPINE FRAUDS.

Sergeant Wilson Given Three Years In Prison.

Manila, May 29.—Commissary Sergt. Henry Wilson has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment in Bilibid prison for stealing supplies. The trial of Harold M. Pitt, manager of Evans & Co., charged with improperly purchasing government stores, has been postponed. The court-martial of Lieut. Richard H. Townley for alleged participation in the commissary frauds at Manila, began at Cavite today.

It is settled that the governing board of Manila, is to consist of an army officer, a Filipino, and an American civilian.

Maj. Batson is negotiating with the emissaries of Gen. Cailles at Santa Cruz.

WINTER IS BETTER.

Chicago, May 29.—E. W. Winter, former president of Northern Pacific Railroad company, who underwent a surgical operation yesterday at Mercy hospital, in this city, is much improved today.

POSSIBLY CHANGED

The Platt Amendment May Have Objectionable Attachments.

Copy of the Cuban Resolution Not Yet Obtainable.

No Occasion For Present Action By the Government.

Washington, May 29.—Secretary Root has received a cablegram from Gen. Wood at Havana, briefly confirming the press report of the adoption by a vote of 15 yeas to 14 nays of the report of the committee on the relations with the United States, accepting in behalf of the convention the terms of the Platt amendment. It is not possible at this moment to secure here even an abstract of the resolution adopted. It is understood that without undertaking materially to change the language of the Platt amendment, the convention, by the adoption of reports of interviews with Secretary Root and otherwise, has placed upon the amendment itself a construction that will require very serious consideration.

Secretary Root has been in daily communication by cable with Gen. Wood and is acquainted with the proceedings of the delegates and negotiations which led up to yesterday's action. Gen. Wood, in turn, has acquainted the constitutional delegates with the secretary's views on the answer to their efforts to place a construction upon the Platt amendment. Hence the weight of opinion inclines to the belief that even as it stands, the convention's action yesterday will not be disapproved from Washington. It is suggested by the officials that there is no occasion at present for the Washington government to take action on this matter either by accepting or rejecting the convention's work.

Havana, May 29.—The Cuban constitutional convention will not hold further sessions until after the municipal elections. President Capote visited Governor General Wood today to talk over the proposed election law, which will be the next work of the convention. The general intimated that the United States would ask that some changes be made in the constitution.

El Mundo says: "By the vote of yesterday Cuba's independence and nationality were made subject to the United States. In future we shall be only a name on the map of the world."

COL. MICHLER DEAD.

Was Private Secretary of Lieut. Gen. Miles.

Washington, May 29.—Lieut. Col. Francis Michler, military secretary to Lieut. Gen. Miles, died at his residence in this city at an early hour today after a protracted illness. Col. Michler was a graduate of West Point, being appointed from Pennsylvania in 1866.

Col. Michler had been ill for some time from Bright's disease. Two months ago he was compelled to take to his bed. About noon yesterday he became unconscious and remained in that state up to the time of death.

Lieut. Gen. Miles was greatly attached to the officer and was with him daily during his illness. Last night the general remained at the bedside of the dying man until a late hour. Mrs Michler and her mother were at the bedside when the end came. Gen. Miles arrived at the house at 8 o'clock this morning. He was deeply affected at the loss of his chief aide and close associate. He directed Col. Whitney, of his staff, to take charge of the military arrangements for the funeral.

The funeral will occur at 10:30 a. m. Friday at the family residence, the interment being at Arlington national cemetery.

WEYLER'S PLANS.

Tells How He Would Reorganize the Army.

Madrid, May 29.—Gen. Weyler, minister of war at a banquet at Leon yesterday evening, described the plans for army reorganization. He said it is proposed to establish three army corps capable of repelling any invasion without recourse to extraordinary expenses. There will be maneuvers of the troops twice each year.

The Correspondencia says: "Differences exist among the ministers on the subjects of elections and the economic situation, but that there is no cabinet crisis."

SURPRISING SUCCESS.

English Praise of American Rule In Havana.

New York, May 29.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: The Post draws the attention of Englishmen to the annual report of the military governor of Havana, and remarks on the surprising measure of success that has been attained by the American administration in a short time. The experience of Havana during the first year and a half of American supervision proves, says the Post, that a government under the authority of an American executive would be incomparably better than Spain had been able to give, and than anything that the Cubans could create for themselves.

The same paper adds that the excellence of the administration supplied and its suitability to local conditions are true title deeds of emnize.

NOT KNOWN AT VIENNA.

Vienna, May 29.—Nothing is known here regarding the reports published in the United States that a motion has been introduced in the lower house of the reichsrath urging the foreign minister, Count Goluchowski, to take official action with a view to the formation of a European commercial league against the United States.

INTO ATOMS

A Freight Boat Blown Up By Dynamite.

Two Killed and Much Property Damaged.

Booneville, Mo., May 29.—By the explosion of 1000 detonating caps, which set off 2100 pounds of dynamite and 100 kegs of powder, the fourteen-ton freight boat Laurine, plying between this city and Rocheport, on the Missouri river, was blown to pieces last night. Considerable damage was done to property for a mile around. Two laborers, who were aboard the boat, are missing. They are:

BURT CRIPE, Osceola, Mo.

STEVEN WILSON (colored), Denison, Tex.

The Laurine was the property of the Rocheport Ferry and Packet company, and was about ready to leave her dock with a cargo of explosives, for use in building a railroad below town, when the accident occurred.

The boat was propelled by a gasoline engine. When a match was applied to the generator the gasoline took fire. Capt. Ferris and the crew immediately vacated and warned all persons nearby. The fire spread rapidly to the supply tanks of gasoline, and a second explosion occurred. This evidently set off the explosives on board, and with a report that was heard miles away the boat was blown to atoms. The ferryboat Joseph L. Stephens, lying 500 yards above, was considerably damaged, the woodworwk of the upper deck and pilot house being torn away. Those aboard the ferry escaped.

Three residences, belonging to Joseph Sherer, Mrs. Sallie H. Johnson and Charles Dunkle, about 600 yards from the disaster, were wrecked.

Fifteen plate glass windows in business houses on Main street, half a mile away, were broken and nearly all of the windows and glass doors for a mile surrounding the accident were smashed by the concussion.

UNIQUE DISTINCTION

King Edward Gives Lord Milner a "Dine and Sleep" Invitation Which Enables Him to Decline Other Invitations.

New York, May 29.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says:

The king has emphasized a unique distinction in his welcome to Lord Milner by giving to him a "dine and sleep" invitation at Windsor. Lord Milner, after being included in the royal dinner party, has been put in a position for gracefully declining invitations to dinners which are offered to him from every part of the United Kingdom.

The king and Mr. Chamberlain between them have silenced any outcry which might have been raised on the continent against public neglect of distinguished public servants.

In the political clubs various stories are current to account for the fact that Sir Henry Fowler alone of the Liberal leaders was present at Mr. Chamberlain's luncheon to Lord Milner. It appears that some of the most prominent imperialist Radicals, who owed their success at the general election to their support of the war in South Africa, were sounded as to whether they would accept invitations to the luncheon. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, on hearing what was going on, for once in a way acted with decision. He declared that he would resign the opposition's leadership if these invitations were accepted, his ground of objection being that the presence of the Radical leaders at the proceedings would commit the Liberals to approval of the government's policy.

LOGIC OF IMPERIALISM

Colonial System Made Possible By Court's Decision May Lead Americans as Far as England Has Gone.

London, May 29.—"The world at large stands to gain something by this momentous decision by which congress may devise for the dependencies a form of government outside the American constitution," says the Westminster Gazette today, discussing the United States supreme court's judgment. "Without the decision," continues the Gazette, "the United States government would have been unable to adopt a more liberal trade policy outside of America than within without disarranging the whole of their continental fiscal system. The relation of America to Europe and the world is profoundly modified by the new departure. Colonies means a navy, a navy means naval bases and coaling stations and naval bases are insecure unless backed up by the possession of a hinterland.' This is the logic of imperialism and it may lead the Americans as far as it has led us. Moreover, by stepping outside their continent the Americans undoubtedly weaken the force of the Monroe doctrine. There is a certain reciprocity in the present arrangements to conciliate Europeans to their exclusion from South America, but if the United States plunges into wider-world politics equipped with a strong navy and an American canal, enabling it to concentrate on either ocean, she ca hardly claim to compete on the principle which limits liability while putting no limit on her expansion. The entrance of the United States on the scene as a world power is already regarded as a highly disturbing factor by the European chancelleries. The new departure makes it more important than ever before for the British and the Americans, by all possible means, to keep on good terms with each other and settle by friendly negotiation all outstanding differences."

GRATIFIED.

President Pleased Over Acceptance of Platt Amendment.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 29.—The presidential train reached Fort Wayne on schedule time at 8 a. m. today.

Mrs. McKinley had a comfortable night and looked forward with pleasure to seeing her relatives at Canton this afternoon.

President McKinley and cabinet members are much gratified at the action of the Cuban constitutional convention in accepting the Platt amendment. Cuba's acceptance of our terms, however, will not change her status for the present. She must hold an election and establish a government, and congress eventually will be allowed to take the final action which will release her from the military control of the United States.

There was a big crowd at the station in this city. The president appeared in the rear platform and, after acknowledging the greetings, descended to the lower step of his car and held an impromptu reception. A line was formed and he shook hands with several hundred people.

After a stop of fifteen minutes the train proceeded eastward, the next stop being at Van Wert, Ohio.

FAILURE OF LOAN.

St. Petersburg, May 29.—News has been received from Persia that the proposed new Russian loan of 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 roubles has fallen through because the shah was unwilling to give the required security and grant the privileges requested in South Persia. British influence is blamed for the failure of the loan.

AFTER HIM.

Police Want Man Who Wrote Letters to Mary Shaw.

Davenport, Iowa, May 29.—The police are looking for the writer of certain letters to Miss Mary Shaw, granddaughter of the late millionaire lumberman, George S. Shaw, of Cloquet, Minn., threatening to attack and blind her sister if if $10,000 cash were not placed where they could get it. A man confronted the younger girl here a day or two ago, repeating the demands made in the letter. She kept an appointment with him, after notifying the police, but the man did not appear.

MAINE VICTIMS.

Fifteen Claims Filed With the Court.

Washington, May 29.—Fifteen claims were filed today with the Spanish claims commission on behalf of survivors of the Maine disaster and the families of victims. The aggregate of damages asked is $270,000, the sum for injuries to each of three survivors being placed at $10,000, and that for each of twelve families of those who perished at $20,000.

TO NEW YORK.

Charles A. Towne Decides to Remove to That City.

Charles A. Towne left yesterday afternoon for New York, and will make his home there. The business arrangements that Mr. Towne made while in Texas will require his presence in New York a good part of the time, and to continue his residence here would be very inconvenient. He would have to be away most of the time if he did.

Mr. Towne's decision to leave Duluth will be generally regretted. Whatever differences there may be as to his political opinions, there is but one as to his ability and talents and as to his genuinity and good-fellowship. All of his friends here will wish him well and will hope that he may make a fortune in the new venture in which he has become associated. He is at the head of a company which has obtained control of a great tract of land in Texas and which they will develope. Some big men are said to be in with him.

Mrs. Towne will leave here next month.

PLAY AT SUPERIOR.

Duluth Team to Go Over Tomorrow.

The Duluth ball team will play at West Superior tomorrow. A great game is anticipated and many local enthusiasts will journey across the sad sea waves to see the game.

There will be changes in both teams. Staub, the Duluth Fashion pitcher, will be in the box for Duluth. He is a good man. Hansell will probably play first base and Cameron will go to second.

Augustine, the lanky wonder from Southern Wisconsin, is slated to pitch for Superior. Manager Porter has also secured a new catcher, named Scott, and Mulianey will be sent back to his old position in out-field and Riches will cover third. Porter will play first.

Duluth plays at Superior on Saturday and Sunday, Superior playing return games at Oneota Park the following week.

The line-up for tomorrow will be:

Duluth.		Superior.

MUST COUNTY PAY?

Suits Are Begun For Smallpox Expenses.

The liability of the county for the smallpox expenses of the cities, towns and villages is to be tried in court. At the last meeting of the county board the boards of health of the village of Biwabik and of the town of Biwabik put in bills for their smallpox expenses for the first three months of the year. The village's bill amounted to $150.51, and the township's account aggregated $951.53. The board passed a resolution disallowing these bills.

This morning, F. S. Dane, chairman of the board of health of the village, and H. H. Salmon, chairman of the board of health of the township, filed appeals to the district court from the disallowonce of the bills, and the matter will be taken up before the district court. Joan P. Morrow is attorney for the Biwabik people. He is also attorney for a number of other towns and villages that have similar bills, and these bills will be put in also.

Only a Reservoir.

A. G. Lake, listened too long to the gurgle-gurgle of wine leaping from a bottle of a thin-stemmed glass last night. When he arrived at police headquarters he claimed to be one of the great lakes, but later admitted he was only a human reservoir for fizzy fluid. He received a ten-day sentence as did Frank Murray and Gust Johnson.

John Larson was in court charged with obstructing Seventh street between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenue west. Mr. Larson is moving a house and was given ten days to get it off the street.

MAY EXTEND.

Negotiations For Extending West Third Street Car Lines.

Negotiations are under way between certain city officers, and street railway officials, for the extension of the West Third street line from its present terminus at Fortieth avenue west to the new Fairmount Park at West Duluth.

This matter was taken up by Alderman Swenson some months ago, and Mr. Swenson's enemies were unkind enough to say that it was for political purposes only. Such does not prove to be the case, as the Eighth ward alderman has been quietly pushing his scheme.

So far as the negotiations have been strictly private, but it is understaad that Alderman Swenson has shown the street car company that there is a population of 3659 to be reached by the proposed extension and that the line could be made to pay.

The new West Duluth park promises to be very popular this summer and it is reported that if the street car line is extended there will be several places of amusemnt in operation close to the park.

A Big Banquet.

The Retail Grocers' association, of this city, will be tendered a banquet by the Shredded Wheat Biscuit company on June 12. The banquet will be P. G. Hanson, of Minneapolis, International president of the Retail Grocers' association; George Manson, of St. Paul, state secretary, and J. S. Taylor, state organizer for the grocers. It will be a big affair.

Tomorrow being Decoration Day and a National Holiday the Grocery Stores will all be closed at 12 o'clock noon. Burt Holcomb, Secretary Duluth Retail Grocers Association.

Melby-Huntington.

The marriage of Miss Anna Melby and F. C. Huntington was celebrated at noon today at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Melby, 407 First avenue west, Rev. Alexander Milne officiating. Miss Melby was employed at the New Store in this city. Mr. Huntington is the son of S. W. Huntington, one of the former proprietors of the New Store, and is a rising young business man. The bride wore a traveling gown and carried pink and white carnations. Miss Edith Casey was bridesmaid and A. H. Knutsen best man. After a wedding repast they left for the Twin Cities and from there will go to Aberdeen, S. D., where they will make their home.

CHANGE OF TIME.
Steamer Argo
Will leave Booth's dock, Duluth, every Friday at 5 p. m. for Houghton and Hancock, until further notice.

A BOULEVARD.

First Street Owners Circulating Petition For That.

Property owners on East First street have started a movement to make it the finest residence street in the city. The plan is to narrow the street so as to give a grass plot between the sidewalk and curb in front of each house. Then, in addition to this, it is proposed to put in a combination gutter and curb of cement, at an estimated cost of $11,244.

The district to be improved is between Sixth avenue east and Twenty-first avenue east. Under a recent ordinance passed by the council, only granllithic and cement walks can be put down in this district.

This would give East First street property a uniform frontage for fifteen blocks, and it is claimed that the improvement would greatly increase the value of residence property on that street.

Petitions for the proposed improvement are being circulated today, and the movement is backed by several of the largest property owners on the street.

First street is sixty-six feet wide, and while it has not been definitely decided just how much the street would be narrowed for the proposed improvement, it is said that the change would not take a great deal off the width of the street.

SUSPENDED.

Michigan Legislature Adjourns to Meet Again June 6.

Lansing, Mich., May 29.—Both houses of the legislature suspended business at 12:40 today, after having been in session since Jan. 1. Final adjournment will be taken June 6. The general purpose appropriation bill passed today carrying $1,200,000, makes the total appropriations for the session $6,549,000, which is $85,000 less than the appropriations of the preceding legislature.

MAY MAKE A CHANGE

Possibility That Different Incline System Will Be Adopted.

President Goodrich Arrives to Consider the Situation.

Decisively Announced That Pavilion Will Not Be Rebuilt.

President C. G. Goodrich of the Duluth-Superior Traction company arrived in the city this morning to look over the situation with reference to the hill top fire yesterday morning and to confer with the city officials at West Superior regarding the traction company's proposed improvements in that city. Mr. Goodrich expects Thomas Lowry in the city today or tomorrow, and he will also be present at the West Superior conference. Mr. Lowry has been in the East for several days.

With reference to the burning of the Pavilion and the power house at the top of the incline, Mr. Goodrich says that the company's property on the top of the hill is a total wreck, machinery and all, and the loss will be very heavy. Mr. Goodrich said this morning that he had not yet had an opportunity to confer with Mr. Mendenhall, the local director, regarding the situation, and did not wish to make any statements as to what the traction company will do until he had. He does, however, confirm Mr. Mendenhall's assertion that the traction company will not rebuild the Pavilion; in fact will not attempt another place of amusement at the hill top. The company's engineers will look over the condition of the incline railway and the ruins at the top and make recommendations as to what is best to be done under the circumstances, but Mr. Goodrich said he was not in a position yet to say just what kind of service will be inaugurated on the road. He says that the officials of the company realize that the people living at Duluth Heights have been placed in a bad way by the fire, and undoubtedly something will be done as soon as possible to alleviate their troubles in getting back and forth.

Although Mr. Goodrich does not wish to talk about the transportation facilities that might be considered to replace those destroyed by the fire, it is reported that it is likely that a counter-weight proposition, such as the Lowry interests are using in connection with incline railways at the Twin Cities may be adopted here. The chances are that the traction company will not feel like going to the expense of building and equipping another expensive power plant at the top of the hill, and the scheme suggested is much cheaper to operate. The weights would run under the steel structure bearing the cars, and the cars themselves could be equipped with dummy engines to haul them up. Anything definite as to the company's plans will not be made public, however, until the engineers submit their report to the officials.

It cannot be learned whether the traction company contemplates any effort along the line of attractions on any of the other street car lines to take the place of the Pavilion, but by many who are conversant with the amusement proposition on street car lines in this city and other cities of the Northwest, it is not considered very probable that the company will make another attempt in this direction.

Regarding the attitude of the Superior authorities toward the street railway improvements in that city, Mr. Goodrich says that he will be better able to talk about it after he has had a talk with the city officials and finds out what has caused them to antagonize every move made toward improvement by the company. Mr. Goodrich believes, however, that everything will work out all right in the end, as soon as the city authorities and the street car company fully understand each other.

Mr. Goodrich reiterated that it is the company's intention to establish one of the best street railway systems in the Northwest at the head of the lakes, and says that aside from the West Superior proposition, the improvements are being carried out in a way entirely satisfactory to the officials of the company.

GREAT RUSH.

People Crowding to Pay Their Realty Taxes.

"The greatest rush to pay taxes in the history of the treasurer's office," is the verdict of everybody in that office on the conditions that prevail there now. The rush is indeed tremendous, and the office is crowded from morning until night.

The occasion for this is that Friday is the last day for paying real estate taxes without a penalty of 10 per cent, which goes into effect Saturday morning, so everybody is trying to get in at the same time to pay up and avoid the penalty. Tomorrow is a holiday, so the treasurer's office, like the other offices at the court house, will be closed up all day. The next chance, and the last one, will be Friday, and there will undoubtedly be even a larger jam than ever, then.

It is expected that the payment of taxes will be nearly complete, as the results of this rush, and that there will be very little to go into the delinquent tax list next year.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

GETS NINE DOLLARS

A Tenant Wins In Fight Against His Landlord.

The Jury Allows Part of His Counter Claim.

Stood Eleven to One Through the Whole Night.

The jury calendar of the May term of district court ended in a blaze of glory this morning. The jurors of the term have the uncommon record of not having a single disagreement, every jury trial resulting in a verdict.

The nearest approach to spoiling this record was in the highly important case of Peter McHardy, a resident of Hibbing, who owns some houses, against J. M. Klinker, who rented one of them some time ago. For eighteen long and weary hours eleven stubborn and stiff-necked jurors held out against the rest of the jury, refusing to give or take a point. So determined were the eleven that they gained their point in the end, and the verdict went according to their dictation, but not, it may be supposed, without strenuous efforts on the part of the rest of the jury to reach an agreement according to his—the rest of the jury's—view of the matter.

The eleven strong-willed and stubborn jurors stood for the defendant, who represented the outraged class of renters of houses, while the rest of the jury cast one vote in favor of the oppressor, the plaintiff, who represented the landlord class. The jury stood practically the same from the first, for shortly after it went out at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the first ballot stood 11 to 1 for the defendant. It stayed that way all during the night, and the members of the jury wrestled with the mighty question before them painfully, solemnly and fervidly. At last, overcome by the annoying firmness of the eleven, the patient and long-suffering rest of the jury changed his vote and an agreement was reached. This was not, according to rumor, without some consolation to the rest of the jury, for it was whispered that there was a compromise by which the eleven were compelled to recede slightly from their demands, which will undoubtedly be considered a just punishment for their stubbornness.

The verdict awarded the defendant, Mr. Klinker, damages in the sum of $9. This, the jury was very specific in explaining, meant that he was to have that much net, and that the plaintiff was to take nothing for the $16.80 for rent that he sued for.

Mr. Klinker, according to the evidence, is principal of the schools at Hibbing, and he rented a house from McHardy for $18 per month. McHardy promising to make certain repairs that would put the house in suitable condition for the occupancy of an educator. This work was not done, and Mr. Klinker became indignant and refused to pay a balance of rent claimed to be due. McHardy brought suit for the rent, $16.80, and Klinker put in a counter claim for $30. It was begun in the justice court at Hibbing. On the first trial there was a disagreement, and on the second trial McHardy got a verdict.

This was not at all satisfactory to the defendant, Mr. Klinker, so he appealed to the district court, and the case was then taken up yesterday. It was as hard-fought an action as the court has heard this term, and, as stated above, it came the nearest to causing a disagreement of the jury. Miller & Adams are the attorneys who thus turned Mr. Klinker's defeat in the justice court of Hibbing into a victory in the district court at Duluth.

The three divisions of district court are all trying court cases. In Judge Cant's court at noon the mandamus case of C. J. Frederickson against City Treasurer Voss was on trial. Frederickson has a judgment against the city for work on the pumphouse at Lakewood, and he wanted the city treasurer to pay it. The city treasurer claimed that under the charter he could not do so, and that the judgment would have to go through the usual course of claims against the city. So Frederickson, through John Jenswold, Jr., instituted proceedings to have the court determine the issue.

VETERANS.

Second Day's Program of the Reunion of Confederates.

Memphis, May 29.—Pleasant weather favored the carrying out of the full program today of the Confederate veterans' reunion, which began yesterday. Today's program included a grand floral parade.

When the opening exercise in Confederate hall had been concluded, the credentials report was presented, showing a total representation of 1359 camps with an aggregate attendance of 2299 delegates. Texas had the largest representation.

Resolutions, prepared by delegates, were passed up to the commander, who read them aloud before passing them back to the committee on resolutions. Among them was one asking that congress shall be memorialized to erect at Washington a monument to Gen. Robert E. Lee. There were a number of cries of "No." The resolution was passed back to the committee.

The committee on Confederate memorial reported resources of $228,710. Appended to the report was a resolution that the members of the committee be ordered to meet within ninety days in Richmond, Va., to make final arrangements for the laying of the cornerstone of the battle abbey which is to be the great Confederate memorial. The report and the resolution were adopted.

Resolutions were adopted asking congress to make sufficient appropriation for the care of Confederate dead in the cemeteries in the north, and thanking congress and the president for the passage of an appropriation act for the reinterment of Confederate dead interred in the national cemetery at Washington.

Gen. A. P. Stewart offered a resolution asking that every member of the United Confederate veterans give $1 for the purpose of erecting a suitable memorial to the women of the South. The motion was carried amid much applause. Gen. Stewart was made treasurer of the fund and dollars poured in upon him. After this the report of the Jefferson Davis Memorial association was read showing cash in hand of $32,607 and subscriptions of $10,727. When the report had been read services in memory of Miss Winnie Davis and in honor of the Confederate dead were read.

FRATERNITY INITIATION.

Candidate Put Through Paces at High School.

Every one passing the high school this afternoon, shortly after 2 o'clock, saw an astounding sight. By the cannon on the campus was a person in the full regalia of a drum major; a gigantic plume nodding from his cap, his blue-coated breast shining with costly and multitudinous medals made from the ends of tomato cans, cigarette boxes, etc. This gentleman stood in front of the entire student body of the high school and calmly turned a none too harmonious tune out of a tiny music box. Tiring of this he turned, and, with many graceful flourishes of his baton, which was nothing more or less than a much-mutilated curtain pole, turned and marched up and down the stone walk with an air that would have caused a flush of envy to mount the cheek of the most experienced baton manipulater.

This unusual performance was the ceremony which will make Ralph Crandall, son of Duluth's chief of police, a bona fide member of the Delta Sigma Nu. It was one of the fraternity initiations, the sight of which frequently make intemperate persons residing near colleges and large secondary schools think their dissipation has at last brought about the dreaded result. At the Duluth high school there are two Greek letter societies or fraternities, and their respective members are often seen about the streets doing the most ridiculous stunts to gain admission to their favored frat.

Mrs. Josephine Woodbury of Boston Asks $150,000 Damages.

Case Is Likely to Occupy Two or Three Weeks.

Boston, May 29.—The jury trial of the suit of Mrs. Josephine A. Woodbury, of this city, claiming $150,000 damages from Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, of Concord, N. H., founder of the Christian Scientists' sect, for libel, was begun in the Suffolk county superior court here today, and, according to the statement of the defendant's counsel, it is likely to consume the greater portion of three weeks. The suit was brought by Mrs. Doodbury on the ground that two years ago Mrs. Eddy, in a message to the First Christian Science church here, which was read four times and afterward published in a local paper, had in mind Mrs. Woodbury when she used the words "The doom of Babylonish woman referred to in the Book of Revelations is being fulfilled."

Previous to this Mrs. Woodbury had been excommunicated by the church.

In her answer, Mrs. Eddy admits that the particular address was delivered on the days and at the times named in the declaration of the plaintiff, but declares that neither Mrs. Woodbury nor any other human being was meant by the term "Babylonish woman," the phrase being used simply to describe a type of sin.

Mrs. Woodbury was present in court today, but Mrs. Eddy would not appear, her deposition having been taken for introduction in the case as evidence.

The court room was crowded with spectators when the case was called, while several hundred men and women clamored in vain for admission. Before the selection of a jury, Mr. Peabody, counsel for Mrs. Woodbury, offered an affidavit bearing on the case, which he claimed was made necessary through the absence of Judge Hanna, a prominent member of the Mother church, who, he said, caused the message of Mrs. Eddy to be published in the local papers. The court took the affidavit with the understanding that it should be admitted later in the case, should the evidence warrant it.

A jury was then empanelled and the plaintiff's declaration read.

WAGE COMMITTEE

Of Amalgamated Association Not Ready to Report.

Milwaukee, May 29.—The wage committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers failed to make its report today, owing to the failure of the sub-committee on the tin section to finish its labors. The plan for a continuous scale as outlined a few days ago, has been adopted by the committee. If the plan goes through the annual convention will be called two months earlier than at present.

The committee on constitution, in its report will favor abolishing the office of assistant president. The committee on the good of the order, will favor Pittsburg as the national headquarters.

SAILS FOR ENGLAND.

Speaker Henderson Passenger on the St. Paul.

New York, May 29.—David B. Henderson, speaker of the house of representatives sailed on the St. Paul for Southampton today. He said: "I am going over for pleasure and to have a look about. We will go wherever fancy leads, but will go to Paris to meet our daughter, Belle. I shall return on the St. Paul on Sept. 7. One thing I want to say, however, before I sail, and that is that I am going away in a very happy frame of mind on account of the decision of the supreme court in the Porto Rico matter. I consider it a complete vindication of the house, which led in the great struggle."

We Cure To Stay Cured

Varicocele, Contagious Blood Poison, Nervo-Sexual Debility, Rupture, Kidney and Urinary Diseases, and all Reflex Complications and Associate Diseases and Weakness of Men by Our Special Treatment.

MASTER SPECIALIST.

I do not treat all diseases, but cure all I treat. I treat men only, and cure them to stay cured.

We want every man thus afflicted to honestly investigate our special system of treatment. We invite in particular all those who have been treated elsewhere without success; all those whose cases have been abandoned by family physicians and so-called experts; all whose troubles have been aggravated by Specifics, Free Samples, FREE and Trial Treatments or similar devices. We will explain to you why such treatment has not cured you, and will demonstrate to your entire satisfaction that we cure you safely, quickly and permanently. Our counsel will cost you nothing, and our charges for a perfect cure will not be more than you are willing to pay for the benefits conferred. We will do by you as we would want you to do by us if our cases were reversed. Certainty of cure is what you want. We can and will cite you, by permission, some of the best citizens in this city whom we have cured and made happy, and who will cheerfully vouch for our financial as well as professional standing. WHAT WE HAVE DONE FOR THEM WE CAN DO FOR YOU.

Varicocele Under our special treatment this insidious disease rapidly disappears. Pain ceases almost instantly. The pools of stagnant blood are driven from the dilated veins, and all soreness and swelling quickly subside. Every indication of varicocele soon vanishes, and in its stead comes the pride, the power and the pleasure of PERFECT HEALTH AND RESTORED VITALITY.

Stricture Our special treatment dissolves and completely removes every obstruction from the urinary passage, allays all inflammation, reduces the prostate gland, cleanses and heals the bladder and kidneys, invigorates and restores health and soundness to EVERY PART OF THE BODY AFECTED BY THIS DISEASE.

Contagious Blood Poison Our special form of treatment for this disease is practically the result of our life work, and is endorsed by the best physicians of this and foreign countries. It contains no dangerous drugs or injurious medicines of any kind. It goes to the very bottom of the disease, and forces out every particle of impurity. Soon every sign and symptom disappears completely and forever. The blood, the tissue, the flesh and the bones and the whole system are cleansed, purified and restored to perfect health and the patient is prepared anew for the DUTIES OF LIFE.

Nervo-Sexual Debility Your vitality is failing and will soon be lost unless you do something for yourself. There is no time to lose. Weakness, like all nervous diseases, is never on the standstill. With it you can make no compromise. Either you must master it or it will master you and fill your whole future with misery and indescribable woe. We have treated so many cases of this kind that we are as familiar with them as you are with the very daylight. Once cured by us, you will never again be bothered with emissions, drains, prematureness, small or weak organs, nervousness, failing memory, loss of ambition or other symptoms which rob you of your vitality and absolutely unfit you for study or business. Our treatment for weak men will correct all these evils and restore you to what nature intended—a hale, healthy, happy man, with PHYSICAL AND MENTAL POWERS COMPLETE.

Reflex Diseases Many ailments are reflex, originating from other diseases. For instance, weakness sometimes comes from Varicocele or congested glands; innumerable blood and bone diseases often result from contagious blood taints in the system, or physical and mental decline frequently follow weakness. In treating disease of any kind we always remove the origin—WE CURE THE CAUSE.

INTO OHIO.

President Warmly Welcomed on Entering His Native State.

Lima, Ohio, May 29.—There were big crowds at all the stations after the presidential train crossed the line into Ohio. At Lima, the first stop in the president's native state, several thousand people thronged the depot. The children were given a half holiday and were marshaled by their teachers alongside of the track. A great cheer went up as the president appeared, his face wreathed in smiles at the cordiality of the reception. The train stopped only three minutes, but in that time he greeted a number of his old friends and shook hands with many of the school children.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio, May 29.—Secretary Cortelyou has issued the following:

"Dr. Rixey reports that Mrs. McKinley continues to improve and had a comfortable night."

Crestline, Ohio, May 29.—Mrs. Hay left the train here to go to Cleveland, where she will visit her sister. President McKinley and Secretary Hay escorted her through the crowd to her train, which was waiting on the other side of the station.

Stines, chief justice of the supreme court of Rhode Island, was elected chairman. Clinton Rogers Woodruff, of Philadelphia, and W. J. Rope, of Boston, were named secretaries, and Alex C. Wood treasurer.

The executive committee consists of John B. Garrett, Philadelphia; W. J. Coombs, Brooklyn; Robert Treat Paine, Benjamin T. Trueblood and Edward D. Hale, Boston; Judge Alden Cheeserth, Judge John R. Gilbert, Professor John B. Clark and John F. Anderson, New York, and Oscar Lapham, Rhode Island.

The chairman's introductory address was an exhaustive resume of what has been accomplished in the cause of arbitration and an earnest plea that as nations were now in favor of settling disputes without war, those present should offer suggestions for such settlements.

MOVEMENTS IN CHINA.

Tien Tsin, May 29—Two British transports have arrived at Tong Ku to take troops direct to India. Another transport will arrive today to take the Beluch regiment to Wei-Hai-Wei. Gen. Voyron, the French commander, expects that now that the evacuation has been decided upon that France will countermand the order holding her troops temporarily in China. He anticipates the early arrival of French transports.

Gen. Lorne Campbell, the British comander here, says the international situation at Tien Tsin is better than at any time since the arrival of the troops, though on the departure of the Americans the Russians objected to the British hoisting their flags on a bridge when the American flag was taken down. But Gen. Wogack, the Russian commander, withdrew his objections.

SAD STORY

Of an Ohio Woman's Death and Burial at Sea.

New York, May 29.—Hurrying homeward to escape the hostile climate of Brazil, Mrs. Harriet Gonsalus, of London, Ohio, was on the high seas without adult kindred or even a physician near when a child was born to her. A passenger on the Lampert & Holt steamer Milton, Mrs. Gonsalus had only the aid of a grizzled sea captain as physician and of the governess of her four children as nurse. The child died, and she followed it, and the two were buried together at sea.

As the simple words of the ship's log tell the mother and child were given ocean burial May 15 in latitude 8.3 north and longitude 54.12 west. When the Milton came into New York, one of the first to board her was Mr. Mitchell, a brother of Mrs. Gonsalus and a custom appraiser, expectant of meeting his sister. He sprang eagerly forward until he saw her four children huddled forlornly in the care of their governess. Then his face whitened. With tears in his eyes he heard the story of the deaths.

Mrs. Gonsalus was 36 years old. Her husband was appointed consul at Pernambuco from Ohio but a month or so ago. His family, consisting of the wife and four children, found the climate unhealthy, and it was decided they should return on the Milton.

Mrs. Gonsalus, her children, and the governess, Miss Mary Riddle, were the only passengers on the ship. Mr. Gonsalus bade them Godspeed at the dock May 9, and Mrs. Gonsalus cheerily called out to him from the deck that she would soon return to him.

When the ship had been out only a day Mrs. Gonsalus became ill, although the weather was calm. Capt. Mathewson, supposing she was troubled by the sea motion, gave her ordinary remedies and thought she would be up and about in a few hours. It was several days before the captain learned the nature of her illness. The child was born to her on May 13.

Mrs. Gonsalus became very feeble and soon realized that she was going to die. She asked that her little treasure be given to her husband and some trinkets to her brother, Mr. Mitchell, at this port.

Miss Riddle and the captain did what they could for the sufferer. The governess had all she could do to attend to the frightened little ones, for whom the heart of the stricken mother seemed to be bleeding.

"Take care of my babies, my poor babies," she cried time and again in the hours before her death.

The end came on the night of May 15. The governess and the children were all about her bed when she died.

On the afternoon of May 16 the two bodies were sewed in a weighted canvas shroud. Mr. Roberts, the first officer of the ship, read the burial service as they were gently pushed over the side and the sack shot beneath the waves. The children, sobbing bitterly, stood beside the captain and the crying governess, and there was not a dry eye in the ship's company at that primitive funeral.

Capt. Frederick Matthewson, of the Milton, with tears in his eyes, said: "This is an awful blow to me. I have been a master twenty-nine years, but I never had a woman die like that on a ship before."

HYMENEAL COINCIDENCE.

Two Chicago Men Startled By Comparing Notes.

Chicago, May 29.—James B. Kearsley, employed by the Western Electric company, went into a Madison street restaurant a few nights ago. There he met Alfred C. Ricard, a clerk in a law office. The two became friends.

"Are you married?" asked Ricard.

"Yes," replied Kearsley.

"So am I," said Ricard, "but my wife has left me."

"Where and when were you married?" asked Ricard.

"I was married on May 7, at Hammond, Ind., answered Kearsley.

"I was married at the same place," said Ricard. "My wife suggested that I go there."

"So did mine," said Kearsley.

Then Kearsley described the house where the ceremony had been performed; also the minister and other things connected with the marriage.

"Just the same with me," said Ricard.

Both men were now deeply interested in one another, and Kearsley asked Ricard to describe his wife.

"Why that is my wife," declared Kearsley.

"O, she's my wife," declared Ricard.

"Well, how could she be your wife if she's mine?"

Both men then went to Kearsley's house at 708 West Van Buren street. At sight of Kearsley's wife Ricard shouted: "That's she; that's my wife."

Then the two men talked it over. Later they went to Justice Severson and secured warrants for the arrest of the woman on the charge of bigamy. They called for the arrest of Alice Cordella Hayward, her maiden name. The woman was arrested and gave bonds for her appearance next Friday. Ricard stood at the entrance of the court room, but she declared she did not know him.

"Why, you certainly know your own husband, don't you?" asked the constable.

The woman looked at Ricard and replied: "No, he has been dead a month."

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Col. James G. Miner, an assistant secretary of the Confederate navy during the civil war, died in poverty at Milford, Ohio, aged 82 years. He was a graduate of Edinburgh university, a native of New England but a resident of Texas and a friend of Gen. Samuel Houston.

Capt. James H. Payne, aged 68 years, died at his home at Kansas City Tuesday of paralysis. Capt. Paine came to Kansas City when it was a frontier town, made many trips over the Santa Fe trail, and established one of the first live-stock commission firms.

Dr. Emanuel Harris, of Fall River, Mass., treasurer of the supreme council of the American Order of Druids, was arrested Tuesday on a complaint of other officers of the supreme council charged with grand larceny. There is an alleged shortage of $3500 in the physician's accounts which he is unable to make good although offered a chance to do so.

At Nardin, Okla., a party of young people went picknicking and when a picture was being made of the group Miss Nora Wolfrum asked Miss Bishop to point a rifle at her to add to the romance of the scene. Miss Bishop did so. The rifle was discharged accidentally and Miss Wolfrum was killed instantly, the bullet piercing her heart.

The Odell club of Cedar Falls, Iowa, composed of twenty-seven state normal school students was Tuesday quarantined on account of smallpox. The city council held a special session and ordered a pest house erected on the campus which is being built.

Because he was called a "cheap skate" at a colored church sociable at Sioux City Tuesday night, Harry Baker walked a mile, procured a revolver, returned to the church and shot three other negroes one of whom, Jim Askew, will die. The others, Charles Watkins and Louis Cloyd, are not dangerously wounded.

Joseph Lassas, a farmer living six miles east of Medelia, Minn., was burned to death Tuesday in a straw covered hog house. The presumption is that he set the fire himself while temporarily insane. He had been confined in an insane asylum until about a year ago.

NEARLY A TRAGEDY

A Wild Moose Drags Child Far From Lake Shore.

Accidentally Attached to Anchor Line of Small Boat.

Little Girl Given a Swift But Not Unpleasant Ride.

Blackduck, Minn., May 29.—A fishing party at Blackduck lake had a novel experience, which nearly resulted in a tragedy.

A wild moose, chased by dogs, got tangled up in the anchor rope of a boat containing a little girl, and before the parents could interfere the moose dragged the boat and its contents into the water.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, who is engaged in the confectionery business here, and their 3-year-old daughter, Emma. They had just returned to shore from a fishing trip, and were making the necessary preparations to start for home.

The father had gone a few rods away to cut a switch upon which to string the fish.

The mother was playfully pulling the boat back and forth in the water by means of the anchor rope, to the amusement of the little girl, who was standing up in the back end of the seat.

A full-grown moose dashed from the brush directly upon them, got tangled up in the anchor rope, and before the excited parents could interfere had the boat and all far into the water.

No other boat was at hand and the father did not dare shoot lest he might injure the child.

In a wild-the animal struggle to free itself from its burden, and in its efforts nearly upset the boat.

Presently, as if by determined premeditation, with great head high above the water, it started out on a straight course directly across the lake to what is known as Johnson's Point, a distance of about two miles.

In the meantime the terrified parents had obtained another boat and together with a party of other fishermen, gave chase.

They saw the moose land on the opposite shore, where it freed itself from its burden and quickly disappeared. Save for a soaking the child was unharmed and not even frightened.

AT CASS LAKE

Inquest on Harvey Morris, Shot By Sol Williams.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff George Hardy and Coroner Bailey have returned from Vermillion Brook, where they went on Saturday, in company with Deputy Sheriff Ed Chamberlain, to hold an inquest over the remains of Harvey Morris, who was shot on Friday last by Sol Williams. The sheriff brought Williams with him from Grand Rapids and lodged the prisoner in jail here over night, taking him to Walker yesterday. The sheriff and his party arrived at Vermillion Brook at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. A jury was immediately empanneled and the inquest over the remains of Morris was completed at 3 o'clock Monday morning, the jury returning a verdict that Morris came to his death by shots fired from a rifle in the hands of Williams.

There were only two witnesses who were present at the time the shooting occurred. They were Morris' wife and his daughter, Nancy, aged 12 years. The testimony of various witnesses called at the inquest showed that Williams had befriended the Morris family. In that he gave them house room at a time when they had no roof to cover their heads, and that after staying at his place several weeks they refused to remove from the premises and literally took possession of everything which Williams owned. The latter tried in many ways to induce them to procure other quarters, but they steadily refused to leave, and Williams states that they, on many occasions, ordered him to leave and threatened to kill him.

The shooting, according to the account given by Williams, occurred substantially as has been related, he not making use of his rifle until he was compelled to in order to save himself from being killed. Sheriff Hardy had with him the rifle with which Williams did the shooting. It is a 38-55 Winchester. Three shots were fired at Morris, all of which took effect. One bullet entered his left side at the hip, glancing upward and coming out on the right side. Another went through his body from the right side to the left, while a third hit him in the wrist. Morris lived from the time of the shooting, 8 o'clock Friday morning, till 5 in the evening. Many residents of Cass Lake have been acquainted with Williams for years, and they all state that he was of a very quiet disposition, not at all quarrelsome, and is a man who would never have done the shooting had not he had great cause. On the other hand, Morris and his wife are given the reputation of being a "hard" pair.

PUNCH WAS DRUGGED.

The Serious Trick of a Practical Joker.

Indianapolis, May 29.—The trick of a practical joker, who drugged a bowl of punch served at a meeting of the supreme council of the "Order of X," a new social order, nearly caused the death of every one present. As it was, out of thirty-four members present, nineteen were prostrated for several hours.

The affair occurred a few nights ago, but the facts have just become known. The order, which is new, is largely social, and at the meeting a generous bowl of punch was a center of attraction. The effects of the punch were not noticed until Roy C. Sturm, after reading a paper and starting for his seat, collapsed in the middle of the floor. Two or three other brothers started to pick him up, but they themselves likewise tottered and fell beside him.

Others who rose found that their heads were swimming and their stomachs griping with horrible nauseau. Eight lay unconscious on the floor at one time.

Physicans were summoned, and all were shortly revived. One victim, however, was not brought back to consciousness and pronounced out of danger until 3 o'clock in the morning.

DISSOLVED.

Presbyterian General Assembly Has Come to an End.

Philadelphia, May 29.—The 113th Presbyterian general assembly was dissolved at 1:15 o'clock last night by Moderator Minton after having been in session for nearly two weeks, during which time many matters of the utmost importance to the church were considered. Chief among these was the question regarding the revision of the confession of faith. After a discussion continuing nearly four days this momentous subject was referred to a special committee of twenty-one members who will make recommendations as to the manner in which the creed should be revised and present them to the next general assembly which meets in New York.

The closing hours of the assembly was devoted to routine matters. The report of the committee on temperance urged ministers to call the attention of congregations in their districts to the necessity for the completion of legislation now pending regarding the drink traffic in the Islands of the Pacific. The report also urged the government to take effective action towards the suppression of the liquor traffic in all of our new possessions. The committee on the Peoria plan of selecting standing committees approved the system.

In accordance with the resolution offered by John H. Converse, of this city, a special committee of evangelistic work was appointed.

In dissolving the assembly Moderator Minton made an eloquent address and before the final benediction was pronounced the commissioners sang the beautiful hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

"Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. I quickly secured a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure, giving her three doses. The croup was mastered and our little darling speedily recovered." So writes A. L. Spafford, Chester, Mich. Max Wirth.

THE TERMS.

Railroad and Warehouse Commission Explains to Ore Roads.

St. Paul, May 29.—The railroad and warehouse commission Tuesday served upon the ore-carrying roads of the state an amended order relative to the terms upon which a rehearing of the ore rate case will be granted.

The order separates the question of reasonableness of rates from the question of the jurisdiction of the commission. The commission has decided to take up the latter subject for settlement first. The ore roads are ordered to show cause why they should not file with the commission the ore tariffs in effect over the various lines. The ore roads claim the rates are private and that the commission has no jurisdiction. The order will result in mandamus proceedings which will test the jurisdiction of the commission in the whole matter.

An officer of one of the ore roads said that the companies interested did not intend to raise any factious objections or to entangle the proceedings in any technical quibbles. He thought the question would be ready for argument at the time set, namely July 9.

No discussion or amendments in the creed are proposed. The general synod opens tomorrow with full Lutheran services conducted by Rev. S. F. Breckenridge. Foreign missions will be discussed by Rev. Dr. George Schall, of Baltimore, general secretary of foreign missions.

His Candidacy For Republican Presidential Nomination Announced.

Chicago, May 29.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, was formally announced yesterday as a candidate for president before the Republican national convention of 1904. Harry S. New, Republican national committeeman from Indiana, who arrived in Chicago Tuesday is authority for the statement that Indiana will stand behind Mr. Fairbanks in his race for the honor.

"Senator Fairbanks will be supported by a solid delegation from Indiana," said Mr. New. "The whole state will be back of him at the next national convention. He is the logical candidate of the party and with his nomination Indiana will be secured to the Republicans.

WISDOM AND WEDDINGS.

School Ma'ams Who May Marry In Philippines.

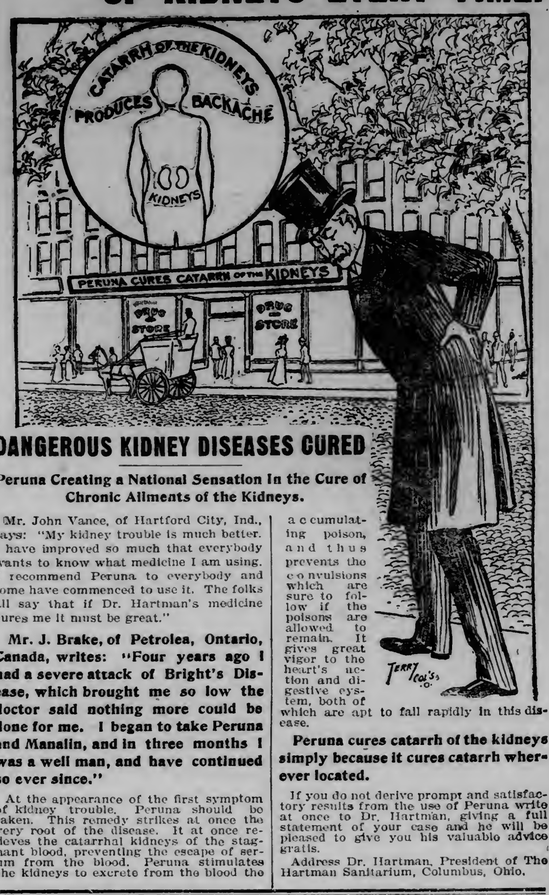
Washington, May 29.—There is a good deal of speculation as to the effect of the importation of several cargoes of school ma'ams upon the matrimonial market in the Philippines. It is not probable that any of the young women are going out there with the intention to getting married, but it is almost certain that the attractive ones will have plenty of opportunities to do so. No marriageable girl ever went to China or Japan or any other of the countries in the far East without receiving one or more proposals of marriage, which generally began about the second month of their stay. The business communities of the foreign colonies are composed chiefly of young men, English, Germans and Americans, who have been sent out by their fathers to learn the business or represent mercantile or manufacturing firms. As a general thing, they are fine fellows and make the best kind of husbands.

Women of their own race and social position are scare, and they herd like a lot of stags at the clubs and amuse themselves playing polo, tennis and other sports. There are a few married ones whose homes are open to them a constant illustration of the happiness which they might themselves enjoy. Hence, when a good-looking and agreeable girl appears in the community, nearly every single man goes down on his knees to her at once. This will probably be the fate of many of the school ma'ams, and in addition to the commercial community there are several hundred young army officers in the Philippines, who must also be considered. Most of them are single men.

A Pleasant Journey.

A representative of The Bee heard a well known Morrisville woman, who frequently visits a married daughter in New York, telling some friends one day this week of her first experience riding on the Empire State Express. "I was coming up from New York," she said, "and thought I would try that famous train I've heard so much about. Well, we rolled along smooth and easy and pretty soon I noticed a lot of the men getting up and putting on their overcoats. I thought all these men could not be getting cold for the car was very comfortable, and in just a minute the trainman called out 'Albany!' I could hardly believe it; I would just as soon have expected to be in California so quickly. We left New York at half-past eight and were at Albany a little after eleven and at Utica before one o'clock. I changed to an accommodation train there and was in Canastota a few minutes after two. My! it seems almost like flying." Now whenever this good lady wants to visit New York she goes a good bit out of her way that she may travel by the New York Central.—From the Canastota Bee.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATTARRH OF KIDNEYS EVERY TIME.



DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Peruna Creating a National Sensation in the Cure of Chronic Ailments of the Kidneys.

Mr. John Vance, of Hartford City, Ind., says: "My kidney trouble is much better. I have improved so much that everybody wants to know what medicine I am using. I recommend Peruna to everybody and some have commenced to use it. The folks all say that if Dr. Hartman's medicine cures me it must be great."

Mr. J. Brake, of Petrolea, Ontario, Canada, writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's Disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. I began to take Peruna and Manalin, and in three months I was a well man, and have continued so ever since."

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It at once relieves the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Peruna stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fall rapidly in this disease.

Peruna cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

ACCEPTED.

Cuban Constitutional Convention Accepts Platt Amendment.

Havana, May 29.—The Platt amendment was accepted by the Cuban constitutional convention yesterday by a vote of 15 to 14. The actual vote was on accepting the majority report of the committee on relations which embodied the amendment with explanations of certain clauses.

The radicals made a hard fight at the last moment and Senors Portuondo, Gomez and Tamayo bitterly arraigned the conservatices.

Senor Tamayo was particularly vindictive and declared that everybody who voted in favor of the Platt amendment was a traitor to his country. The convention compelled him to retract this statement. On several occasions personal encounters seemed imminent.

Senor Gomez spoke for more than an hour and his speech undoubtedly won over Senor Castro, Roba and Manduley. He appealed to the patriotism of delegates and rehearsed the long fight for independence, denouncing as perjurers all who favored the Platt amendment on the ground that they had sworn to draw up a constitution for an independent republic.

Several conservatives rose and asked Senor Gomez to retract but he absolutely refused.

La Discussion, in an extra this evening, exclaims: "Now will come immediate independence."

THE DAKOTAS

Bassanella Brothers Who Broke Jail Have Been Recaptured.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Grand Forks—A telegram received Tuesday afternoon by the sheriff from officers at Hannah, N. D., announced that the Bassanella brothers, the escaped murderers from this county, had been captured at that place and the sheriff will leave for there in the morning to bring them back.

The city is filled with Christian Endeavorers for the twelfth annual convention of the state society. Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder and president of the society, will be one of the speakers.

Valley City—R. N. Pray, an old and highly respected citizen of Barnes county, died Tuesday morning of constriction of the bowels. He was the father of Dr. E. A. Pray and Lieut. Harvey Pray, of this city, and was 72 years of age.

Walhalla—Allie, the 8-year-old son of Mrs. Dr. McLaughlin, was drowned while bathing in the river.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Yankton—Mrs. Andrew J. Faulk, widow of Governor Faulk, appointed governor of Dakota in 1866 by President Andrew Johnson, died in this city Tuesday morning of old age and as a result of a paralytic stroke received a few months ago. Governor Faulk and family moved to Yankton in 1866, and were long identified with the city and state's progress. The governor died two years ago.

Spearfish—For several weeks fishermen along Spearfish creek have noticed a great many dead fish in the stream. The theory was advanced that they had died from the effects of the cyanide which might have escaped from the tailing of a mill into the creek. It is now learned that men have been fishing with dynamite. Arrests are about to be made.

Aberdeen—Circuit court convened with the highest civil and criminal calendar in the history of the county. Only five criminal cases are docketed and these are for trivial offenses.

Central City—The board of insanity of Lawrence county has adjudged George Hart, 15-year-old son of Thomas Hart, insane, and as soon as an attendant from the Yankton asylum can arrive he will be taken there.

Hudson—The old settlers of Lincoln county will hold their annual picnic in this place June 20. An interesting program of sports, music and speaking is being prepared. A large tent will be provided and a general good time is anticipated.

Sioux Falls—A rural mail route will be established northwest of Dell Rapids. The new route will be twenty-six and a half miles in length and will accommodate about 700 people.

IN MICHIGAN.

Rapid River Is Greatly Excited Over an Oil Find.

Rapid River—Rapid River is all excitement over an oil find and a company with a paid up capital of $8000 is being organized to drill for petroleum. The crude oil oozes out of the ground and can be gathered in large quantities. Samples of rock have been assayed and are pronounced of Trenton formation. The assay shows 3½ per cent oil. Mr. Hibbard, of Rapid River, is at the head of the enterprise, and a practical driller will be employed to sink an eight-inch hole to a sufficient depth to ascertain whether the surface indications are correct. Several thousand acres have been leased by the company, and if oil is found Rapid River will again be one of the lively towns of the peninsula.

Escanaba—Escanaba now boasts of a well organized Social Democratic movement. For a number of years that city has had some energetic politicians of the Socialistic stripe, chief among them being Frank W. Foster, ex-supervisor and present city assessor, but it was only a few days ago that a concerted effort looking to the organization of the party was made. At the first meeting held for this purpose 100 voters swore allegiance to the party. It will be recruited largely from the ranks of organized labor at Escanaba and, as there are 600 members of the various organizations, the branch has a considerable margin for growth.

The buildings for the stave factory in process of erection at Escanaba by the Northwestern Cooperage and Lumber company are well under way and it is expected that they will be completed and the machinery installed within thirty days.

Menominee—Capt. Knute Knutesen, owner and master of the tug Constance, which was sunk at Pemberthy, Cook & Co.'s dock at Menominee, left for Green Bay, where he will consult with Capt. C. H. and H. W. Hart of the Hart Steamboat line in regard to an adjustment of the loss. Capt. Knutesen will demand, so an authority says, $2000 damages. The collision has been reported to the custom officers and an investigation will probably be made.

The Menominee Hardwood Lumber and Shingle company has cuosed a deal for the sale of 6000 acres of timber lands in Dickinson county to August Spies. The deal involes, so it is said, about $30,000 and is one of the largest timber deals of the year.

TIMBER PURCHASE.

Tower Company Buys From Day Brothers.

Day Bros., of this city, have sold to the Tower Lumber company a large quantity of standing pine in 61-14. The consideration is said to be about $175,000, the sale being made on the basis of $5 a thousand feet. A. C. Gilman is also said to have an interest in the sale. The timber in the purchase is very much scattered, and it is claimed that it would have brought a better price had it been more compact. The Duluth & Iron Range railroad will deliver the logs at the Tower Lumber company's mill at Tower, the haul not exceeding ten miles. The figures of this sale are pointed out by the local timbermen as another indication of the increasing values of Northern Minnesota standing pine.

ARE WELL PLEASED

County Officials Like Plan of Working Prisoners.

Have Done Much Work on the County Roads.

Now Working on the Clearing at Poor Farm.

The experiment of working the prisoners in the county jail has had a trial of several months, interrupted of course by the winter season, when it was impossible to give them outdoor work, and all those who have had anything to do with it pronounce it an unqualified success.

The men have done a variety of work. They began by clearing eighty acres of the poor farm, that were covered with brush and stones and stumps, and last fall that work was finished up and completed in excellent shape under the direction of Sheriff Sargent. After that was done the county chain gang was set at work on a road along the east branch of Lester river, and here it did more good work. This spring the gang has done more work on the roads; it has cleaned up some of the city's park property along the lake shore, just beyond Lester river, and now it is working again on the poor farm, fitting up the eighty acres that were cleared last fall for planting, and doing other useful work about the farm.

In every way the experiment has been a good thing, and it has had the effect that was expected of it. That is, it has made the county jail no haven for loafers. Before this scheme was put in effect it was really quite a little picnic for a certain class of men in whom sensitiveness did not exist, and who had no objection to being incarcerated in jail because of many sentimental reasons. Shame they knew not, and all they did know was that at the county jail they could find, by committing some petty infraction of the laws, from ten to ninety days of good fare, no work and a lovely breathing spell. The only trouble was that there was no liquor to be had, and this was all that prevented the county jail from being a common refuge for the worthless and disreputable.

The idea of working county prisoners was introduced with the hope that it would tend to make the county's hotel less sought after, and it has had that effect. Very few men actually seek lodging any more, for they know that it means hard work every week during their sentence. The men that do land there as a rule do not object to working. Most of them are laborers, who feel better when engaged in hard manual toil than when loafing, and many of them even enjoy the outdoor labor as a change from the confinement of the jail.

The number of prisoners in the jail has grown less, and the board bills are correspondingly decreased. Aside from that, considerable valuable work that might not have been done otherwise has been accomplished, and more will be done as fast as it can be reached.

"It was almost a miracle, Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body. I am very grateful." Miss Julia Flibridge, West Cornwell, Conn.

DOCK EXTENSIONS.

Several Being Made at the Present Time.

The work on the extension of the St. Paul and Western Coal company's dock on Superior bay is progressing very rapidly. The dredge Port Huron is removing the material at the north end of the old dock, and the cribbing which has been completed will be sunk as soon as the dredging ceases. The end of the dock extension, when finished, will come very close to the Superior end of the interstate bridge. After the cribbing has been placed in position, the intervening space will be filled with sand and the whole planked over.

The Ohio Coal company has practically completed its dock extension on Rice's Point and will soon be handling coal on the new portion. Some improvements have been made at the Boston Dock and Wharf company's dock near the Missabe ore docks, and several coal boats have been unloading there within the last week or ten days.

High School Alumni.

Last evening at the High School the executive committee of the high school alumni held a meeting, and from reports of the members it was found that the old-time interest in the alumni had not in the least diminished during the months between the last annual banquet and the present one. After considerable discussion it was thought best to change the order of things this year, and give a dance at Harmonie hall in place of the usual banquet. The date set for the reunion is Monday, June 17, and it is expected that there will be a large number of the graduates present with their friends, as the committee has promised a very enjoyable time for all attending.

Municipal Court Jurors.

The following municipal court jurors have been summoned for duty at the general term beginning June 4: R. T. Lewis, S. G. McTaggart, P. C. Ouellette, Charles A. Young, M. H. Potts, Arthur Farrington, John Sundeen, Frank Gottwald, Thomas A. Pinte, James Medland, John Beckman, Christ Ottinger, Peter McNaughton, J. W. Preston, W. W. Allen, R. J. Payne, A. Swenson, A. D. L. Newman, Oscar Mungerson, H. D. Bullard, Andrew Johnson, S. M. Dester, Charles Dice, Charles A. Brewer.

Do Not Approve It.

The department of public works does not favor the mayor's scheme for having an employe of the street maintenance department perform the duties of poundmaster at Lakeside and West Duluth.

The commissioners say that while this arrangement could be made they are of the opinion that it would not prove satisfactory.

Many complaints are being made by West Duluthians against cattle running at large, and there is urgent need for a settlement of the poundmaster problem in that part of the city.

HEAD STRUCK.

Engineer McGuire Victim of a Terrible Accident.

A terrible accident occurred at Highland about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by which P. J. McGuire, an engineer on the Duluth & Iron Range road, received fatal injuries.

Mr. McGuire's engine was pulling a long ore train. At the top of the hill near Highland he leaned far out of the cab window to examine the driving wheels. The train was going at a good rate of speed and the unfortunate engineer's head struck a stand pipe.

The jaw was broken and the skull fractured. The fireman pulled the engineer's body back into the cab and succeeded in stopping the train.

The unconscious engineer was taken to the Two Harbors hospital, where he died about 9 o'clock last night.

Mr. McGuire is well known in railroad circles at the head of the lakes. He was about 45 years of age and leaves a wife and three children at Two Harbors. His relatives live at Dixon, Ill. He was one of the oldest engineers on the Duluth & Iron Range road in point of service.

RAILROAD DEVELOPMENTS.

South Shore May Get Into Ashland.

It is reported that the Soo and South Shore roads are figuring on direct connections between the head of the lake and Ashland, Wis. At the present time the Soo road is building toward Superior, the construction crews working in Polk and Barron counties, Wis. The Halvorson-Richards company, of Minneapolis, has the contract for a section of the new line and is building from St. Croix Falls, Wis., where it is employing a large force of men. While the new line will not reach the head of the lakes this year, it is said to be certain that it is its ultimate destination. It is believed that the Soo road will connect with the South Shore road a few miles out of the city and send its trains in over the South Shore tracks. It is expected that the Soo company will also make connections with the South Shore road near Ashland, but run its own road into Ashland. This, it is said, will give the South Shore road direct connections with Ashland.

The Chicago & Northwestern road is constructing a branch from Gile, in Eau Claire county, Wis., to Rice Lake, Wis. The company will build forty miles of the new line this year, and already has about four miles of the roadbed graded.

The Weyerhaeusers are said to have taken an interest in Cook's logging road in Wisconsin, and the entire road has been rehallasted and heavy rails laid. From the amount of improvement done it is figured that the road will sometime be used for other purposes than that of hauling logs, and with the Soo road going into Ashland, it is claimed that the Ashland end of the line will be the Weyerhaeuser logging road, which has been used in connection with the South Shore road in getting logs to the Weyerhaeuser mill at Lake Nebagamon.

PEDESTRIANS' VIADUCT.

Tenth Avenue Structure to Be Built.

It begins to look as if the Tenth avenue west foot viaduct would soon be built. In a few days the board of public works will advertise for bids for the material, and it is said that as soon as these bids are in the Great Northern road will be willing to sign its part of the contract for the building. At present the Great Northern is the only road interested that has not signed.

The Tenth avenue west viaduct will be for foot passengers only. There are many hundred men that work along the water front who are compelled to cross the railroad yards at all hours of the night. Several accidents have occurred.

WINS THE BADGE.

A. A. Farrington Now In Memorial Day Shoot.

A. A. Farrington won the diamond badge at the Central Gun club's shoot yesterday afternoon. This makes him eligible to shoot for final possession of the trophy tomorrow afternoon and brings the list of eligibles up to thirteen.

In the shoot yesterday Farrington and Dr. Day each broke 46 birds, but in the shoot off Farrington won. The scores were: Farrington and Day, 46; Storey, 45; Greener, 44; Nelson and Fulton, 42; Kennedy, 41; Bennett and Salter, 40;

KNEW THE WAY OUT.

Made a Study of His Food.

It is not always that the user of food understands about that food, but a gentleman in Cincinnati writing about Grape-Nuts expresses himself perfectly. He says: "A business man devoting himself to hard mental labor, requires different food than a man doing muscular work. I became aware of a dull, heavy feeling in my head day by day which did an untold damage to my work. Verdict, intestinal indigestion; punishment, a severe diet list, leaving out starchy foods, sugar and fat.

Up to this time, with the most precise care in cooking, the ordinary breakfast food came to the table a pasty, starchy mass. Added to that was sugar and more or less white bread, which gave an excess of starchy food that could not be digested. This indigested mass passed into the intestines, creating gas and and all of the distressing symptoms both of body and brain.

I was put on Grape-Nuts Food for the reason that it is made of selected parts of wheat and barley, thoroughly cooked at the factory, giving to the body the starchy part of the food (which is necessary), predigested, that is, turned into dextrose or grape sugar. This furnished the sweet needed, without the use of cane sugar, and gave me the starchy principle of food already passed into the second condition, exactly in the same manner as a healthy body digests it.

After eating Grape-Nuts for a short time, I found a most remarkable improvement in my health, and I also discovered the reason why the claim made on the package is true, that one pound of Grape-Nuts, which is perfectly absorbed by the body, will afford more nutrition than ten pounds of meat, wheat or bread, imperfectly digested. I can assure anyone that a week or ten days' conscientious use of Grape-Nuts will prove far more convincing testimony than any written words. I subscribe my self a grateful consumer. Please do not publish my name." Anyone who will write to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and enclose stamp, can be supplied with the name and address.

THE FINAL CONTEST

Shoot For the Possession of the Diamond Medal.

Thirteen Eligible to Compete With Another Possibility.

Duluth Has Seven Men and Wants to Win.

Tomorrow afternoon the final contest for the possession of the handsome diamond medal badge which has been open to competition for about three years for all shots who might wish to come to the head of the lakes and compete for it will be held. This shoot will settle the permanent ownership of the handsome trophy. Naturally there is much interest and excitement over the outcome of the contest. The Duluth men are anxious to see it stay here, and the outside men are equally anxious to get it.

There are today thirteen contestants who may enter the shoot. A shoot is being held this afternoon, and after that there may be fourteen, that is if a new man should win the badge. A. A. Farrington won it yesterday for the first time and thus got into the final shoot.

The men who have won the badge and the number of times they have carried it off are as follows:

DULUTH.
J. W. Nelson, 9 times.
T. J. Storey, 3 times.
D. H. Day, 3 times.
Warren Mendenhall, 1 time.
A. B. Thomas, 1 time.
A. W. Loud, 1 time.
A. A. Farrington, 1 time.
SUPERIOR.
J. D. Finn, 7 times.
Levi Fulton, 1 time.
F. H. Bherns, 1 time.
D. H. Kennedy, 1 time.
ELY.
Louis Eisenach, 1 time.
ST. PAUL.
Dr. H. W. Spratley, 1 time.

Of the above there are three who may not be here to shoot. These are J. D. Finn, Bherns and Dr. Spratley. Mr. Finn, who is one of the best shots that ever won the badge, is not now a resident of Superior, and it is not known whether he will come here for the shoot or not. He has not given any notice, but it is not expected that he will, for he will be more inclined to drop in suddenly and try to startle some of the shots out of their "shooting clothes" by his sudden appearance. He is certain to be a formidable opponent if he should appear. Dr. Spratley may also come, but it is not known whether he will or not. Mr. Bherns will not be here.

The match will be for 100 birds, and that every moment of it will be filled with excitement goes without saying.

Band Concert and Dance.

The concert and dance given last evening by the Third Infantry band, formerly the City band, was a great success. There was a large crowd in attendance both at the concert and the dance. The concert program was a pleasing one in every way, embracing a variety of selections. The present band is the best Duluth has ever had, and the members are more enthusiastic than ever.

The dance was very large and the floor was crowded throughout the evening. The music was of the very finest, the band and orchestra furnishing it.

New Excursion Boat.

Duluth is to have another excursion boat, and the new one, the Bloomer Girl, is said to be one of the finest on the lakes. Her owner and captain, T. Richardson, of Milwaukee, has written Capt. B. F. Howard from Ashland that the vessel will be inspected there and sent to Duluth. The boat will accommodate 1000 passengers. She is two years old and has spent her two seasons in the excursion business out of Milwaukee. The vessel is expected in Duluth in a short time.

Machinery Is Expected.

The machinery for the Duluth Match factory is expected to arrive here in a few days, or at least a good part of it. It has been in course of construction at Grand Rapids and other places and is now practically all completed. The work of placing it in position will begin immediately upon its arrival, and the plant will be made ready for operation as soon as possible.

May Musical Festival.

The first May festival concert will be given this evening at the High School Assembly hall. The musicians of the city have been preparing for this event with great enthusiasm and are anxious for a brilliant success. The program for this evening is as follows:

"Damascus Chorus," with sheathed swords from oratorio "Naaman"..
Festival chorus (solo, Miss Rena Smith) under the direction of A. F. M. Custance .....

AMONG STRAWBERRIES.

Never-to-Be Forgotten Journey of Young Darkey.

Chicago, May 29.—A 1-year-old colored boy was found in a carload of strawberries on the Illinois Central side tracks yesterday. The youngster had surfeited himself on the berries. "Ise hungry and don' want no moah strawberries" were the first words he said.

The boy said that his name was Henry Allen and that his father and mother lived in Paducah, Ky. He said that one night he and his father got into an open car which had just been loaded with strawberries and rode for some distance, but that his father got out when the train slacked up, and before he could follow somebody had closed the door. "An' they done sealed it, an' I stayed in that da' cyar eaten' sleepin' with strawberries foah two days an' a night," said Harry, in narrating his adventures.

WILD STORIES.

All Sorts Heard After Pavilion Fire.

As is usually the case after a big fire or accident of a sensational nature the wildest stories are set afloat regarding it. The burning of the Pavilion yesterday morning proved no exception. There were all sorts of pipe dreams about the fire. Last evening one man was overheard telling a friend that the blaze was the work of a fire-bug who, as soon as he committed the deed, jumped on the Highland Park electric car and ran at full speed to the end of the line and took to the woods. He then went on to say that as soon as the people at Duluth Heights learned of the fire-bug they organized a Grand Rapids and other places and is now practically all completed. The work of placing it in position will begin immediately upon its arrival, and the plant will be made ready for operation as soon as possible.

The machinery for the Duluth Match factory is expected to arrive here in a few days, or at least a good part of it. It has been in course of construction at Grand Rapids and other places and is now practically all completed. The work of placing it in position will begin immediately upon its arrival, and the plant will be made ready for operation as soon as possible.

COOK COUNTY.

Perry D. Martin and Charles Anaquet Have Passed Away.

The Grand Marais Herald of May 25 says: Word has been received of the death of Perry D. Martin, formerly of this county, at Minneapolis, on May 10. Mr. Martin was born on Christmas day in the year 1826 and is survived by a twin brother. His advanced age made his death probable at any time, but the news is none the less a blow to his many friends here. Perry D. Martin was a man who had for more than an average mind and he saw much more of life than most people. He was highly esteemed by those who knew him.

Last Sunday Charles Anaquet returned from Duluth on the Argo. On Monday he felt in unusual health, but Tuesday morning while eating breakfast he had an attack of heart trouble, which proved fatal within a few minutes. His health has not been good for some years and his sudden death was not altogether a surprise. He is survived by a wife and two children.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Douglas have commenced to build on their proposed tourist hotel in this place. The main building will be set back twenty feet from the property line, size 40 by 60 feet, three stories, kitchen 16 by 24 feet, one and a half stories, verandas on east and south sides.

Dr. T. W. Mayhew, who was quite sick last week, is much improved.

James Campbell, the well-known explorer, was here the first of the week and left for the interior Tuesday accompanied by Peter Kadonce.

Col. William Colvill arrived on the Argo last Sunday and is now at his home east of here. The colonel is in good health and has come down to look after his spring scrops.

HIGHER ASSESSMENT.

Clark's Arizona Properties to Be Taxed Heavier.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 29.—For the first time since Senator W. A. Clark, of Montana, became interested in mining in Arizona he is to be forced to pay a tax assessment of fair size on his great mine holdings. For several years, Senator Clark has been enabled to avoid heavy contributions to the Arizona treasury, but Yavapai county, in which the United Verde mine is situated, has decided to assess Clark's copper property at $9900, heretofore a tax of $20,000 had been levied on the United Verde on a valuation of $900,000. Under the new ruling, the assessment will be $6,000,000 and Senator Clark's Arizona property will cost him $240,000 annually. As a matter of fact, $6,000,000 falls far below the value of the United Verde. Its value has been estimated on a scale ranging from $50,000,000 to $150,000,000 and in the recent combine of copper producers the Verde was valued at $75,000,000.

Scrofula

Scrofula is an unwelcome legacy, but one which the children of blood poisoned parentage must accept, with all its humiliating consequences. It is an inheritance that makes one poorer; that brings wretchedness and disease instead of health and riches, for the child whose ancestral blood is tainted with Scrofula or the loathsome virus of Contagious Blood Poison is unfitted for the arduous duties of life so long as any of the transmitted poison remains in its veins. Scrofula manifests itself in various forms; swollen glands about the neck and throat, catarrh of the head, weak eyes, hip bone disease, white swelling and offensive sores and abscesses are familiar symptoms, attended usually with loss of strength, poor digestion and pale or bloodless complexion. The skin is sometimes most dreadfully affected, eruptions breaking out on all parts of the body. Scrofula destroys bone, tissue and flesh; no part of the human system escapes its withering, benumbing touch. Parents whose blood is poisoned by their own misdeeds, or who themselves may be suffering for the sins of some remote ancestor, must restore their own blood to its normal purity and strength, or they cannot expect healthy, robust, children. S. S. S. cures Scrofula, like other diseases of a deep-seated, constitutional character, by restoring life and purity to the profoundly poisoned blood, and the rich, strong blood that is carried to the swollen and diseased glands absorbs and destroys the tuberculous deposits, and the painful, disfiguring sores and other evidences of Scrofula disappear.

When nineteen years old, and about one year after the birth of my first child, the glands on the left side of my neck began to swell. Four of the places were lanced and became open running sores; risings came under my left arm, and the discharge was simply awful. The doctors said I had the worst case of Scrofula they had ever seen. I took Iodide of potassium, but this nor the other drugs given for this disease brought relief. When the physicians advised me to have the glands removed, I decided to try S. S. S. A few bottles cured me completely; no signs of the terrible disease are left.
MRS. RICHARD WASSON,
Golden Corners, Ohio.

S. S. S. should be begun immediately upon the appearance of the first symptoms, or where there is a known predisposition to Scrofula. Our medical department will be found of great help to those who are struggling with this wasting disease of heredity or any other blood trouble, and we invite you to write us. Should you or any member of your family need advice, our physicians will cheerfully give the information you desire, for which we make no charge. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

Little Danger of a War.

Although Bolivia and Peru are feeling exceedingly hostile toward Chile and are making threats of what they will do to recover the territory of which they have been robbed, and although it is reported that European nations are to come to the aid of the two little countries; there is but little danger of any outbreak of war. The two countries have little to fight with. Bolivia could not ship anything outside of her own harbor. Her standing army consists of 2000 men, and her national expenditures for several years past have exceeded her revenue. She has no access to the sea except as she crosses the territory of which she has been deprived. Peru has a standing army of 3000 men and her balance between income and expenditures is also on the wrong side of the ledger. Her naval power is insignificant. Chile, on the other hand, has lately improved her financial condition. From being on the verge of bankruptcy and in a deplorable need of revenues, she has increased her income to the extent of about $40,000,000 by working the nitrate beds which rightfully belong to her neighbors. She has a standing army of 5000 men and has over 500,000 enrolled in the national guard. Her navy comprises five armored warships, two second-class and three third-class cruisers besides eleven gunboats, four destroyers and twenty torpedo boats. These ships are all comparatively new, and the ability of the Chileans to fight them has been well demonstrated. If there is any truth in the report of European encouragement, it is due to the fact that the foreign nations do not like the idea of the Pan-American congress, which contemplates a closer relationship of all the nations on this side of the Atlantic and would do all possible to create friction and strife among the South American nations.

Growth of African Methodist Church.

The conference of the African M. E. church to be held in New York calls attention to the wonderful growth of that church. It is one of the oldest denominations in the world and has an interesting history. In early Methodism, both the white and colored people worshiped together, the colored members being allotted certain seats. In 1786, the St. George church, in Philadelphia, erected a gallery in its edifice and designated that as the place for colored worshipers. There were a goodly number of colored men, and some of them protested. On one Sunday, while the congregation was at prayers, while Richard Allen, who was a preacher and leader among his people, entered St. George's church and knelt to join in prayer with the other worshipers, but one of the officials of the church instructed him that he must not kneel there, but must go to the gallery. Allen asked to be permitted to conclude his prayers, but this was not granted. He arose and left the church, and with him there went others. They adjourned to a blacksmith's shop, and there, with the anvil as a pulpit, Allen preached to his followers. They subsequently established a church and called it Bethel. Upon the same site there is erected today the greatest and best church of the connection, called Mother Bethel, and the bones of Allen rest in a fine new tomb, which has just been dedicated as a part of the church. From its humble origin in the blacksmith's shop the African Methodist Episcopal church has grown until now there is scarcely a city in the United States where there is not a church or mission. Canada, the West Indies and Africa including recent accessions in South Africa and the isles of the sea, have come under the influence of African Methodism, and it has a large following in these distant lands. There are now thirteen bishops of the connection, Bishop Henry M. Turner, of Atlanta, Ga., being the senior bishop. There are 663,706 members, 1,659,765 adherents, 5439 ministers, 5665 members, 69 annual conferences, 20 colleges, 165 teachers, 3257 students, 699 graduates, 3447 Sunday schools, 21,514 Sunday school officers, 37,916 teachers, 362,421 pupils cared for and property valued at $10,340,695. The latest quadriennial reports from the general secretaries that the finances for the quadrienium ending in May were as follows: Received at the publication department, $61,441.46; missionary department, $58,876.86; financial department, $403,107.62; Sunday School Union, $75,159.46; educational department, $187.-963.20; Southern Christian Recorder, $552.-56; Church extension department, 25,464.73; Preachers' Aid association, $2905.25; the total amount being $822,454.14.

RETROGRESSION.

There are many people who will agree with the London Daily News in its comments on the decisions of the United States supreme court on the insular cases. It regards them as "a curious issue to 120 years of triumphal democracy" and says: "It is not progress but retrogression; not the advancement of humanity, but that disheartening product of our times—the militarism of a democracy. We venture to think that the framers of the United States constitution would have laughed at the possibility of such a development as incredible. The decisions have extricated President McKinley from an uncommonly awkward position, but it is a lamentably headlong fall in the moral scale and the turning of the back on all that has been the special glory and distinction of the United States in order to join in barbaric scramble in the waste places of the earth."

The more carefully the decisions of the court in the Delima and Downes cases are studied, the more surprising becomes the conclusion that was reached by the majority of the court. The court decides that Porto Rico ceased to be foreign territory and became a part of the United States as soon as the treaty with Spain was ratified, and in the same breath holds that the revenue clause of the constitution providing that "all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States," does not extend by its own force to Porto Rico or our other new insular possessions. Here is an apparent contradiction, and it must be said that Justice Brown's elaborate opinion is not marked by clear reasoning. In contradistinction is the cleancut, logical dissenting opinion by Chief Justice Fuller, in which he was joined by Justices Harlan, Peckham and Brewer. The majority opinion is mercilessly riddled by the chief justice and its inconsistencies and absurdities are clearly pointed out. In another column will be found a lengthy report of the chief justice's opinion, which will confirm the faith of those who still contend, five members of the supreme court to the contrary, that the constitution is supreme; that it, and not congress, controls all American territory, and that the constitution by its own force extends to all territory coming beneath the American flag.

By the decision in the Downes case, the supreme court has relegated the constitution to second place and made congress omnipotent in all the territorial possessions of the United States. It is not now a question of what will the constitution allow, but what will congress do? It is up to the Republican party, which is responsible for this condition, to see that congress follows out the provisions of the constitution in the insular possessions or allows the islands to be exploited by the influences which have been back of the present movement to make of them crown colonies.

In the history of the United States there never was a graver question before the supreme court and never before did that court so signally fail to sustain its high reputation. It is a most regretable incident that on this fundamental principle of constitutional power the court should be divided equally with one justice on both sides of the question. Justice Brown in his effort to sustain the administration in its Porto Rican tariff act, has placed the court in a position to be the laughing stock of the judicial world. It is a most peculiar condition where a court of nine justices are compelled to become responsible for a decision with which eight of them do not agree. For the reputation of the court it would have been infinitely better had the five stood solid for the constitution or five for the administration. As it is, Justice Brown, by joining in the opinion of the majority in the Delima case, reverses himself in the Downes case. And to make the matter more apparent, his brother justices tell him so in their dissenting opinions.

What will be done now? Will the administration call an extra session of congress to legislate for the Philippines? Will the people of the United States allow their representatives to abrogate the constitution by special legislation for those territories to which we have sworn to give the benefits of a republican form of government? What is the status of the Porto Rican now? Is he a citizen of the United States? Evidently he is until such time as congress can meet and rob him of his citizenship. The same is true of the Filipino. Will congress do it? Will congress dare do it? The result of the decision in the Downes case is to allow the sugar and tobacco trusts and other interests that are opposed to free trade with the insular possessions to manipulate congress. And this they will do. Under the law as laid down there is nothing to prevent the United States from placing a tariff on all products imported into the United States from Arizona and New Mexico, Alaska and Hawaii. Neither is there any obstacle in the way of disfranchising all the inhabitants of these territories. Justice Fuller strikes the keynote in his dissenting opinion when he refers to the constitutional guarantee that inhabitants of our territory shall not be disturbed in their rights to life, liberty and property, and yet this decision abrogates the constitutional guarantee regarding taxation. The power to tax takes with it the power to destroy.

It is the privilege of any one who is not pleased with a decision of a judicial tribunal to go into the alley and "cuss the court." In this case it is not necessary as the members of the court have anticipated us in that respect, through the numerous dissenting opinions. Randolph said of one of John Marshall's opinions: "John Marshall is wrong. I know he is wrong, but I'll be damned if I can tell just where he is wrong." This cannot be said of the majority opinion of Justice Brown in the Downes case. Brown is wrong and even a layman can point out a dozen places where he is wrong. Indeed it is difficult to find where he is not wrong. His opinion is an apology rather than a logical argument to sustain his position. The question of the constitution is still open. It follows the flag, if the American people will it. Will they give their approval to the policy of retrogression?

THE PENSION SHARKS.

The large number of returning soldiers makes the business of the pension sharks at San Francisco most profitable. They gather in the worthy and the unworthy. They had as soon do business with a soldier whose conscience will permit him to misrepresent and even perjure himself as with the sick and wounded man who is justly entitled to relief. A Washington dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says that an investigation of the practice of pension sharpers in San Francisco and their methods of annoying soldiers returning from the far East has been started by the pension bureau, and prosecutions may be expected in the near future, according to the officials of the law division of the bureau. The sharpers are not all representatives of the large pension law firms, but many of them are, and their methods are characterized as illegal and outrageous. They meet returning soldiers at the docks and often persuade them to file applications for pensions, even before they have been discharged. Fees have been, in many cases, collected without any service rendered, and the sharper often threatens to take up his case in Washington and make trouble for the soldier unless paid his fee.

When an application is made before a discharge has been granted, it is void, but soldiers do not always know this. They are also made to believe that the attorney can get them a pension on trumped up disabilities, whether they are entitled to one or not, and in many cases soldiers have signed documents swearing to aliments and perjuring themselves at the request of the pension shark.

The only way to obviate these base frauds is to do away with the system of granting pensions through attorneys, a plan which Commissioner Evans recommended some time ago. The present system, which opens the door to fraud and is attended by innumerable scandals, is unjust to the honest and deserving veterans and should be changed.

UNIVERSITY FREAKS.

The universities have been furnishing the public with their quota of amusement lately. The tragedies of Leland Stanford had not been forgotten by either the dowager, her victims, or their friends, when the clowns took the stage and began to tickle the audiences with an exhibition of the goody-good boy—the modern Joseph. First little Algie Crook appeared in a song and dance in which he declared that he had never kissed a girl, no, never. He further stated that his arm had never encircled a tapering waste, nor had his shoulder been the resting place for a golden head or for that matter a head of any other color. The world at once voted Algie a howling success as a sissy boy and would have been delighted to have seen him in pantalettes. Algie was but a sample of the average university freak. The act was entertaining while it lasted.

The third act has just been rung up. It exhibits the university crank in his element. Professor Frederick Starr, of the Chicago university, has discovered that a man who parts his hair in the middle, cleans his finger nails, bathes twice a week or eats with his fork is a degenerate. Coming as this does from the Chicago university there is no getting around it. Degenerates they are to the end of the chapter. A time there was when experts taught that protruding upper teeth with a retreating underjaw, a receding forehead and high cheek bones were the primal indications of the degenerate, but that must have been a mistake. Professor Starr knows all about it. Is he not a professor? What will be the next act?

In these days of talk about municipal ownership it is remarkable that there are not more cemeteries owned by the municipality, says the Springfield Republican. The homes of the dead are still left almost exclusively to the ownership and control of private corporations. Cleveland, Ohio, however, has established a beautiful cemetery, in which the charges are very low, and Seattle, Wash., has just bought land with the same end in view. Municipal crematories should be made a part of the cemeteries, for cremation is sure to grow in favor.

Anent the discussion of the army canteen, an exchange sarcastically suggests that the only way out of the trouble seems to be to place all the army posts in Kansas where the saloon is not permitted to exist. Why not also place a few in Maine where prohibition is supposed to prohibit.

Crazy people frequently say clever things. When Mrs. Carrie Nation was informed that she was under arrest for the malicious destruction of property she said: "You mean I am under arrest for the destruction of malicious property."

It is estimated that the fire insurance companies will lose a premium income of nearly $1,000,000 a year by the decision of the big steel trust to carry its own insurance. Most of this insurance runs out in June and will not be renewed.

The Topeka State Journal suggests that Mr. Morgan may decide to buy Alsace and Lorraine in the interest of a permanent peace between France and Germany.

Perhaps Governor Allen, of Porto Rico may now get his wish in respect to a "colonial government." Justice Brown would hold it constitutional.

"May be the impression got abroad from coppers being found at almost every corner."

Judge: "Do you ever have the nightmare?" asked Cumso.

"No," answered Gawker; "my dreams are all of the horseless variety."

THE WOOERS.

"What will you give?" said the lady.
"I will give robes of velvet and diamonds and pearls
To clasp your white throat and wreathe in your curls;
I will give horses swift for carriages fine,
And delicate dainties with choicest of wine."
She tossed her bright head and answered with scorn.
"No luxury tempts me—to that I was born.
I want something more," said the lady.

"What will you give?" said the lady.
"I will give to you power—I'll make you supreme!
Of women, none other anear you shall seem.
Your will shall be ruler, your life shall be ease;
Mine own shall be only your fancies to please."
She tossed her proud head and she said with disdain,
"Ambition I've tasted, its pleasures—its pain—
I want something more," said the lady.

"And what will you give?" said the lady.
"I'll give you a king's crown, I'll give you his throne;
I will make a great kingdom your regal sway own,
I will give you the highest and proudest of earth;
A queen you shall be to a scepter's full worth."
She held up her head with a smile and a yawn:
"My brow has no longing for weight of a crown,
I want something more," said the lady.

"But what will you give?" said the lady.
"I have nothing to give, but a man's honest heart,
With a love that once born there, can never depart,
A love that is strong and tender and pure,
A love that through bliss and through ill shall endure."
She bowed her fair head and she veiled her bright eyes,
Stood in sweet surrender a glorious prize.
"That's all I want!" sighed the lady.

DAILY STORY.

THREE OLD MAIDS.

BY GEORGE M. LAPHAM.

(Copyright 1901, William R. Miller).

When John Tobes, widower died, he left behind him $300,000 worth of property and three daughters to share it. The oldest was 40, the next 35, and the youngest 30. They were named in the order of their age, Mary, Sarah, and Jane. None of them had ever married or even had a beau. The reason for this was that they were three of the homeliest and most ungainly women to be found for a hundred miles around. Mary was cross-eyed and had a mouth like the entrance of a cave; Sarah had a deformed nose and was a stutterer, and Jane's face was that of a parrot and her voice was only a squeak. Their bodies seemed to have been flung together without regard to symmetry, and people used to say that nature intended them for a circus side-show.

Tobes left a will, and it was as strange as any ever filed. Everything was left to the three daughters, but with a proviso. The executors were given two years in which to find three men willing to wed the old maids. They must be men of good character, and the three weddings must take place at the same hour. If the daughters failed to find husbands at the end of two years each was to be given $10,000 in cash, and the remainder of the fortune was to go to distant relatives. No doubt the will could have been broken had the girls determined to test its provisions, but they were entirely satisfied.

The situation, when summed up, amounted to this: Here were three of the homeliest women in America, and as illiterate as they were homely to be married off to good men. To make certain that the husbands would live with them for at least a year, no money was to be paid over for that period. You may think it an easy matter to get a husband for a young woman worth $100,000, even if she has the face of a baboon and the body of a kangaroo, but the executors were bound to exclude speculators and adventurers. The questions which a candidate had to answer satisfactorily were: "Have you ever been arrested for any cause? Will you attend church at least twenty times a year? Have you ever taken human life? Can you prove that you always paid your debts and conducted yourself in an upright manner?"

Mary was to be married first. Of the first twelve candidates brought before her she rejected five off-hand, and the other seven fixed for their lives after getting a good view of her. The thirteenth proved to be the lucky man. He was a railroad baggageman, who had been hurt in a train accident a year before. He was naturally a plain-faced man, but he had had his nose broken and one eye destroyed in the accident, and he was now a pretty good match for Mary in looks. He was no sooner brought face to face with her than the two fell head over heels in love, and the affair was put down as a go. It took about seven months to make this match. It was Sarah's turn next, and she was found to be even more cantelous than Mary. She was a short, stumpy girl, and she was determined to have a husband at least six feet tall. In the course of five months eight different human beings were brought before her for inspection, but she found fault with each and every one. At length, however, the executors ran across a tall cuss at the executors ran across a tall cuss at man who stuttered dreadfully, and after the situation was explained to him he agreed to become a candidate. After Sarah had looked him over, she asked:

"Do you th - - - think you c-c-could l-l-love me?"

"I g-g-g-uess s-s-s-so," he replied.

"I w-w-want to be l-l-l-loved, you know."

"S-so d-d-do I, y-y-yyou k-k-k-know."

"I n-n-notice that you s-s-s-stutter."

"And I n-n-n-notice that y-y-you do, t-t-t-too."

The result was that Sarah agreed to accept him, and then the executors had Jane to deal with. It had taken a year's time to get two of the men, and if Jane turned out over-particular the other year might expire before she was suited. She felt that she had no charms, however, and she insisted on a red-headed husband to match her own auburn locks. He must not only have red hair, but red whiskers as well. When I tell you that the proportion of red-headed men is only one to every 570 of the male population of this country, and that only one red-headed man out of every eleven wears whiskers, you can easily figure the odds against Jane Tobes.

A professor of physiology in Cincinnati had announced that there were more red-headed men to the acre in New Hampshire than any other state in the Union, and both executors headed that way at once. They sent down four candidates within a month, but all were promptly rejected. In two cases the hair was not red enough to make a good match, and in the other two they couldn't grow whiskers. At Plymouth, after a discouraging search, they got track of a young man who eventually bore away the prize. Plymouth is in Grafton county, and a very large county it is, and yet there were only three single red-headed men to be found within its confines at that date. One of these was an old bachelor over 50 years of age, the second hardly more than a boy, and third couldn't grow a single hair on his face, though he had tried till his back ached.

However, the landlord of the Plymouth hotel informed the husband-hunters that while he was visiting his sister at Dalton a year previously he had rescued a red-headed young man from drowning in the Connecticut river. He was not only certain of the red hair but of red whiskers as well, as he had clutched the young man by the hair to save him, and had afterwards wiped the wet from his whiskers. The hunters at once started for Dalton, and two hours after reaching the place they had run the red-headed victim to earth. They left town that same night, taking their man with them, and to their great joy Jane almost instantly accepted him, and he announced his own perfect satisfaction. For a red-headed, red-whiskered man he was a jim-dandy.

The executors were not through with their labors, however. The three marriages must come off at the same time, according to the will, and Mary's beau had dropped out of sight and failed to answer her letters. After a long search he was found and well kicked and reconducted to the starting point. Then Sarah had a quarrel with her stutterer as to who stuttered the most gracefully, and he skipped out and had to be brought back at the muzzle of a revolver and carefully guarded. On two occasions the red-headed man sought to rise up and throw off the yoke, but was promptly and vigorously suppressed. Nevertheless and however, on the eleventh day before the two years expired the triple wedding came off in good shape, the husbands complied with all the stipulations, and the only reason I have not given out their names is because all are still living and enjoying a large amount of this world's happiness.

A Nickel's Worth of Spring.

Tell you what is worth your while—
A nickel's worth of spring.
Go where you see the blossoms blow,
And hear the robins sing.
Go see the new-found beauty of
The apple and the quince,
And revel in the dainty way
Spring coaxes out the tints.

No painter ever swept his brush
Through any coloring
That held the richness there is in
A nickel's worth of spring.
There is no green like God's own grass,
No tint like cherry bloom;
No artist ever rinsed his brush
In lilac's rare perfume.

All round the town, with lavish hand
And wondrous garnishing
You'll find the trolley gives to you
A nickel's worth of spring.
And when you've dreamed an hour away
With blooms and robin-call,
You'll say that life, with all its faults,
It worth while after all.

THE BEAR WHO LOVED THE TIGRESS.

Dorothy Dix in New York Journal: There was once a Bear who fell in Love with a young Tigress who was the Belle of the Forest. She was a graceful and beautiful young Thing, who had spent all her Time in Man Hunting, and had no Domestic Tastes whatever, but that did not prevent the Bear from desiring her for a Wife.

"When She has the Inspiration of my Presence," He said to Those who advised him to Marry in his own Class, "she will be a Changed Creature. I shall Mold Her Character to suit My Ideal of what a Wife should Be."

During the Days of Courtship the Bear was all that Heart could Wish. At Night, although he would much rather have sat quietly At Home, he accompanied the Tigress on long Moonlit strolls and pretended that he Enjoyed them. He Fed her on Bonbons and when the Jackals gave an Amateur Concert for the benefit of the Fish who were drowned out in the Flood, he escorted her to it, although he had no Ear for Music and could not tell Tannhauser from Anheuser-Busch. He was, also, so much afraid she would forget that he Loved her that he told her the story over and over, until he made her Tired.

"Beauteous Creature," he cried, "Be Mine. This velvet Paw shall never harden itself with doing Aught but Soothing my Fevered Brow. I ask for Nothing Better than to be your Slave, and stand between you and the hard, hard World. Your Slightest Wish shall be my Law, and I shall Devote my Life to the Single purpose of Making you Happy, if you will only be my Wife."

The Tigress had had the Inestimable Advantage of having been brought up by a Mamma who thoroughly understood a Mother's Duty and had taught her Daughters to know a Good Thing when they saw it. Wherefore the Tigress thought, "This is a Snap. At Last I have found Something I can Work and a Soul that responds unto my Own." So she accepted the Bear and their wedding was a Large and Fashionable Affair, attended by the descendants of Those who came over in the Ark.

As soon as the Marriage ceremony was over the cBar Dumped his Wife down in their Home and went about his Business. His affection appeared to drop from Fever Heat to Below Normal, and he Ceased the Love-Making with a suddenness that gave the Bride a Nasty Jar. Furthermore he acted as if being Married to him were amusement Enough for Anybody, and he Quit bringing his Wife Chocolate Creams. As if she had Lost her Sweet Tooth. When she Proposed to take a Moonlit Stroll, like they used to do, He told her that Night, Air was unhealthy and that he did not propose to be Dragged about to Parties and Theaters. At Breakfast and in the Evening he Sat up and Devoured the Papers, in order to Find out what the Other Bears and Bulls were doing, and when his Wife spoke to him he merely Growled.

This was a great surprise to Mrs. Bear. "This is not what He Led me to Expect," She said to herself. "I thought Marriage with him would be a picnic. I find it is a funeral, in which I seem to be the Remains. I married for a Companion. I have gotten a Dummy. If the Fur Animal in front of a shop should be Substituted for my Husband, I should never find out the difference in their Conversational Ability." At this Mrs. Bear shed a few tears, and then she surveyed herself in a Mirror, and Perceiving that she was still young and Beautiful, she Cheered Up.

"There are just as good Fish in the Sea as have Ever Been Caught," she reflected, "and, thank Heaven, I have not Lost my Bait." Thereupon she wiped away her Tears and started out to Amuse Herself, because her Husband had not thought it Worth While to amuse her himself.

This created no Comment. It is what Many Wives do. Moreover, Mrs. Bear's morals were of the most Recherche Society Brand, so she conducted herself with Great Discretion, and it was Quite Three Years before she Established a Dakota Residence and sued Mr. Bear for Divorce and Alimony.

Now Mr. Bear had not Intended to be Unkind or Neglectful to His Wife. He merely forgot that, being a Female, she belonged to the Cat Family, and could not help her Nature, which leads her to Snuggle up to a Warm Thing and Scratch Back when any one Rubs the Fur the Wrong Way.

OPINION BY THE CHIEF JUSTICE

On Insular Cases In Which Justices Harlan, Brewer and Peckham Join----Holds That the Constitution Is Supreme.

Washington, May 29.—The chief dissenting opinion in the Downes case was announced by Chief Justice Fuller, Justices Harlan, Brewer and Peckham joining in the dissent. He said the majority, though widely differing in their reasoning, seemed to concur in the view that Porto Rico belongs to the United States, but nevertheless is not a part of the United States subject to the provisions of the constitution in respect of taxes. The Foraker act under which the duties were levied created a complete form of government for Porto Rico, with a special provision that the taxes levied in the United States on Porto Rican exports should be held as a special fund for Porto Rico's benefit. It was admitted that on its face the part of the act with reference to duties did not comply with the rule of uniformity prescribed by the constitution. The constitutional uniformity is a geographical uniformity, "but," the opinion continued, "it was said that congress, in attempting to levy these duties, was not exercising power derived from the first clause of section 8, or restricted by it, because in dealing with the territories congress exercises unlimited powers of government, and, moreover, that these duties are merely local taxes. This court, in 1829, when Marshall was chief justice, and Washington, William Johnston, Livingston, Todd, Duval and Storey were his associates, took a different view of the power of congress in the matter of laying and collecting taxes, duties, imposts and excises in the territories, and its ruling in Loughborough vs. Blake, 5 Wheat, 317, has never been overruled. It is stated in one of the opinions of the majority that the chief justice "made certain observations which have occasioned some embarrassment in other cases."

"I agree that the opinion of the court delivered by him must be embarrassing in this case, for it is necessary to overrule that decision in order to reach the result herein announced."

Chief Justice Marshall in that case, in considering the provision requiring that "all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States," said:

"UNITED STATES" DEFINED.

"Does this term (the United States) designate the whole or any portion of the American empire? Certainly this question can admit of but one answer. It is the name given to our great republic, which is composed of states and territories. The District of Columbia, or the territory west of the Mississippi, is no less within the United States than Maryland or Pennsylvania, and it is not less necessary on the principles of our constitution that uniformity in the imposition of imposts, duties and excises should be observed in the one case than in the other. Since, then, the power to lay and collect taxes, which include direct taxes, is obviously co-extensive with the power to lay and collect duties, imposts and excises, and since the latter extends throughout the United States, it follows that the power to impose direct tax also extends throughout the United States."

Of the suggestion that this statement was mere dicta, Chief Justice Fuller said it was wholly inadmissible to reject the process of reasoning by which the chief justice reached and tested the soundness of his conclusions are merely obiter.

"The chief justice held the territories as well as the District to be part of the United States for the purpose of national taxation, and repeated in effect what he had already said in McCullough vs. Maryland V. Wheaton, 406: 'Throughout this vast republic, from the St. Croix to the gulf of Mexico, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, revenue is to be collected and expended, armies are to be marched and supported.'"

Continuing, he combatted the contention that these particular duties are local in their nature, and said the levy is clearly a regulation of commerce, and made in the exercise of national powers. He added:

REGULATION OF COMMERCE.

"In any point of view, the imposition of duties on commerce operates to regulate commerce, and is not a matter of local legislation, and it follows that the levy of these duties was in the exercise of the national power to do so, and subject to the requirement of geographical uniformity.

"The fact that the proceeds of these duties are devoted by the act to the use of territory does not make national taxes local.

"Nobody disputes the power of congress to levy and collect duties geographically uniform and apply the proceeds by a proper appropriation act to the relief of a particular territory, but the destination of the proceeds would not change the source of the power to lay and collect. And that suggestion certainly is not strengthened when based on the diversion of duties collected from all parts of the United States to a territorial treasury before reaching the treasury of the United States. Clause 7 of section 9 of article 1 provides that 'no money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law,' and the proposition that this may be rendered inapplicable if the money is not permitted to be paid in so as to be acceptable of being drawn out, is somewhat startling."

The proposition that Chief Justice Marshall had erred in his opinion, and that the rule of uniformity was a limitation to the states as such, was declared to be wholly unwarranted, and quite a number of cases were cited in which the supreme court and congress, notably by the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution, had sustained the view that the United States meant territories as well as states.

Chief Justice Fuller then advanced the proposition enunciated in Marbury vs. Madison, I. Cranch, that the constitution was written in order to define and limit and keep within its restricted boundaries all persons and departments of government and was meant to leave no room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power. He added:

FEDERAL POWER LIMITED.

"From Marbury vs. Madison to the present day, no utterance of this court has intimated a doubt that in its operation on the people by whom and for whom it was established the national government is a government of enumerated powers, the exercise of which is restricted to the use of means appropriate and plainly adapted by constitutional ends, and which are not prohibited, but consistent with the letter and spirit of the constitution. The powers delegated by the people to their agents are not enlarged by the expansion of the domain within which they are exercised. When the restriction on the exercise of a particular power by a particular agent is ascertained that is an end of the question.

"To hold otherwise is to overthrow the basis of our constitutional law, and, moreover, in effect, to reassert the proposition that the states and not the people created the government."

There are many prohibitory clauses in the constitution, and this court repeatedly has given effect to them in respect of the territories and the District of Columbia.

Of the contention that by international law Porto Rico came to us subject to such legislation as congress might enact, Chief Justice Fuller said:

"The new master was, in this instance, the United States, a constitutional government with limited powers, and the terms which the constitution itself imposed, which might be imposed in accordance with the constitution, were the terms on which the new master took possession.

CONSTITUTION SUPREME.

"The power of the United States to acquire territory by conquest, by treaty or by discovery and occupation, is not disputed, nor is the proposition that in all international relations, interests and responsibilities the United States is a separate, independent and sovereign nation, but it does not derive its powers from international law, which is not a part of the organic law of the land. The source of national power in this country is the constitution of the United States, and the government as to our internal affairs possesses no inherent sovereign power not derived from that instrument and inconsistent with its letter and spirit.'

With reference to the paragraph in the treaty of peace declaring that "the civil rights and political status of the native inhabitants of the territories hereby ceded to the United States shall be determined by congress," the chief justice said this was nothing more than a declaration of the accepted principles of international law applicable to the status of the Spanish subjects and of the native inhabitants. A treaty which undertook to take away what the constitution provided or to enlarge the federal jurisdiction would be certainly void. It cannot be admitted that the power of congress to lay and collect taxes and duties can be curtailed by an arrangement made with a foreign nation by the president and two-thirds of the senate. The constitution did not yield to treaty or enactment, nor did its theory bend to circumstances.

Chief Justice Fuller absolutely rejected the contention that the rule of uniformity was not applicable to Porto Rico, because it had not been incorporated into and become an integral part of the United States. The word incorporation had no occult meaning, and, whatever its situation before, the Foraker act made Porto Rico an organized territory of the United States.

FULLER SARCASTIC.

He could not accept the view that even after organized "congress has the power to keep it, like a disembodied shade, in an intermediate state of ambiguous existence for an indefinite period, and, more than that, that after it had been called from that limbo, commerce with it is absolutely subject to the will of congress, irrespective of constitutional provision."

Justice Fuller's opinion continues:

"The concurring opinion of the majority recognized that 'congress, in dealing with the people of new territories or possessions, is bound to respect the fundamental guarantees of life, liberty and property,' but assumes that congress is not bound, in those territories or possessions, to follow the rules of taxation prescribed by the constitution. And yet the power to tax involves the power to destroy, and the levy of duties touched all our people in all places under the jurisdiction of the government.

"The logical result is that congress may prohibit commerce altogether between the states and territories and may prescribe one rule of taxation in one territory and a different rule in another. That theory assumes that the constitution created a government empowered to acquire countries throughout the world, to be governed by different rules than those obtaining in the original states and territories and substitutes for the present system of government a system of dominant power over provinces in the shape of unrestrictive power. In this way the Porto Rican act authorizing the imposition of this duty is invalid and plaintiff is entitled to recover.

"Some argument was made as to general consequences aprehended to flow from this result, but the language of the constitution is too plain and unambiguous to permit its meaning to be thus influenced. * * *

"Again, it is objected on behalf of the government of the possession that absolute power is essential to the acquisition of the vast and distant territories, and that we should regard the situation as it is today rather than it was a century ago." * *

"But it must be remembered that, as Marshall and Storey declared, the constitution was framed for ages to come, and that the sagacious men who framed it were well aware that a mighty future waited their work.

They may not indeed have deliberately considered a triumphal progress of the nation, as such, around the earth, but as Marshall wrote: 'It is not enough to say that this particular case was not in the mind of the convention when the article was framed, nor of the American people when it was adopted. It is necessary to go farther and to say that had this particular case been suggested the language would have been so varied as to exclude it, or it would have been made a special exception.'

"This cannot be said, and, on the contrary, in order to allow the successful extension of our institutions the reasonable presumption is that the limitations on assumption of arbitrary power would have been made more vigorous."

HARLAN'S OPINION.

Justice Harlan then announced his concurrence with the dissenting opinion just delivered by the chief justice. He regarded the Foraker act as unconstitutional in its revenue provision, and believed that Porto Rico, after the ratification of the treaty with Spain, became a part of the United States. Referring to the majority views that the power of our government with respect to new territory is the same power which other nations had been accustomed to exercise, Mr. Harlan said:

"I take leave to say that if the principles now announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of this court, the result will be a radical and mischievous change in our system of government. We will, in that event, pass from the era of constitutional liberty, guarded and protected by a written constitution, into an era of legislative absolutism, in respect of many rights that are dear to all people who love freedom.

"In my opinion congress has no existence, and can exercise no authority, outside of the constitution. Still less is it true that congress can deal with new territories just as other nations have done or may do with their new territories. This nation is under the control of a written constitution, which is the supreme law of the land and the only source of the powers which our government or any branch, or any officer of it, may exercise at any time or any place. Monarchical and despotic governments, unrestrained in their powers by written constitutions, may do with newly acquired territories what this government may not do consistently with our fundamental law. The idea that this country may acquire territories anywhere upon the earth, by conquest or treaty, and hold them as mere colonies or provinces, is wholly inconsistent with the spirit and general understanding of as well as the words of the constitution. The glory of our American system of government is that it was created by a written constitution which protects the people against the exercise of arbitrary, unlimited power and the limits of which may not be passed by the government is created or by any branch of it, or even by the people, who ordained it, except by amendment. It will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of government outside of the supreme law of the land finds lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence."

A SURPRISING VIEW.

Justice Harlan also commented on the idea that congress could "legislate the constitution into contiguous territory." Such a view, he said, might well cause surprise, if not alarm. Congress had no existence except by virtue of the constitution. He pointed out that the majority opinion suggested that conditions might arise where the annexation of distant possessions would become desirable, so that concessions might well be made for a time, that ultimately our own theories might be carried out. But Mr. Harlan dissented from any such theory of our governmental system. He said:

"This 'expanding future of our country' justifying the belief that the United States is to become what is called a 'world power'—of which so much was heard at the argument—does not justify any such juggling with the words of the constitution as would authorize the courts to hold that the words 'throughout the United States' in the taxing clause of the constitution do not embrace a 'territory of the United States.' This is a distinction which I am unable to make, and which I do not think ought to be made when we are endeavoring to ascertain the meaning of a great instrument of government."

In conclusion, Justice Harlan said:

"The addition of Porto Rico to the territory of the United States has been recognized by direct action upon the part of congress. It has legislated in recognition of the treaty with Spain. If Porto Rico did not by such act become a part of the United States, it did become such at least when congress passed the Foraker act. I cannot believe that congress may impose any duty, import or excise with respect to that territory and its people which is not consistent with the constitutional requirement that all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States."

AT CLOQUET.

Annual Ball of the Firemen to Occur on Monday.

Cloquet, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual ball of the firemen and street parade will occur on June 3. This is always a great occasion with the boys.

All the companies closed down their mills yesterday morning to render aid in putting out the fire in the Northern yard.

Peter Simpson, James Wilson and W. W. McNair went fishing yesterday. The two first named gentleman went together and intend staying in camp until they have fished the limit.

Spring has come at last. A circus is headed this way, to arrive on the 31st. Wild Bill, the chimney sweeper, tooting his horn two blocks away; an organ grinder, playing "The Sweet Bye and Bye" outside the office; a scissors grinder ringing his bell on Arch street; a traveling tinker, enquiring whether he needs a license; Justice Skemp trying to pawn his overcoat; Rev. Sykes having his hair cut, and Gadau, the cigar man, thatching his hat with green leaves, to protect his hair.

Mrs. H. H. Hawkins, of Duluth, is visiting with Mrs. F. P. Thompson.

Mrs. Isabella Phalon was re-elected librarian for the ensuing year at the meeting of the library board on Monday evening.

The fire in the Northern Lumber company's upper mill yard yesterday at one time had a most threatening aspect. It was started by a spark from the burner, burning seven or eight piles of common lumber piled directly in front of the select yard. By dint of strenuous efforts on the part of the mill employes and firemen it was confined to the front alleys and thereby prevented serious loss.

Table and Kitchen.

Practical Suggestions About What to Eat and How to Prepare Food.

This matter will be found to be entirely different from and superior to the usual run of food articles, in that every item is a nugget of culinary wisdom and eminently practical.

COOKING WITH LITTLE FIRE

The most serious problem that confronts the weary housekeeper who must spite of the exhausting "hot spell," prepare with her own hands the food for the family table is not so much what to provide, but how to dispense, so far as possible, with all useless and unnecessary cooking; how to obtain a maximum of comfort with a minimum of heat in such manner as not to seriously affect the needful supply of appetizing and nourishing food.

First discard the large roasts and heavy boiled meats and such foods as require great and prolonged heat. It is not possible to do away with a certain amount of cooked food for each day; but by careful selection it is easy to diminish to a very great degree the discomfort arising from this necessity. In a large family of meat eaters many consider a roast much cheaper than a steak. Possibly this is true, if the family is large enough to consume a large roast at two meals, for in hot weather meats must be quickly disposed of, if you have but a small refrigerator or ice chest for keeping all your perishable foods. Meats and fresh fruits are quite adverse to each other and should not be kept in the same compartment.

CONFORM TO THE SEASON.

Many of the serious affections that arise during the heated term arise from neglect to conform to, or the inability of the housewife to adapt herself and family to the change in temperature and requirements. Whether the mercury is soaring up toward the century mark or takes a sudden and unlooked for dip toward zero, she will sacrifice time and strength with a courage worthy of a better cause.

SMALL MEATS.

Or those quickly prepared are best when you wish to indulge in meat in warm weather. Steaks, chops, meat cakes and hamburg steaks, rolled flank steaks, cannelons, among the fresh meat dishes, eggs, young poultry and fish will complete a list of all the meats necessary for hot weather cooking. These meats may, of course, be treated in a variety of ways; but there need be no great amount of time or heat expended in their preparation. And what is also a matter to be taken into account, they do not leave a lot of "scraps" that do require some time and perhaps ingenuity to work over into attractive and tasty dishes.

MEAT SUBSTITUTES.

Our gardens furnish several delightful substitutes for meats in hot weather and it would be well for us to consider them more closely and serve them more frequently, especially for the early morning meal, and luncheon or supper; for meat once a day in summer time is quite sufficient. Instead of dropping off the cereal from the breakfast menu, let that be the substantial dish, to this may be added cooked prunes, dates or figs, even when fresh fruit constitutes the first course; as both may be eaten at the meal at this season with benefit. To furnish the necessary fat, serve good cream, either plain or whipped, good sweet butter with your home-made bread, or substitute eggs for the dried fruit and cream and a cup of cocoa. As a relish and to take the place of the usual meat dish, tomatoes, egg-plant or corn may be served in many dainty ways. Cucumbers may also be served same as egg-plant for breakfast or tea dish.

BROILED EGG PLANT.

Cut an egg-plant into half inch slices, do not remove the skin. Dip each slice into a little oil, seasoned with salt and pepper; place them in a fine wire broiler and broil over a clear and not too hot a fire, for ten minutes, five minutes for each side. Place them on a heated dish, garnish with parsley and serve with maitre d'hotel sauce.

MAITRE D' HOTEL SAUCE.

Put quarter of a pound of butter in a small sauce pan; add a level teaspoonful of finely-minced parsley; a little finely-minced thyme and quarter of a teaspoonful of onion juice, pinch of salt and dash of pepper. Stand the saucepan over hot water and whisk smartly with an egg whip until the sauce reaches simmering point. Remove and serve at once.

FRIED EGG PLANT WITH PARMESAN CHEESE.

Peel the egg plant, cut into cubes, scraping out the large seeds. Rub a saucepan with sliced onion, put in a good-sized piece of butter and when melted add the egg plant, season with nutmeg, salt and cook slowly and when done add from half to three-quarters of a cup of the cheese, adding a little cream if necessary. When done, serve on a hot dish, garnished with snippets of buttered toast. Sprinkle a little cheese on top of egg plant.

STUFFED EGG PLANT.

Choose rather small egg plants, wash and dry and cut in halves. Scoop out all the inside except a thin layer next the skin; sprinkle the shells with salt and turn upside down to drain. Chop the part you have taken from the shells. Mince onion, about a tablespoonful to each egg plant, and brown it slightly in a little butter, then add to the chopped egg plant and cook together in a saucepan to cook out the moisture. Add a few mushrooms chopped fine or a little Worcestershire sauce and minced parsley. Mix in an equal quantity of dry bread crumbs, season to taste with salt and pepper. Cook all together a few minutes, then remove from the fire and add the beaten yolks of eggs, two to each plant. Fill the shells, cover the top with bread crumbs, put into a shallow pan, brushed well with oil, and bake half an hour unless shells are small. This makes a nice dish for dinner served without meat.

BROILED TOMATOES.

Scald and peel large firm tomatoes and put them immediately in a cold place. When ready to serve cut them into slices three-quarters of an inch thick or a large tomato in three pieces. Rub your fine wire broiler with a piece of fat bacon, and lay on the tomatoes and broil on both sides until a nice brown. Season with salt and pepper and serve on a hot dish with garnish of cress or parsley.

The tomatoes will keep their shape better if they are not peeled, but do not look so nice. They may be dipped in oil instead of rubbing the grill with the bacon and may be served with a little grated cheese sprinkled over them.

TOMATOES IN CREAM.

Cut the tomatoes in slices without peeling them, dust with salt and pepper and dredge well with flour. Fry them a nice brown in vegetable oil or bacon fat. When done place them on a hot platter. Measure the fat remaining in the pan and to every level tablespoonful add a level tablespoonful of flour; stir until smooth and add half a pint of cream to two level tablespoonfuls of flour and same amount of fat. Stir and cook until it boils up well, season to taste and pour around and over the tomatoes. Serve at once.

CORN OYSTERS.

Take eight ears of sweet corn, score down the center of each grain and press out the pulp. Add two cups of milk, three eggs well beaten, salt and pepper to taste and enough flour to make a batter that will hold in good shape. Drop the mixture by tablespoonfuls into hot fat, brown on both sides and serve hot for breakfast dish.

COLD MEAT DISHES.

There are many who much prefer cold meats in hot weather. While these may require some little time to prepare they may be prepared on days when the temperature does not make even a little fire unendurable and thus provide against another hot spell. Meat dishes which are well seasoned and spiced will keep well in a cold place even in the hottest weather in temperate climates. In climtes when they cannot be kept over a day it were better not to eat meat at all.

CHICKEN IN JELLY.

Select a large, full-grown chicken; prepare it for roasting. Just cover it with boiling water; add a piece of bay leaf, a blade of mace, a small onion, eight whole cloves and a sprig of parsley. Place over the fire and bring to boiling, then stand the boiler where it will just simmer until the chicken is very tender. When done set it cool in its own liquor. Take out, remove, skin, fat and bone; put these back into the kettle again and reduce by simmering for an hour. Then strain off from the bones. Add half a box of gelatine, stir until dissolved. Then cut the chicken into small dice, season well with salt and pepper and a little celery salt; put the meat into an oblong mold and season the jelly and pour over it stirring the meat slightly with a fork so the jelly can mix though it. Set at once in a cold place to harden. This can be served in slices with lemon and parsley or cress or cut into cubes and served as a salad with mayonnaise. By using less water when steaming the chicken and reducing it mare the liquor will jelly without the addition of the gelatine, but requires a little more time.

CHEESE STRAWS.

Take half a cup of sifted flour, add a pinch of cayenne, three ounces of grated Parmesan cheese and a little salt; mix all together and moisten with the yolk of an egg and enough water to make a stiff dough. Knead to a smooth dough. Roll out into a very thin sheet, not more than eighth of an inch thick, cut out a piece five inches long and five inches wide, place on a baking sheet or tin and bake in a moderately hot oven for ten minutes. Do not let them brown. Cut small rings from the trimmings of the paste; bake them and when done and cold slip the straws into the rings making small bundles. Cheese fingers are made from nuff paste cut into strips five inches long and quarter of an inch wide, a little Parmesan (grated) spread in center of a strip and another placed on top. These are baked in a quick oven until done and a light brown.

TOMATO SAUCE.

Put a pint of tomatoes in a saucepan with a bay leaf, sprig of parsley, four whole cloves, slice of onion and blade of mace. Simmer over fire for twenty minutes, then strain.

Put two level tablespoonfuls of butter or oil in a saucepan and when hot stir in two level tablespoonfuls of flour. Stir until smooth and add one cupful of the tomato liquor, a little salt and pepper. Stir until it begins to thicken, then serve. This sauce can be heated over.

WEATHER MARKET

Wheat Trade Closing Watching the Weather Probabilities.

Higher Cables on Resumption of Business at Liverpool.

Dry Weather In the West, Southwest and Northwest.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 29.—News was of a bullish character this morning and the wheat market started out strong and made a further advance. Liverpool market resumed business after a holiday extending since last Thursday and it was higher, wheat there closing at an advance of 1½@1¾d. This naturally had a strengthening effect, which was helped by a continuation of the dry weather in the wheat regions of the West, Southwest and Northwest. The weather predictions however, came in for rain in the Dakotas tonight, and this gave an easier tone to sentiment and the price eased off, and most of the advance was lost. Primary receipts were 358,825 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour were 275,000 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 149 cars, against 202 last week. Chicago receipts, 66 cars, 4 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was active on the Duluth board. July wheat opened ⅛c up at 74⅞c, sold up to 75⅜-⅛c at 9:46, reacted to 75⅜c at 9:47, recovered to 75⅝c at 9:56, fell off to 75¼c at 11:15, dropped to 74⅝c at 11:25, and closed at that price, which was ⅜c in advance of that of yesterday. Chicago advanced ¾c, and Minneapolis, ¾-⅞c.

Cash sales were 25,000 bus at July price.

Corn was off ⅛c in Duluth. May flax was off 2c and September was off 1c. Other coarse grains were unchanged in price.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Considerably Stronger From Various Causes.

Chicago, May 29.—Higher cables on the resumption of business in the Liverpool market, supplemented by a continuation of dry weather in the West, Southwest and Northwest, created a strong wheat market here today. July opened a shade to ⅛@⅛c higher at 74@74¼c, and further advanced to 74¾c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 149 cars, against 202 a week ago, the same day a year ago was a holiday. Local receipts were 66 cars, 4 of contract grade.

Under profit-taking July declined to 73⅝c and closed ¼c lower, at 73⅝@73¾c.

Corn was active and strong. July opened ½@¾c higher at 41½@41¾c on cables and light receipts, and rose with a few reactions to 41⅝c. Local receipts were 450 cars, 62 of contract grade.

In sympathy with wheat, July corn declined to 41¼@41⅜c, and closed steady and ⅝c higher, at 41⅜c.

Oats were steady and active. July opened a shade to ⅛c higher at 28¾@28⅞c, and rose to 28¾c. Local receipts were 213 cars.

Provisions were steady and higher on improved prices at the yards, despite big receipts of hogs. July pork opened 5c higher at $14.67½ and sold up to $14.70. July lard opened 2½c higher at $8.17½, and July ribs unchanged at $7.50.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 29.—The wheat market early was strong on continued dry weather in the Northwest and increasing reports of damage to winter wheat by Hessian fly. The early advance, however, brought profit taking sales and on prediction of showers in North Dakota, the advance was lost. Our advices indicate that while mainly prospects in the Northwest are very favorable, there are sections, particularly in North Dakota, where rain is much needed. From the winter wheat states, however, although weather continues cool and unfavorable for its development, complaints of damage by fly are increasing and spreading. The tendency of news is distinctly against the crop. We therefore advise purchase of wheat for the time being. Cash demand is fair but nothing urgent in this respect.

The corn market was steady and firm. Speculative business is small and a moderate local buying was the cause of the firmness. There is still talk of the effects of cold weather but no alarming reports so far.

The strength in oats is on continued bad crop advices and the manipulated condition of May oats, the latter selling at 31c Local feeling is much divided. Many operators holding that while the crop prospects are poor, the price invites selling. Operations are on the whole not large.

Provisions were steady. The incipient squeeze in May ribs has disappeared and this has depressed the market for ribs and widened the difference as compared with lard. Primary receipts 92,000. Shipment demand continues satisfactory.

THE CROP REPORTS.

Minnesota and North Dakota Need Rain.

The crop reports for the week ending Monday of the Minnesota and North Dakota sections tell of the need of rain in parts of the two states. The reports are as follows:

MINNESOTA.

Dry weather prevailed during the week in the Red River valley; elsewhere there were showers on May 22 and 25, and in a few places on May 24. The temperatures were very low for the season in the latter part of the week, with frosts on the morning of May 25, which seem to have been more severe in central, southern and eastern portions than in the Red River valley, ice having formed at some eastern and southern places. The frost is said to have nipped young corn, barley and tender garden stuff in some exposed places, but permanent injury is not anticipated. While the cool weather has not been favorable to the best growth of corn, it has kept wheat, oats and barley in a healthy condition and promoted stooling. In parts of the Red River valley the grains sown on the spring plowed land are growing finely. In other parts of the state the rains, though not heavy enough to sink very deep into the soil, have been of great benefit. Plowing, flax seeding and some barley seeding are still going on in the Red River valley, but elsewhere all seeding is finished, except some late flax, and corn and potato planting are nearing completion. Early corn and potatoes are up well, and in southern counties they are large enough to cultivate. Timothy, clover and wild grass promise good hay crops. In some southeastern counties barley has been affected by drouth and chinch bugs. Winter rye is in bloom. Apples do not promise a full crop.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The fore part of the week was quite warm, with showers of rain in most sections, but too light, with very few exceptions, to be of any benefit whatever; the latter part of the week was cool, with frosts in all parts; as a rule too light to do any damage, except to gardens and tender vegetation. The week closed with moderately high temperature.

Corn planting is nearing completion, and flax seeding is over half finished; some of the early sown flax is already up, but in the Missouri river counties, seeding has been suspended, owing to the drouth prevailing there, no rain of any consequence having fallen this season. While most of the reports agree that the crop is not suffering, still, with few exceptions, the statement that rain is badly needed comes from all. In the extreme southern portion of the state, good showers fell during the week, and that is the only section where rain is not needed.

Grain that is up generally looks strong and healthy, and in most places covers the ground; late sown grain has not sprouted yet in many places, and will not until the ground is moistened.

BEST THING ON MARKET.

The Boston News Bureau quotes a "student of the steel situation" as having expressed this opinion of the United States Steel corporation:

The United States Steel corporation is the best industrial proposition that has even been placed before the investing public. While I may be put down as somewhat out of tune with the times, I believe that within three years United States Steel Corporation preferred stock will sell at 150 and the common stock at 200.

The common stock will receive a dividend of at least 5 per cent in July and by reason of the earning power back of it I expect the common stock to receive from 12 to 15 per cent per annum in dividends within a period of three years.

The foundation of the United States Steel Corporation is its practical control of the Lake Superior ore deposits. President Schwab recently testified before the industrial commission that the company controlled 80 per cent of the Lake Superior ore deposits and since that time the company has acquired additional ore lands. This places the company in an unengagable position as respects competition.

The Tennessee Coal and Iron company and the West Virginia companies cannot compete with it by reason of the fact that these companies employ different kinds of ore, far inferior to the Lake Superior product.

The United States Steel company is also in a position to command the export trade of the world, for it can turn out a ton of steel billets at Pittsburg for $3.50 per ton, which is less than the English mills can mine and place a ton of coal at their blast furnaces.

Under such trade conditions with the best management in the world and backed by the leading financial interests in the United States, I fail to see how the company can help meeting with great success.

RIOTOUS GIRLS.

Strikers at Handkerchief Factory Make Trouble.

New York, May 29.—The girl strikers at the handkerchief factory of Acheson, Warden & Co., at Passaic, N. J., made a riotous demonstration today. One hundred girls reported for duty, and despite police protection several of them were roughly handled by the strikers. The latter then stoned the factory, smashing many windows. The police arrested four of the strike leaders but lost one of them in a charge from the strikers. The strikers number over 300.

Miners Propose to Enter Into Politics.

Denver, May 29.—An agitation has been begun among the delegates to the annual convention of the Western Federation of Miners, now in session here, with a view to defeating Edward Boyce for re-election as president of the federation. A resolution has been introduced at the convention of the Western Labor union providing that the union shall enter actively into politics. The resolution cites the success of the labor party movement in Montana and proposes the organization of a labor party in each of the Western states. There is also talk among the delegates of extending the union throughout the country.

ADVANCE IN STOCKS

Renewed Buying of Some of the Low-Priced Shares.

This Caused a Rise But Profit-Taking Stopped It.

Close Active and Firm With Some Stocks at Top.

New York, May 29.—Opening prices of stocks were higher, with Union Pacific the feature, 5000 shares of that stock selling at 104 to 106, compared with 102⅞ last night. There were also gains of about a joint for Lackawanna, Wabash preferred, Delaware & Hudson, Northwestern and General Electric. Lackawanna reacted 1⅜ from its opening gain. The market showed much animation.

There was renewed buying of some of the low priced stocks which were in demand yesterday, and in addition various other stocks were absorbed, causing a sharp upward movement. Improvements extended to over a point in Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, St. Paul, Illinois Central, Denver & Rio Grande, International Paper, St. Louis Southwestern and Manhattan. Pressure against the Tobaccos, which lowered them 1 to 3 was without effect elsewhere. Union Pacific reacted to 102½, but was bought heavily at the low level and reached 104½. There were increased dealings in standard stocks and a general advance in prices.

Some of the leading stocks were affected by profit-taking sales and became quieter. Southern Railroad common and preferred advanced 1⅛ to 2¾ respectively. General Electric spurted up 3½, and short buying of Tobacco benefited it 2¼. Denver & Rio Grande rose 2⅝ on late transactions. Lackawanna fell 2 below last night. Bonds were quiet and steady.

Minneapolis & St. Louis extended its rise to 4½. Buying of Southern Pacific carried it 5⅛ over last night. There were gains of 2 points in Canada Southern, Northwestern and Pacific Mail and 1 each in Denver & Rio Grande preferred and National Salt preferred. The close was quite active and firm with some stocks at top prices.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 29.—Cotton opened 2 to 9 points lower under liquidation and short selling; absence of speculative support and weakness abroad July opened at 7.70 or off 40 points from Monday's high point. August declined to 7.25, a decline of 24 points in two days. Rumors that the July "deal" was abandoned and that some 25,000 May and June notices were in circulation, added signally to the weak ruling of the market after the call. Although the July stiffened to 7.73 and August to 7.30, the July rally was of brief duration. The bears were aggressive and directed their efforts chiefly against the August and later deliveries on the theory that July liquidation would easily keep that option down. Late in the morning shorts were disposed to cover as a matter of precaution, tomorrow's holiday here and the Liverpool holidays of next Friday and Saturday.

GAY FROCKS FOR BREAKFAST HOUR

Elbow Sleeves and Open Throats Are Characteristic of Nearly All the Gowns Worn Before Luncheon.

New York, May 25.—Gay little cotton house dresses, whether of plain print, gingham, or percale weave, blossom at every breakfast table these warm mornings and flutter cheerfully about country homes until after luncheon. In many details they are peculiar to this season, for they are unusually simple, and to call them wash gowns is to speak the truth. Another fine characteristic that the wash morning frock has developed this spring is elbow sleeves and slightly open throat that render it a joy forever on the days when the mercury loses its head completely.

Anything tubable is devoted to the work of composing a morning toilet, and because the cotton take the starch and holds it there is a marked preference for prints. There are to be had, as well, the most enchanting brilliant percales that have a satiny luster which increases under the laundry experience, and these last are preferred usually in soft, solid tints relieved by touches of brown or cream batiste across the water they are sending us a truly washable ribbon that is one-half silk and the rest linen, and from England come pongee ribbons in black, cream, pure white and all the soft tones of brown. All these have formed a strong alliance with the cotton brigade, and take their turn at the washtub with the sort of equanimity the so-called wash ribbon never showed. Excepting the wide Liberty satin sash widths, flowered ribbons have found, to put it plainly, that they had no show this spring. A few women, allured by the show window effects that the embroidered and stamped and brocaded ribbons made, took them up, but on the whole the movement toward their establishment as a fashion has been a dead failure.

With a pretty house dress of cotton the shoe that accords is a Cuban heeled slipper of dull surfaced putty-colored kid, having a broad instep flap and square leather covered buckle in front. They make shoes of the same shape in gray and white canvas with steel or black buckles, and indoors they lend the foot an appearance of being most entre deux and tactful applications of ribbon.

FOR MIDSUMMER WEAR.

This dainty French model waist is fine white organdie in horizontal tucks. It has an exquisite design of lace inserted at front, back and sleeves. This design can be repeated in colored material with white lace.

A very, very charming type of crisp morning toilet is an egg-shell white percale pin dotted over in dark and bright blue, yellow, cherry red and green. To this black or variegated ribbons are added, and if the wearer is young and pretty, she will look very like a Dresden china shepherdess.

There seems to be a sort of fashionable passion prevailing for materials that can be starched to board-like stiffness. The really smart damsel does not wear her print morning frock until it has been through the washwoman's hands, and the cuffs and revers and skirts of it reappear as if lined with crinoline. Under her whispering skirts a white cotton petticoat, boasting a two-foot flop and very full flounce is used as a further stay and support. A goodly majority of the prettiest cotton dresses are fancifully flounced, and some of them are overlaid with lines or wreaths of coarse cream washable cluny, from under which the goods is cut away, in order to afford a sight of a brightly colored underskirt of cotton.

The ribbons that chime best with these suits are the louisine, and very soft sheeny Liberty taffeta. From appropriately clad, as it peeps beneath the well starched skirts.

The Cuban heel, which, by the way, is nothing more than the shape of heels seen on all slippers of colonial times, bids very fair to make the long loved and highly injurious Louis XV heel look for another job. Already fastidious and fickle womankind is tossing aside her stilted French slippers to have the slanted Cuban heel fitted to her new shoes. Not only are house and evening footgear appearing in this new shape, but walking shoes are falling into line. The chief charm, of course, of the Cuban heel, is its novelty, and then it certainly does help to minimize the length of the foot, and add to the wearer's height without seeming so cruelly uncomfortable and dangerous to health and sure locomotion as its now vulgarized French relative.

From shoes to negligee is not a very long leap in some of the department shops where they are showing some exquisite lounging gowns contrived from odds and ends of ribbons. Last spring there was an extended vogue for fancy waists and petticoats and things made of strips of silk, herringboned or corded together. That fashion did not at first prove contagious, at least as far as the Americans were concerned, but it has appeared here in a mild and lovely form just as Paris is recovering from its influence.

One pretty breakfast gown shown in a leading store illustrates the advantageous use of three different kinds of ribbons. The body and sleeves of the robe are wrought of black panne ribbon pin dotted in white and allied to plain cream white panne strips. The annexed flounce, the Empire jacket top and the long scarf ends are made of sky blue Liberty satin ribbon of sash width and brocaded over in big pink marshmallow blooms. Nearly all the extravagant summer negligees show a combination of ribbon bands and lace entre deux whipped together, and often enough three different pastel tints are reflected in the narrow lines of silk. A gown so made usually shows the light weight and shining louisine silk and tea colored alenciennes in combination.

A great cause for congratulation among women is the return of the all-over flat lace gown. For something like four years now we have been dutifully wearing elegant robes of the coarser raised laces of satin and silk, wearing them, indeed, until they have become vulgarized, imitated in cheap goods and over done. Now, however, cream, black and dull antique toned Valenciennes, Mechlin, Cluny, Chantilly and Spanish laces have come into their rightful fashionable position, and nothing seems more hopelessly out of it than a Venetian or Renaissance lace robe. The net laces, in short, are placidly elbowing everything else off the lacee counter, and there is a fluffy, flounce fascination about them that the heavily woven types could never show. A few of them indeed, show motifs from the heavier sort applied at intervals to the flat, cobweb-like surface, and some of them have small figures worked upon them in spangles. These, however, are the fantasy effects, and can only be applied by dressmakers of infinite tact and high artistic impulse.

Hemstitching has not worn its welcome out. A number of brides have ordered their lingerie trimmed only with the sheerst hemstitched frills and

SICK HAIR

Few people realize that their hair is sick when it shows signs of failing and that in its feeble way it is crying for nourishment. If your hair is failing or dry or turning gray it is very evident that it is not enjoying good health; therefore, the only intelligent thing to do is to treat it.

Give it medicine and not dye. Dye is a relic of barbarism, and should be shunned by all refined people, aside from the vulgarity of the act. All hair dyes are injurious, and it is an impossibility to make a hair dye that is not, as nitric of silver, lead, sulpher, copper and other poisonous minerals compose their ingredients. Civilization has progressed in the last decade, so effectively that the hair can now be restored to its natural color without dye.

Mme. M. Yale's Hair Tonic

is a life-giving fluid to the hair, and the only remedy on record in the history of the world that has the power to restore the natural color of gray hair. It is a medicine that strengthens and invigorates—giving circulation to the natural coloring fluids and action to the oil ducts. It tones up the debilitated nerve force and STOPS HAIR FALLING in twenty-four hours.

IT CURES DANDRUFF,

makes hair grow on bald heads, softens dry, harsh hair; gives gloss and richness to the natural color, produces a luxuriant growth and is a positive cure for all manner of hair and scalp diseases. Scientifically compounded by the great woman chemist, Mme. M. Yale, after her formula from her analysis of the human hair.

PANTON & WHITE THE BIG GLASS BLOCK STORE DULUTH, MINN.

the new driving veil is made of very crisp, clean silk muslin with a deep hemstitched border. All the best of the country parasols are of pongee brown or pongee cream silk with broad borders of blue, crimson, green or lilac hemstitched on in white. Ribbon wraped handles are the latest novelties in sunshade manufacture. The stick of the parasol is first of plain, polished owod, round and beautifully uniform in size from tip to tip. Over the word ribbons of different widths, texture and colors are braided to form geometric patterns, and at the base of the stick the ends are tied in a full and flowing bow. This gay and conventional device harmonizes well with the taffeta, pongee or satin coverings, but the most costly parasols have handles of ebony and ivory knobbed and braceletted with jewels. From Japan are imported the most exquisitely painted and embroidered parasol tops of silk, satin and silk linen. These, however, are as a rule, far too costly and too beautiful to be carried at any time, save very late in the afternoon, when the sun has lost all power to do the delicate colors any harm. The handles of these are of carved ivory, and sometimes of wood exquisitely treated with delicate silver or bronze inlay.

Bathing dresses of black silk flannel have, in the slang of the street, caught on. Black silk flannel does not shrink; it shines like the coat of a baby seal after a thorough wetting, and, though it does not shed the water as freely as a mohair, it renders its wearers less liable to chills when she steps from the protecting waves. Stout women rejoice in the vogue that black has found on the beaches.

Now that the bathing season will so soon open, the prospect is very fair for the introduction of a brand new and very Frenchy scheme for making an attractive appearance when bound for a dip. A French woman, as every traveler to the Gallic seaside knows, sets a great deal of store by her coiffure when she bathes. As a rule, however, waves are big blundering things and no respecters of pompadours, ringlets and such, so that the fertile French mind has been busy in a search for expedients. It did not take long for the Parisian hair dresser to find out what was wanted, and with ready tact one of the masters of the art has invented a bather's wig. This is made of animal's hair in any color you may prefer, of short or long, straight or curled, coiffed or flowing tresses, and it is all mounted on a waterproof of skull cap that fits over the wearer's head to the absolute exclusion of the salt water.

As a rule French women refuse to tie their heads up in oiled silk caps and red handkerchiefs, rightly insisting that no face could appear to advantage under such severe treatment; and until last summer a great deal of wading and very little swimming was characteristic of the French watering places. Last summer, however, the pretty maids and matrons headed nonchantly into the breakers and came up with their becoming wigs of brown, red, black or golden hair shining bravely.

A few envious American women found out the secret and purchased bathing wigs with which to stir up envy and covetousness at their home resorts. Very naturally these wigs fetch a high price, because they have to be made with the greatest care, and not, as a rule, from human hair, for that cannot stand salt water. The silken hair of Angora goats and of some dogs is used, which accounts for the preponderance of the short, fluffy, curly wigs that are seen.

Numbers of women who either cannot afford or have not yet heard of bathing wigs have adopted this season a favorite French device of having their coquettish silk bathing caps surrounded with artificial curls. By this device one's appearance is preserved from the shorn or bald aspect so many women wear when all the hair is lifted from their faces. It takes about three sets of curls to carry a faithful bather through a season, but the cost and the trouble is counted as nothing beside the preservation of one's reputation for youth and beauty—a reputation so often irreparably lost at the seaside.

Another novelty besides curls and wigs that lighten the trials of the salt water loving women are woolen bathing hose, so shaped that where nature has been stingy in rounding out curves the defect can be admirably remedied. The women who have a keen eye to the details of their appearance are carefully fitted to their bathing hose, and a few are eagerly interested in suits made of figured mohair or silk flannel.

Only the youthful or slender should venture to wear cream or sand white serge suits spattered over with blue anchors or blue mohair covered with figures of various shells in white.

It is a pity, but it is true, that some influence has prevailed to order the ready made and in other respects admirable bathing dress cut too far open in the throat. Women whose taste is above reproach, and who also buy ready made bathing suits, purchase big bright silk handkerchiefs and knot them about their throats to fill up the necks of their suits. The beach is not the place exactly for decollete gowns, and it is a reckless woman who is willing to expose more of her throat than is absolutely necessary to the water's glare and sun's rays.

PRETTY GIRLS

Determined to Close the Saloons of an Illinois Town.

Carlyle, Ill., May 29.—Miss Addie Berry, the 19-year-old daughter of Frank Berry, of this city, has inaugurated a sort of Carrie Nation crusade against the saloons in this, the leading city and county seat of Clinton county. She created consternation among the drink dispensers, visiting every place where intoxicating beverages are sold. The saloons are not kept wide open on Sunday, but a person can obtain entrance via side or rear doors. Miss Berry has assumed the responsibility of putting a stop to this practice. She went into the interior of saloons, pencil and tablet in hand, and leisurely jotted down the names of those who were in the room at the time.

She says she will visit State's Attorney Ford and insist that six complaints be issued against as many proprietors of saloons, on the charge of dispensing liquors on Sunday in violation of the state laws.

Miss Berry started her fight against the drink dispensers last week by having two of them prosecuted for selling liquor to her father, who is addicted to drink. One of them pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $20 and costs. The young lady who has taken such a stand against the saloons is a pretty school teacher and is a determined young woman.

In speaking of her experience, she declared she was a little embarrassed when the first saloon was entered, but after that it was in some respects a pleasure, since she felt that she was doing right. Admittance was not denied her excepting at one place, where a barrel was placed against the door. Later she managed to enter this building.

Machinists on Southern Railway Await Orders to Go Out.

Dissatisfied With Results of Conference With Superintendent.

Men Are Still Hopeful of Success at Cincinnati.

Washington, May 28.—Ninety-seven per cent of the machinists in the employ of the Southern railway have voted to strike for the nine-hour day, and are now only awaiting the order of President James O'Connell, of the International Association of Machinists, before going out. This was the announcement made today by the spokesman of a delegation of machinists, representing the shops of the system, which called on Vice President and General Manager Gannon yesterday. It appears that the members of the delegation were not pleased with the results of their conference with Mr. Gannon, and at its conclusion wired every shop, ordering a poll of the men to be taken on the proposition to strike. The telegram to "poll the shop," which was sent to Charleston, S. C., by mistake, was transmitted "pull the shop." The entire force ceased work at once.

Vice President Gannon has been advised of the action of the men at Charleston. He says that a strike on the Southern will affect 300 machinists. At present he does not regard the situation as serious.

Cincinnati, May 28.—Striking machinists here are still hopeful of success, although no sign of yielding has been given by the larger employers. Altogether, twenty firms, employing 700 men, are said to have settled with their men.

New York, May 28.—At the office of A. M. Waitt, superintendent of motive power of the New York Central railroad, it was said today that no demands from the machinists at Depew or elsewhere on the line of the road, had been received. The officials said they had not heard of any impending strike or any dissatisfaction on the part of any of the men at the conditions prevailing.

Philadelphia, May 28.—Nearly 200 machinists joined the strikers' ranks today. All the men in the testing machine works of Tinius Olsen struck, but a few hours later a settlement was effected and the men returned to work.

Forty machinists employed at the Tabor Manufacturing company's works returned to work today, having been granted the nine-hour day settlement.

A LOOP PURCHASE.

Union Elevated Loop Accepts Offer of Northwestern.

Chicago, May 28.—At a meeting today of the board of directors of the Northwestern Elevated Railroad company and the Union Elevated Loop company, the Northwestern decided to offer the Loop company $125 cash per share for all the $5,000,000 Loop stock. This offer was accepted pending its ratification by the stockholders on Aug. 1. No action was taken in the negotiations for the purchase of the Lake street or Metropolitan elevated roads.

It is announced that more than two-thirds of the Loop stock has been pledged. The Illinois Trust and Savings bank, of Chicago, and Blair & Co., of New York, have been designated as depositories for the stock.

TO DECIDE ACTION.

Metal Trades Representatives Meet For That Purpose.

Chicago, May 28.—Representatives of the National Metal Trades' association are in session here today to decide what action that body shall take at the joint arbitartion conference with a committee of the International Association of Machinists tomorrow. It is said the manufacturers take the ground that the machinists violated the New York agreement when the strike order was sent out, and that, notwithstanding the fact that, as a whole, the local machinists did not strike, they are not entitled to the metal trades' consideration. If this attitude is maintained at tomorrow's conference, say the machinists, it can result in no other action than a declaration on the part of the machinists to make it a fight to the finish.

THREE BULLETS

In His Skull But Burritt Has Recovered.

Charleston, W. Va., May 29.—A strange story was brought by a physician from the Ritter lumber camp on Buffalo creek, Clay county. He relates that during a drunken row a few nights ago Sampson Burritt was shot three times at close range by Peter Stillson in the back of the head. Supposing Burritt was dead, Stillson fled. Burritt was carried to his shack, where later he revived and was soon on the way to recovery. The three bullets had each entered near the base of the brain and each had deflected, and passing around the skull under the skin, had come out in front, without doing serious harm. Two bullets passed around the right side and one to the left. Both Stillson and Burritt are from Kentucky, and had been at Buffalo for a year or more.

Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came as soon as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed. This remedy has also been used in my family for frost bitten feet with the best results. I cheerfully recommend its use to all who may need a first-class liniment." Sold at Boyce's Drug store.

A Household Treasure

Millerstown, Ohio, July 2, 1900.

Wine of Cardui has been a household treasure with us. When I married Mrs. Snapp my friends ridiculed me and asked me why I married a dead person. They said she would not live until fall. She then weighed less than 100 pounds. Now she weighs 145 pounds. She has three boys, the last weighing 9½ pounds at birth and the other two 10 pounds each. That was her exclusive medicine and I am so well pleased with what it has done for her. We are willing to do you all the good we can for suffering humanity. W. H. SNAPP.

Mrs. Snapp has health and children, instead of waiting a slow death amid the gloom of a barren home. Instead of her own cry of pain breaking the silence of a darkened sick room, the prattle of her three children let sunshine into her heart. No wonder her husband writes of Wine of Cardui as a "household treasure". The Snapp family owe to Wine of Cardui all in life worth living for. A healthy mother is the foundation of a happy home. For fifty years has made happy mothers of sick and emaciated women. Thousands of women have written grateful letters with the same joyful ring as this letter from Ohio. The letters tell of freedom from those dragging monthly pains and of complete cures of the worst cases of falling of the womb, "whites" and the terrible headaches and backaches that follow menstrual disorders. They show that suffering the pangs of female ills is unnecessary when Wine of Cardui can be secured. Why do you suffer when such testimony is placed before you? Druggists sell $1.00 bottles.

OIL EXCITEMENT

Breaks Out In Two Kentucky Counties.

Owensboro, Ky., May 29.—The oil excitement has broken out in this section and in both McLean and Hancock counties—McLean lying just south of here, and Hancock on the east. Oil is to be bored for and capital is being attracted to both fields. The boring in McLean is to be done two miles north of Calhoun.

In 1870 a well was bored there under the direction of L. W. Gates, and for a number of years was operated by him on a small scale, but he removed from Calhoun to Middletown, Ky., and a few years ago died there. In his will he left the land on which his well was located, together with other property, to his widow, his third wife, and his children by her, and in a separate paragraph in his will he recounted his experiences thirty years before with this oil property, describing how he worked it and the number of barrels of oil he realized every twenty-four hours while he operated it. His will was admitted to probate, and later one of the devisees under the will brought a suit in the McLean circuit court for a sale of the land, and after some litigation it was bought by G. W. Gates, one of the heirs, who now resides at Richmond. He has induced capitalists to go to Calhoun and examine the property, and so well satisfied were they that oil is there in paying quantities that they have leased the land, together with 2000 acres in the neighborhood and adjoining it, and will proceed at once to develop it.

The owners of the Hancock county oil fields are in correspondence with Pennsylvania capitalists, who are going there to develop it. The oil in both places has been pronounced by experts to be the equal of any in the Pennsylvania oil fields.

AT WEST DULUTH

Following out the plan it adopted several years ago, the Minnesota K. of P. band will have, in the evening of Memorial day, exercises befitting the occasion and, as is always customary, will try to make this event even more successful than those previously attempted. Last year the band held its exercises at the band stand on Bristol street and Fifty-sixth avenue west and the attendance was over 2000. The exercises will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the same place. The idea of the band holding exercises in the evening is that it will not conflict with the observances about the city during the day and people will have more time to attend. The band organization will furnish all the music, has secured a fine list of speakers and if the weather is at all favorable there is certain to be a very large attendance at the exercises. Alderman L. A. Barnes will act as chairman on this occasion and the program is as follows:

Music—"American Guards" ..... Minnesota K. of P. Band.
Prayer ..... Rev. John F. Wilson.
Address ..... Capt. J. Randall.
Music—"War Songs of the Boys in Blue" ..... Minnesota K. of P. Band.
Address ..... Hon. G. J. Mallory.
Music—"American Patrol" ..... Minnesota K. of P. Band.
Address ..... Judge S. E. White.
Address ..... Right Rev. Bishop McGolrick.
Music—"American Overture" ..... Minnesota K. of P. Band.
Address ..... Capt. W. H. Smallwood.
Address ..... Rev. John F. Wilson.
Music—"America" ..... Band and Audience.

FIRE AT ONEOTA.

The West Duluth fire department was called out to Oneota by a fire, between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning. The two-story frame house owned and occupied by G. F. Scott, at 4122 West Fourth street, burned to the ground. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a defective chimney, the family discovering the blaze in time to escape, although the loss on the house and its contents was total. There was a small insurance on the house.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Capt. J. W. Mann too about forty of the teachers and pupils of the Fairmount school to Zenith park yesterday afternoon, after school hours. The excursion was made on the steamer Mary Mann and a very enjoyable time was had. Capt. Mann will take an excussion of school teachers ot Fond du Lac next Saturday.

A party of about a dozen of the school teachers of the West Duluth schools, chaperoned by Mrs. Edward Dormedy, drove out to Fond du Lac last Saturday and spent the day as guests of Mrs. Chapman. They came back reporting a fine time. One of the features of the trip is said to be the horsemanship displayed by Miss Murphy.

The senate club met last evening in a business session and decided to give a private party some time the latter part of June. The club will hold a banquet on Friday evening.

EXTENDS HIS STAY.

Cardinal Gibbons to Remain Longer In Rome.

Rome, May 29.—Cardinal Gibbons has determined to prolong his stay in Rome and he will remain here during the greater part of the month of June.

The cardinal says the appointment of a rector of the American college here, to succeed Mgr. O'Connell, the bishop of Portland, Maine, has not yet reached a stage where any statement can be made. It is understood the cardinal, during the audience he had with the pope, explained at length the views of the Washington government regarding the religious matters in the Philippines.

Cardinal Gibbons is also advising the pope to consider the question of a successor to Cardinal Martinell as papal delegate in the United States, but it is understood the difficulties encountered in selecting a successor are so great that there is little prospect of the early departure of Cardinal Martinelli from the United States.

BACK AT WASHINGTON

Presidential Party Reached the Capital on Schedule Time---Mrs. McKinley Removed to White House and Is Feeling Better.

Washington, May 30.—The train bearing the president and Mrs. McKinley and party accompanying them on the tour through the West ended its journey here at 7:30 o'clock, exactly on schedule time. Mrs. McKinley immediately was removed to the carriage in waiting and driven slowly to the White House. She looked pale and worn, the natural result of the grave ordeal through which she recently has passed. Secretary Cortelyou stated that she was bearing up splendidly. "She has passed a comfortable night," he said, "and is feeling better today. She shows a gradual improvement."

The president has planned to attend the Memorial day exercises at the National cemetery at Arlington today in the event that there is no change for the worse in Mrs. McKinley's condition.

No demonstration marked any portion of the early morning run of the presidential train toward Washington. A few people were gathered at points along the way, but there were none but silent greetings, in accordance with the spirit that has prevailed among the crowds past whom the train has run since the start homeward last Saturday morning. In this city several hundred people lined the sidewalks. A police cordon of a score or more men was early on the scene and stationed at intervals along both sides of the track reserved for the train. Owing to the early hour, perhaps, only a few officials were present. These included Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger, Maj. Pruden, assistant secretary to the president; President MacFarlan of the board of district commissioners, Col. Bingham, superintendent of buildings and grounds. The train was run on to a track in the middle of Sixth street, just outside of the Pennsylvania station, and the presidential carriage was drawn up alongside. The president's team of spirited horses shied at the noise about the depot, and were almost unmanageable. President McKinley was on the platform as the train rolled in and bowed to a few who lifted their hats in silent salute. Some delay was caused by the nervousness of the horses. Mrs. McKinley was removed from the private car Olympia to the carriage in a chair borne by the president and Dr. Rixey, assisted by several others. She was pale, and showed her weakened condition. Several members of the cabinet stood alongside ready to lend a helping hand. Mrs. McKinley was slowly lifted into the carriage and made comfortable. Then to avoid the rough cobblestones of the streets, the crowd was cleared from the smooth stone sidewalk, next to the depot, along which the carriage was slowly driven on the way to the White House.

The members of the cabinet and the others of the party entered their carriages and were driven home. Secretary Cortelyou, who has had the responsibility of the entire trip, and has managed it so successfully, was early astir on the train and was the last to leave it.

It is probable that a meeting of the cabinet will be held tomorrow, Friday being a regular cabinet day. No meeting has been arranged for today.

The president's carriage, on arrival at the White House, stopped at the edge of the plaza, instead of being driven into the regular driveway. This was to avoid the steps at the driveway interfering with the lifting of the chair. An usher stood at the horses' heads as the president and Dr. Rixey, aided by attendants, carefully lifted Mrs. McKinley in a chair and carried her slowly into the White House and to her apartments. Breakfast was served there and later the president spent a few minutes in the cabinet room looking over a few important matters. Dr. Rixey remained for over an hour. As he left the White House he stated that Mrs. McKinley was doing very well.

"Mrs. McKinley is now resting very comfortably," said the doctor. "She is better today than when she left San Francisco. She is, of course, very weak, but she is in no immediate danger. She was considerably fatigued and quite weak yesterday, but today she is feeling better. If there is anything new we will give it out."

Beside Dr. Rixey, Surgeon General Sternberg and Dr. W. W. Johnston, of this city, also will attend the patient. They will give out a bulletin this afternoon announcing her condition.

FACTIONS AT PEACE

Friendliest Feeling Now Exists Between the Hill-Morgan Combination and the Harriman-Kuhn, Loeb Syndicate.

New York, May 30.—Peace has been patched up between the Hill-Morgan combination, according to the World, and the Harriman-Kuhn, Loeb syndicate in the struggle for the control of Northern Pacific road. Friendliest feeling now exists, and an agreement has practically been reached which will prevent any renewal of the strife.

An amicable understanding was brought about through the friendly offices of George Gould and William K. Vanderbilt.

Each side has ceased talking about its respective holdings in Northern Pacific. It is said that the Union Pacific road owns over $59,000,000 in securities of Northern Pacific.

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern, is in the city. He has been in conference with representatives of the Northern Pacific and the Union Pacific ever since his arrival. He refuses to say anything for publication about the conflict.

UNEASY ATTITUDE

Fear Exists In Some Quarters Concerning the Iron Trade.

There Is Evidence That Some Consumers Have Overbought.

Manufacturers, However, Cannot Supply Demands In All Lines.

New York, May 30.—The Iron Age says: The iron trade has drifted into an attitude of expectancy, which in some quarters is verging upon uneasiness. As one of the leading iron merchants in the country puts it, the trade generally fails to realize that the rate of buying is one thing and the rate of consumption is quite another. The buying usually comes in pronounced waves, there having been such a rush this spring. The consumption, which is, after all, the dominating factor, is less subject to violent fluctuation and unfortunately cannot be so quickly and so accurately gauged. The first evidence that consumers have overbought appears in the form either of protests against rapid deliveries or of demands to delay shipments. Applying that to the present situation, the facts are that important consuming interests are rather crowding the makers, often asking for anticipation of deliveries. That, for instance, is true of the Western farm implement makers. Incidentally, this shows, too, that consumers are not carrying large stocks of raw material.

Another proof of the current heavy consumption is furnished by the condition of the export trade. A little incident is cited to throw light on the situation from this point of view. The story has it that one of the large works of the United States Steel corporation was found to be over-sold to the extent of 100,000 tons. The tonnage was diverted to another very large plant, which filled that one in turn to overflowing up to Nov. 1.

The steel rail manufacturers have accepted orders during the current fiscal year aggregating 2,600,000 tons, exclusive of seconds, that being by far the greatest year in the trade. It must be understood, of course, that this total represents all the orders booked for delivery during the year beginning Oct. 1, 1900. A large part of this tonnage has, of course, been delivered, but it is quite clear that the mills will be forced to keep running at top speed to fill their orders, if in fact they are at all able to do so.

Under the circumstances a prolonged lull in buying should cause no uneasiness, because evidently the heavy consumption is progressing right along.

The export trade is very dull in all branches of the heavy iron trade.

MOST BITTER

Is Opposition to Government Canal Bill In German Reichsrath.

Vienna, May 30.—The government's canal bill has aroused bitter opposition, and the debate in the reichsrath, continuing until early this morning, was marked by stormy scenes. The Pan-Germans so fiercely abused Dr. Lueger, who supported the bill, that the sitting had to be suspended, the president being quite unable to quiet the tumult. Prince Von Schwarzenburg, in opposing the bill, declared that the construction of canals provided an open door for foreign invasion, and that it would seriously prejudice agriculture. Finally the Pan-Germans walked out of the house, Dr. Lueger denouncing them as "contemptible traitors to the country."

IS OBSERVED

Memorial Day Exercises in Many Cities.

Graves of Veterans Are Covered With Flowers.

Washington, May 30.—Memorial Day was observed in Washington with the usual ceremonies. The weather, which has been stormy for the past week, was delightful and the exercises at the different cemeteries where soldiers are buried were largely attended. President McKinley intended to go to Arlington to participate in the ceremonies, but as the physicians called at the White House about the time he had set for his departure the president delayed his visit. He expects to drive through the cemetery this afternoon. Secretary Root and Gen. Corbin drove to Arlington in the early part of the afternoon.

Not only were there many contributions of flowers and greens from individuals for the purpose of decorating the graves of the soldier dead, but the resources of the national government were added to these and all of the rich spring blossoms of the botanical gardens, the parks and the other government conservatories were freely placed at the disposal of the decorating committees The public monuments about the city, most of the statues of heroes of the civil war, were draped with a combination of national colors and mourning The colors flew at half mast from the executive buildings and from many private flag staffs The weather had rather unexpectedly turned out perfectly charming. The Grand Army of the Republic, through its local posts was in general charge of the ceremonies, and while a conscientious distribution was made of the forces of this organization between the various cemeteries, Arlington, as usual, was the point of central interest. Israel W. Stone, the department commander, was in charge here and the ceremonies were interesting and affecting. The veterans indulged in their usual short parade before taking electric cars for Arlington.

Arriving at Arlington the procession formed at the principal gateway, while the Fourth artillery fired the national salute. The posts marched directly to the soldiers' graves, first to the tomb of the unknown dead, where the band played a dirge and special committees composed of delegates from the Sons of Veterans, Union Veterans legion, Spanish war veterans and ladies' auxiliaries decorated the tomb with flowers. The graves of the known dead were strewn by willing hands with beautiful garlands, and the ceremonies proper then began at the amphitheater. There was music, instrumental by the Marine band, and vocal by a special memorial choir. Commander Stone called the assembly to order and Department Chaplain Stevens delivered an invocation. Col. John A. Joyce recited a poem "Beyond the Gates of Paradise," and Col. Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, delivered the oration of the day. Miss Etta Stone read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. James A. Frear, of Hudson, Wis., delivered an address entitled "A Heritage."

Though on a less elaborate scale impressive and beautiful exercises were conducted at other cemeteries in this neighborhood, where soldiers are buried. This was particularly true of the Soldiers' Home cemetery, where the manager of the home, Brig. Gen. George D. Ruggles, delivered the principal address. There also was music. At the congressional cemetery Farragut posts conducted the exercises sand the Rev. Dr. Milburn delivered the oration There also was appropriate ceremonies at Glenwod, Prospect Hill, St. Marys, Oak Hill, Rock Creek, Mount Olivet and Holyrood cemeteries, as well as at St. Elizabeth and Fort Stevens. At the latter place, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Brigham and Gen. Thomas M. Vincent were the orators. Members of the Grand Army from Washington also paid special visits to the battlefields of Fredericksburg and Culpepper, and held exercises on the fields there.

St. Paul, May 30.—Memorial Day caused the general closing of business houses in this city today. During the morning the various cemeteries were visited and veterans' graves were decorated after brief religious servics. This afternoon public exercises were held at the Auditorium, after a parade of grand army posts, army and navy unions, Sons of Veterans, National Guardsmen and civic organizations. The principal address at the Auditorium was by Capt. Henry A. Castle.

The services at Fort Snelling were strictly martial and are set for 9:45. Following the decoration of graves and reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, a salute was fired by a detachment from the fort.

New York, May 30.—In spite of wet streets and every indication of more rain, Memorail Day was observed generally throughout this city. The principal event of the day was a parade of military organizations which was reviewed at Madison Square by Governor Odell, Mayor Van Wyck, Maj. Gen. Brooke, Brig. Gen. J. W. Clerb, Col. M. V. Sheridan, eRar Admirals Higginson and Barker and Gens. Francis V. Greene, Anson G. McCook and Martin McMahon.

The parade was made up of G. A. R. posts, discharged soldiers of the Spanish American war, four companies of coast and heavy artillery, with the Eighth band of the artillery corps, marines from the battleships Kearsarge and Massachusetts and the First and Fifth brigades of the National Guard. An interesting feature of the parade was the firing of a salute in Madison Square in front of Admiral Farragut's statue from a gun mounted on a miniature ship carried on a float in the parade by naval post No. 516.

Milwaukee, May 30.—Memorial Day is being generally observed as a legal holiday in this city, all public offices and banks having suspended business for the day. The usual services were conducted at the Soldiers' home. Capt. Joseph W. Sanderson, of this city, delivered the oration at the cemetery. The members of veteran post G. A. R. formed in line at the general headquarters at 10 o'clock and marched to the cemetery, headed by the home band and under the command of Col. Cornelius Wheeler, governor of the home. At the conclusion of the oration an patriotic services, the graves of the dead comrades were decorated by the members of the post. Two ball games between the Washington and Milwaukee American league teams and a matinee of the Gentlemen's Driving club are the storting features of the day.

Des Moines, May 30.—A parade one mile in length of veterans of the civil war and Spanish-American wars was the principal feature of Decoration day in this city. Hon. Charles E. Pickett, of Waterloo, was the leading speaker at the Auditorium exercises. At Woodland cemetery the usual custom of placing floral offerings upon the fraves of the dead was followed, there being 400 soldiers buried there. E. H. Conger, minister to China, delivered the address at Dexter, his former home.

Denver, May 30.—The G. A. R., United Confederate Veterans, soldiers of the Spanish-American war, the state National Guard and other military and civic organizations participated in a parade here this forenoon in observance of Memorial day. During the afternoon appropriate exercises were held in the cemeteries and flowers were strewn upon the graves of th dead. An open air memorial meeting

ROUND UP STRIKERS

Holiday Will Be Used to Get Machinists Into Line to Tie Up Chicago Machinery Plants on Friday.

Chicago, May 30.—"If today were not a holiday the machinists' strike would be in full blast before the manufacturers had eaten their morning meal," said Business Agent Roderick, of district No. 8 of the International Association of Machinists. It is regarded as an advantage by the union men that they have a holiday preceding the strike as all the workmen can be so rounded up in the interval of one day that the tie-up of the local machinery plants will be made practically complete tomorrow morning.

According to the calculations of the union strike leader, Roderick, about 2000 machinists will be involved at the start in the general walkout. This is only half the number of union machinists in Chicago and vicinity. It is claimed by Roderick and others of the union's executive board that the reason the other 2000 will not be affected is because their employers have either signed the union scale of wages already, or expressed their willingness to sign.

Whether the strike of the machinists will involve other lines of labor at the plants where strikes go into force is deemed problematical. All along it has been the claim of the union machinists that a strike by them would result in the complete tie-up of every foundry or workshop under the ban of their strike order. If these claims are made good, the general strike now declared would throw perhaps 25,000 or 30,000 men out of employment in Chicago, as that is the total number estimated in the employment of the local manufacturers who have membership in the National Metal Trades' union.

THE LUTHERAN SYNOD

Two Hundred and Fifty Delegates Are Present at the Fortieth Assembly and Visitors From Foreign Countries.

Des Moines, May 30.—When the first business session of the fortieth general synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church convened today, 250 delegates were present, besides many visiting clergymen from Europe, Africa and India.

Foreign missions will be discussed this afternoon, addresses being delivered by Rev. Luther M. Kuhlman, of Frederick, Md.; Rev. Dr.-J. B. Anerly, of Gunther, Ind.; Rev. Dr. George J. Albrecht, of Rentachintala, Planad, India; and Rev. J. H. Harpster of Gunther, Ind. Among the more important matters for discussion by the synod are:

The movement to change the misionary field from the African coast, and particularly Liberia to the interior for climatic and hygienic reasons: the establishment of an official paper or organ which shall represent the spirit of the general assembly and promote and uphold all of its interests, and, a movement to adopt graded course of lessons in the Sunday schools and to this extent modify the International lesson course.

The report of the board of foreign missions showing that the receipts from all sources during the biennium were $[illegible] 366, and the total expenditures, $[illegible] On April 30, 1901, there was a balance of $2573 in the treasury. The indebtedness at the close of the biennium was $[illegible] which the balance was applied leaving a net indebtedness of $6144. The board also received for the India famine relief fund $23,888, of which a balance of $6941 remains. The board gave in detail its work in India and Africa since the last session of the general synod. In India there was, at the end of 1900, a total enrolled baptized membership of 20,486, an inmrease of [illegible] per cent in two years. No statistical exhibit of school and church work of the African mission was received in time for exhibit in the report. There are nine missionaries in the field regularly organized as a conference.

BUILDING OF WALKS

City Cannot Proceed Until Thirty-Day Limit Expires.

Board of Public Works Preparing For Quick Work.

Injury Claims Due to Defective Sidewalks Increasing.

The delay in building new sidewalks has been the source of sharp criticism throughout the city. As usual the bulk of this criticism has been hurled at the department of public works, yet the department is not responsible for the delay. Under a resolution of the council the city cannot build the sidewalks until the owners of property have been given thirty days in which to build their own walks. The period of thirty days for the first sidewalk ordered by the council does not expire till June 15.

The department of public works has made all necessary arrangements to go ahead with the sidewalk construction as soon as this 30-day handicap is removed. But in the meantime there is vigorous kicking from all parts of the city. The walks are in dangerous condition, and personal injury suits are piling up against the city at a great rate. In fact there is a question if it is not more expensive for the city to adhere to the 30-day provision than it would be to go ahead with the building of the walks.

As a rule the property owners do not take advantage of the opportunity to build their own sidewalks, preferring to have the work done by the city, under the direction of a competent inspector. The average property owners know very little about timber, and it is claimed that very little is saved by individual building.

Last year a great deal of sidewalk built by the property owners during the 30-day period at a considerable saving, for the reason that the city's finances were not in as good condition as this year, and the contractors had to wait for their money. For that reason they charged more.

In connection with the personal injury suits that have been filed against the city, there is a 4-months-old child that has a claim of $250 against the city on account of a defective walk. This young claimant's name is Sif Sigurdson. On May 13 his mother was carrying him along East Fifth street, near Eighth avenue. The sidewalk was loose, and a board tripped the mother. The child was thrown some distance, breaking his leg. This is the youngest person that has ever sued the city.

The property owners in the outlying districts are still objecting to the city's ordering in new sidewalks while stock is allowed to run at large. At present there are no poundmasters at Lakeside, Lester Park or at West Duluth, New Duluth and Fond du Lac. It is claimed that cattle and horses running at large break the walks, and the property owners object to paying for new walks until some satisfactory arrangement is made in regard to poundmasters.

AFTER THEM.

Poor Board to Pursue Deserting Husbands and Fathers.

The St. Louis county poor board is going after husbands who get tired of providing the necessaries of life for their families, and elope with themselves and leave their dependent ones to look to the county for support. This will be under the terms of a law passed by the legislature last winter directed against just such brutes, the terms of which make it possible to creat a very warm atmosphere for such husbands and fathers.

The poor board resolved to take steps to ascertain the whereabouts of such husbands and when they are found to make them agree to support their families or take the consequences. This means something since the last legislature acted, for wife-desertion is a penal offense, punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than three years or less than one year, or in a county jail or workhouse for not more than one year or less than three months. It is provided, however, that upon conviction the husband may give a bond that he will do with his family as he should, and the punishment may be suspended so long as he keeps that promise.

Such action was decided on by the poor board at its meeting last night in its offices in the Mesaba block. About sixty applications for assistance were received, and twenty were turned down. In the cases where aid was refused, nearly all of the applicants have children who are able to support them. Of the forty applicants that were better received about half were from deserted wives, and these will not be cut off unless their husbands can be located and made to contribute to their support.

A large part of the destitution that causes the necessity for county aid comes from deserted wives, and it is expected that energetic measures toward bringing back these recreant husbands will largely reduce the poor expenses.

The board also took action on hospital cases that will help to reduce the expenses. Under present arrangements when a person without means is injured or injured he goes to the hospital and the county pays the bill. That is the end of it. From now on such persons will be required to sign an order on the next employer for the expenses resulting from his hospital care, and it is believed that in many cases the county will be reimbursed.

The overseer of the poor was instructed to make a quarterly report, including an inventory of stock, improvements, values, acres broken, what has been planted, etc. It was decided to purchase all clothing supplies through competitive bids.

HOW DO YOU DO?

When you find yourself saying: "pretty well, thank you, but not very strong;" you are likely to be, as you say, "pretty well;" but getting no good of your food.

If you have money and leisure, take a vacation; the doctor calls it "a change." Which is good.

Almost as good is Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil, instead of vacation. With it is better yet! the doctor is right.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

A WOMAN'S THROAT

Is her fortune if she chances to be a Patti or Albani, and that fortune is guarded day and night with the greatest care. Nothing frightens a singer so much as a cough.

Every woman ought to be afraid of a cough. It is nature's danger signal. Who does not know of some sweet woman-voice silenced forever by disease which began with a slight cough.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will ensure a permanent cure of the most obstinate and lingering coughs. Even when the lungs are involved and there are hemorrhages and emaciation, "Golden Medical Discovery" is generally effective in restoring the diseased organs to sound health and strength. There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

"I am feeling quite well," writes Miss Dorcas A. Lewis, of No. 1129 24th Street, Washington, D. C., "and I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I had been quite a sufferer for a long time, and after reading Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser thought I would try his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had not been sleeping well for a long time. Took one teaspoonful of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and slept nearly all night without coughing, so I continued taking it. I had been a great sufferer for more than ten years. I tried lots of different medicines and different doctors, but did not feel much better. I coughed until I commenced spitting blood, but now I feel much stronger and am entirely well."

IT MUST PAY.

City Required to Settle C. J. Frederickson's Judgment.

C. J. Frederickson won his mandamus proceedings against City Treasurer Voss to compel him to pay a judgment of $342.24 obtained in district court some time ago for work on the Lakewood pumping station. The case came up before Judge Cant on an application for a writ of mandamus compelling the treasurer to pay the judgment, and yesterday afternoon, after the hearing, Judge Cant granted the writ. He also granted the city a stay of two days.

When the question of paying the judgment came up before the city council that body passed a resolution requiring Frederickson to furnish releases for all labor and materials which had been used on the contract. The wording of the requirements was so involved that Frederickson could not comply, so he did not. The treasurer refused to pay the judgment without a proper warrant from the council, claiming that the charter required this. Frederickson began the mandamus proceedings, claiming that the charter permitted payments of judgments under the general law, and Judge Cant decided in his favor.

THE MIAMI.

Will Take the Northern Line Saturday at New York.

From Havana, Cuba, to Duluth, is a long cry, and a longer trip by water, but that is practically the trip the steamship Miami, late of the Peninsular and Occidental Steamship company, and now of the Great Northern railway line, will make between now and June 18.

Perhaps this is not quite right, either. As a matter of fact, the Miami is now in the Newport News dry dock, getting freshened up for service this summer between Duluth and Mackinac island, as the Lake Superior ship of the Northern Steamship company, but she has been in service all winter between Miami, Fla., and Nassau, B. I., and before that between Miami and Havana, so that when Havana is mentioned as a starting point it means the point farthest from Duluth she has touched.

As everybody knows, the steamships North West and North Land, the white queens of the great lakes, will be in service this summer between Chicago and Buffalo, instead of between Duluth and Buffalo, and the Miami will connect with them at Mackinac to and from Chicago and Buffalo for Duluth. The Miami is a beautiful ocean ship with superb cabins and staterooms and is well worthy a place in the line with the "West" and "Land." She was built by President H. M. Flagler of the Florida East Coast road and she is as fast as a hound. Her schedule of 500 miles between Duluth and Mackinac is to be made at a lively clip and she can set a pace for the best of them.

On Saturday of this week the Miami will be formally turned over to the Northern Steamship company in New York harbor and she will then set out on her long trip up the Atlantic coast to Newfoundland, up the St. Lawrence, past Quebec and Montreal, thence through the locks and so on up into Lake Erie and the lakes to Mackinac and Duluth. She will arrive in Duluth on the evening of June 18 and with the Minneapolis Journal's Pan-American excursion party aboard begin her season's work on fresh water.

A picked crew of Northern Steamship seamen will sail the Miami this summer and they will take charge of her in New York on Saturday, but her present captain will be her first officer this summer and her navigator until the great lakes are reached. It's a big task sailing a ship from Havana to Duluth, and if you are interested in the distance to be covered, you will have to take down your geographies and do some "looking up." It is interesting, too, to note that the Miami is the largest ship that can be brought up the canals of the great lakes, being able to clear the shortest canal by just two feet.

WILL ACT IN JULY

Governor to Delay Appointment to Appeals Board.

Intimates That He Will Not Act Until July 15.

Fight Between Two Candidates as Merry as Ever.

Governor Van Sant is understood to have given the intimation that he will take no action with reference to the appointment of a member of the state board of grain appeals until July 15. This means that the fight over the appointment will continue with more or less bitterness until that time and that the friends of each will bring every power they can control to bear on the chief executive.

The fight between A. H. Smith and Edward Pugh is almost as bitter as was that between William Getty and C. Fred Stevens for the surveyor generalship. Mr. Smith is backed by the anti-Willcuts faction. He has other support in very large quantities, but his political strength comes mainly from that quarter, not that he was very strongly arrayed with that faction in political contests, but that he is opposing a man who was strongly identified with the political machine manipulated by Mr. Willcuts. There will never be any conciliatory policy between these factions if present sentiment holds out for the opposition to the Willcuts faction is not content to let the latter have anything at all if it can be helped, that is, anything more than a few small positions in the inspection department. They say that Willcuts and his followers have no love for Van Sant and that they should he shown no consideration. The charge is made that they are even now plotting to get the nomination for Collins a year from now. The Willcuts men, however, scorn this charge.

To a man up a tree it appears that Van Sant may conclude that he has recognized the anti-Willcuts faction pretty well and that it would be good politics to give the other fellows a little something. Mr. Smith's danger lies in the possibility that the governor may take this view of it. He has an enormous petition, the board of trade has taken up his cause and altogether he has about the strongest endorsement of any man who has come before the governor for office. All that may be swept away, however, when it comes to a question of political expediency.

Those who have taken some hand in the fight are convinced that there is much truth in the statement that Governor Van Sant is to at least some extent committed to Mr. Pugh by reason of the fact that his father, Representative Pugh, did much toward killing the bill to take the appointment of the members of the board of appeal from the hands of the railroad and warehouse commission. It is understood that he gave the governor to distinctly understand at the time that he expected value received and that this is the return he is claiming.

THEY LEAVE.

Steel Trust Officials Go to Michigan Mining Country.

The party of steel trust officers returned yesterday afternoon from the ranges, and a conference was held between Vice President Gayley, Capt. A. B. Wolvin, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburg Steamship company, T. F. Cole, president, and Dr. N. P. Hulst, vice president, of the Oliver Iron Mining company. The conference was regarding office room for the United States Steel company's headquarters in this city. The company tried to get quarters in the Board of Trade building, but there was not enough space available there. It is desired, if possible, to have the officers closely associated, but both the steamboat and mining interests require so much room that this will be difficult to secure.

The Oliver Mining company's private car was attached to the South Shore regular train for the East last night. It contained Messrs. Gayley, Clemson, Cole, Hulst, W. M. Jeffery, auditor of the Pittsburg Steamship company and Oliver Iron Mining company; C. D. Fraser, and Manager Brown, of the Pewabic mine, of Iron Mountain, Mich.

The official title of A. B. Wolvin is no longer "captain," but "commodore." He is commodore of the largest single fleet of vessels in the world.

Dr. Day Wins Again.

The final shoot for the possession of the diamond badge denoting the championship of the head of the lakes, is under way at the grounds of the Central Gun club this afternoon. The fine weather and keen competition indicates some remarkable shooting.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Day won the badge for the second time in the last preliminary shoot. He broke twenty-five birds straight. Nelson broke 21; Farrington, 23; Sulter, 21; Marks, 19; Alworth, 23; Storey, 23; Bennett, 19.

To Play at Aitkin.

The Big Duluth Baseball team left this morning for Aitkin, confidently expecting to win from the strong team of that city this afternoon. The Big Duluth organization was considerably changed. Al Cummings the high school pitcher, will do the twirling and Alworth, another high school man, will play second. Olsen, the Superior infielder, will be on third, and two other new men, Walker and Ryan, will play infield positions.

HOODOOED.

An Office In Ohio That No One Will Accept.

Akron, Ohio, May 30.—Maj. C. N. Russell, of Cuyahoga Falls, is endeavoring to find some competent man who is willing to accept a position paying from $700 to $1000 a year. He has offered the position to fifteen different men, all of whom have refused to accept. They have declined the appointment with a promptness that brooked no contradiction.

The office of justice of the peace was recently made vacant by the death of Squire John R. Rosemond, who had several months to serve before the expiration of his term. While holding the position he was stricken with paralysis. His death occurred a month ago. The mayor is required by law to fill the place by appointment. The peculiar spectacle of a position, especially one that pays so well for so little work, vainly seeking a man to fill it has caused a great deal of comment.

Now the cause of the refusals has been apparent. The office is believed to carry with it a hoodoo that frightens away those who would otherwise accept the appointment. The last four who have held the position have died while serving their term. Another was forced to resign on account of ill health after he had served less than a term. All had been in good health when they were elected to the justice's bench. Some of those who have declined have admitted that they feared the ill luck which would follow. Mayor Russell said:

"I dislike the responsibility of appointing any one to the position, but the village must have a justice if I can find one who is willing to accept it."

At the annual meeting of Lipton, limited, Sir Thomas Lipton, the president, was cordially received. An oil gusher of mighty proportions was discovered Wednesday on Terre Bonne plantation, forty miles west of New Orleans. Excitement there runs high and land has doubled and trebled in value.

The United States supreme court disposed of 368 cases during the term which came to a close Tuesday and 280 additional cases were either argued or submitted on briefs. During the terms 401 cases were filed. There are now 308 cases on the docket for next term.

Wednesday their boat was found upturned in the water. No trace of the men has been found and it is believed they were drowned. A high wind prevailed and the boat was probably overturned.

HUSBAND POISONED

That Mrs. Mamie Barnes Might Marry a Wealthy Man.

Hired Negro to Give Insane Husband Poisoned Candy.

Scraps of Evidence of Sensational Nature Are Secured.

Jacksonville, Ill., May 30.—The confession of William Ferguson, that he carried a box of poisoned candy to Dr. J. S. Barnes in the insane hospital at the request of Mrs. Mamie Barnes, the wife, and Mrs. Mary McWilliams, the mother-in-law of the victim, seems, in the opinion of the state's attorney and other officials, to definitely point to the guilty parties. And, as they allege, there is a man in the case. He is the one whom Mrs. Barnes is said to love, and on whose account she is alleged to have desired a divorce from Barnes. He is also said to be wealthy, and it is hinted that the expenses of Ferguson, after his parole from the Chester penitentiary, were paid by him. His name is said by the sheriff to be John Pratt.

In the theory of the state the colored man, Ferguson, who has made a confession implicating the women directly in the crime, was a mere tool. There is no reason apparent why Ferguson should want the insane man out of the way. In the case of Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Williams, however, things were different. The prosecution is said to be in possession of evidence tending to show that Mrs. Barnes wanted to marry a second time if she could get rid of Barnes.

In regard to the anxiety of Mrs. Barnes to be freed from the marital ties which bound her to her insane husband, Mrs. Dale C. Kelley, of Monticello, a sister of the dead woman, is cold as representative of the prosecution that some months ago Mrs. McWilliams, the mother of Mrs. Barnes, made a most significant statement while visiting in Monticello. In the course of conversation she said:

"You know, Mamie is engaged to be married, and she is going to marry well."

"How can she get married while Joe is alive?" someone asked, referring to the unfortunate in the insane asylum.

"Oh, she will get a divorce from him," Mrs. McWilliams is reported to have answered.

"Tony" Gilmer, a Quincy attorney, while talking to a detective, is said to have remarked:

"Mrs. Barnes came to me some time ago and asked me to look up the law and see in which state or territory she could get a divorce from an insane man."

There are other clews which are being followed up. One of them, the police say, has to do with the friendship of John Pratt and Mrs. Barnes. Pratt is a Quincy man, 60 years of age, connected with a telephone company.

The colored prisoner, Ferguson, has said in so many words:

"Mamie loved Pratt and Pratt loved Mamie enough to die for her."

The theory of the prosecution is that Mrs. McWilliams, the mother-in-law of the insane man, was ambitions for her daughter to make a wealthy marriage. To do this it was imperative that Dr. Barnes be got out of the way. The law not permitting divorce for insanity, it is supposed that the plot which resulted in his death was hatched.

The officials have the letter and its envelope which secured the admission of the negro Ferguon to the insane patient. The letter is said to be in Mrs. McWilliam's handwriting, and is signed with the former name of Mrs. Kelley, Dr. Barnes' sister in Monticello. The envelope is said to be in Mrs. Barnes' handwriting.

The officers also have bits of the candy, and they have the strychnine found on the floor, as well as the contents of the dead man's stomach. They have the confession of Ferguson that Mrs. Barnes asked him to go to Jacksonville to take "a few knick-knacks" to Joe, as she had to go to Edina, Mo., on a nursing case. They have a letter written to Mrs. Barnes at Edina by Mrs. McWilliams at Quincy, inclosing a newspaper clipping in which the first hint of foul play was made, but making no reference to the suspicions of the authorities against Mrs. Barnes.

The letter stating that the mother wished to "prepare her for what is coming" and begging her to "brace up," and saying "we know we are innocent," although no charges had been made against them. They have many other bits and scraps of evidence which are rapidly being pieced together and woven into a continuous story, which will soon be submitted to a jury, in what promises to be a most sensational trial.

POCKETED

In His Lung Was the Stomach of This Man.

Newport News, Va., May 30.—An autopsy in the case of Abel Wolf, Indiana student at Hampton normal school, who died Sunday from the effects of a fall received from a bicycle a year ago, disclosed the fact that the boy's stomach had penetrated his left lung, and the two organs had become fast joined.

The post mortem examination was held at the Hampton normal and agricultural institute, and the discovery amazed the surgeons. When Wolf sustained the accident a year ago he was riding his wheel. He came into collision with a cart, the shaft of which struck him in the side. He suffered intensely for a time, but later apparently recovered from the accident.

The examination showed that his stomach had in some inexplicable manner been forced upward through the diaphragm and through the lung. There it became imbedded, and in time the two organs grew together. Several days ago Wolf was taken suddenly ill. His case baffled the physicians. His death also surprised them until the post mortem examination was made.

The officials have the letter and its envelope which secured the admission of the negro Ferguon to the insane patient. The letter is said to be in Mrs. McWilliam's handwriting, and is signed with the former name of Mrs. Kelley, Dr. Barnes' sister in Monticello. The envelope is said to be in Mrs. Barnes' handwriting.

The officers also have bits of the candy, and they have the strychnine found on the floor, as well as the contents of the dead man's stomach. They have the confession of Ferguson that Mrs. Barnes asked him to go to Jacksonville to take "a few knick-knacks" to Joe, as she had to go to Edina, Mo., on a nursing case. IN MEMORIAM

Duluth Pays Tribute to Nation's Heroes.

Addresses By Dr. Long and Rev. H. W. Knowles.

This is the day devoted by law and custom to honoring the fallen heroes of the contest which made this nation one and inseparable, and the home of none but free people. It is a day dear above all to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the men who served with those who sleep beneath the sod. It is to them a day of deep reverence, and it is not to be wondered at that they view with disgust the desecration of the sentiment which created it.

The Grand Army posts of Duluth have always observed Memorial day in a very complete manner, and this year is no exception to the rule. This morning at the Armory patriotic exercises were held, and this afternoon the decoration of the graves at the different cemeteries around the city where veterans are buried is taking place under the direction of details of the posts.

The exercises at the Armory were well attended and were very interesting. The G. A. R. posts met at their halls at 10 o'clock and marched to the Armory. The veterans of the Spanish-American war joined in the exercises, and a large number were present.

The exercises began at 10:30 o'clock and opened with music by the Knights of Pythias band.

Following that, the ritual service of the Grand Army of the Republic was conducted by C. A. Burnham, commander of Willis A. Gorman post. It was very impressive and was said with much feeling.

A quartet composed of Mrs. Cecile Berryman, soprano; Miss Clara Hector, contralto; Cyril Tyler, tenor, and Harry Gearhart, baritone, sang a patriotic number.

Commander E. H. Barnard of J. B. Culver post read Lincoln's memorial address at Gettysburg, prefacing it with a few remarks. He said:

"The high-water mark of the rebellion was reached at Gettysburg. On the hills of that battlefield the columns of the Confederate army broke like the sea in a tempest, but upon those hills stood a loyal army that no assault could dislodge—no tempest dismay. The blood of 28,000 men was poured out there in defense of our country, and the hills of Gettysburg became altars of liberty.

"It was upon this ground that Abraham Lincoln, the martyr president, stood when there to dedicate it as a national cemetery. As I read his words to you let our thoughts go back to that hour that we may be stirred by their inspiration. Mr. Lincoln said:

"'Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war; testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"'But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men, living or dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.'"

The quartet sang another selection, and Dr. Samuel P. Long delivered an address, speaking for the veterans of the Spanish-American war. He said:

"On behalf of the veterans of the Spanish-American war, I wish to thank the members of the Grand Army of the Republic for their courtesy in giving us a place on their program. Dr. Knowles will tell us of the heroes of the '60s who sleep beneath the sod in the South land, or beneath the surging ocean waves, bearing perpetual testimony to American valor and patriotism. But while remembering these, let us also bear in mind the new names added to the roll of honor, the new graves filled with men who have fought on ships and on the isles of the sea, for the honor of the old flag; graves containing the bodies of men whose deeds shall live in the new life given to these islands. Let us, with Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, cherish the memories of these brave men and treasure up their deeds. They sleep beneath the stars and the stripes, and should be revered by races freed from oppression and the liberty-loving masses of the whole world.

"The war with Cuba was especially glorious to American arms, a war undertaken for humanity and brought to a victorious conclusion. To accomplish this the American soldier had for the first time been called to follow his flag in a land far from his own country, and to fight among and for a people whose language he did not understand. Though often outnumbered and with circumstances against him, he did not lose an engagement. While we all agree with the administration's Spanish war policy, some may differ as regards the Philippines; but this should not interfere with the honors that should be shown the soldiers who have followed the flag. They did not form the policy, but, as brave men, they obeyed orders, and under the tropical sun, in the swamps of Luzon, dealing with a most treacherous foe, they have given a good account of themselves; and whether they have died on the battlefield or wasted away in hospitals, we sould honor them.

"Incidentally, it is well to remember that the men who have followed the American flag have not gone far wrong. We, the comrades of these brave men, have a right to be proud of their achievements, and it becomes us to see that the names of those who have fallen in these struggles should not perish from the nation's roll of honor.

"On this Memorial day there will be launched the new battleship Maine, which makes it especially fitting that we should also remember the brave sailors who on that terrible night in Havana harbor gave up their lives, an unconscious pledge that the island should be redeemed.

"When peace came, President McKinley ordered that the bodies of the men who had fallen should as far as possible be gathered with tender care and restored to home and kindred, and many have been brought to their families for private burial, others have been laid at rest in ground sacred to soldiers and sailors in the national cemetery at Arlington, amid proper military and naval honors. Duluth has had the honor to be represented in the movements of the army, and her dead has been returned to her for interment. You have shown your appreciation of the president's action and the honor in which you held the soldiers by receiving the remains with the honors of war, and today you will join in honor their memories by covering their graves with flowers, a pledge of your continual care.

"'Rest on, embalmed heroic dead,
Ye noble and ye brave;
No impious footsteps there shall tread
The herbage of your grave.

"'Nor wreck, nor change, nor winter's blight,
Nor time's remorseless doom
Shall dim one ray of holy light
That gilds your glorious tomb.'"

After another selection from the quartet, the address of the day was delivered by Rev. Harry W. Knowles of Grace Methodist church.

Mr. Knowles, in his introduction, referred to the institution of Memorial day, and said that Gen. Logan, he believed, had the honor of being its promoter. "May it never cease to be among the memorial days of this people while the seasons come and go with the providential fulfillment of God's promise of provision and care for his people, and the spring, with its fragrant and beautiful pledges of resurrection and redemption continue."

He referred briefly to Minnesota's part in the war, but said that the meeting today was to honor no one part of that great army, but the G. A. R. as a whole, and added: "And we will not forget the boys in gray who, though mistaken, were a foe worthy of the steel of the boys in blue. We thank God today that we are one and know no uniform, no country and no flag but one."

Proceeding to his address, Mr. Knowles said:

"I speak today as an American to Americans. This is not the time nor the place to allow personal opinions or sectional interests to interfere with the memories and prior purposes of this hour, dedicated to the memory of the immortal dead, and the honors of the noble remnant of the Grand Army of the Republic. When the nation's life was at stake all other considerations were forgotten in the one great passion and determined purpose—the preservation of the Union and the extension of freedom to all who live beneath the old flag. This is one of the great days of our national life. It recalls the heroism of men and women, in whose hearts the ideals which were conceived at Concord and established at Valley Forge, became the inspiration of the first republic of the world. We cannot permit these ideals to perish. Let them cease to be the hidden manna of our youth's life and the day would come when Lincoln's wish would be an illusion of the past, and this 'government of the people, by the people, for the people' would perish from the face of the earth. Never let this day be perverted or diverted, either by the greed of commerce nor the lust of low pleasure, from its original intention while Old Glory floats to the air and light of God's sky. On this day we may well forget for a time the petty details of life and the foibles of character which belong to common humanity, and dwell upon the higher things which that same humanity has accomplished; assured that, in what it has done we have the pledge of the higher things it will yet do, as it moves irresistibly and grandly to its divinely appointed goal. Let the past give us faith for the future. The Grand Army of the Republic bids us look back with gratitude and to the future with hope.

"There are four appeals to our reverent chivalry which I trust will never appeal in vain to our national consciences. The first is the supreme God, in whom our fathers trusted, and whom we have not forgotten as some have done. He is still the one in whom we trust. When the Grand Army of the Republic faced the thunder of battle—such battles as no men ever faced—it was in the supreme faith that the God of battles was with them. May we never cease to worship and acknowledge the living and eternal God. If we do, we die.

"Holy womanhood is the next appeal to our reverence. It has been said that America is the paradise of women. The American is foremost in his devotion to and his defense of women. American manhood reverences the fifth law on which a nation's duration depends. It is the woman behind the man which has given us that man behind the gun who has awakened the respect and admiration of the world for American valor and chivalry.

"Our flag is the third appeal to our reverence. The old flag which, from its first flutter to the winds of God, has never been lowered to a foreign foe, and which now shelters beneath its protecting folds peoples from Cuba to Canada and from the Atlantic to the gateway of the Pacific, 7000 miles from the Golden Gate; has never had its honor or its intention successfully questioned. That flag is our pride and the hope of all nations who know not but long for our ideals of freedom. Is as far beyond the petty spleen of those little creatures who attempt to defame it and its defenders as God's throne is above and beyond the poor fool who moves like a bat amidst the splendors of God's creation, himself one of God's creatures, and yet declares there is no God.

"Finally, the Grand Army of the Republic appeals to our reverence. There never was an army like it. The story of its daring, its devotion, its quenchless courage, its privations, its patience under defeats which would have broken the spirit of any other army, for they fought on when by the laws of war they should have given up. Candor compels us to add that only the Confederates have ever shown like dauntless devotion."

Mr. Knowles then reviewed briefly the history of the conflict, the dark days when the North was in gloom and doubt, the valiant achievements of the army, the terrible cost of the war, the graves filled with brave sons of the republic, etc.

"Is it any wonder," he continued, "that we have a Memorial day in which to revive the memories of those fateful days and to pay worthy tribute to the gallant remnant of the once mighty Grand Army of the Republic? Is it unworthy of patriotic people to teach the rising generations the story of that famous army, that they shall ever reverence the flag and love their country, and, forgetting not God, be ready evermore to pay the same price for a free and united country the Grand Army of the Republic once paid without reserve? May God, womanhood, the flag and the Grand Army of the Republic never fail to command the reverence and respect of all true Americans. For these feelings and this faith create the sentiment which guarantees the perpetuation of our institutions."

There are four days, said the speaker, which should ever remain on the calendar of holy days. The first is the Sabbath day, which commemorates the origin of the democracy of faith in or the faith which gave us all we dream of when we think of democratic democracy. The second is the anniversary of Christ's nativity, the day which reminds us of the regard which God has for the humblest child and its mother. The third is the glorious Easter of immortal hope, reminding us that death is not the end of things. The fourth is the day of the Grand Army of the Republic, Memorial and Decoration day, the nation's mourning day. He said he noted with great pain the drift on the part of too many to make this a holiday. It is not a time for frivolous pleasures.

"The Grand Army of the Republic reminds us of the vital principles which they gave their lives to preserve and for which we shall ever need intelligent, devoted and sacrificing citizenship. First is the rights of God. In God we trust is not yet a myth. We believe in the rights of God as prior to all, and the base of all human rights. This carries that expansion to which the Christian missionary is the type. I hope I will not offend when I express my implicit belief in the responsible duty of this people to be the evangel of religious and civil liberty to all peoples. I do not pretend to say in what way this mission is to be carried out. God will reveal that in his time and way. But I think we have hints of the way since 1900. And without knowing it that purging of our sin by the sacrifice of the civil war was the preliminary move divine for this nation's apostolic ordination to world wide civil evangelization. Pekin it a later indication of our exalted mission because we put first the rights of God in our constitution and faith.

The Grand Army of the Republic stands, too, for the rights of the nation over any fraction thereof. In the struggles toward the perfect political balance we swing between the extremes of individualism and communism. The larger interpretation of this opposition of the political poles is nation vs. state rights. We settled that question in the contest of '60s. Washington settled the rights of the states and the individuals. Lincoln settled the rights of the nation and of men. No state has rights which conflict with the harmony and welfare of the nation. An the nation must protect the rights of the state and individual. These are fundamentals of our government.

"Thirdly, the Grand Army of the Republic stands for the rights of the state and the individual. It stands for personal freedom limited only by the unity of the nation."

After dwelling upon thoughts concerning the moral drift of the people, etc., Mr. Knowles concluded as follows:

"Finally, there is the first thing for which, I think, the G. A. R. stands. It is the hope of the future. There are grave changes taking place, as the natural incident to international relations, which our fathers knew not of and could not foresee. The perils and privileges and freedom cannot be divorced. Universal suffrage will not be reached by some flowery road. We shall reach our crowning as we have reached our present status, by the way of the Cross. Only by trusting a people with government can they come at last to perfect self-government. There are brain, heart, conscience and courage sufficient in the nation to successfully, and at last righteously, settle all the problems which must be met and solved as we work out our destiny among the peoples of the earth. There will be, there must be, revisions and, perhaps, utter rejection of the old creeds, religious, political, industrial and social. We are now with our faces toward the better country and the new Jerusalem. Have no fears as to the ultimate. The hosts are led by the Grand Army of the Republic, at whose front waves the banner with the strange device. I see the banner planted finally on the sunlit heights of universal peace and prosperity. The place of God's feet is glorious. There is nought to hurt in all the earth. I read the strange device as it waves amidst the glory universal, and it reads: 'God's attained righteousness.' So we bid farewell to Old Glory and the Grand Army of the Republic."

Music by the quartet and a selection by the band closed the exercises.

This afternoon the details are visiting the cemeteries and the graves of the dead soldiers are being decorated. Every grave known to be that of a soldier, whether a member of the Grand Army of the Republic or not, will be decorated. In this work the Ladies of the G. A. R. and Women's Relief corps have given their valuable aid, the collection and arrangement of the flowers being under their care. The detail in charge of the cemeteries is as follows:

For Forest Hill cemetery—J. N. Barncard, E. A. Tyler, L. W. Palmer and A. Daley.

For Calvary cemetery—Jacob Laux and Thomas Brian.

For the Lutheran cemetery—A. Ferguson.

ROAD RACE.

Twenty-One Men Are Entered --- The Handicaps.

Twenty fast men were ready to start in the tenth annual 10-mile handicap road race this afternoon. Eleven were rank outsiders and the Duluth talent has hard work ahead to win out. The handicapping announced this morning seemed to give general satisfaction. The field of starters is not as large as in former years but the enthusiasm and interest in the race was fully up to the standard. The revival in road racing which has been noticeable in the Twin Cities has not reached Duluth.

Henry E. Harris will not referee the race as officially announced. Mr. Harris has come to the conclusion that Memorial Day should not be a day for sports. His successor was not announced at noon.

Young Woman's Labor All For Naught.

There is a story to the effect that a certain young married woman living near the Seventh avenue incline railway was out on the housetop with her kodak during the hilltop fire the other day and was busy for about an hour taking pictures of the fire above and the curious crowds below. When the car broke loose at the top of the hill and came like a blazing streak down the incline, she was in ecstacy over the sight and bravely stayed on top of the house and made two exposures while the car was dashing down the steep incline. So pleased was the lady with her efforts that she could not forbear telling all of her friends of the pictures that she had taken and in her enthusiasm promised to give them all reproductions of the thrilling sights. That same day she developed the films and found blanks in every case. She had forgotten in her excitement to adjust some part of the kodak mechanism that opened the shutter and with all her trouble not an exposure had been made. Just now she is having an embarrassing time explaining to her friends, to whom she promised pictures, "how it happened."

For a Day's Outing.

A party of Duluthians and their families left this morning over the South Shore road for Millbrook, the station at Pike lake, just below Iron River. It is a delightful locality to spend the day with a pretty sheet of water, boats and good fishing. Millbrook can be reached easily by family parties who wish to go out for a day's outing, the train leaving the Union depot at 8 o'clock in the morning and returning at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Strike Is Over.

The strike among the men at the Eastern Minnesota ore docks at Allouez bay is said to be over, and the company is taking back a large number of the old men at the wages paid the new men, $1.75 a day. The men struck for $1.90 a day. They had been receiving $1.65. The force of special policemen that has been kept at the dock since the trouble began is being reduced, and no further violence is expected.

Rise at St. Paul.

The St. Paul papers announce that the butchers of that city have decided to advance the price of meat in that city, owing to higher prices that cattle are bringing. Duluth butchers say that there has been no move made here toward the advancement of the price. In St. Paul porterhouse steak will hereafter cost 25 cents a pound. Roasts of beef will bring 18 cents and other prices are in proportion.

BABY CEMETERY.

Thirty-One Bodies Found In a Cellar.

London, May 30.—A sensation has been caused at Birmingham by the discovery of the bodies of thirty-one infants in a cellar beneath an undertakers' place. The bodies were in various stages of decomposition and huddled together in soap boxes. The establishment was conducted by a widow, who, today, was charged with causing the infants' deaths. The prisoner was remanded.

BOLD, BAD BURGLAR

Frederick W. Eva's House Entered In Broad Daylight.

Believed to Be the Work of a Professional.

Took Considerable Jewelry and Small Amount of Cash.

A daylight burglary—bold and ingenious—occurred yesterday afternoon. The home of Frederick W. Eva, 1613 Jefferson street, was prowled and considerably jewelry and a little money stolen. The value of the missing property has not been ascertained. The police believe the work to have been that of a professional house prowler.

The burglary occurred in the afternoon between 3 and 5 o'clock. Neighbors and others were constantly around the house, and yet the thief entered and got away unobserved. Mrs. Eva was down town shopping.

A man who is under suspicion was seen loafing around the neighborhood most of the day. He was evidently waiting for some person to leave a house. It is believed that he saw Mrs. Eva start down town at 3 o'clock and got into the house immediately.

The front door was opened with a skeleton key. Once inside the thief had the house to himself and he apparently took his time going through it. Each room showed evidence of his presence, but he seemed to want only jewelry and money as he passed over other valuables, and seceral pieces of jewelry with a monogram on.

In Mrs. Eva's room the thief secured a number of valuable rings and a brooch. He found a little money and in searching for more even went to the extent of ripping open the mattress on the bed.

After going through the house the burglar left unobserved and did not trouble himself about locking the door.

This is the first house prowling that has been done in Duluth since the police broke up the Griffin gang a year ago. Incidentally it is about the worthless bit of prowling that has come to the notice of the police department in recent years.

Notwithstanding the number of people that remember seeing a man laying about under trees in the neighborhood all day, there are very few that can give a good description of him.

THE MAY FESTIVAL.

Opening Concert at the High School.

A large and appreciatisve audience was present at the May Musical festival held at the High School assembly hall last evening, and the only drawback to the whole affair was the absence of two of the performers, Mrs. Marie Geist-Erd and E. W. Prophet. Mrs. Erd was ill and consequently was unable to play the 'cello solo which was looked forward to with so much pleasure. Miss Virginia Willcuts accompanied the orchestra.

Mr. Prophet's absence made it impossible to sing the Tonning song cycle in its entirety. Mrs. Berryman, Miss Hector and Mr. Tyler sang three of the twelve numbers very acceptably. An endeavor will be made to have the cycle given tomorrow.

The opening number, "With Sheathed Swords," from the oratorio "Naaman of Costa," was excellently presented and received with great favor by the audience. Miss Rena Smith sang splendidly and Miss Farrel sang Bizet's Gipsy song with good expression.

Mrs. D. H. Day at the piano in the Weber concerto, accompanied by the orchestra, did well.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the numbers necessarily omitted last night will be presented tomorrow evening. The program for tomorrow night is as follows:

Overture—"Rienzi" ..... Richard Wagner
Festival Orchestra.

Duo, from "Romeo and Juliet" ..... Gounod
Mrs. James McAuliffe and G. L. Tyler.

Violin solo—"Fantasie Caprice" Op 11.

MAJ. UPHAM TAKES IT.

Will Have Charge of Barker Dredges.

The dredging of the Superior-Duluth harbor for which Capt. C. S. Barker had the contract, will be carried on by Maj. J. H. Upham, of Duluth. According to the will, Mrs. Barker was to have charge of the dredging affairs and she has just made a contract with Maj. Upram to take charge of the work for a time at least. Maj. Upham was in the dredging business in Duluth for many years and understands it thoroughly. It is understood that the negotiations for the purchase of the plant by interests which seek to control the dredging on the lakes are still on with a good prospect of the plant being sold.

A CONTESTOR.

R. R. Graetz Charged With Being One By Profession.

C. P. Maginnis has filed an affidavit in the United States land office charging R. R. Graetz, an explorer, who hails from Duluth, with being a professional contestor. Mr. Maginnis charges that he makes contesting claims a business and does it for speculative purposes and in the interest of third parties and that this is contrary to the land laws of the country. He files with his affidavit proof of eighteen contests instituted by Graetz in the past nine years. Mr. Maginnis endeavored to enter 160 acres of land as assignee of S. E. Kidd and M. R. Stebbins. His application conflicted with that of J. W. Murray, but the latter subsequently lost through a contest brought by Graetz. Mr. Maginnis then sought to enter the land by right of his previous application, which was in conflict. Graetz claimed the right to enter by reason of his contest of Murrays' entry. Mr. Maginnis thereupon filed the affidavit mentioned and claims that Graetz is not acting for himself, but for third parties. He asks a hearing at which he will endeavor to knock out Mr. Graetz' claim to the land.

IN QUANDARY.

County Authorities Are Puzzled Over Detention of Insane.

A couple of laws passed by the last legislature have put the county authorities into something of a quandry as to what they are to do with insane cases that come up. Luckily there have been none lately, so the matter has not been brought to a test, but when a case comes up it will have to settle some way, and the authorities are not certain what will be done.

In the past, when information of insanity has been filed against an individual who was not fit to run at large, it has been the custom to put the patient in jail pending an examination. This has seemed to be the best way out of the trouble, as there was no other place convenient. But the legislature last winter passed a law prohibiting this. For sentimental reasons it was thought improper to place insane patients in prison, so Chapter 260 of the laws of 1901 prohibits placing patients who are subject to physical restraint by virtue of any information of insanity in any public jail or prison except in case of absolute necessity certified in writing by the probate court.

The law requires that patients shall be placed in a hospital, and if there is no hospital at hand, a private dwelling shall be used. The hospitals, it is said, do not care to handle insane cases, and unless they have necessary preparations their objections are founded upon good reasons. As to private dwellings it has yet to be determined whether there are any owners of private dwellings that will care to take in insane people.

At any rate, no such place has yet been found. As stated, there have been no insance cases in some time, so the matter has not been brought to the pinch. The authorities would like very much to know what to do with the next insane cases that come to hand.

Another matter that was acted upon by the legislature was the detention of patients whose cases may be doubtful. Often information of insanity is led against a persons whose sanity cannot be determined on the first examination, and whom it is necessary to confine for a time. In the past such cases have been kept in the jail, but this will be possible no longer.

The second law referred to provides that the board of control shall have in each city of 50,000 inhabitants or more, a place of detention for such places, that must be either a ward in a hospital or some other suitable place. The expense is to be paid by the state. When the board of control furnishes this place in Duluth, the difficulty will be over, but as yet the board has taken no action, and no place is provided.

Sailor Injured.

John Grond, a sailor on the steamer Fagona, which was loading at the Eastern Minnesota company's flour sheds yesterday morning, fell from the deck into the hold to the bottom of the boat several feet below. He struck on his head and shoulders, and was picked up unconscious and taken to St. Mary's hospital. It was at first feared that his injuries would prove fatal, but this morning Grond is reported slightly improved.

SUICIDE.

Charles Voorhees Throws Himself Under Engine at Swan River.

Charles Voorhees committed suicide by throwing himself under the engine of a special train on the Eastern Minnesota road near Swan River on Tuesday afternoon. The head was severed from the body. The special train was carrying Vice President D. M. Philbin on a tour of inspection of the line. When the train was approaching the crossing near Swan River, the conductor saw a man running toward the engine, and before he could reach the bell cord to stop the train, the man lay down on the rail and was ground beneath the wheels. The train was stopped as quickly as possible and the crew, together with Mr. Philbin, went back and picked up the remains and took them on board the special.

A section crew was working near the scene of the tragedy, and the foreman told the train crew that, when they came to work in the afternoon Voorhees was seen near the crossing and his purse and gold watch were lying on a plank near the track, where they were picked up by the fireman after Voorhees had been killed. The foreman asked him why he left his money and watch lying around like that, and Voorhees replied that it was "just for fun."

A letter, postmarked at Saginaw, Mich., was found on the body. It was addressed to "Dear Papa" and signed "Lizzie." It is said that about four years ago Voorhees was married at Saginaw to a widow who has two sons and a daughter. The sons are working on a drive near Deer River. Voorhees has been working during the past two or three years for the Swan River Lumber company.

LIKES THE EMPEROR.

Gen. Bonnal Indulges In a Little Hot Air.

Berlin, May 30.—To the correspondent of the Associated Press, Gen. Bonnal, director of the French war school, expressed his delight at the splendid reception accorded the French officers by Emperor William and his army at the interesting military sights witnessed. He said: "I have been astonished at the perfectly frank and soldier-like manner and speech of the emperor. Repeatedly the emperor emphasized his gladness because the Germans and French fought shoulder to shoulder recently, not only in China, but in West Africa, thus learning to mutually esteem each other."

The emperor also said to Gen. Bonnal yesterday:

"When you return to France tell your countrymen that here nothing is felt but sympathy and respect for France."

Gen. Bonnal repeatedly said to his majesty: "I am not a diplomatic or a political general."

Regarding the German army, Gen. Bonnal said: "Neither the German nor the French army is the same as in 1870. There have been great improvements in both. Yet each might learn much from the other. Parades, for soldiers, are inspiring spectacles, especially if they are perfectly drilled, as the Germans. But battles are not won by parades."

The Rural Delivery System.

There is more than the prompt delivery of mail in the rural delivery system. It will accomplish many things. It will in a measure solve the "good roads" problem. In order for the system to be operated successfully the roads in the area suggested for the delivery must be good. This is a condition precedent to the establishment of the delivery. In some cases it has been found necessary to discontinue the service on account of bad roads, and it has been noted by the officials in the postoffice department that many of these roads were put in condition so that the routes were re-established. The country people, once having enjoyed the convenience of the free delivery, will exert themselves to better the roads so that the service may not be stopped. The system is being put in rapidly in many parts of the United States, and it is ultimate object of the department to extend it in time all over the United States wherever practicable. In addition to good roads streams must be bridged. It is anticipated that the roads will show a material improvement by reason of the free delivery system. At present the rural free delivery system is supplying 4,000,000 people. There are 3800 routes with 3800 carriers, covering 83,000 square miles. Not longer than six years ago this system was declared impracticable, but today congress is so much impressed with the good results that are being obtained that appropriations will be made without difficulty. The postoffice department is most enthusiastic over what has been done and the rural free delivery is one of the most active in the entire department division.

Germany After South American Trade.

Evidence that Germany is going right after Central and South American trade multiplies. The growth and development of German trade in these countries has been apparent for months and the continued efforts show that Germany is expending more than ordinary effort in that line. Vice Consul General Murphy, at Frankfort, sends to the state department a report of the Kosmos Steamship company, of Hamburg, which shows that the net profits of that company in 1900 amounted to $982,-695, considerably exceeding the amount earned in the preceding year. The company was accordingly able to declare a dividend of 15 per cent. During the year the voyages of the Kosmos company were extended on the west coast of America much farther than heretofore and their steamships reached San Francisco. A failure of crops in Chile materially contributed to the success of the company, as it became necessary to transport large quantities of grain to the South. Under normal conditions it is believed that the line to California will be a success, in spite of competition. The traffic between California and the west coast ports has proved satisfactory, but between Europe and California the trade has been disappointing, also with Mexico.

The annual report of the Hamburg-American line for 1900 shows that it was able to pay its stockholders 10 per cent, aggregating $1,904,000. This company is directly interested in the newly-established steamship company, "Italia," whose one vessel has already established profitable intercourse between Genoa and the La Plata states. A second steamer is now ready for this line. The newly founded Hamburg-North Brazil line has proved self-supporting, but in order to be made more satisfactory there must be considerable improvement at Para for loading and unloading ships. In the past year fourteen vessels have been added to the Hamburg-American line in the South American trade. There have been several consolidations in order to wipe out competition. One of the agreements is with the Kosmos company, which will increase the importance of Germany's commercial influence in South America.

Mobs are generally composed of cowards. A Pennsylvania sheriff recently stood off a mob of 5000 men and prevented a lynching, merely by remarking that he would kill the first man who entered the jail where the object of their vengeance was confined. Not one of the 5000 cared to be the first man.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Placing flowers on the graves of soldiers is an ancient custom. It is related that on the birthday of Alexander the Great certain Greeks visited his mausoleum and placed flowers on the threshold. Planting flowers on graves was a custom in Europe for many centuries. To honor the dead is a natural instinct of the living, and the expression of the public sorrow of Memorial day is a manifestation of that sentiment. This day was appointed as a day of mourning for and commemoration of the soldiers who challenged the admiration of their contemporaries by their disdain of death for the glory of the republic. It was to be an occasion for the decoration of graves, and for the gathering of citizens to hear recounted the glorious deeds and virtues of the brave men who fell in the Union cause. This was the feeling that animated Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic when, in 1869, he announced May 30 as the day on which the graves of soldiers should be decorated. It is a beautiful custom, and it will survive as long as American hearts are kept warm by glorious memories, although there has been a growing tendency to forget the special significance of the day and to desecrate it by outdoor sports and amusements.

It is with a view of changing this tendency that the members of the G. A. R. have inaugurated the custom of visiting the public schools on the Friday preceding Memorial day and addressing the children on the national glory and the demands of patriotism. All will hope that this effort to change the attitude of the rising generation toward the day's observance will be crowned with success.

This is the first Memorial day of the new century, and it shows a people united in love for the Union. At no previous time during the forty years since the war has there been less feeling between different sections of the country. Bitter memories have been effaced, the tears of regret have been wiped away, and the whole country, North and South, stands united beneath the starry banner. It is a happy omen of the perpetuation of the republic.

A REMARKABLE BLUNDER.

One of the wonderful productions of the recent session of the Minnesota legislature was a law requiring the annual election of the directors of public libraries, in cities with less than 50,000 inhabitants. Fortunately Duluth does not come under this provision, but, with the exception of the Twin Cities and Duluth, all the cities and villages of the state do. The act amends section 1426 of the revised statutes, under which most of the public libraries in the state were organized. The law provides that where any city or village has established and maintained a library under this act, due notice shall be given to the voters of the city or village to meet on the third Saturday of July following the passage of the law, and elect nine directors by ballot for the government of the library. Three of the directors shall serve for one year, three for two years and three for three years, and three shall be elected annually thereafter, on the third Saturday of July. It says that the polls shall be open for one hour.

Without doubt this is the most absurd enactment of the last legislature. There are many objections to the law, and hardly one good feature. The absurdity of the thing is more apparent when a city like Winona or St. Cloud is taken into consideration. The law says that the polls shall be open for one hour. According to the present system it is possible to receive and count one vote per minute. That would enable some sixty people to vote at each polling place, with the result that hundreds of people would not have an opportunity to vote at all, no matter how much they wanted to. Then there is nothing in the law, expressed or implied, that legislates the present library boards in the various cities out of office, or which would indicate that the existing boards, duly elected and qualified, would be unceremoniously bounced upon the election of the new directors.

There are other features of the law equally bad, but these illustrations are sufficient to show what an absurd production it is. It is said that the law was passed for the especial benefit of Owatonna, but was made so broad in its terms that it affects every city in the state except Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. It is understood that the state library board will take the matter up with the attorney general and see what can be done to rectify this inexcusable blunder made by the legislature.

A NARROW MARGIN.

By a vote of 15 to 14 the Cuban convention has accepted the Platt amendment with explanatory notes, based upon the personal assurances of the president and Secretary Root. The administration seems to be speculating in small margins just now. By a margin of one-half the insular policy of the government was temporarily sustained by the supreme court, and now by the casting vote of the presiding officer of the Cuban constitutional convention that island is placed in the line with Porto Rico and the Philippines as exploiting ground for the American trust promoter.

By this act the Cubans have placed themselves in the lion's mouth. Had they refused to accept the Platt amendment without a guarantee of free trade with the United States, they would have succeeded in placing their island on the high road to prosperity, but they have given away their inheritance for the empty name of independence. So far as the Cubans are concerned, they have by this act proved themselves incapable of self government. Having the opportunity to secure a market at home for the island's products, they have thrown it away, not knowing its value.

This action will be regretted by the people of the United States who appreciate the value of the sugar industries of Cuba. Annexation or free trade would mean a saving of $15,000,000 yearly to the people of this country. True, the president and Secretary Root have solemnly promised the Cubans reciprocity. But what does that promise amount to? Did not the president, in an important state document written for the guidance of congress, declare that it is "our plain duty" to extend the benefits of free trade to Porto Rico? And did he not at once stultify himself by signing the infamous Foraker act? More than that, did he not bend every energy of the administration to secure a decision from the supreme court favorable to that legislative abortion? The Cubans will find, when it is too late, that the promises of this administration are not always fulfilled.

The Cuban constitution will have to be submitted to the people for ratification. If they are wise they will reject it, unless some guarantee other than the personal word of the president and his secretary of war is given for the future trade relations. The Cubans evidently do not understand the smallness of the figure that the president cuts in this government. Neither do they appreciate the omniscience of congress. They have not read the decision in the Downes case.

MORTGAGE TAXATION.

The taxation conference of the National Civic Federation, which was recently in session at Buffalo, recommended the formation of a permanent organization for the promotion of interstate comity in taxation and tax reform. To this end a committee of fifteen was appointed to secure and distribute information on subjects bearing upon the subject of taxation. Among other recommendations made to the committee was one relative to the double taxation of property. This occurs where real estate is situated in one state and securities based on the same held in another. The conference recommends that in all such cases the tax should be levied where the property is situated.

This subject of mortgage taxation The Herald has heretofore discussed, holding that in all cases where real estate is encumbered, the amount of the encumbrance should be deducted from the assessed value of the property, the equity being alone assessed against the holder of the fee. The amount of the mortgage should be assessed against the holder thereof and made by law a lien upon the mortgage interest in the real estate. In case the holder of the mortgage be a non-resident and fails to pay his mortgage tax, the holder of the fee should be allowed to pay it and deduct the amount from the interest, or, if necessary, the principal of the mortgage. To do away with the general objection to mortgage taxation, that the property is compelled to bear a double burden where the evidence of indebtedness is held in a different state from that wherein the property is situated, comity of taxation between states must allow a receipt from the county where the mortgage is recorded showing payment, to be a bar to assessment where the security is held.

Uniform laws providing for the assessment of all mortgages where they are recorded would be effectual in compelling the mortgagee to pay taxes on his investment, and at the same time would relieve the owner of the fee from the necessity of paying a tax on what he does not own. California and Missouri have already taken up this matter with the most flattering results. Money lenders have persistently fought this movement to tax their securities, and for good reasons. In the first place, the mortgages on Western real estate are taken East and placed in vaults where they were conveniently forgotten when the assessor comes round, but remembered when coupons were due. Others having a better memory and a glimmering of conscience remember them, but are careful to have them held in communities where the rate of taxation is reduced to the minimum. There is a vast difference in the rate of taxation between a growing Western city and a sleepy New England hamlet. A money lender holding securities of record in many Western towns might have to pay as high as 4 per cent on the valuation of his securities, while if he were allowed to send them East to a maiden aunt in Orchard Valley, and there report them for taxation, he could get off with 1 per cent.

That a very small percentage of securities are even reported to the assessors is proved by the difference between the reports of state and national banks of the securities they hold and the amounts which the assessors are able to get from the individuals. Governor Odell of New York attempted to secure the passage of a law to unearth these frauds by making the tax on all securities payable in stamps, which must be attached to the instruments yearly and cancelled. If the stamp tax were not paid the instrument became void. This law would have brought to light millions of dollars' worth of securities in the Empire state which have never been and will never be reported to the assessors. The measure was defeated by the influence of those holding taxable securities. The only way to reach this kind of property and at the same time avoid the objection of double taxation is to assess them where recorded. In other words, regard all securities based upon real estate in any form as an estate in realty and treat it accordingly.

Mr. Guzzler, according to the Philadelphia Record, was talking about his latest conquest. "What does she look like?" asked Wigwag. "Well," replied Guzzler, "she has beer-colored hair, creme de menthe eyes and a complexion like—like a milk punch with an egg in it."

Tolstoi is still talking about the writ of excommunication issued against him by the Greek church. He casually remarks that the fulmination is "illegal, arbitrary, unjustifiable, mendacious and libelous." not seeing, apparently, that it has advertised him anew to all the world.

The difficulties which the supreme court obviously encountered in dealing with the Porto Rican cases again prove that what is needed less than anything else in carrying forward the policy of expansion is a protective tariff, says the Kansas City Star.

The Des Moines News says: "President Schwab of the steel trust will blow in a week's salary for a $75,000 car for his private use." Oh no. Presidents of trusts do not do that. They charge up the private cars to the trust's expense account.

Dr. Mracus Dods, the Scotchman, who will deliver the commencement address at the Ohio Wesleyan university next month, was described by Henry Drummond as the man who had exerted the most potent influence on his life.

Burning the veldt in South Africa to compel Boer farmers to surrender would be like setting prairies fires in the West to drive settlers from house and home. Can that be Kitchener's idea of "civilized warfare?"

No two persons seem to be agreed as to what the supreme court has decided regarding our insular possessions. The court may have to decide what it has decided.

The praises of John D. Rockefeller will be sounded many a time and nft at the Founders' day celebration of the university of Chicago, and they certainly should be.

In military quarters in the Philippines it is not expected that "Aguinaldo shall continue to be prominent in affairs." Why not?

Some person has suggested a joint debate between Missionary Ament and Mark Twain. It would be a drawing attraction.

What will "Old Pease" do if recent discoveries make a few iron barons in his county? Will he quit Anoka?

THE SILENT BIVOUAC.

The following poem was written by Rev. Dr. C. O. Brown, of Chicago, just after a visit to Arlington cemetery, in February, when the ground was buried deep in snow. Of this poem Speaker Henderson, who was himself a prominent soldier, has recently written: "It is artistic, patriotic, and a literary gem."

O! comrades, ye who gently sleep
'Neath the evergreens and snow,
"All's quiet" where, below the hill,
Potomac's waters flow.

"All's quiet" at the front tonight,
And white the ground and chill;
For since the angel sounded taps,
The camp is wondrous still,

"All's quiet" here; the guns are stacked,
The guidons all are furled;
The lights are out, and while you sleep
Peace rules your silent world.

So quiet from no sentinel,
The challenge sharp I hear;
No clarion horn nor rattling drum
Proclaims the foe is near.

But yonder in perspective rise
Majestic shaft and dome
The more than queenly city, whence
The laws of freemen come.

To her your priceless sacrifice
Made sure for coming years.
The powers whose wide expanding sway
Thrills both the hemispheres.

"All's quiet" here; but millions, yon,
Awake the jubilee!
A race with grateful song recall
The price that made them free.

"All's quiet" here; but through the earth
Your deeds reverberate;
Inspiring peoples to arise
And nations to be great.

Hark! dimly come in undertone,
The rhythmic waves of sound,
From the cities to the silences
That in your camp abound.

They are the pulse and throb of life,
Which, like a mighty sea,
Moves on resistless in its sweep
To larger liberty.

And in that boundless life your deeds
Shall live for evermore,
Till deeds of earth, like billows, break
On Heaven's eternal shore.

"All's quiet," comrades, and the snows
That mantle you in white
Are whispering softly to your dreams,
Sleep peacefully tonight.

Softly we tread who marched with you,
So many years ago;
And, marching still, we're coming on
To join you 'neath the snow.

For frosts have touched us, limb and brow,
And snows are on our head
That ne'er will melt until, for us,
The silent tents are spread.

MORRIS AND JUDGESHIP.

Minneapolis Journal: Page Morris refuses to be shoved out of the congressional race in the new Eighth district. He will not admit he has any prospect of being appointed federal judge. At the big Republican banquet in West Duluth Saturday night, the toastmaster introduced Morris with the remark that he would soon be elevated to the federal bench. Morris preceded his speech by saying that he had no assurance from any source that he was to be appointed to the bench, even if the additional judgeship was created, and he had no assurance that it would be created. He thought it too soon to talk of appointees, the office not being created as yet.

The principal reason for the diffidence Morris shows is that he could not be appointed to the bench during his present term of office. Article 1, section 6, of the federal constitution provides:

"No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time."

If congress creates the new federal judge next winter, Morris could not be appointed until after March 4, 1903, the close of his present term. In order to name him for the place, congress would have to postpone the effect of the bill till after that date. Meanwhile another congressional election will intervene. So Morris will not be on the federal bench next year, as he may conclude to take another nomination and resign in case he gets the appointment. At any rate, Morris has served notice that he is still to be reckoned with in the congressional fight, and none of his friends can announce themselves as candidates until Morris gets out of the way. The field will probably be Morris and Bede for several months yet.

Will Carnegie Die Poor.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The chances for Mr. Carnegie to die rich are growing smaller by degees and beautifully. Even a fortune of $300,000,000 is bound to dwindle rapidly when its owner gives it away in blocks of $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 at a time, to say nothing of the frequent smaller donations running up from $25,000 to $500,000. The habit of giving, like others, grows by indulgence and the more Mr. Carnegie gives, the more enthusiastic a giver he seems to be. At the rate he is now proceeding it will require only two or three years for him to dispose of the bulk of his enormous wealth. He is taking a bond of fortune in this matter, for what is given away always stands to the credit of the giver's spiritual bank account.

DAILY STORY.

LOVE'S WARNING.

BY JAMES SIMPSON SCOTT.

(Copyright 1901, William R. Miller).

On three different occasions Maj. Davis paymaster, had stopped over night at Ricardo's ranch on his way to and from Fort Harper, and on no occasion had he observed the slightest thing to arouse his suspicions. It was generally rumored that Ricardo, who was a full-blooded Mexican and had a fierce cast of countenance, was not a squafe man. That meant that he gave aid to horse thieves and stood in with outlaws, and that his abode furnished shelter to fugutives from justice when they were hard pressed. Many things had been spoken to the man's discredit, but nothing had been proved. As the paymaster had an escort of six men he cared less for rumor than for food and shelter and slept as soundly as the fleas would permit.

Maj. Davis was a man of 35, and a bachelor. He was blue-eyed, fair-haired and strong of limb, and on his very first appearance at the ranch a girl whom he did not even see fell in love with him. This was little "Coko," as the soldiers had nicknamed her, who was old Ricardo's daughter and only child by an American wife, who was long since dead. At this time she was a girl of 16, dressed in picturesque garb and a dark-skinned beauty. Besides her there was an old Mexican woman about the place who cooked, washed and did the other work. Many a soldier had drank the fiery pulque of the barroom to the landlord's daughter peeping from the door of the room beyond, and many of the civilian hangers-on praised her eyes and hair and little hands and offered her marriage. She had a contempt for the skulks who were hiding from justice, and if she occasionally smiled at a soldier—a gringo—she yet had that inborn hate of him that no Mexican, be it man or woman, ever fairly conquers. Not until the day Maj. Davis made his first halt and she got a long look at him without being seen in return did she whisper to herself:

"He is a Gringo and an officer, and I am only dirt beneath his feet, but I could love a man like him. I would even be his slave and follow him to the end of the earth. He has a face which tells of a kind heart, and he is big and strong and brave. If my father plans against him I will defeat them."

The major went away in the morning without having seen the girl, but when he came a second time he encountered her in the public room ere she could reach the privacy of her own. He had gathered a bouquet of wild flowers as he walked beside his vehicle for the last mile. Big-hearted, brave-hearted men do this even when adone and far from woman's influence. They were such flowers as little "Coko" had under her eyes and feet for months in every year, but when the major lifted his hat and bowed in a gallant way and presented the bouquet she received it with a smile and a thank-you and bore them to her room with a fluttering heart. It was only like the major to be courteous and gallant, and the rest of the night he never gave the girl a thought. Next morning as he rode away he caught a fleeting glimpse of her and raised his hat and smiled, and turning to the sergeant of his escort he laughingly exclaimed:

"If old Ricardo doesn't keep his eyes open that little coquette of his will find smashing hearts by the wholesale and bringing about a lot of shooting affrays among the fellows who ride this way. She's on the way to become a handsome woman."

"And a bad one, sir, if she takes after her father," replied the sergeant, and there was no further conversation.

Back in the ranch house, however, there were more heart flutterings, a good many sighs, and a feeling of bitterness at her lot. Little "Coko" had surely fallen in love, and as hard as she tried to fight it down, and as often as she told herself that there was an impassible gulf between her and that air-haired officer, she could not conquer herself nor abandon all hope. There came a change in her which both the father and the old woman noticed and commented upon, but they did not hit the key-note as they speculated. The girl had been reared to suspect, distrust and hate, and the idea of her heart being touched never occurred to them. The paymaster would not come again for two months, and the girl was checking off the days and wondering at the slow passage of time, when she accidentally overheard a conversation that dissipated her mood in a moment. Her father was planning with an outlaw to waylay the paymaster and his escort when they next came and possess themselves of the soldiers' greenbacks. She heard the plot in its entirety, and she shut her teeth firmly and whispered to herself:

"I will defeat it, even if it brings death to my own father. I will not do it because it is wrong to do a foul deed to Gringoes, but because it is wrong to kill the Gringo I love and would die for. He does not know it—he cannot suspect it, but I will prove it to him. When I have done so, then—"

But she dared not think of what might lie beyond. She watched and waited as never before, and she planned as craftily as an Apache and carried about with her face as unreadable as a stone. One day a band of outlaws gathered at Ricardo's ranch, held an hour's confab, and then departed to ambush themselves in the mountain pass, up which the paymaster must come to reach the ranch. Two hours after they had departed the girl slipped out of the house and headed across the timber-covered hill to strike the trail below the ambush. It was a walk of two hours and her path was rugged and full of danger. The paymaster had always reached the ranch two hours after sunset, and as she stood on a cliff and looked down upon the trail the sun was lost behind the grim hills and she knew that the escort could not be far away. After reaching the point at which she had struck the trail it had five miles yet of the rough road to traverse.

Darkness gathered quickly after the sun dropped out of sight, and the girl started to descend the face of the cliff and reach the trail. She was half way down when a bush gave way under her grasp and she fell a sheer thirty feet and lay bruised and broken and seemingly lifeless on the flinty road. The escort found her thus when the six troopers and the four-mule ambulance came wearily along.

"It's little 'Coko,' old Ricardo's daughter, sir," reported the sergeant to the paymaster after he had dismounted and investigated. "Yes, sir, it's her sure enough, and she's evidently had a fall from that cliff. Was probably rambling around, and may have been hurt hours ago."

The paymaster was out and bending over the girl and bathing her face when she sighed, opened her eyes and after a moment knew that the escort was around her. Then in painful gasps she told of the plot and the ambush, and as her whispers died away at last and the stars shone down on her dead face the major reverently bent and kissed her forehead and ordered the body to be placed in the ambulance. Two hours later he arrived at the ranch with a forced smile on his face, but with fear tugging at his heart. Old Ricardo came out with cringing servility and began to speak, but the major checked him and said to his men:

"Lift the body of the poor girl out with tender hands and let this old devil work up a tear over it if he can. As for the four dead outlaws, jerk 'em out by the heels and dump them into the first hollow you can find. Poor 'Coko!' I wonder how she came to do so much for us Gringoes."

Porto Rico a Paradise.

Detroit Journal: Governor Allen of Porto Rico says the island is a heaven, where a man may lie in a hammock, pick bananas with one hand and dig sweet potatoes with one toe. This makes real wicked the conduct of those who have tried to starve on the island and, failing, have gone to Hawaii.

As the ticket is pretty large, he has summoned some of his Tammany subordinates to go to England to receive instructions as to the few matters of detail.

Outclassed.

I loved a maiden and proposed,
And she at once said "Yes."
We married soon, and settled down
To life-long happiness.
At least that was the way I thought
That it was going to be,
But pretty soon I had my doubts,
For we did not agree.

She chose to rule and so did I,
We could not both be first.
One of us was compelled to yield—
And that is not the worst.
Her will, I found, outrivalled mine,
A termagant was she.
I thought at first I'd married her,
Not much! She married me!

Passing of the Pen.

Philadelphia Bulletin: The action of the New York board of education in ordering the abandonment of the system of "vertical handwriting" in the schools of that city has attracted comparatively little attention. The truth is that handwriting has assumed a far lower place in business pursuits than it occupied a few years ago. The great bulk of mercantile correspondence is now conducted by means of the typewriter, and that useful machine is steadily pushing its way into the realms of authorship and newspaper work as well. There will always be a demand for neat and legible penmanship in certain occupations, but in the great majority of pursuits this no longer exists, although as a personal accomplishment, apart from business uses, it is of course eminently delrable.

The Wrong Head.

HEADACHE DISTRESS.

Those That Suffer from Headache and Can Not Get Well Take Cascarine.

Suffering men and women, why is it that you go on day after day with that horrible feeling in your head? Why is it that you will persist in taking headache powders and other injurious articles, which in time, instead of curing you, will ruin your health and make you an invalid for life? The cause of you headache and depression is in your stomach and bowels. They are out of order and need repairing. What you need is a tonic which will stimulate the liver, improve the appetite, dissolve impurities from the body and purify your blood. Every man and woman who has headache should buy a bottle of Cascarine and follow the directions on the bottle. In a short time they will notice a decided improvement in their health. They will feel better all over; more ambitious, more vigorous and considerably happier. Cascarine is made from roots, barks, herbs, plants and berries, and is nature's true remedy. It is not a new thing nor a wonderful thing, nor do the discovers claim anything remarkable for it. It is a simple remedy for those who suffer from consumption, biliousness, headache and other similar diseases. At your druggist, 50 cents per bottle, Rea Bros. & Co., Manufacturers, Minneapolis, Louisville and New York.

We will send free to any address a valuable booklet on diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and one week's sample treatment, for 10 cents in stamps to cover postage.

ARE AFTER THE TRADE

The Merchants Do Not Like Thomas E. Hill's Warning.

They Want to Get Returns For Money They Donate.

Their Idea Is to Run Excursions From Towns Nearby.

The business men of Duluth are talking of the excursion business more actively now than they ever have before and they are talking it from a business standpoint. The matter is being thoroughly canvassed among them at the present time, and if they can be brought to see that it is to their interest to act in harmony and take hold of the excursion business as an organization, or association, a meeting will be called at a very near date to take more definite steps toward forming a business men's league and organizing for a systematic campaign.

The warning of Thomas E. Hill, secretary of the Duluth Improvement association, to the effect that by making the fact conspicuous that the merchants of Duluth want excursionists to come here so as to get their trade, they will antagonize country merchants and newspapers, does not appeal to the merchants. They ask what is the use of their contributing to bring people here if they are not to get any benefit from it?

The merchants claim they have been putting up their money for excursions into the city long enough, without getting return for it, and they say that, without exception, they have not received value for the money they have spent to get visitors to the city. With them it is a business proposition, for if people are to be brought to Duluth to see the city it should also be with a purpose of getting their trade, for in that way only will the city really get any benefit from excursions.

The plan talked of is the formation of a league of all the merchants in the city, each to contribute toward a sinking fund such a sum of money as he feels able to give. After a sinking fund has been provided for a committee can then wait on the different railroad companies and ask them to run low fare excursions into the city on Saturday or some other weekday, from some outlying district within a radius of 150 to 200 miles from this city, to be under the auspices of the business men's league. The railroad company would require a guarantee of a certain number of passengers, which guarantee the association with a good sinking fund could easily provide for. As an instance, a merchant said yesterday:

"Why not make a fare of $1 from Ashland, or from Tower, and a correspondingly low fare from the intermediate points? Such a rate would bring from 1500 to 2000 people into the city, and the idea is to have the excursions start early enough in the morning so that the people will have plenty of time to do all the trading that they care to and then visit points of interest in the city, returning to their homes at night. This plan is being worked in other cities in the country, and it is being worked successfully, the merchants getting the business that they wish to reach in every case. In some instances the merchants give a rebate of a certain per cent on purchases so that a visitor buying a suit of clothes or making some other good purchase, will save his fare. I do not say that this would be the best plan to adopt, but give it as an instance of what the business men are doing in other places to get the trade."

One complaint that the merchants have to make about the usual run of excursions to Duluth is that they are brought from a long distance and the people that come are those who are out for sightseeing, pure and simple, and will spend their money in their own town. All this, they say, is well and good for the railroad company, the hotels, restaurants and the street railway company that takes the crowds about to the points of interest, but the merchants that have helped to contribute toward this entertainment feel that they have received no return. The trouble is, they say, that the class of people that come here on the long distance excursions are not the people that are reached by the local daily papers and only in those localities that the Duluth papers reach can the merchants hope to see the people become familiar with their advertisements and interested in the bargains that the stores have to offer to visitors coming to the city to do shopping.

The Duluth papers have a liberal circulation in every town and city within a radius of over 100 miles from the head of the lake and it is from the people that read the papers and become familiar with the stores that the trade will come. Said one of the merchants, yesterday, who is interested in the excursion business:

"If an excursion could be given under the auspices of the business men of Duluth, the papers would be interested in taking up the matter, not only from a news standpoint, but a few days before the excursion was given the papers could get up an excursion edition to send out to reach every home in the towns from which the excursion would come. In this excursion edition the merchants could advertise their bargains, taking the amount of space that they could afford. The people would read these editions with interest and come to the city prepared to do their trading. It will easily be seen that this is a business proposition and every merchant would be putting his money to advantage, for it is through the newspapers that the merchant must reach the people."

The idea of the merchants is to have numerous excursions from the nearby Wisconsin towns, the ranges, from the Fosston branch of the Eastern Minnesota, in fact there is hardly a limit to the districts that could be reached. A business men's league could plan to have excursions during the season when merchants have the stock of goods to dispose of, and the excursion business could be dropped during the months when there is little trading to be had. The idea of the business men is not to work against the plans of the Duluth Improvement association, for they say that the excursions from the distant points are all right, and it is a good thing to bring the people here for a good time, and to advertise the city, but at the same time it is a better idea for the business men to get up the excursions nearer home.

The only thing that is likely to discourage the excursion movement on the part of the merchants is a lack of harmony, for those that are interested in it say that all the business men must join hands in the matter regardless of personal feelings, for the benefit of their trade, or there can be no success. The business men do not take much stock in the statement made that they cannot afford to antagonize the country merchants, as they would most certainly do in a move of the kind planned. They say that the manufacturing and business concerns of the Twin Cities come after the business of Duluth, yet some of the local merchants feel hurt over the matert. They look at it in the light of a business proposition, every man for himself and get all the business that he can.

It has been suggested that if the Duluth merchants combined to form a league for the purpose of going into the excursion business, the business men of West Superior would be very likely to adopt a similar campaign and try to get the business of the excursionists. One of the local merchants, who is very enthusiastic over the matter, said yesterday that an organization of Duluth merchants would have nothing to fear from West Superior and would be in a position to give them the hardest hustle that they ever experienced if they attempted something along the same line.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The secret service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters set things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of strength and vitality, and restore vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

SUMMER SCHOOL

To Be the Best Ever Held In Duluth.

Opens July 8 and Will Continue Eight Weeks.

Prospectus Gives Teachers and Enumerates Their Qualifications.

The state summer school for teachers at Duluth is scheduled to open on July 8, and will continue for eight weeks, ending Aug. 8. Efforts are being made to make the session this year one of the most successful ever held, and those in charge say that the prospects are good for a large attendance, much interest being shown among the teachers. This is the fourth season of the summer school in this city. The summer school affords all the teachers of the country schools as well as those of the city schools an opportunity of reviewing the several branches taught in the public schools, and the instruction is given under the direction of experienced teachers who know on which subjects to place special emphasis. The summer school also aids those who desire state certificates, and is on the whole a most valuable opportunity for all those desiring a few weeks of thorough review. The temperature in Duluth is such during the summer months that it is not difficult for the teachers to spend a portion of the summer months in studying. Excellent provisions have been made by the state department for a staff of instructors. The prospectus, which will soon be issued, will say:

"R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of the city schools, will be the conductor. Under him may be pursued the subjects of pedagogy, civics, psychology, etc. It is his aim to make this the banner year for the Duluth training school. All who attend will no doubt be influenced by his enthusiasm.

"Superintendent Frazier of the Waterville schools, a wideawake school man, begins his first year in the Duluth schools. To him has been assigned geography and kindred subjects. Those who have the pleasure of working with him speak in the highest terms of his careful, thorough, systematic and definite presentation.

"Superintendent Reed, of Cloquet, will take the subjects of language, grammar and history. A portion of the last named may be assigned to Superintendent Frazier, or some one of the instructors, as it may be impossible for Mr. Reed to take charge of so much work. Of Mr. Reed it may be said, although he is one of the younger of the superintendents, he is fast taking a leading position. His acquaintance with language and grammer is such as to make him almost an authority upon how these subjects should be presented in the public schools. At the Lake Superior Teachers' association he presented a very valuable paper on the subject of language, which was most favorably commented upon by all who attended. As these subjects are among the most important pursued in the summer school, we have no hesitation in promising to those who take up the subject a most profitable season of work.

"S. A. Foster, for several years superintendent at Two Harbors, Minn., and for the past year connected with the Duluth high school as teacher of mathematics, will have charge of the mathematical work. Mr. Foster is a thorough master of his subject, and knows how to meet the difficulties of the student, and is on the whole a clear, definite and logical instructor. The school is certainly very fortunate in having his services.

"Concerning Miss Mary Gardner, another instructor who has charge of the primary or model school, it is not necessary to speak, since she is so well known because of her long service in the schools and her thorough and exceedingly satisfactory work. Teachers desirous of coming into contact with the latest and best methods in primary schools will be highly benefited by working under her.

"A. T. Park, county superintendent of St. Louis county, has also consented to give object lessons in nature study, lessons that will be thoroughly helpful to the teacher. Of Mr. Park we can say that while connected with the Duluth high school, he was especially strong in science, and his thorough and intimate knowledge of the subject cannot fail to arouse interest on the part of the student.

"In conclusion it may be said that a large attendance of both city and county teachers is anticipated. Particulars with reference to courses of study, etc., may be obtained from the conductor, R. E. Denfeld, high school, or from A. T. Park, county superintendent of schools, Manhattan Building."

EASY FOR McGOVERN.

Had No Trouble In Putting Out Herrera.

San Francisco, May 30.—Terry McGovern had an easy victory over Aurelia Herrera last night at Mechanics' pavilion. There was never a time at any stage of the game that McGovern did not have the ambitious aspirant for championship honors at his mercy and from a disinterested standpoint, it looked very much as if he allowed Herrera to stay for four rounds and then put him out early in the fifth. While McGovern rained blows on his man at all times, it was not until the beginning of the fifth that he put his strength and weight behind them. The end came quickly after that as at the first lead of the right and left on the jaw Herrera went down for the count. He came up gamely to go down again. The last time he was unable to get on his feet at the end of the count and was declared out.

AT CLOQUET.

Rumors of Gold Find By Sauntry-Cain Company.

Cloquet, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—A good deal of repressed excitement is manifest among the "gold seekers" in Carlton county just now. Rumor has it that the Sauntry-Cain company has struck something rich. At any rate this firm has recently purchased some thousands of acres in the towns of Atkinson and Twin Lakes, belonging to the Paine estate. A contract has also been let, it is understood, to Dave Scott, of Thomson, to operate a diamond drill in certain localities. Charley Brown says "it is a sure enough find."

WAS IN A TRANCE.

Two Year Old Boy, Supposedly Dead, Revies.

Philadelphia, May 30.—After being in a state of trance for nearly thirty-six hours, Mr. Bishop's 2-year-old son Christian opened his pretty blue eyes and smiled upon the anxious face of his mother who was bending over his crib.

Christian went to bed at his usual hour Saturday evening, apparently in the best of health. When Mrs. Bishop awoke yesterday morning she was horrified to find his body still and cold. She placed her ear to his heart, but no heart beats were audible. A watch crystal placed at the mouth was not moistened. He was apparently dead.

Mr. Bishop was about to make arrangements for the funeral when some one suggested that a physician be called in. When Dr. Melcrisch arrived he thought his presence unnecessary, but in a perfunctory way applied some measures which to the joy of the parents resulted in the body showing signs of life, and now the little fellow is all right.

IS OBSERVED

will be held this evening under the auspices of the G. A. R.

Detroit, May 30.—Memorial day dawned bright and beautiful in Detroit and Eastern Michigan in delightful contrast to the cold rainy weather of the past week. In the morning committees from the various G. A. R posts and other patriotic societies visited the cemeteries and decorated the graves of the soldier dead. This afternoon a battalion of the Fourteenth United States infantry stationed at Fort Wayne, the local companies of the Michigan National Guard, various important military companies and the G. A. R. posts paraded from Grand Circus park through the principal down-town streets to the Light Guard armory, where the Memorial day exercises were held.

Philadelphia, May 30.—Memorial day was fittingly observed by the local G. A. R. posts. The veterans of the civil war, many of them maimed and feeble, visited the various cemeteries and there paid their annual homage to their fallen brothers in arms.

Not alone were the graves of these departed heroes decorated with spring flowers, but at each burial place visited by the old soldiers, special religious and patriotic exercises were held. The floral display was probably the most elaborate that has ever been seen in this city.

The principal exercises were held at Keneseth Israel temple, under the auspices of Col. Fred Taylor post. United States Senator Boyes Penrose was the orator of the day. The tomb of Robert Morris and the pews of George Washington and Betsy Ross in Old Christ church were decorated by Pennsylvania reserve post, and the grave of the latter was looked after.

Cleveland, May 30.—Memorial day exercises in this city, were on an elaborate scale. Following nearly a week of steady rain the day dawned with bright sunshine. The war veterans in large numbers proceeded to the various cemeteries early in the day and decorated the graves of the dead. Two plants together with two bouquets were placed on each soldier's grave. At noon, the veterans met at the Central Armory, where appropriate and impressive exercises were held.

The parade in the afternoon was participated in by many civic and military organizations. It was reviewed by Mayor Johnson and other officials from a stand in front of the city hall.

Omaha, May 30.—Memorial day was observed as a holiday throughout the state. In this city, at 9 o'clock this morning, a national salute was fired from guns captured in the Spanish war, followed later by another at Forest Lawn cemetery, in honor of the dead of the First Nebraska regiment who lost their lives in the Philippines. In the afternoon a parade of the G. A. R. and other military organizations of the city marched to Hanscom Park, where exercses were held by local posts of the G. A. R. and the Women's Relief corps, and a salute was fired in honor of the unknown dead. Business generally was suspended.

Chicago, May 30.—Business was suspended today in honor of the memory of those who fell in the civil war. Almost perfect weather favored the observance. Services were held in every cemetery in Cook county, and the graves of 5000 warriors were decorated with garlands of flowers prepared by the school children of the city.

The feature of the day was the parade of 1500 veterans, the G. A. R. Memorial association of Cook county, state troops led by Governor Yates and staff, the Illinois naval militia, various civic organizations and thousands of private citizens. In front of the Art institute the parade was reviewed by Governor Yates and staff, Mayor Harrison and regular army officers delegated to represent Gen. Otis, who was absent from the city.

For the first time citizens of foreign birth generally observed the day by decorating the graves of natives of their respective countries who fought for their adopted home.

At Rose Hill a monument was unveiled to the old board of trade battery. The principal address was made by President Warren of the Chicago board of trade.

For the first time in years, Chicago bowed to the will of the veterans of the war in respect to sports. The time honored Chicago road race was forgotten. In its stead was run the century bicycle contest under the auspices of the American century wheelmen's organization, but the event excited little interest. The start was made at 5:30 a. m. with fewer than 100 entries.

BLACK CAT DID IT.

Caused Destruction of a House By Fire.

Columbus, Neb., May 30.—The evil influence of a black cat has brought to ashes the fine country residence of George Walradt, near this place. The animal was a stray which the family had adopted for luck, and had been fed and groomed until its coat shone like velvet. Notwithstanding this hospitality, the feline retained the predatory traits of the days of its vagabondage.

After the family had left the supper table the ill-bred animal sprang upon the table, and in reaching for a juicy morsel, upset the kerosene lamp. Hard work on the part of the family and the neighbors resulted in the salvage of a portion of the household goods in the part of the dwelling furthest from the flames. There were no facilities for fighting fire, however, and the building was burned to the ground, with a loss of $5000. The black mischief-maker has not been seen since the fire.

New York, May 30.—The thirty-fifth annual regatta of the Harlem Regatta association took place today on the Speedway course on the Harlem river. OBELISK DEDICATED.

Sioux City, May 30.—A beautiful obelisk erected on the bluffs overlooking the Missouri river in memory of Sergt. Charles Floyd, of the Lewis and Clark expedition, was dedicated today with impressive ceremonies. Floyd laid down his life Aug. 20, 1804, in the wilderness which he was assisting to explore.

AN ORATOR.

Custodian Thomas Brian Develops Hitherto Unsuspected Powers.

The Colbyville public school had a flag raising yesterday afternoon, which was attended with many patriotic exercises. The scholars gave an interesting program, and planted flowers and trees in honor of the event.

Thomas Brian, custodian of the city hall, who was powder monkey on the famous ship Kearsarge when it captured the Alabama, was the orator of the day. In the course of his interesting address, Mr. Brian said:

"And this great civil war cost dearly. Thousands of lives were sacrificed. Thousands of men left their wives, children and parents, not knowing that they would ever see them again. Thousands never came back, and in every cemetery in the broad land there are graves of the brave men who died that others might be free, and that this country might be one that we would be proud of every time we looked upon the flag, that means so much to us.

"Do you wonder that we remember those brave men that gave up their lives? The memory of our comrades is very dear to us, and it should be to you. Once a year, when the flowers begin to dot our fields and perfume the woods, we mark the almost forgotten mounds by strewing them with flowers, and we also honor their memory by speaking of their deeds of bravery and loyalty. We put our flags at half mast to show our sorrow, and in every school throughout the country some old soldier is detailed to explain these things to the children, so that in years to come, when we have been laid at rest with our old comrades, this beautiful custom may not die out, and that you and those that come after you, will show, by these little acts, something of the love and respect that we all owe to those that died in making the United States a country of freedom."

TO PLAY BALL

City Hall Attaches Become Fired With That Ambition.

Here is a ball team that is faster than a streak of chain-lightning. It hails from the city hall and will flash athwart the baseball horizon next Saturday afternoon in a game with the court house team. Every man is either a "phenom" or a wonder. Owing to the heavy hitters it has been found necessary to make ground rules. Balls smashed over the centerfield fence at Oneota park are only good for three bases unless dropping 100 feet east of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern tracks, when a home run will be allowed. All ore trains will be held in the yards at Proctorknott during he progress of the game, the railroad company not caring to take chances on having its rolling stock wreck.

Health Commissioner Robinson will be behind the bat, where he will hold Comptroller McCormick's puzzling twists and slants in quarantine. Hoyt, an expert accountant, is to play first base, though it may be necessary for him to consult several other expert accountants in keeping track of the score. Walter Johnson and Farrell of the engineering department will play second and third respectively, and Ed Manheim of the water department will play short. Ed Jensen, the hard-hitting court officer will be in left; Jack Ross, clerk of the municipal court, who made his baseball reputation catching trout, will play center and John Connolley, stenographer, will be out in right.

The substitutes are: Judge Gearhart, Noble Sampson, William Butchart, Alderman Frank Schaffer and Joe Sheehy.

TERMINALS.

President Earling and Other Milwaukee Officials Viewing Them.

President A. J. Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, accompanied by a party of the Milwaukee officials, arrived in the city this morning in the president's private car, attached to the rear of the Northern Pacific train from St. Paul. Accompanied by Superintendent E. L. Brown of the Northern Pacific road, the party immediately took a special train and is making a trip over the Northern Pacific terminals in Duluth and Superior. It is said that the visit has no special significance otherwise than a desire of the officials of the Milwaukee road to learn more of the Northern Pacific company's terminal facilities and the improvements that will be made on Garfield avenue and the St. Louis bay front in the way of dockage and trackage. The visit of the Milwaukee officials was entirely unexpected, and Commercial Agent F. E. Otis of the company was out of the city today.

REMARKABLE

Is Ayres-Bonine Tragedy at Washington.

Strange Mystery That Baffles the Police.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ayres-Bonine tragedy of Wednesday, May 15, is in many respects the most remarkable crime-instance on record. No case outside of the pages of Edgar Allen Poe, Conan Doyle or perhaps some French writer of mysterious murder fiction furnishes a parallel.

At about 2 o'clock on Wednesday morning, May 15, three pistol shots were fired in a fourth-story front room of the Hotel Kenmore, in sight of the United States capitol. The Kenmore is an old-fashioned house, of a severe, perpendicular exterior on North Capitol street, set in among a row of more or less pretentious dwellings. It is five stories high, painted white, with a large, convenient fire escape reaching from a balcony in front of the second story to the roof. Most of the people who live there are employed in the government departments. Many of them are young men and women holding clerical positions in the census office. The place has the aspect and atmosphere of a class of large boarding houses on the hotel pattern typical of the Capital City.

The shots were heard by at least two persons, a man named Baker, who tenants a house adjacent to the Kenmore, and a young woman, Miss Minas, who occupied a room on the fourth floor next to that from which the report of the pistol emanated. Her room is on a hall. It is separated from that occupied by James Seymour Ayres by a door, which was locked and screened by a portier, and against which stood Ayres' iron bedstead. This bed was near the door which gives access to the hall. Baker, on hearing the shots, got out of bed and opened a front window and looked out. He could distinctly see the fire escape against the bright glare of an electric arc lamp, which lit up a portion of the street. Looking up in the direction from which he imagined the shots proceeded, he asked:

"What has happened up there?"

He heard a reply. It seemed to be made by a woman, who said:

"There is nothing the matter here."

Baker paused at the open window a while, his head resting against the casement. As his eye swept over the surroundings he suddenly became conscious of something moving on the fire escape. He looked up and saw a woman. She was apparently coming from the fourth story and was going down the fire escape with her face toward him, one hand on the railing, the other holding up her dress. She was dressed in a dark skirt or wrapper, and her hair was hanging down her back. He could see to her knees, as she held up her skirt to prevent it from entangling her feet. It was too dark to distinguish the face. The apparition deliberately descended the iron steps of the escape, and having reached the balcony on the second floor, where the parlor is located, disappeared through an open window into the house.

The vigilant Baker saw and heard nothing more, and under an impression that there were some strange doings at the Kenmore, but with no idea of murder or bloodshed, complacently pulled down his sash and resigned himself to another installment of the much-needed repose.

Miss Minas was awakened out of a sound sleep by the shots next door to her, and was thrown into a state of shapeless terror by cries for "help" and a series of moans. There was no sound of voices, however. Nothing to indicate a struggle or display of human passion, uncanny influence of a terrible tragedy, and then silence. Witnesses say there was a wide crack in the door between the room and that of the young man next to her. She did not look to see what had happened. Woman-like, she barricaded her door and looked out of the window on the street, in hopes of seeing one of the firemen of the engine house across the way and calling to him. But there was no sign of life in that direction, and the street was deserted. She was in a state of hysterical fright. She knew something dreadful had happened in the next room, but made no further attempt to learn the facts.

That apartment was occupied by young Ayres, a census clerk, 21 years of age, who was studying dental surgery at the Columbian university. He had been appointed to a place in the census bureau by Representative Weeks of Michigan, and had lived at the Kenmore for some time. He was popular and a favorite with women. The next day was set for his departure from the Kenmore. He had thrown out hints that the temptations were too great there; that he must go to some lodgings where he could pursue his studies undisturbed. He had also intimated that he anticipated "trouble" in getting away from the hotel from some person unnamed.

Miss Minas saw no one descending the fire escape as she looked out for help, and in a shiver of terror awaited the developments of the day to come.

The guests gathered at breakfast the next morning with that sense of depression that comes of the vague consciousness of some intangible horror. Young Ayres was not among them. It was probably 8 o'clock before the subject of the unusual noises of the night were brought under discussion. A lad in the house was the first to begin the subject. Then several joined in the talk. The absence of Ayres excited comment. A policeman was summoned.

The officer ascended the stairs to the fourth floor. The door of Ayres' room was found bolted from within. The policeman burst it open, and an indescribable scene lay unfolded before the gaze of the little group in the hall. On the floor lay Ayres in his undershirt, dead. A pool of blood told the story of his death. The disordered condition of the room and the attitude of the dead youth indicated that a struggle had preceded his violent end. On a trunk lay a blood-covered revolver. On a bureau lay a little heap of unused cartridges. On the white window-sill was the impression of a bloody hand. A woman's fan lay on the floor.

Here was a mystery of crime to stir the pulse of the professional manhunter. It froze the blood of the onlookers.

Yet the first impression to go forth was that the Kenmore had been the scene of a suicide. It was not until Mr. Baker described the events of the night, and Miss Minas contributed the narrative of her frightful experience, that the thought of crime found lodgment in the minds of the public. Every tenant of the house was at once under suspicion. The mystery deepened by the conclusion reached by the detectives that Ayres must have been murdered by a man, physically his master, as the result of an unequal contest of strength, resulting in his death. The portier had been pulled from its hangings. This was afterwards explained—eight days afterward—by the admission of the policeman that he had pulled it down, and explains why Miss Minas could not have looked into the room through the crack in the door. The evidence of a desperate struggle was plain—the blood on the revolver, the disturbed condition of the room, but more than all, the position of the body itself. The legs were covered with bruises.

Among the tenants of the Kenmore was a slight, sweet-faced, woman of engaging manners, Mrs. Lola Ida Henry Bonine. Her husband is a traveling man for a wholesale drug house in Chicago or Detroit. He has been in the habit of coming to Washington to visit his wife and two sons at the Kenmore at intervals of several weeks, sometimes oftener. He had last paid them a visit on May 12. He was formerly a druggist at Richmond, Kan., and is extremely near-sighted and in danger of losing his vision entirely. Mrs. Bonine's sons are 15 and 13 years old.

She was a general favorite at the hotel. The fear of her husband's prospective loss of sight inspired her with an ambition to educate herself in medicine and provide for her family in case her husband's case became serious enough to demand his retirement from business. She was the moving spirit of the social life at the Kenmore. She organized card parties and hops among the guests and their friends. She took an interest in the young people of the place. Some of them went to her with their little troubles because they found ever an active sympathiser in her. She and Ayres had been good friends until a day or two after March 4, "inaugural night." Then they had a quarrel. Ayres accused her of having spread scandal gossip about him, and they apparently met as strangers until the day preceding the tragedy, when they made up again. Their estrangement had lasted upwards of two months.

There was a dance at the Kenmore the night of Tuesday, May 14, at which Mrs. Bonine and Mr. Ayres were present. About midnight the young man went to his room with a friend named Burns. He had promised to give Burns his old trunk, as he had gone to the hotel to take lodgings elsewhere the next day. What occurred in Ayres' room between the time that Burns left him and 2 o'clock, when Baker and Miss Minas heard the reports of the pistol, is a matus that may explain things still shrouded in mystery.

The theory of suicide upset by Baker and Miss Minas was succeeded by a theory that Ayres, having maintained intimate relations with a woman, was surprised by an outraged husband, who had entered his room and killed him. The theory then took the channel that the woman had escaped by the fire escape after the man had been admitted to the hall by her and she had bolted the door.

Who, then, was the woman?

Baker failed to identify any of the female lodgers of the hotel as the one he had seen descending the fire escape. Miss Minas knew nothing of any woman in connection with the events that transpired in the room next to hers the night of the tragedy. Yet the evidence was unmistakable. Baker was a credible witness; in the room lay a fan, and the impress of the hand on the window sill was conclusively that of a woman.

The detectives were baffled but dogged. They took up their quarters at the Kenmore. They worked day and night. They kept a searching eye on every woman in the place. They watched Miss Minas and they shadowed Mrs. Bonine. Not one of the guests was exempt from the suspicion that she might be the one.

Mrs. Bonine was among those who gathered at the breakfast table on Wednesday morning with her children. She heard the events of the night in the Ayres room discussed by the boarders and saw the policemen summoned. But there was no betrayal of emotion. Nothing in her outward appearance indicated that she knew aught of the night's dark secret.

There is an annex to the hotel proper of only three stories. This annex is painted the same color as the main building, but is remote from the fire-escape. It connects, however, with the hotel, and is part of it. Mrs. Bonine's rooms were on an upper floor in the annex. Halls connect one house with the other.

Days elapsed in fruitless search for a clue. Whoever had entered Ayres' room that Wednesday morning and participated in the tragedy was in the house. The detectives knew it, as did the whole public, for by this time the case was celebrated and the exclusive topic of conversation everywhere. The guests of the hotel were under a frightful strain. Several women were on the verge of collapse. Miss Minas was heard to scream in her sleep, as in her dreams her mind wandered to the night of the tragedy and she lived over again in vivid fancy the dark mystery in her neighbor's room. Every woman was examined. There were rumors of the estranged relationship between Mrs. Bonine and Mr. Ayres. There were those who thought it might furnish some clue to the door. Mrs. Bonine was cross-examined by the detectives. Her former relations with the dead man were spoken of. She met the detectives more than half way. She opened her closets and told them to examine her dresses and clothing. She showed them a dark wrapper she was accustomed to wear and which Miss Minas had said she wore that night, after the dance, when she was at her room for a few moments' conversation. She wanted them to satisfy themselves and acquit her of any suspicion.

Thus time wore on until Monday, May 20, precisely six days from the night of the tragedy, and the mystery was as far from being unraveled as ever. Ayres' father had come from Michigan. The inquest had been held, and the coroner's examination was under way. Miss Minas testified having known Mrs. Bonine to go to Ayres' room at various times. A locksmith testified having been asked several times to repair the lock of Ayres' room at the solicitation of Mr. Warfield, the hotel owner, and having seen Mrs. Bonine there. Ayres had thrown out hints that he must have the lock repaired to keep people out of his room who were annoying him. Mrs. Bonine did not testify, but the inquiry developed that she had received Ayres' permission to visit his rooms to read his medical books.

On Monday afternoon, six days after the killing, nothing tangible had developed. It was evident, however, that such evidence as was elicited by the official inquiry connected Mrs. Bonine in her relationship to Ayres sufficiently, though far from conclusively, to bring her more prominently into the case than any other woman in the Kenmore.

At 4:30 o'clock on Monday afternoon a message flew over the telephone wire to a prominent newspaper from its reporter at police headquarters that Mrs. Bonine had made a confession and admitted having killed Ayres. The report spread like magic. Every paper bulletined it, and by 5:15 extras were on the street confirming the news.

Mrs. Bonine has said nothing to her husband of her purpose. It was expected that she would be asked to testify before the coroner's jury. One of the detectives had impressed her with the necessity of making a statement to clear her of the suspicion gaining ground that she had knowledge of the crime. Under this pressure she had intimated her desire to make a statement to the police. A carriage drove her and her husband to police headquarters. Mr. Bonine had arrived on Saturday, May 8, at the hotel, ignorant of the fact even that some one had been killed at the Kenmore.

Mrs. Bonine was ushered into a private room, and there, in the presence of the chief of police and the district attorney, related the story of the killing, as has been widely published.

Mrs. Bonine, in her confession, states that Ayres came to her room at about 2 o'clock, when she was asleep, and asked her for some medicine to ward off a chill; that she searched for some bromo-quinine in her boys' room, and finding none, so informed him at the door while he stood in the hall. That he then placed his arm around her and begged her to come to his room to talk over their recent unpleasantness and adjust their differences; that he returned to his room while she dressed herself and then proceeded to follow him there. That as she entered the room, he bolted the door, and, pointing a revolver at her, said: "I guess you will listen to me now." She thought at first he was not serious, but he grasped her and she ran to the window leading to the fire-escape and fell over her wrapper. A struggle thereupon ensued for the possession of the pistol, in which Ayres was killed. Mrs. Bonine circumstantially described the encounter in the room, and the examination failed to shake her statement in any particular.

The police are not satisfied that the whole has been told, but their most diligent efforts thus far have failed to develop any thing calculated to cast doubt upon her story. An impression prevails that a third party was concerned in the killing. Ayres had had athletic training, and Mrs. Bonine is a slight woman, weighing not quite 100 pounds. The conclusion is that either Ayres was fatally shot before he could defend himself, and made a weak struggle until he died, or that a stronger person than Mrs. Bonine had a hand in the tragedy.

Mrs. Bonine said that she owned a pistol about a year ago, which she gave to a waiter at the hotel. This part of her story was confirmed, and leaves the inevitable conclusion that the revolver was Ayres' property, thus going far to prove that Mrs. Bonine entered the room unarmed, and that the pistol may have been produced by Ayres for the purpose alleged.

In favor of the theory of a deliberate murder are the facts that Mrs. Bonine entered the room at 2 o'clock in the morning; that the occupant was a young man in the prime of his strength and vigor; that three shots were fired, each of which entered his body and resulted in his death; that she left the room by the fire-escape and for six days concealed the fact that she knew anything of the event. Testimony having a lateral bearing on the presumption of her guilt is the statement that she was frequently seen in Ayres' room; that they had quarreled; that Ayres had hinted at the prospect of trouble when he should leave the Kenmore and had asked to have his door repaired in order to protect himself from the annoyance of persons who troubled him.

In favor of the presumption of her innocence of intentional crime are the facts set forth in Mrs. Bonine's confession, with the evidence in her favor of having borne a good reputation in different parts of the country. As a general proposition, the boarding house gossip concerning her may safely be eliminated from calculation unless tangible corroborative evidence is produced. Such gossip, common everywhere, is aggravated by the conditions of a Washington boarding house, where a degree of freedom of intercourse, not to say license, is characteristic more or less.

Public opinion is divided. By one part of the public Mrs. Bonine's guilt is unquestioned; by another her case is stubbornly upheld. The loyalty of her husband to her in her great predicament is gaining sympathy for her. The discrepancy of the ages of the two principals is pointed out, as is the fact that she is the mother of two boys, one of whom is within six years as old as the victim.

The absorbing element of the case is the superhuman nerve displayed by Mrs. Bonine during the terrible ordeal following the tragic occurrences in the little 6 by 12 room, from the time she left Ayres' presence to the day of her confession.

"The consciousness of my innocence alone has sustained me," she remarked after her arrest. And many are putting faith in her confession.

The authorities admit that they have no evidence other than the voluntary admissions of Mrs. Bonine. The absence of witnesses to the tragedy, and the absence of any discoverable motive for a deliberate crime baffle their ingenuity of attempting to fasten the charge of murder upon her. If she goes forth a free woman in a comparatively short time there will be few who will be surprised.

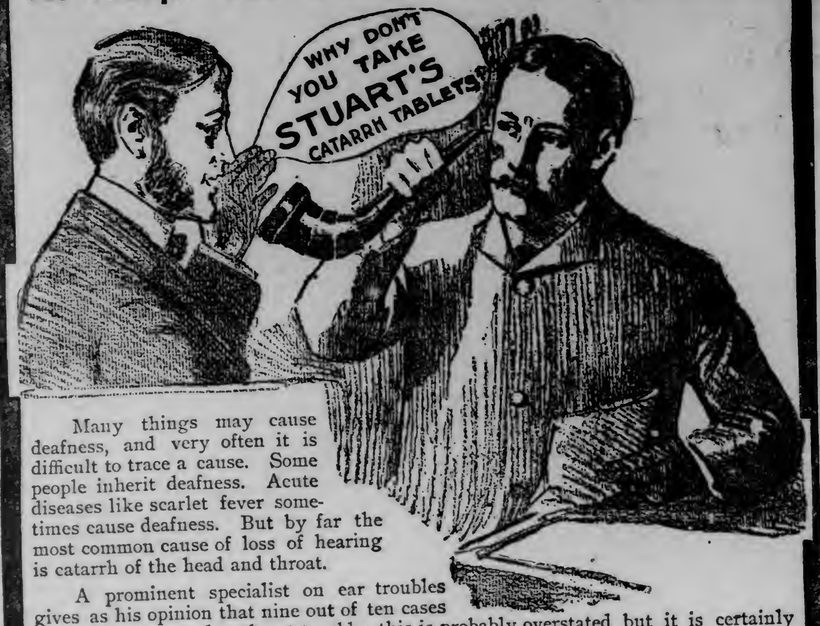
WHY? IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST!

WHAT CAUSES DEAFNESS.

The Principal Cause is Curable but Generally Overlooked.



Many things may cause deafness, and very often it is difficult to trace a cause. Some people inherit deafness. Acute diseases like scarlet fever sometimes cause deafness. But by far the most common cause of loss of hearing is catarrh of the head and throat.

A prominent specialist on ear troubles gives as his opinion that nine out of ten cases of deafness is traced to throat trouble; this is probably overstated but it is certainly true that more than half of all cases of poor hearing were caused by catarrh.

The catarrhal secretion in the lungs and throat finds its way into the Eustachian tube and by clogging it up very soon affects the hearing and the hardening of the secretion makes the loss of hearing permanent, unless the catarrh which caused the trouble is cured.

Those who are hard of hearing may think this a little far fetched, but any one at all observant must have noticed how a hard cold in the head will affect the hearing and that catarrh if long neglected will certainly impair the sense of hearing and ultimately cause deafness.

If the nose and throat are kept clear and free from the unhealthy secretions of catarrh, the hearing will at once greatly improve and anyone suffering from deafness and catarrh can satisfy themselves on this point by using a fifty cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new catarrh cure, which in the past year has won the approval of thousands of catarrh sufferers as well as physicians, because it is in convenient form to use, contains no cocaine or opiate and is as safe and pleasant for children as for their elders.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is a wholesome combination of Blood root, Guaiacol, Eucaluptol and similar antiseptics and they cure catarrh and catarrhal deafness by action upon the blood and mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

As one physician aptly expresses it; "You do not have to draw upon the imagination to discover whether you are getting benefit from Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; improvement and relief are apparent from the first tablet taken.

All druggists sell and recommend them. They cost but fifty cents for full sized package and any catarrh sufferer who has wasted time and money on sprays, salves and powders will appreciate to the full the merit of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

A MARKET FOR FRUIT

Germany Presents an Inviting Field, Says Consul Hughes.

Few Preserves Put Up In United States Found There.

Canning Firms Should Have Depots In Interior Cities.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—A recent communication from Consul Hughes, at Coburg, states: "It seems strange that our large producers of fruit preserves have never seriously tried to capture the German market for this line of goods. With the exception of the seaboard cities—Hamburg, Bremen, etc.—and a few places like Berlin and Dresden, preserves put up in the United States are not to be found, except, perhaps, where the resident consul has induced some storekeeper to put in a small stock.

"It is a well-known fact that every German family, be it ever so humble, must have its 'compot,' or sweet, served with the meat at dinner. Where our dried fruits are known, they have been well liked and much used, but our jams and marmalades ought also to be pushed. As it is at present, either the Metz or English goods are used. Our preserves could be imported as cheaply, if it were done by the American preserver himself and not through the hands of German middlemen. First-class goods must be sent, carefully put up in 0.5509-pound, 1-1023-pound, and 2.2046-pound packages, either in glass or stone pots for the better-class of trade, and in stone or wood vessels of 11.023 and 22.1.6-pound sizes, from which the retailers may supply small customers.

"Best of all would be for the American canning companies to establish depots in the interior cities of Germany, from which to sell direct to the small grocery stores, etc. These storekeepers, as a rule, are not wealthy enough to carry large stocks and prefer to buy in small quantities and often."

* * *

Consul Hughes, in another report to the state department, says: "The North Geraman Lloyd, at Bremen, and the English Gas company, at Berlin, have placed large contracts for coal in England, and as a result German mining shares have been somewhat affected. This step has caused surprise and regret in commercial circles here, as it is a well known fact that German coal companies, particularly the Rhenish-Westphallan coal syndicate, have a large supply of coal on hand. This stock, it is said, amounts to several hundred thousand tons. As neither the North German Lloyd nor the English Gas company would have purchased coal abroad could it have been procured in Germany at equally favorable terms, it is evident that German coal dealers have not reduced their rates to the level of their English competitors. Neither private mines nor those belonging to the state are willing to moderate prices, which are the same as when the scarcity of coal was most severely felt; this, too, in spite of the fact that all kinds of merchandise have been so low as to cause serious apprehension.

"In view of these conditions, it appears to me that the present is an excellent chance for the United States mine owners to gain a firm foothold in the German market. Quick and judicious action would result in profitable trade. German manufacturers will welcome the invasion with open arms."

* * *

Consul General Guenther, of Frankfort, under recent date, reports as follows: According to a German technical publication, alcohol cannot be profitably used for making steam. One kilogram (2.2046-pounds) of coal, costing 0.6-cent, the paper says, produces from 7000 to 8000 caloric units, while one kilogram of alcohol, valued at 5 cents, produces only 6000 units. In spite of the number of good alcohol lamps on the market, alcohol is only used where a very strong light is necessary, without reference to economy. Only in one instance is alcohol preferable to coal or benzine, and that is in motors run on the explosion principle. Alcohol leaves no residue in the motor, and from 23 to 24 per cent of its heating power is utilized, while steam utilizes only 13 per cent, and benzine, petroleum and gas from 14 to 18 per cent.

The article adds: "As the number of minor establishments requiring relatively small power is constantly growing, alcohol motors are in demand. The automobile industry has lately given preference to alcohol motors, especially in the construction of freight automobiles. The price, in Germany, of alcohol for motor purpose is at present $4.80 for 110 quarts."

BURNED AT STAKE

Negro Ravisher Cremated By Infuriated Mob In Florida.

Cut the Throat of His Victim After Criminal Assault.

Hunted With Bloodhounds and Finally Captured By Negroes.

Barlow, Fla., May 30.—Fred Rochelle, a negro, 35 years of age, who criminally assaulted and then murdered Mrs. Rena Taggart, a well known and highly respected white woman of this city, was burned at the stake here early last evening in the presence of a throng of persons. The burning was on the scene of the negro's crime, within 100 yards of the principal thoroughfare of the city. The assault and murder was one of the boldest and coldest blooded crimes ever committed in Florida. Tuesday morning Mrs. Taggart went fishing alone in a small rowboat that she kept at the city bridge over Placo creek. This is in full view of the public thoroughfare. A few minutes before noon, desiring to return home, she rowed her boat to the bridge and made it fast. A negro man was fishing from the bridge at the time. Mrs. Taggart started home and had proceeded only a few steps in the swamp toward the open prairie and thence to the street, when she was approached by Rochelle, who had been hiding in the swamp. He seized her, but she broke loose and ran screaming from the swamp into the prairie, where he overtook her. After the outrage the negro took a knife from his pocket and cut her throat from ear to ear, causing instant death. He then walked to the negro who had been fishing on the bridge and asked him what he should do with the body. He was told to leave it where it was, but unheedful of this request he took the bleeding form in his arms and carried it back to the swamp, threw it down and escaped into the interior of the swamp. In a few minutes the crime had been reported and in less than an hour practically the entire city was in arms and a well-armed posse was moving in every direction in search of the criminal. Bloodhounds were secured and all night a fruitless search was kept up. Yesterday morning no trace of the negro had been secured and the people were becoming determined to apprehend him, as the chances for his final escape seemed to grow. About noon a courier arrived announcing that the negro had been captured by two other negroes three miles from the city. Posses were immediately on the trail, but the captors evaded detection and succeeded in getting their prisoner pluckily into the city and in turning him over to the sheriff of Polk county. In less than ten minutes after the transfer had been made the streets became congested with people and the crowd, augmented as it marched, moved on the jail. In spite of the sheriff and a strong guard of extra deputies, who made every effort to protect him from mob violence, they secured the prisoner and took up the march to the scene of the crime. He was half dragged, half carried to the bridge, enveloped by a great throng of people of all ages, who were resolute and determined, but quite and orderly. Scream after scream broke from the wretch's quivering lips, followed by groans and prayers for mercy. At the bridge the mob turned toward the prairie and then into the swamp and to the scene of the negro's crime. By common consent burning was to be the penalty. The stake was the only suggestion as to the proper expiation of the crime. A barel was in readiness and was placed by the stake on the very spot where Mrs. Taggart was murdered. On this the negro was placed and chained to the stake. He pleaded for mercy, but in the great crowd around him silence was the only response. There were no jeers, no swearing, no disorder. Before the chains around his body had been made fast cans of kerosene oil from many sources were passed to the front and one of the leaders stepepd to the negro and slowly, but deliberately, poured it upon him and his clothes until clothes and barrel were well saturated. It was then 6 o'clock. The crowd was growing and business in the city had practically been suspended. When the match was applied the blaze quickly leaped skyward. The burning body could be seen only as a dark object in the circle of a roaring flame. Then the fire slackened and the writhing body came back in full view, but already the groans had ceased and the only evidence of life was in the contortions of the muscles of the limbs. For fifteen minutes the body burned and in a half hour from the minute of the application of the match only the charred bones were left as a reminder of the negro's crime and his fate. The crowd dispersed in an orderly manner and last night the city was quiet.

SHE ASKS A DIVORCE

Papers Reached Husband Through the Regular Army Machinery.

Chorus Girl Aided By the Officials to Secure Divorce.

Husband Is a Member of a Wealthy Baltimore Family.

New York, May 30.—Officials of the war department, from Secretary Root to a captain of the Forty-sixth regiment, stationed near Manila, have lent their aid to the wife of Lieut. Berthold Tieber, in her efforts to serve her husband in a proceeding for absolute divorce which she has begun in this city.

Mrs. Tieber, who is a member of the chorus of the Bostonians, and is known in theatrical circles as Miss May Thompson, met the lieutenant before the Spanish war while he was in Washington. He is a member of a wealthy Baltimore family, and had the entree to exclusive circles in the ntional capital. Miss Thompson was playing at the National theater with the Bostonians when Lieut. Tieber obtained an introduction.

After a brief courtship they were married in this city on Jan. 11, 1899. When Lieut. Tieber was ordered with his regiment to the Philippines, husband and wife were on good terms. For a time Miss Thompson received letters from the lieutenant, but after the lapse of months she asserted they became less frequent, and then ceased altogether. Inquiries which she made led her to decide upon proceedings for an absolute divorce.

Herman L. Roth, a lawyer of this city, whom she retained, found that officers in the United States army are protected from the service of papers except through the regular channels of the war department. He desired to obtain personal service on Lieut. Tieber, and in order to do so, took the summons and complaint to the secretary of war.

Secretary Root sent the papers to the adjutant general, with directions that they be served. The adjutant general transmitted them to Gen. Miller, who sent them to Gen. MacArthur in Manila. Gen. MacArthur passed them along to the division commander, who gave them to a brigadier general.

After the papers had been scrutinized by a colonel and a major they reached a captain who served them upon Lieut. Tieber. The captain then reported back to his immediate superior that the papers had been served, and back through the long line of red tape the report was passed until it reached Mr. Roth from the secretary of war.

In her complaint Miss Thompson charges her husband with improprieties in this city, in Washington and in Baltimore. No corespondent is named, but the papers allege that the lieutenant has been unduly familiar with a young woman who is distantly related to him.

Lieut. Tieber has 40 days in which to answer. If he opposes his wife's suit, the court may order the case held in abeyance until his return from the Philippines or a commission to take his testimony may be appointed.

RASH DEED.

Mother Threw Children From Train and Leaped After Them.

Akron, Ohio, May 30.—Miss Catherine Ebert declared under oath that she was the affianced wife of the late Joel J. Pendleton, a prominent farmer, who recently died, leaving a wife and family. Her story is told in an answer and cross-petition which she filed in the probate court. She asks that she be given a judgment against the administrator of the Pendleton estate.

Miss Ebert says that she became acquainted with Mr. Pendleton in 1899. They were much in each other's society, and the friendship soon ripened into love. A few months after their introduction he proposed marriage and she consented. At his suggestion a marriage contract was entered into. He represented, she said, that he had never been married.

A short time after their engagement he asked her to loan him money with which to build a home in which they were to reside. She advanced the money and the house was built. The wedding was to have taken place last month.

A few days previous to the day set for the ceremony Pendleton died. Since his death Miss Ebert says she has learned that he was a married man, the father of several children, that his wife is still living, and that she is not divorced. She says he deceived her by his misrepresentation of the facts and that he obtained the money of her by fraudulent means. She asks the court to give her a first lien on the residence which was erected with the money borrowed from her.

WAS MARRIED

But She Did Not Know It Until He Was Dead.

New Orleans, May 30.—Mrs. Leontino Martinez, of Belle Alliance, knew nothing whatever of travel by rail. Last Sunday morning, when she boarded the Texas & Pacific train on the newly opened Lafourche branch, she proved this by tossing her two children from the platform and leaping off after them while the train was rushing past her home, because she thought it might not stop at the station, a short distance further on.

Mrs. Martinez is the wife of a well-to-do tenant in Belle Alliance plantation. Sunday she was one of a number of holiday makers who took advantage of an excursion to Donaldsonville for an outing. She carried her two pretty little girls with her.

All went well with the family party until the train was nearing Belle Alliance on the return trip. As she noted the familiar landmarks speeding past she hurriedly called her tiny daughters and made her way to the platform of the coach in which they were riding. Seizing the oldest of the children she threw it from the train. One of the crew saw her and made a dash to seize her. He was not quick enough. She threw the other child from the platform and leaped after it before he could get her. The train came to a sudden stop in answer to the signal, and backed to the scene of her rash deed.

The excursionists thought Mrs. Martinez had tried to kill her children in a fit of temporary insanity, and then commit suicide. Everything aboard the train was in an uproar. Mrs. Martinez was found beside the track, her left leg fractured so badly about the ankle that it will have to be amputated. Between moans she explained that she thought the train was not going to stop at Belle Alliance, and she had taken the only course she saw open to get home on time. The searchers soon found the children. They were dazed, but had fallen on soft ground and miraculously were unhurt.

HE BEAT THE WARRANT.

An Indiana Case That Looks Like Suicide.

Frankfort, Ind., May 30.—The case in which two of the county's well-known citizens, Byron Snodgrass and John Gildersleeve, his father-in-law, were charged with felonious crimes—Snodgress for criminal assault on his wife a year ago when she was 13 years old and unmarried, and Gildersleeve for perjury in making false affidavit as to the age of his daughter—was given another sensational feature by the strange death of Gildersleeve when he learned he would be prosecuted. He became intoxicated and then started home, saying the old squire will beat the warrant an hour. Later he died suddenly. The cause of death has not been determined, but it is believed to be suicide by many.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 30.—A Jonesboro special tells of the birth of twins to Mrs. Howard Williams Sunday.

The twins are joined together by a large cartilage four inches long and one inch thick below the shoulder blades. They resemble in every respect the Siamese twins, Chang and Eng, who became famous all over the world.

The twins seem lively, and physicians think they may live.

A FORTY-DAY FAST.

How an Ohio Woman Reduced Her Flesh.

Toledo, Ohio, May 30.—Mrs. Almeda Gordanier, of 440 Vermont avenue, has completed a 40-day fast for the purpose of reducing her corpulency. She weighed 260 pounds when she began the fast on April 17, and Sunday she tipped the scales at 170 pounds, and says she never felt better in her life. She says she started the fast of her own accord and made no "splurge" about it.

She claims to have lived without partaking of a mouthful of solid food during all the time. The only substance she took was water. hTe only object she had in the test was the reduction of flesh and bettering her health, and both objects were fully accomplished. Mrs. Gordanier is 41 years old. Her feeling of hunger was something fearful up to the fourteenth day, but after that it did not bother her. She claims that almost any person in good health and with a fair supply of flesh can fast from twenty to thirty days.

AT WEST DULUTH

With the announcement by the street car officials that nothing will be done in the way of establishing another place of amusement at the hill top to replace the Pavilion that burned down, there are many people in West Duluth that would like to see something special in the way of attraction put up at Fairmount park. It has been suggested that perhaps pressure could be brought to bear on the street railway company to induce them to build a line to the park if the company could be assured that such a proposition would be a paying one. Even now Alderman Swenson, as was stated in The Herald yesterday, is working away on the West Third street extension of the street railway, and the possibilities of getting the line to the park are said to be much better than they were last fall. The West Duluthians feel that Fairmount park will in time become one of the most popular resorts in the city, after the improvements contemplated have been carried out by the park board. Of course, all this can not be done at once, but any move toward giving better facilities for reaching the new park, they believe, is a move in the right direction.

MANY PICNIC PARTIES.

A great many West Duluthians are spending the day in picnic parties at the various resorts in the vicinity. Parties left this morning for a trip up the St. Louis river, others went out to the new park, while others went to Duluth to attend the memorial exercises and to Park Point. The following young people were among the party that drove out to Pike lake this morning to spend the day: Misses Laura Ward, Marie Tims, Clara Kenney, Lillian Kenney, Joy Boerner, Messrs. Ralph Ward, William Browning, Ray Higgins and Ernest Boerner.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES.

Much interest is manifested in the Memorial day exercises that will be given under the direction of the Minnesota K. of P. band at the band stand at the corner of Bristol street and Fifty-sixth avenue west this evening. The exercises will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and as all other exercises of the day will be over by that time, it is expected that the citizens of West Duluth as well as a number from Duluth will be present. The program will consist of a number of addresses by prominent citizens and music by the band.

REPUBLICAN CLUB.

The Republican club will hold its regular meeting on Saturday night, when it is expected that the committees in charge of the banquet will be ready to submit their report. It is believed that the banquet resulted very successfully not only from a social standpoint but a financial as well, for the club, and it is said that the club will come out about $100 ahead. Other business matters will also come up at this meeting.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

A very enjoyable dancing party was given in the Great Eastern hall last evening by the sawmill workers. A large crowd attended and the dancing lasted well on toward the small hours of morning.

Samuel Axford and family are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griesen, of Eveleth.

THE DAKOTAS

Central City Man Falls Down Shaft of a Mine.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Central City—A serious accident happened to L. B. Herdman, of this city. He was employed in the Stanley mine, near Rockford, when he became strangled by foul air and fell thirty feet, striking a pipe which crosscut the shaft. Had he not been stopped by the pipe, he would have gone to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of 125 feet, which would have meant instant death.

DeSmet—A party of Huron young people came down on the evening train and immediately found Clerk Alquist, procured a marriage license and very soon George Schneppee and Miss Elsie Lynch were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. It appears that the stern parents of the bride objected to the attentions paid their daughter by the man who is now her husband, and, accompanied by some bulldmatic friends, the young people proceeded to DeSmet where the ceremony was performed.

Chamberlain—Three fishermen, from some point north met with an accident in which they lost their outfit and barely escaped with their lives. They did not know that the pontoon bridge had been put in and were upon it when first observing it. Taey lowered their sails and undertook to row to the island side, but their craft struck one of the bridge cables, upset and went under the bridge. One man caught the cable and clung to it until rescued; while the other two hung to their boat and drifted with the swift current. The fowa put out to the rescue and overtook them about five miles down stream.

Rapid City—The first students to graduate from the mining and engineering department of the school of mines will be: George H. Clevenger, of Rapid City, who built and operated a cyanide plant in this city, and Max R. Hopkins, of Watertown, S. D. There are four graduates from the preparatory department: Wesley Gebb, Jerome, Arizona; Elizabeth Chase, Constant Hartgering and Cornelia Beach, of Rapid City. The regents are here to choose a site for the new building, appropriation for which was made at the last session of the legislature.

Willow Lakes—In one week the Willow Lakes creamery shipped nearly one and a half tons of butter.

Beresford—The council expects to let the contract for two new artesian wells to increase the supply of water for fire protection and domestic purposes.

Sioux Falls—The members of the Mennonite colonies along the James river in Hutchinson county are rapidly developing a comparatively new South Dakota industry, that of raising pigeons for the Eastern markets. In a brief period the members of the Elm Springs colony shipped $90 worth of birds to Eastern purchasers.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—In the United States court in the case of Boyd vs. the French-Hickman Flax Fiber mill company, the jury found for the plaintiff in the sum of $350. It was a peculiar suit and the jury was out nearly twenty-four hours. Boyd was furnished flax seed by the company for a farm in Minnesota. The seed would not germinate and he brought suit for damages. The decision is an unusual one, and the case will be appealed.

Grand Forks—Baxter and Raybourn were taken to Lakota, where they will be tried on the charge of burglary.

New Salem—John Young, formerly sheriff of Mercer county, has purchased the Wachtam Missouri, a German paper.

Fort Yates—Lieut. F. L. Knudsen has been promoted to the captaincy of Company A, of the Eighth infantry, now at Fort Snelling.

Mayville—The old mill property belonging to the Mayville Roller Mill company has been purchased by the Goose River Milling company and will be remodeled.

Mandan—The Mandan and Northwestern Electrical company has completed setting the poles and stringing its new telephone line from Mandan to Oliver county.

MUTINY.

Guardsmen at Antwerp Broke Ranks and Demolished Property.

Brussels, May 31.—An extraordinary scene occurred in Antwerp yesterday, when mutinous civic guardsmen paraded the streets singing the "Marseillaise," while the police had to be called in to protect the officers from the revolting troops.

There has been friction for some time. While drilling yesterday a guardsman in the ranks lighted a pipe, and when reprimanded for doing so, insulted the officer who administered the reprimand. The guardsman was arrested, whereupon his comrades broke ranks, hooted at their officer and proceeded to demolish property on the parade ground with the butts of their rifles. Subsequently they paraded the streets singing.

BEHIND THE TIMES.

England Far In Rear In Applied Science.

New York, May 31.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: The Post, in calling upon British steel manufacturers to bring their machinery up to date, in accordance with the advice given them by William Garrett at the recent meeting of the iron and steel institute, admits that nearly all branches of applied science in England are from five to ten years behind Germany and the United States, and that it is merely time-honored business connection and her freedom from the far reaching system of veiled monopolies which enable Great Britain to hold her own for the time being in the staple industries of modern civilization.

FOR CRIMINAL ASSAULT.

Baltimore, May 31.—Wiley Kirk, colored, 18 years old, was hanged at Towson, Baltimore county, today, for criminal assault on a white woman.

WAS SERIOUS.

Many Were Killed and Wounded In the Russian Riots.

London, May 31.—According to a dispatch received from St. Petersburg today, it appears that the conflict at Alexandrovsky, in the vicinity of St. Petersburg, between the strikers at the Obuchoff iron works and the authorities, May 20, when about 2500 rioters attacked the police, had much more serious results than was admitted in the police report of the affair, issued May 21. It was then said that after twelve of the police had been injured they were reinforced by soldiers, who fired three volleys, killing two men and wounding seven. The relatives of the strikers declare that forty of the men were killed and that 150 others were wounded. A reliable witness says he saw four vanloads of wounded persons covered with blood, and another declares he saw two loads of wounded taken to the hospital.

SAIL FOR INDIA.

Tien Tsin, May 31.—Gen. Cummins, with the last of his brigade left for India today. A number of officers are filling the hotels. Many of these are Germans who are about to leave China. All the sick are being shipped away. Eighteen transports are now at Taku and more are expected.

GEN. WILSON DEAD.

New York, May 31.—Brig. Gen. Thomas Wilson, U. S. A., (retired), is dead. The funeral will be held at the Madison Avenue Reformed church tonight. Gen. Wilson was in his 70th year. He was promoted to the rank of brigadier general for "faithful and meritorious service during the civil war."

HENRY PERRINE DEAD.

Buffalo, May 31.—Henry E. Perrine, a well known business man of this city, is dead. His second wife, who survives him, was Mrs. Folsom, mother of Mrs. Grover Cleveland. Mr. Perrine was 74 years of age.

HEAVY LOSS

Boers Inflict Serious Injury on British.

Fierce Battle Fought at Vladenfontain.

London, May 31.—On the anniversary of Lord Roberts' entry into Johannesburg the country has been startled by the report of desperate fighting and heavy British losses within forty miles of the gold reef city. The battle at Vladenfontein, on the Durban-Johannesburg railroad, reported by Lord Kitchener today, is the most serious engagement since Gen. Clement's reverse at Magallesburg. It shows Gen. Delarey is in no way daunted by the capture of eleven of his guns by Gen. Babington, six weeks ago. The garrison of Vladenfontein, apparently largely composed of yeomanry, had 174 men put out of action. That their assailants came to close quarters and suffered heavily is shown by the number of dead left on the field.

The dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, May 30, is as follows:

"Gen. Dyon's force at Vladenfontein was attacked yesterday by Delarey's forces and there was severe fighting. The enemy was eventually driven off with heavy loss, leaving thirty-five dead. I regret that our casualties also were severe. The killed and wounded numbered 174. Five officers were killed.

New York, May 31.—British newspapers which usually support the government continue to grumble, says the London correspondent of the Tribune, because the British public are being kept in ignorance of the real facts of the war in South Africa. The Boers appear to be making steady progress in the South. In Cape Colony, near Colesberg, they are reported to have captured 500 horses.

LONG INTRIGUE ENDED

England Sums Up Results of the Long Chapter of Diplomacy Which Has Ended Without the Partition of China.

New York, May 31.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: There is no official information from Downing street, but it is generally believed that the Chinese question has been settled. Berlin dispatches state explicitly that the Chinese government has agreed to pay interest at 4 per cent on the indemnity, and as the amount of the principal had previously been settled, the last obstacle to the withdrawal of foreign troops and the return of the court to Pekin has been removed. It has been a long chapter of diplomacy with nearly twelve months of intrigue, but the end has been reached without the partition of China or any disturbance of the relations of the powers. The German emperor has probably scored more heavily than anybody else. He has obtained from England joint rights for the guardianship of the Yang Tse valley without estranging Russia, and Von Waldersee has been in command of the allied forces and the most conspicuous figure in a complex diplomatic drama in which ingenious by-play has not been lacking. What England has gained from the alliance with Germany is not apparent to close observers. Her interests have not been essentially different from those of the United States, but her diplomatic work has been done more clumsily.

THREE CARS RAN AWAY

Motorman Lost Control of the Train and Cars Dashed Down Steep Hill, Killing and Injuring the Passengers.

Wilmington, Del., May 31.—Three heavily-loaded trolley cars on the new People's Street railway ran away while going down a steep hill in this city early this morning, killing one man, fatally injuring another and hurting twenty-five others more or less seriously. Joshua Gillman, who jumped from a window of the car on which he was riding, fell under the wheels and his body was cut in two. Elmer Jones, a conductor of one of the cars, stuck to his post, and when the rear car crashed into the one he was in charge of, his legs were broken, one arm was broken and internal injuries were inflicted. His death is momentarily expected. Two of the cars were closed cars and the other was an open one.

They had nearly 100 passengers, returning to the city from Brandywine park. The line is a new one, opened yesterday, and it is presumed the motormen were not yet familiar with the heavy grade.

HURRIED CONFERENCE

Senators Platt and Spooner Called Hurriedly to Consult With Secretary Root on Status of Cuban Affairs.

New York, May 13.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says: Senator Platt and Senator Spooner were in conference last night, at the apartments of Secretary of War Root, at the Arlington hotel, and the conference was continued until a late hour, the subject being the meaning and effect of the action of the Cuban constitution convention in accepting the Platt amendment, with what the Cubans have called Secretary Root's interpretation of that amendment. Whatever conclusion, if any, was reached is not known, nor is it known how wide a range the discussion took. The hurried nature of the conference and the fact that Senators Platt and Spooner were summoned here by telegraph from their homes by the secretary of war, indicate the desire of the president to have a definite program with regard to Cuba to submit to the cabinet meeting today.

It is certain that the administration will not consent to any modification of the Platt amendment by the Cubans. That document must be either accepted just as it passed congress, or rejected outright. Obviously there is no middle ground to stand on. Even if the president and his advisers were inclined to make concessions, they would not have the authority to do so in this case any more than they would be authorized to change or modify any other act of congress.

COLLISION.

Two Sections of Wabash Freight Come Together at Chicago.

Chicago, May 31.—In a rear-end collision today between two sections of a Wabash freight train at Seventy-fifth street and Western avenue, six men were hurt, two seriously. The latter were:

Harry Mason, San Antonio, Texas, hurt internally and right side crushed.

John Garland, Omaha, Neb., hurt internally and cut on head and legs.

The injured men were riding on the first section and were buried under the wreckage. Considerable railroad property was demolished.

PLAYING WAR.

England Has More Success Than With the Real Thing.

New York, May 31.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: The military tournament just opened by Lord Roberts before an immense assemblage had imperial features. Detachments from all the forces represented at the inauguration of the Australian commonwealth are massed with contingents of colonial cavalry, infantry and artillery. An Indian frontier village is the scene of stirring maneuvers, with a final charge of horse artillery across a pontoon bridge and a vigorous onslaught upon the rebels. It is a brilliant show, with 12-pounder guns drawn by blue jackets, cavalry waltzing and dancing quadrilles, and the best military bands massed.

SMOOTH LOBBYING

Unknown Interests Succeed In Working Pennsylvania Legislature.

Important Street Railroad Bill Passed By the Senate.

Rushed Through Without Loss of a Moment's Time.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 31.—The senate this morning passed finally the bill amending the passenger railway act of 1889 to permit the construction of a passenger railway in any street not occupied at present, and the bill providing for the erection of elevated and underground railways. These are the bills that were introduced in the senate Wednesday after it became known that P. A. Widener and William L. Elkins, the Philadelphia street railway magnates had sailed for Europe. The representatives of the Philadelphia traction interests came here and pleaded in vain either for the defeat of the bills or their postponement. The extraordinary speed at which bills of such great importance have been rushed through the senate has aroused widespread interest. Ten minutes after their introduction they were reported favorably from committee, and they passed first, second and third readings without the loss of a moment' time, all amendments being rejected. It is stated here that they will be railroaded through the house and be in the hands of Governor Stone for his action before the end of next week. There is great mystery as to the identity of the interests back of the legislature. Nobody here knows who is urging the passage of the bills, though it is admitted that the Philadelphia streets are the ones most desired. The bill is drafted so as to permit the occupation of Broad street, Philadelphia, which has thus far been kept free of street car tracks.

The senate broke all its records for prompt action, by passing the bills finally within less than forty-eight hours after they were introduced. They were called up ahead of other measures on the calendar at today's session of the senate and passed without debate by a vote of 32 to 8. They will, it is stated, be reported from committee in the house on Monday afternoon and read the first time at the evening session. The order of business will probably be arranged by the rules committee to take up the bills on Tuesday for the second reading and the following day for the third reading and final passage.

The promoters of the bills say they will be promptly signed by Governor Stone and that a corporation will immediately be organized with a large capital to take out a charter for the erection of an elevated railroad system in Philadelphia and suburbs. They say also that the steam railroad companies are not antagonistic in this legislation and that there will be no organized opposition to it in the house.

IS IMPROVED.

Mrs. McKinley Cheerful and Sat Up For a While.

Washington, May 31.—Mrs. McKinley passed a very comfortable night and sat up for a while this morning. She is cheerful and is feeling rested after her journey. Dr. Rixey says she shows great improvement.

Washington, May 31.—The physicians who are in attendance upon Mrs. McKinley, after a consultation this forenoon, issued the following statement of her condition:

"Mrs. McKinley is recovering from the fatigue of the trip. The illness from which she was suffering in San Francisco still continues, though in the less intense form. She is still feeble and cannot be considered out of danger. Her progress will no doubt be slow, but improvement is looked for.

AT BERLIN.

Queen Wilhelmina and Consort Visit the Emperor.

Berlin, May 31.—Queen Wilhelmina and her husband, the prince of the Netherlands, witnessed the emperor's review of the Berlin garrison today. The queen afterwards drove to the royal castle with the empress, the emperor riding at the head of the First Guards regiment, with the prince of the Netherlands on his right hand.

On returning, the procession was met on Unter Den Linden by the chief burgomaster, the city officials and a band of twenty-four white-robed maidens. The burgomaster presented an adress to Queen Wilhelmina and handed her a bouquet of flowers of the Netherlands colors, red, white and blue. The queen replied with a few words of thanks.

COMMITTEE NAMED.

To Work For Law Relating to Woolen Inspection.

Denver, May 31.—In pursuance of resolutions adopted at the annual convention of the National Live Stock association in Salt Lake City recently, President John W. Springer has appointed a special committee to work for the enactment of a law by congress which shall provide for an inspection of woolen goods and compel manufacturers to label their products as all wool or part cotton or part shoddy, as the case may be. The committee consists of C. O. Stockslagger, of Boise, Idaho, chairman; ex-Senator Powers, Helena, Mont.; Mortimer Levering, Lafayette, Ind.; I. S. Gosney, Flagstaff, Ariz., and Dwight Lincoln, Milford Center, Ohio.

WILL NOT DO

Action of the Cubans Is Not Satisfactory.

Not a Compliance With Platt Amendment.

Washington, May 31.—The president and the cabinet today, at their meeting, decided that the action of the Cuban constitutional convention was "not a substantial" compliance with the terms of the Platt amendment. The secretary of war will convey this fact to the convention.

Washington, May 31.—Senators Platt, of Connecticut, Lodge of Massachusetts, and Fairbanks, of Indiana, had an hour's consultation with the president before the cabinet meeting today. The Cuban situation was under discussion and the president was desirous of obtaining the views of those senators as to whether the action of the constitutional convention "was substantial" acquiescence in the Platt amendment. Some of the details of the action of the Cuban convention are still lacking and before definite conclusions can be arrived at these must be supplied. The senators who talked with the president do not feel at liberty to express their opinions as to what should be done. They say that the whole matter is one for the executive to decide as the amendment authorizes the president to relinquish control of Cuba when a government has been established which substantially agrees to its terms. The conferences relating to Cuban affairs among leading administration officials and leading members of the United States senate, at present in Washington, have continued and though no definite determination has been reached, there is quite a decided sentiment toward accepting the action of the convention as a substantial "compliance with the terms of the Platt amendment."

There is a great deal of addenda in the way of legislation and interpretation in the report of the committee on relations which has been adopted at Havana that is wholly unsatisfactory to the president and also to those who have been consulting with him, but there is an earnest desire to reach the best possible results. One of the most objectionable features of the interpretation is the addition of the words saying that the action of the United States is an amplification of the Monroe doctrine. It is emphatically stated by some of those who have been present at the conferences that the Monroe doctrine has nothing whatever to do with the present situation in Cuba. It is stated that the earnest desire of the president is to retire from Cuba at the earliest possible moment consistent with the best interests of the people of the island and future relations between the new government and the United States. The problem is whether withdrawal under the amended Platt law will accomplish that result.

SUBJECT OF GUARANTEE

Difficult Problem That Is Now Perplexing the Ministers at Pekin---United States Objects to International Guarantee.

Washington, May 31.—Having settled upon the amount of indemnity and the rate of interest to be paid upon the bonds, namely, 4 per cent, the ministers at Pekin are now negotiating respecting the difficult subject of guarantee. The Chinese plenipotentiaries are not concerned at this stage; the ministers must first agree among themselves as to the method of guaranteeing the loan, and this task promises to be difficult of disposition. The United States government is pressed by Russia and France to make the guarantee international and joint, but it is firm in its declination to do this, basing its arguments upon constitutional limitations upon the executive branch of the government, which are not easy of comprehension to European minds.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS

Proceedings of the National Association of America Now Holding Its Annual Session at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, May 31.—The session this morning of the National American Womans' Suffrage association was largely devoted to reports of officers and committees. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Ohio, the treasurer, reported receipts for the year of $22,522, which were $869 more than the disbursements. The states making the largest contributions were New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, District of Columbia and Pennsylvania.

Sarah Clay Bennett, of Kentcky, chairman of the federal suffrage committee, in her report on the petitions addressed to congress, argued that the supreme court had indirectly decided, in its rulings on the fourteenth amendment to the United State's constitution, that that amendment had annuled the word "male" in the constitution and the laws of the states that confined the right of suffrage to men.

In the report of the press committee, Elnora Munroe Babcock, of Dunkirk, N. Y., gave statistics of the work done in securing the publication of matter, 50,000 articles in all having been sent out. She noted a marked change in the attitude of city newspapers which now take suffrage arguments, but formerly they would take nothing but news. "Plate matter" is furnished to a number of companies and seven press associations are supplied with articles. Press work has been organized in twenty-four states.

Henry B. Blackwell, of Massachusetts, chairman of the presidential suffrage committee, reporting that a bill enabling women to vote for presidential electors had passed one house in Kansas and would have passed the other bill, as the votes of the enfranchised women would not be available till 1904, it was feared that in the state election of 1902 members seeking re-election would be exposed to attack, and so the bill was reconsidered.

ONE THOUSAND STRIKE

Chicago Machinists Go Out of Shops Not Signers of Agreement---Sympathetic Strike May Be Declared By Allied Trades.

Chicago, May 31.—Chicago's machinists' strike began today. More than 1000 men quit in various shops and factories because the employers refused to sign the agreement sent out yesterday for a 12½ per cent increase in wages, a 9-hour day and time and a half and double time for all time over nine hours. When the force of Frazer & Chalmers were met by Mr. Chalmers and told they might as well return home, as their demands would not be granted, there was some little excitement, but no trouble ensued.

The situation assumed a more grave aspect with the threat of the allied trades to declare a sympathetic movement at once. With the exception of six shops, none of those to which the agreement was presented have signed. The most extensive firm of the six signing is the Link-Belt company, which, with 130 men employed, granted the machinists' demands. It is expected that by tomorrow nearly 2000 men will be in the ranks of the strikers.

JOINER OF SOULS

Rev. Mr. Brown Discusses the Herron-Rand Function.

Strongly Denies That It Is a Case of Free Love.

Says "Perfect Love Is the Soul of Marriage."

Rochester, N. Y., May 31.—Rev. W. T. Brown, who "united the souls" of Professor Herron and Miss Carrie Rand, issued a statement explaining just why he officiated at the joining.

Mr. Brown seemed astonished that any one should marvel at the nature of the ceremony and scoffed at the idea that the taking of each other for "companion" was thinly veiling a transaction in free love.

It is the word "companion" Mr. Brown thinks, that caused whatever misconception has arisen. He says he does not remember hearing it used. What he does remember is that Dr. Herron and Miss Rand specifically took each other as husband and wife.

"I hold that no guilt inheres in Dr. Herron's affair with his first wife," says the reverend gentleman. "I am in possession of facts that lead me to believe his divorce was inevitable and due to no wrong on his part. I assumed absolutely the honor and integrity and innocence of Dr. Herron and the perfect purity and dignity and womanliness of Miss Rand, so that they stand before my mind as two noble, true souls. To unite them seemed the most natural thing in the world. I repeat that, from the knowledge of the facts which I think few persons have had the opportunity to possess. I saw no reason why Dr. Herron should not marry, any more than any other divorced person.

"I don't know why the marriage should not be a valid one. The law prescribes no set form. While most ministers or magistrates go through a set form and say, 'I pronounce you man and wife,' there are different ways of doing that. So far as my usual custom is concerned in the matter of marriage, I use the Episcopal service when it is called for, I use an ordinary service as a rule, because people are accustomed to it, and I am willing they should have it. But in Dr. Herron's case he and Miss Rand had certain scruples in regard to the fact of marriage.

"Dr. Herron, I am authorized to say for I have seen it in his own writing, believes that marriage is the union of one man with one woman. He and Miss Rand said they wanted to be married as were Franklin H. Wentworth and Marion Jean Craig. In that marriage no pledges were given and Mayor Jones, of Toledo, announced them man and wife.

"I was asked by Dr. Herron and Miss Rand to do what was necessary in the matter of the service, because they wished that the marriage should be legal, of course. They felt that the matter of marriage was a fact or it was not.

"Marriage in their eyes is the binding together of two persons by the power of a mutual love, and that the public part of it—the essential part of the public—was their announcement of the fact that they had chosen each other to be husband and wife. It was, therefore, their wish that the service should be an announcement rather than a pronouncement. That was the only particular in which the service was notably different from other ceremonies.

"I prepared a special service for the occasion, bearing in mind the particular views of the parties. It was typewritten and will, I expect, be printed in full. The service was a setting forth of what seemed to me and to them the essential and eternal principles involved in the matter of marriage.

"Dr. Herron made a statement, which was, in substance, that he had chosen Miss Rand to be his wife. If he used the word companion he meant wife. Miss Rand made a similar statement. Then C. B. Patterson made an address on the subject of marriage. There was nothing unusual in the address. It simply stated and emphasized the spiritual side of marriage.

"Let me repeat that there was nothing in this service, in what I or anybody else said, that had the slightest savor of what is called free love. It was purely the highest spiritual conception of the union of two souls. The idea was that there can be no marriage without love, and that perfect love between one man and one woman is the soul of marriage."

A Very Remarkable Remedy.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlin's Colic, Choler and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show case, said to me; 'I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore,' and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy, which helped him. I repeated the dose, and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold at Boyce's Drug store.

COUNT DISCREDITED.

Canada Is Now In a Census Muddle.

Ottawa, Ont., May 31.—On the theory that the census returns of 1891 were doctored, the government, it is said, will order an inquiry into the facts. The reason for the view that fraud was practiced in 1891 is that some of the returns of the recent census are rather disappointing in character.

It is patent to everybody that throughout Canada there has been a gain in population since 1891. Yet the returns from several of the rural districts in Ontario and Quebec appear to show a falling off.

One of the districts in Ontario which shows a reduced population is East Bruce, where the falling off in population, as compared with 1891, is about 2500. In the province of Quebec, the county of Missisquoi shows a decrease of over 700, while in Rouville there were 3000 less persons counted than in 1891.

On the other hand, the population of the large urban centers, so far as can be estimated, indicate large increases.

HUGE DIAMOND.

It Is on the Way to Buffalo Exposition.

New York, May 31.—What is said by jewelers to be the largest diamond ever seen in the country is now in this city on its way to the Pan-American exposition. It is canary colored, is the property of Stern Bros. & Co., the diamond importers, and was purchased by them abroad to form part of their exhibit at the exposition. It reached here from the other side a few days ago. It weighs in its present finished state 207 3-4 carats. The famous Kohinoor diamond, which belongs to the British crown, weighs in its present rose form 106 1-16 carats. The color of the larger stone makes its value only a fraction of the value put upon the Kohinoor. Its weight in the rough was 600 carats.

CLEANING THEM OUT

Grain Inspectors and Weighers Receive Notices to Quit.

Some Republican G. A. R. Veterans Among the Decapitated.

New Men to Come Largely From Outside the City.

The ax has begun to fall.

The weeding out of the state inspection and weighing departments has begun in dead earnest, and from all appearances it may be a clean sweep. It even appears that Republicans who held through the Lind administration are to be subjected to the disagreeable operation of decapitation. Two of them on the weighing force have been let out, and there is much dissatisfaction in some quarters over their removal. These two are S. W. Higgins and J. O. Milne. Their removal is particularly aggravating to the Grand Army men of the city, for both are prominent in the ranks of the veterans. Mr. Milne has been on the force for a number of years, and Mr. Higgins also. The matter was noised about among the veterans yesterday morning when they met at their post hall to go to the memorial exercises, and there was much indignation. One of them was inclined to touch up the Republicans among the veterans a little and brought out a copy of the News Tribune of yesterday morning and read this from the editorial on "The Nation's Dead:"

"The consideration and gratitude which the United States extends to its soldiers has no parallel in history. No other nation ever treated its veterans with such generosity."

Some of the comments in response were rather sarcastic. Some veterans who were appointed by the fusion administration were also let out, Alex Longmuir and J. A. Gray are among them.

The discharge of J. O. Milne seems to the veterans to be particularly hard to explain. The Republican campaign committee made considerable use of his services, and he was in a position to render valuable aid, in fact there are few of the old soldiers in the state who could have given the same service that he did. By reason of being a member of the council of administration of the department of Minnesota of the G. A. R., he was able to reach a larger number of members than could any other man in all probability, except, of course, other members of the same council. He was, therefore, particularly valuable to send out circulars, etc., and in giving information as to the influential men to reach. Now he is dropped to give place to someone else.

The following members of the inspection force at Duluth are to step out: C. E. Pattinson, of Duluth, June 15; E. T. Matthews, of Marshall, June 1; Charles Lindberg, June 1; David Nelson, June 1.

The following have been named to take their places: W. F. Cyr, of Red Lake Falls, sampler; W. C. Malchow, of Wilder, sampler; David Counts, of Argyle, helper; Otis R. Lippitt, White Rock, S. D., sampler.

It will be noticed that one of the appointees is from South Dakota. At the time Mr. Prodger made an appointment of a man from another state there was a great howl in the News Tribune. It is not expected that anything will be heard this time.

W. H. Wells, of Montevideo, has already succeeded H. A. Foss, of Minneapolis, as chief clerk in the office here.

There are fifteen or more places still to be changed in the office, if the board is determined to make a clean sweep.

In the weighing department a more general removal has been made. The following have received notice that their time will expire on June 1: M. Hopna, Alex. Longmuir, James Murray, J. T. Dunphy, J. D. Stringer, F. E. Bradley and W. A. Cragin, all of Duluth.

Mr. Cragin has been on the force for seven or eight years, but is said to be a Democrat. He was a candidate for the appeals board appointment a short time ago, but dropped out.

J. A. Grey has been notified that his time is up June 15. He will be succeeded by W. P. Strickland, who is also a G. A. R. veteran.

To fill the places of other men laid off the following have been assigned: C. R. Norlin, Ogilvie; J. O. Winton, Mille Lacs; H. S. Halverson, Hawley; J. H. Chilton, Frazee; Alfred T. Leidin, North Branch; H. M. Case, Alden; Walter Child, Waseca; L. C. Shannon, Audubon; A. W. Elmgreen, North Branch. George Burke and Alvin Bagley, of Duluth, are also to have places, though they have not yet been assigned.

Another batch of weighers who must get out on July 1 is as follows: S. W. Higgins, J. O. Milne, K. S. Adams, J. C. Gade and J. Zimmerman.

It will be noticed that while most of the men laid off are Duluthians, there are very few Duluthians who will take places.

HOLDS TO HER LEASE.

Woman Asks Court to Stop Store Building.

New York, May 31.—Counsel for Mrs. Laura J. Haskins, who runs a restaurant in the basement of 117 West Thirty-fourth street, has applied to Justice Blanchard in the supreme court to continue a temporary injunction issued by Justice McAdam restraining interference with the house where she carries on her business, and which with thirty-one other buildings, is to be demolished to make room for the new department store to be erected between Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth streets by R. H. Macy & Ct. Mrs. Haskins has a lease of the basement from Oct. 7, 1899, to Oct. 7, 1901, at a rent of $125 a month. She says hse was assured that she would not be interefered with during the continuance of her lease, but alleges that threats have been made that the house would be torn down, which, she says, would ruin her business. Justice Blanchard took the papers and reserved his decision.

SIXTY DAYS.

Maurice Griffin Sent Up ---He Will Re-Enter Politics.

Ex-Alderman Maurice Griffin was sentenced to sixty days hard labor in the county jail for drunkenness, this morning.

Before entering upon his sentence he announced that as soon as he got out again he would re-enter politics. He said that Henry Truelsen would certainly be elected mayor next February and that he would appoint Alderman Frank Schaffer, his chief of police. Mr. Griffin felt certain that the people of the city had become weary of experimenting and were suffering from a tremendous desire to get back to a good old German administration.

The former alderman has had a checkered career since leaving the council. He has been in police court twice before for drunkenness and his sentence this morning was the minimum for the third offense.

Early yesterday morning he emerged from a saloon on Twentieth avenue west and tripping over the sidewalk fell headlong into the street. His face was badly cut by the fall. When taken to police headquarters it was feared that he was seriously hurt, but this morning he has recovered from the shock of the fall.

MRS. C. J. WEST DEAD.

Death Conquers After a Brief Illness.

Mrs. Cyrus J. West died yesterday at her home in the Buffalo flats after an illness of but a few days. Death came rather suddenly for a half hour before the end the physician had announced that she was improving and in no immediate danger. The deceased was a daughter of Mrs. M. A. Pettibone, of this city, and had been a resident of Duluth for many years. Her father came here from Stillwater, where he was for a number of years with the firm of Seymour, Sabin & Co., and was the head of the National Iron works at the West End for a number of years. Mrs. West was a woman of great popularity among her friends and her death will be felt with keen regret. She leaves a son. No funeral arrangements had been made up to noon today. The body will be taken to Suamico, Wis., for burial.

COPPER.

New Company Is Independent of the Amalgamated Interests.

New York, May 31.—The Journal of Commerce says: At the office in this city of the Montana Ore Purchasing company it is stated that the United Copper company, of Montana, just incorporated in South Dakota, with $80,000,000 authorized capital, is entirely independent of the Amalgamated Copper company, and that the Montana Ore Purchasing company would be included.

The Montana Ore Purchasing company, which is the chief property of the Heinzes, has recently come into decided prominence, and is now said to be producing copper at the rate of 40,000,000 pounds a year. This would compare with about 70,000,000 pounds for the Boston and Montana, and, say about 110,000,000 pounds for the Anaconda, the two principal mines of the Amalgamated company. Last year the company is said to have produced about 24,000,000 pounds from its own mines, and to have treated for other mines about 10,000,000 pounds more, in addition to considerable amounts of gold and silver. The company has an authorized capital of $2,500,000 in shares of $25 par value each. Of this 80,000 shares have been issued. There is also a bonded debt of $1,000,000. The company has this year paid $6 per share in dividends, or $480,000.

CLOSE UNION.

First "Church Trust" Has Been Formed at Toledo.

Toledo, Ohio, May 31.—The "church trust" of Toledo now is a fact, the formal organization having been completed at a meeting held Wednesday night. Under the name of "The Federation of Church and Christian Workers in Toledo and Vicinity," a close union has been formed, the object of which is to extend religious work into every home in the city.

Nearly all evangelical bodies in the city were represented at the meeting, and even greater interest than expected was shown in the organization. Officers for the first year were elected, there being a lively contest between Dr. Shannon of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal and Dr. Powell of the First Presbyterian church.

A constitution setting forth the objects of the federation was adopted, and the work outlined in a general manner.

The intention is to invite every resident of Toledo and vicinity to join one of the churches. Special efforts will be made to attract those who profess no religion, and to secure them as members of some body affiliated with the federation.

Entertainments, more elaborate and ambitious than any possible for one church, will be given, and the strangers in the city and non-church-goers will be invited and given a chance to become acquainted. Club rooms, a library, a gymnasium, courses in lectures by distinguished persons, and other attractions are among the things promised, and it is believed these will induce many who now profess no religion to join one of the churches or societies.

United work for municipal reform also is one of the objects of the federation, and it is believed possible to secure unanimous support of all Christians in the city when the need appears.

The churches represented at the meeting, and, accordingly, are charter members of the federation movement, are: Plymouth Congregational, First United Presbyterian, First Baptist, First Presbyterian, Grace Reformed, Epworth M. E., Broadway M. E., Monroe Street M. E., Central Congregational, St. Paul's Episcopal, Evangelical association, Salem Evangelical, Third Presbyterian, Detroit Avenue Evangelical and St. Paul's M. E. The Fifth Presbyterian and the Y. M. C. A. were represented by proxy.

Another meeting will be held in the near future, when the further work of the federation will be brought up and plans for immediate action formed.

HAS MANY DEBTS.

Former Actor Owes More Than He Cant Count.

New York, May 31.—Burr McIntosh, the actor, now engaged in the photographic business, was examined in supplementary proceedings in the city court on a judgment obtained against him by Clarence E. Fleming, a theatrical manager. The judgment was for $382 for money loaned. The witness explained that his father owned the photographic business and that he was employed there at a salary. His duties were to pose people and to attend to the outside business.

"Do you owe any money?" he was asked.

"O yes; lots of it."

"How much?"

"I can't say exactly, but I would imagine between $12,000 and $13,000."

The witness said that all the property he owned consisted of his clothing, a gold watch and chain, and an imitation pearl pin worth $7.

After the examination counsel for Mr. Fleming announced that on Saturday morning he would apply in the city court for a receiver for the watch and chain and the pin in order that something might be released on the judgment.

CAN BRING 'EM HERE

Third Regiment Can Be Paid and Disbanded Here.

Col. Van Duzee Grants Permission to Duluth Members.

Must Raise Price of Special Train and Feed.

The disbanding of the Third regiment of the National Guard will take place in this city if the people of Duluth wish to arrange it. The matter of arranging it will mean the raising of a sufficient fund to pay the expense of a special train from Brainerd to Duluth and the provision of subsistence for one day in this city. It will cost about $500.

The general arrangements for the practice march have been published before. The Duluth companies will leave here June 4 for Mille Lacs, where the regiment will mobilize. From there they will march to Brainerd and remain there two days having target practice. This will be concluded on Friday, June 14. After that the men will be paid off and disbanded.

Col. Van Duzee has given the Duluth companies permission to bring the entire regiment here from Brainerd and have the men paid off in this city. They would leave Brainerd Friday night and would arrive in Duluth Saturday morning, June 15. They would be paid off on the train coming over and would spend the day in Duluth, putting in the time as they might choose. There will be from 450 to 500 in the regiment. They will draw from $7 to $10 a man, and the entire company will get about $5000.

From Duluth the state would take them to their homes, it being a matter of indifference to the state whether it takes them back from Brainerd or from Duluth.

There is a little less than two weeks in which to arrange this matter. If it is not settled before the men leave next Tuesday, it can be worked up afterward and they can be notified when they arrive in Brainerd. In the meantime they are actively at work to secure the necessary funds.

GREAT RUSH.

Many Take Advantage of Last Day to Pay.

A splash of sweetness with its attendant cluster of flies was not to be compared with the rush at the treasurer's office this morning. Today is the last day for paying real estate taxes without a penalty of 10 per cent, and that explained the presence in the treasurer's office of a large number of people with money who were anxious to contribute their little mites toward helping along the good work of having city, county and state governments kept over them to protect them from each other and from themselves.

After today a penalty of 10 per cent goes on all taxes that are unpaid. A great many have avoided this penalty by paying half their tax now. The other half must be paid before Oct. 31 or a similar penalty will go upon it then.

WANTS THE LANDS.

P. A. Smith Would Compel the Transfer.

Patrick A. Smith this morning filed in district court a suit of a somewhat unusual nature against the American Timber Brokers, a corporation, and C. P. Magginis. It is to compel the defendants to transfer to him some timber lands in 61-19 in accordance with an agreement alleged to have been made last October.

Smith says that this agreement was that the corporation was to buy lands and lumber for him, to locate government and other lands and estimate the timber upon them. Smith was to pay the expenses of such work, and all lands were to be transferred to him. He was also to pay a commission of 10 cents per 1000 for all the timber on the lands so secured.

He claims that the corporation located the lands in question, which he says contain 600,000 feet of timber, getting title from the government in the name of C. P. Magginis. The expenses of locating the lands was $549, and the commission would be $60. He has offered to pay the corporation $589, but it has refused to transfer the property. Smith wants the court to compel the defendants to carry out the contract. M. H. McMahon is the attorney.

RAINY LAKE COUNTRY.

William Randolph Says There Is Activity.

William Randolph, of Mine Center, the veteran mining man of the Seine River gold fields, arrived in the city today for a few days' business visit. Mr. Randolph says that there is much activity in the Rainy Lake district this season, the largest work being the construction of the Winnipeg & Rainy River railroad. A large number of men are employed on that and good progress is being made. Mr. Randolph does not believe the new road will be completed by this fall, as was anticipated at first. The railroad company will build a bridge over Rainy lake two and a quarter miles long, and work on this bridge has not yet begun, although the material for it is nearly all on the ground. With the coming of the railroad, he says that settlers are dropping into the Rainy Lake country and locating along the new railroad line. Last year the lakes and streams of the Rainy Lake country were very low on account of drouth, but Mr. Randolph say they have plenty of water for all purposes now, although there has been but little rainfall this spring. The weather there has been quite warm, as warm for some time as it has been in Duluth today.

He says that the only mining operations now going on at Mine Center are at the Golden Star mine, where new shafting is being put in and drifting is being pushed ahead steadily. The Olive mine will resume operations in a few days. Mr. Randolph looks for a renewed activity in the district, greater than it has ever before experienced as soon as the railroad is an accomplished fact and the district has all the facilities to help it along that usually follow railroad building into a good country that has never before had transportation facilities.

MR. PETRE RESENTS.

Claims That Moses Stewart Called Him Names.

Moses Stewart, the well-known liveryman, was arrested this morning on a complaint sworn out by D. A. Petre. The latter says that sultry conversation was addressed to him by Mr. Stewart and that he was called names which he does not remember seeing on the Petre family record for many generations back. Mr. Stewart's talk did not even resemble the Latin inscription on the Petre coat of arms.

Mr. Stewart appeared in court long enough to say that he was not guilty of the charges made against him, and the hearing was set for next Tuesday morning.

Charles Undine was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Kritz, who, in her complaint says that he struck her several times, and intimates that her general appearance was not improved thereby. This case, too, was set for Tuesday morning.

FIRST HALF

Of Final Census Report Issued By Director Merriam.

Washington, May 31.—The director of the census today issued the first half of the final census report on population, showing the aggregate population of the United States by states and territories, the density of population, the center of population in its medium point, the population of Alaska and of the Hawaiian islands, the number of representatives apportioned under the recent act of congress, and also the population of the states and territories by minor civil divisions, the population of cities having 25,000 inhabitants or more in 1900.

This report is issued in the form of a monograph and comprises about 500 pages. The other portion of the final report on population will be issued during the early fall, putting the entire volume in the hands of the public at least four years in advance of any previous census.

AN AWFUL STRUGGLE

That Is What the High School-Normal Game Will Be.

Both Teams Are Strong and Determined to Win.

Duluth Team Is Confident ---Has a Great Battery.

Tomorrow Duluth will see the termination o a feud, and the termination will be a fit ending to the preceding battles. Amid the cries of thousands and the blowing of trumpets, amid gaily dressed throngs and flaunting banners, tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, a careworn individual will step to the middle of the Driving park and shout "Play ball." And then will stride up ferociously, with glittering eyes and firm jaws, grasping a great club of hickory in his brawny hands, a warrior arrayed in brilliant colors of red and white, while an enemy, with bated breath and fearful arm, soaks in a leather-covered sphere. The red and white man, swinging his club, will connect, short circuit the ball, and rush into the midst of his enemies, even into the jaws of one who has great leather-covered hands, while the careworn individual, smiling sadly, says, "Fair ball—safe on first"—and the game will be on.

Tomorrow afternoon, at the Driving park, the Duluth Central High school will play baseball with the Superior Normals at Oneota park, and a large number of rooters from both schools will be out to see the game.

It is the only game that the Duluth high school will play at home, but undoubtedly it will be one of the fastest games ever seen on the diamond here. Duluth has not been defeated this season and has been playing exceptionally good ball all year. Potter, behind the bat, has had only two passed balls during the season. Al Cummings, the ambidextrous, in the box, has had a wonderful record this season. Alworth, who has pitched and played second, is a steady, sure man in both positions, while both the in-field and out-field have had very few errors credited to them. All of the men are good, sure batters, and a professional at Cloquet was the only man they found at all discomforting, and they found him soon enough to win the game.

The Superior team remains practically the same as last year, with the exception of the pitcher, who is now teaching. In his place they have found an Indian, who is a whirlwind when it comes to speed, but the Duluth team does not seem to be much afraid of him. It promises to be the best game in which the high school will participate this year.

The line-up of neither team has been yet definitely decided upon, but the Duluth team will probably play in the same positions as in the former games.

BOER PRISONERS.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 31.—A report from Barbadoes says the imperial government is arranging to send a draft of Boer prisoners there.

MAN IN THE ROOM.

Why Dr. Billy's Friends Treated Him So.

Dr. Billy Greenleaf gave a dinner a few nights ago to some half-dozen parched brutes who jeered at him while they swilled his champagne. Later the doctor intends to build a temple to truth, says the New York Sun.

Dr. Billy was married a year ago to a young woman who picked him out of numerous candidates, and the honeymoon has shown no sign of waning except on Saturday nights. On that night weekly Dr. Billy relapses into prenuptial savagery and plays poker at his club with the same band of smirking degenerates that he played with in his bachelor days. Even on these nights it is of record he has occasionally found the allurements of his fireside too strong, and the waiting squad at the club has been obliged to drag him out with entreaties and imprecations by telephone.

One night not long ago, however, they didn't succeed, and that is the beginning of this story. Dr. Billy had to go out of town on Saturday morning and didn't expect to get back until 10 o'clock that night. So he told the crowd to begin the game without him and he would get around between half-past 10 and 11. But he had a hard day, and when he got home the prospect of playing poker for four or five hours didn't appeal to him. The upshot of it was that instead of going to his club Billy and his wife went to bed. Dr. Billy has a telephone in his office downstairs, but when he goes to bed he connects a switch line with his bedroom in case he is called up in the night. This night he had been in bed perhaps an hour when the telephone bell rang.

"I guess that's the poker crowd," said Billy to his wife. "You'd better get up and answer it."

Billy's wife got up, and after a moment at the telephone whispered across the room: "It is the poker crowd. Mr. Norval wants to speak with you."

"Oh, thunderation," yawned Billy. "Ask him if he can't give his message to you."

"No; Mr. Norval wants to speak to the doctor personally."

"Well, tell him he can't speak to me," said Billy. "If I listen to him he'll have me down there in spite of myself. Tell him I'm sick."

"Dr. Greenleaf is——" began Mrs. Billy into the transmitter.

"Wait a minute," interrupted Billy; "that won't do. They won't believe it. Tell them I expected to get home, but that I was kept out of town over night."

Billy's wife communicated this information, after which she and Billy slept in peace. The following Monday Billy met Norval on the street and began to tell him how sorry he was. But he didn't finish. Norval acted queer. He seemed weighed down with sorrow and his voice was that of a man offering condolence at a funeral.

"That's all right, old man," he said, laying a heavy hand on Billy's shoulder. "We were sorry, too, very sorry."

Then he looked into Billy's face for one moment with heavy eyes and went his way.

"What the deuce is the matter with Norval?" thought Billy. "He acts as though he had lost his money."

At luncheon that day Billy saw Snedecker, another of the poker crowd, at an adjoining table. But when Snedecker saw Billy, Billy noticed that he looked swiftly away and that his features took on a lugubrious cast.

"Hello, Sned," Billy called across. "Come over here and feed."

"No, thank you, old man," croaked Snedecker. "I'm about through." He nodded funereally at Billy, and after a few moments got up and went out.

Billy didn't know what to make of it. He ran across the rest of the crown in the course of the next day or two. They tried to avoid him. When he cornered them, they looked at him with pitying eyes and got away as soon as possible. Then he met Snedecker again. Snedecker was laughing when Billy came upon him, but when Billy spoke Snedecker's jaw dropped and his eyes glazed. Billy waited till the other had gone. Then he said:

"Look here, Snedecker: what the devil is the matter with you fellows?"

Snedecker looked at the ground.

"Why, I don't know what you mean," he said. "Say, old man, you'll excuse me, won't you? I've got to run for a car."

They played poker the next Saturday night. The crowd was talking when Billy came in, but that moment a pall fell on the room, and the rest of the evening was more like sitting up with the dead than a social game. Billy and Norval generally walked home together, but on this night Norval started alone.

"Just a moment," said Billy, "and I'll be with you."

"If you'll excuse me, old man——" began Norval.

"I won't excuse," said Billy, getting into his coat and following after. When they got to a retired place Billy took Norval by the lapels of his coat and backed him up against a fence. "Now look here," said Billy, "I'm going to find out what all this means or I'm going to punch your head. Every one of you fellows has been avoiding me for a week, and when I force myself on you, you act as though I were a criminal or a leper. Now out with it—what's up?"

"Why, my dear old boy, I'm sure you're mistaken," said Norval, hollowly. "There's not a thing——"

"You're a damned liar," said Billy, shaking him. "Out with it." Billy is a big man.

"Billy, old fellow," said Norval, "you—you mustn't ask me."

"Out with it," ordered Billy.

"I—I don't know," stammered Norval, "perhaps you ought to know. Only remember I should never have told you if you hadn't insisted and if we weren't mighty old friends—mighty old friends."

"Well?" asked Billy, getting excited.

"You remember last—last Saturday night—you were out of town, you know—didn't get home——"

"Yes, go on," said Billy.

"Well—we called up the house, you know, by telephone. Mrs. Greenleaf answered. We had to ring several times, you know, because she was upstairs—asleep, guess—and she answered the 'phone without going downstairs."

"Yes, over the switch," said Billy.

"Yes, over the switch—in your bedroom—Billy, old man, remember you insisted on my telling you this."

"Go on," commanded Billy.

"Well—well—there was somebody there—with Mrs. Greenleaf. We heard his—his voice—as plain as day, though we couldn't quite make out—what he said. He seemed to be telling her what to say. He—he—was a man."

"Well, what the deuce is there strange about that?" demanded Billy. "Why—"

Norval tried to put his hand on Billy's shoulder.

"You—you were—out of town that night, you remember——"

"Good Lord," groaned Billy, and he strode off into the night, leaving Norval standing there. He saw some of them the next day and they wabbled their heads at him and hastened away. Billy didn't pursue them. They seemed to be trying to keep back tears.

Two days later each one of the crowd got a note from Billy. These were not couched in elegant nor polite language, but they conveyed the information that instead of poker the following Saturday night there was to be a dinner, with Billy as host. It was to be a champagne dinner.

Billy got up on his feet the minute they had their legs under the table.

"You idiots," said Billy, "when my wife telephoned down here Saturday night before last, the only——"

"That will do, Billy," said Norval. "I forgot to say that we recognized the man's voice as yours the first time you opened your head. Order some more champagne."

Dr. Billy is not sure that his temple to truth will not have a park around it.

AMERICAN BRAINS.

The development of the East Indian gold fields is engaging the serious attention of the British home government. An officer of the royal engineers in its service recently returned to India from this country after collecting all the information possible and giving orders for machinery for working the low grade ores of the Mysore gold fields, says the New York Sun.

These ores are said to resemble those of South Africa and Australia, which can be profitably treated only by the cyanide process, but there was some doubt as to whether the reefs were extensive enough to justify the investment of capital in working them. Exploration which has been going on for several years has proved that the ore is in abundance, and the only question that remained was as to the character of the power to be used in driving the machinery required to extract it.

It was in connection with this part of the scheme that the officer referred to visited this country. The various systems of working were carefully studied, and it was finally decided that machines worked with compressed air should be employed. The difficulty that still presented itself was as to the method of compressing the air.

Steam power was out of the question, and the nearest available water power is about 100 miles from the fields. The engineers in England, Germany, Belgium and France who were consulted were not able to give a satisfactory solution of it. Finally he turned to this country. After several months of working and experimenting the difficulty was overcome and means were found by which electrical power could be transmitted over the 100 miles intervening between the water power and the gold fields, and at the latter by means of new machinery used in the production of compressed air.

The result of the mission of the agent of the British Indian government to this country has been that orders for considerably more than a million dollars' worth of machinery have been given, and by next summer American machinery, worked by American engineers, will be set up in Mysore to add to the world's production of gold.

The estimate is that when these Mysore gold fields are fully developed they will yield from thirty to forty-five millions of dollars' worth of gold annually at a very fair profit.

STEAMERS WILL RACE

Over a Course One Hundred Miles In Length.

The City of Erie and the Tashmoo the Contestants.

One Is a Cleveland Boat and the Other of Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., May 31.—On the side of the Detroit steamer Tashmoo, that is to race with the Cleveland steamer City of Erie next Tuesday, $750 is waiting to be covered here by enthusiastic Cleveland money. An official of the company owning the Tashmoo who went to Cleveland to find the $50,000 said to be waiting in the Perry-Paine building for bets on the City of Erie says the $50,000 is a myth. He claims the Cleveland people are doing a lot of talking but do not put up their money.

Races between sailing yachts have become common enough, but the practice of racing steamships has gone out of fashion since the days of the races of the Mississippi river packets in the good old times, when it was the practice to put a little nigger on the safety valve in case of an exciting finish. There used to be some racing between Hudson river boats, but it was discouraged, and it may be taken for granted that few of the present generation have ever seen a steamship race.

Those who want to see one can have their curiosity gratified by visiting Cleveland on Tuesday, June 4, when there is to be a race between two big, new, fast steamships over a course 100 miles in length. To be exact, the racing steamships will start from Cleveland and will steam to a point abreast of the Presqu Ile light at Erie, Pa.

The news of the coming race has created much interest in the lake districts, and there are to be big excursions from all the ports on the great lakes to the Cleveland-Erie course, in order that the interested crowds may see the race. Chicagoans have already prepared for the event by trying to charter the big whaleback steamship Christopher Columbus to take a crowd of Chicago men to the race. It is proposed to make a quick run with this big boat down Lakes Michigan and Huron. This will give people a chance to see what the whaleback can do in a long stretch of deep water, instead of on her usual little summer job of coasting between Chicago and Milwaukee. It is said, also, that the Christopher Columbus is the only available passenger steamship which possesses sufficient engine power and speed to keep abreast of the racers and be near the winner at the finish.

The contestants in the race will be the steamship City of Erie, of the Cleveland and Buffalo Transit company; the Tashmoo, of the White Star line, running between Detroit and Port Huron. The City of Erie is one of the new, fast, sidewheel steamships of the Cleveland and Buffalo line. The boat is 324 feet long, and 78 feet beam. The City of Erie is credited by her admirers with a speed of 25 miles an hour.

The other boat, the Tashmoo, is a new, steel, sidewheel steamship, built at the Wyandotte yards in 1899. The Tashmoo's length is 320 feet and it has a beam of 70 feet. The Tashmoo is said to have a regular running speed of 24 miles an hour, and it is suggested that the boat can improve that speed if necessary. The horse-power of the boats has not been announced. Both boats are very nearly of the same size and each cost about $500,000.

Constant taunts between the crews, captains and patrons of the two steamships led to the match being made for the race. The two steamships are credited with being the fastest paddle-wheel boats in lake service. The purse is of $2000 and is in the hands of J. W. Westcott, of Detroit, as stakeholder.

The following conditions are to govern the race, some minor changes being, perhaps, announced the day before the race: The race is to take place along the south shore of Lake Erie, from Cleveland to abreast of the Presqu'Ile light at Erie. The start will be made at 9:30 a. m. The steamships are to be at a standstill, abreast of each other, half a mile west of the first stake-boat when the starting gun is fired. A tug will be anchored two miles off the Cleveland waterworks crib, and the racers are to pass between the tug and the crib. Two more tugs will lie off the Presqu'Ile light, one about eight miles away and the other ten miles. Between these tugs the racing steamships must pass at the end of their course. The competing steamships are to run in parallel courses, half a mile apart.

Each steamship line is to select one judge, and these two are to select a third, who is not to be a resident of either Cleveland or Detroit. There are to be six timekeepers, chosen on the same general principles. Three of these timekeepers are to be at each end of the course. There are also to be three "searchers" on each boat, two appointed by the rival owners and two mrom outside. The object of these searchers is to see that no tricks are played with fuel or machinery—except those allowable under the conditions of the race. They are also to see that the conditions as to parallel course and distance apart are observed. If either boat violates the rule as to the course, it is to be subject to a fine of $500, or the forfeiture of the race. The question of which boat shall hold the northerly or southerly course is to be decided by lot on the morning of the race.

Provision is made for postponement in case of heavy weather and rough water. The first postponement is to be until June 6, the next—if rendered necessary—on the 8th, and so on; the postponement being always to the even dates in the month.

Northwestern Line Excursion $5.75.

Daily until and including June 4 the North-Western line will sell excursion tickets to St. Paul and return, good until June 15, at the above rate. Remember these tickets are good on the famous "Twilight Limited," which leaves Duluth daily over the Omaha railway at 4:20 p. m. Do not fail to secure your tickets for this famous train, on sale at 405 West Superior street or Omaha depot.

CORNELL'S EASY DAY

Second Crew Won Handsomely Over Columbia and Pennsylvania.

Lowered the Record For the Lake Cayuga Course.

Athletes Administered Severe Defeat to Princeton Team.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 31.—Cornell oarsmen proved their worth once more in the two-mile race on Lake Cayuga yesterday, their second crew rowed across the finish easy winners over the second crews of Columbia and Pennsylvania. Coach Courtney's men showed splendid form, and in addition possessed weight and power superior to their opponents. They rowed to victory in the excellent time of 10:52, lowering the record for the course, made two years ago by thirty-four seconds. Columbia was second, finishing in 11:02, and Pennsylvania made the distance in 11:08½. The Ithacans had a lead of 2½ lengths on Columbia, and the New York crew had about the same advantage over the Pennsylvania oarsmen.

The Ithacans were first to catch the water, and in the first dozen strokes they had shot their shell nearly a length in front. They continued their good work for a mile and three-quarters and led Cornell until the half mile point was passed. Both Cornell and Columbia left Pennsylvania behind shortly after the start of the race. The Pennsylvania crew apparently lacked the power, and Cornell found her real rival the Columbia crew.

After the mile and a half point was passed the contest was no longer in doubt. Cornell reached thirty-eight strokes to the minute in the last 100 yards, and continued to increase her lead.

Pennsylvania drew up slightly on Columbia, but was unable to cut down the big lead of the New York crew.

The contest was rowed under favorable conditions notwithstanding the threatened storm of the early morning. The sky brightened and the sun shone for a few minutes in the afternoon.

Ten thousand persons went to Percy Field prior to the race to witness the dual meet between Cornell and Princeton. By 5 o'clock, the time appointed for the observation train to leave for the racing course, 4000 persons had assembled at the finish mark in the neighborhood of Renwick Beach landing.

About 3500 had seats on the Lehigh observation train. Enthusiastic cheering of Cornell's admirers when they saw their favorites pull into victory drowned the shouts of the coxswains, and during the few minutes the race was on the interest was intense. Cornell's crew was greeted with waving of flags, cheering and blowing of whistles of steamers gathered around the finish point, all making noise that was deafening.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 31.—The Cornell athletes administered a severe defeat to the Princeton team yesterday. Out of 104 points the Ithacans took 64, this being by far the best showing ever made by Cornell in this branch of sport.

The track was heavy and the weather conditions very unfavorable for record smashing, yet Sears, the freshman wonder, lowered the Cornell record in the 100-yard dash, the official time being 10 1-5 seconds. His work in this event was, according to some timers, faster than ten seconds flat, but it is thought that under favorable conditions he could have equalled the intercollegiate record. He also carried off the quarter-mile event with ease in 52 4-5 seconds, and won the 22-yard dash by a good margin in 22 4-5 seconds. Gallagher unexpectedly lost the two-mile event to Williams, of Princeton.

In field events Princeton was expected to outpoint Cornell, yet the Ithacans here also made a creditable showing.

New York, May 31.—The intercollegiate bicycle championship, twice postponed, was held at Berkley oval yesterday afternoon. Yale captured the championship, as was generally expected, scoring thirty points. Princeton seventeen, Pennsylvania seven and Columbia one. After the meet, O. S. Butti was elected captain of the Yale team for 1902. All the finishes were close and the track was good. The finish in the quarter-mile, when inches separated the first four, was so close that the judges made the mistake of placing the third man first, but afterward rectified the error.

PILOTAGE DECISION.

Effect May Be Injurious to American Shipping.

Washington, May 31.—It is thought that the pilotage decision, which attracted little attention at the time, but was handed down with the other insular decisions Monday, will be construed as extending the regulations of the coastwise trade to the Philippines, as well as to Porto Rico and Hawaii. By direction of the president and on recommendation of the bureau of navigation of the treasury department, the coastwise regulations were extended to Porto Rico soon after the ratification of the Paris treaty, or in August, 1898, about the same time they were also extended to Hawaii. What is known as the pilotage case was friendly litigation, brought to test the legality of these extensions of the shipping laws. The supreme court sustained the president's act and it is now thought that there will be a demand to extend the regulations to the Philippines, in pursuance of the court's mandate.

Shipping men say this would be a serious blow to American shipping. It is contended that the country is not yet ready to include the distant Philippines in its coastwise trade and to confer on that far removed archipelago the benefits of the American navigation laws. Still, as the question is not yet very well understood, it is likely that little will be heard about it until congress takes hold of it and enacts the necessary legislation.

Attorney General Knox is carefully studying the various expressions used by the justices in the DeLima and the Downes decisions, with the view of preparing an opinion for submission to the cabinet as to the powers which the supreme court has declared belong to the president by constitutional warrant as well as the special grant of power vested in the executive by the Spooner resolution. A definite and authoritative announcement of the government's Philippine policy to be pursued until congress passes special legislation for the archipelago will probably be made soon after the cabinet meets next week.

LUMBER MARKET

Opinions Differ as to Comparisons With Last Year.

Large Amount of Dry Lumber Still on Docks.

Lath Are Selling at Top Prices---The Vessel Rate.

It is a puzzling question to find out the exact condition of the local lumber market, in fact, it is practically impossible to get a unanimity of opinion from those interested in the lumber business. For instance, one prominent lumber shipper says that the lumber market is in A1 condition, and that things were never looking better for the manufacturers and the people that have lumber to sell than it does at the resent time. He says that the better grades of lumber, as the No. 3 and better and No. 2 boards are from $2 to $2.50 higher than they were a year ago and that lower grades of lumber are selling for about the same price.

On the other hand one of the largest lumber manufacturers at the head of the lake says the market is not better than it was a year ago, and that he can show the figures to prove that while there may be a slight increase in the price of the better grades there is a falling off in the price of lower grades that will make the market strike an average below that of one year ago. Other manufacturers deny that they are getting any better prices than last year during the same season and that it was for this reason they so long resisted the demands of the lumber pilers for a arise of 25 cents a day.

However it may be, there is a general feeling of confidence among the lumbermen and they do not appear to be at all dissatisfied with the situation. Not a manufacturer can be found that will not say that the prospects are excellent for a good season.

The conditions that are still making the local manufacturers uneasy are the large stocks of dry sold lumber that still remain on the docks, in spite of the movement by the lumber boats, which has been more than a little during the last two weeks. It is known that some of the mills are working even now under this handicap. They would run heavier had they dock room to take care of the new cut. It is said that one, at least, of the big sawmill companies may have to cease its night runs within a few days unless there are more lumber boats available. The Merrill & Ring company has not started in on the night runs for the reason that the lumber company has not yet had the dock room to take care of the new lumber it would turn out by doubling its cut. There have been a large number of lumber boats at the West Duluth docks this week, however, and there is a strong possibility that the Merrill & Ring mill will begin making night runs next week.

A prominent lumber shipper said this week that he was reasonably sure of being correct in making the statement that every bit of the new lumber cut of this season up to August has been sold or is under option and that buyers are now figuring on stocks that will be utrned out by the mills after the first of August. There are many indications that point to a confirmation of this statement for it is known that several large lumber sales are awaiting the signing of the contracts. In one instance there is 15,000,000 feet of this year's cut involved and it would more than clean up all that one mill has cut thus far this season.

It may not be generally known that lath is selling for top prices nowadays. One manufacturer claims that lath, which was not long ago selling for $1.87½, is now bringing $2 and $2.25. There have been no large shingle sales yet and it is said that the prices are not advancing but holding firm.

As was stated in The Herald a few days ago, the lumber rate to Lake Erie is $2.25 and to Chicago is $2.50 and these rates are firm. Just at present the owners of lumber tonnage are said to be not unanimous as to the wisdom of trying to force the rate over $2.25 to Lake Erie ports. The dry lumber needs moving to give the local manufacturers the room that they desire on the docks, but it is regarded as of questionable advisability to force prices up and take advantage of this state of affairs. Beside this new buyers are said to be holding out for a sixty-day drying period on the docks here before the new lumber is taken down the lakes. This will bring about another congestion a little later in the season, and one vesselman says that such a time would be more favorable to advance the lumber rate to $2.50 to Lake Erie. He hints at a demoralization of the business if the vesselmen make haste to add the extra 25 cents to the rate now. The rate is 25 cents higher to Chicago for the reason that the vessels cannot get return cargoes, tow bills are high and it costs more for fuel on Lake Michigan.

AMUSEMENTS.

"NATHAN HALE."

"Nathan Hale," Clyde Fitch's powerful revolutionary play, will be presented at the Lyceum Tuesday. The entire production, including its massive scenery and gorgeous costumes, will be shown here exactly as it was seen during its extended run at the Knickerbocker theater, New York. The title role will be in the capable hands of Howard Kyle, who is well known through his association with Modjeska and other Shakespearean stars. His sweetheart in the play, Alice Adams, will be enacted by Miss Jessie Izett, whose beauty and ability have won for her a pre-eminent place among leading ladies. The supporting company is more than adequate.

Skin affections will readily disappear by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Look out for counterfeits. If you get DeWitt's you will get good results. It is the quick and positive cure for piles. Max Wirth.

Secretary Hill Calls One For Next Tuesday.

Secretary Thomas E. Hill of the Duluth Improvement company has taken the initiatory step in the matter of business men's excursions by calling a meeting of the business men at the city hall at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening. Mr. Hill says that if he is in error regarding his note of warning to the merchants, now is the proper time to correct it, and at this meeting the question will be discussed by the merchants and interested citizens. Mr. Hill says that if the sentiment is for business men's excursions for the purpose of bringing shoppers from the surrounding towns to Duluth to trade at stated intervals, then the Improvement association is ready to fall in line and help to make the excursions a success by working in harmony with the merchants. If the idea is to keep the visitors in the city over night, the association stands ready to offer valuable aid in the matter of furnishing lodging places for the crowds.

TRIED TO KILL HIM.

Doctor and Music Teacher Have a Fight.

Boston, May 31.—Dr. Sumner W. Paine, of this city, was arrested Wednesday night and locked up on a charge of assault with intent to kill August Damm, a well known music teacher.

Paine returned home unexpectedly and found Damm in a compromising position with his wife. A scuffle ensued in which Damm was severely pummelled. Paine then rushed for his revolver and Damm for a back window, through which he escaped, followed by four pistol shots, none of which took effect.

Without coat, vest or hat Damm was making a record race through Boston commons with the speed of a frightened deer. He was nabbed by a policeman, who took his supposed crazy prisoner to station 3. There Damm related his experiences to the lieutenant and an officer was immediately sent out to arrest the husband. Paine is the well-known Harvard athlete who won a big reputation as a football player while in college. He is the son of Gen. Charles J. Paine, the yachtsman, and well-known defender of the American's cup. At the Olympian games in Athens, Paine won the world's championship for revolver shooting.

INTERNAL COMMERCE

Monthly Review Is Issued By the Treasury Department.

Lake Season In Ore Traffic Opens With New Dock.

Effect of New Source of Fuel Supply In Texas.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The monthly review of the internal commerce of the United States, undertaken by the treasury department, in its monthly publication, the Summary of Commerce and Finance, summarizes in its opening pages the principal features of the internal commerce of the country during the first quarter of the current year. On the Atlantic seaboard one of the more important announcements is that of the addition of Portland, Me., to the list of contract ports entitled to the lowest marine insurance rates. This addition gives the Atlantic coast six grain shipping ports of the first rank, so far as safety of navigation goes. The list at present includes Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk, Newport News and Portland. The placing of Portland on the contract list gives occasion to call attention to the fact that this port has recently been provided with a first class grain inspection system; that its pilotage system has been much improved to meet the requirements of the increasing size of freight and passenger steamships engaged in its trans-Atlantic service, and that greatly enlarged terminal facilities, such as piers, docks, warehouses and grain elevators, have added another deep water harbor to the Atlantic coast.

The lake season in ore traffic opens with one new dock of modern design added to the already marvelous equipment at the Lake Superior points of shipments of iron ores. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, by way of the new Escanaba & Lake Superior railway, from Channing to Escanaba, gains access to the ore-handling business on the upper lakes. The company completed its ore dock at Escanaba in October, 1900, but too late to figure prominently in that year's movement. This pier is the twenty-third in number at the seven great shipping ports—Duluth, Two Harbors, Escanaba, Superior, Marquette, Ashland and Gladstone.

The new St. Paul pier is 750 feet long, 52 feet wide at the top, and 66½ feet high above water. There are 120 pockets and its capacity is 28,000 tons of ore. The dock carries four railway tracks. This addition to the storage capacity of the ore piers at the upper lakes will bring the total equipment up to 820,000 tons capacity available for the season of 1901.

Disputes relative to wages have frequently interfered with the even movement of traffic on the lakes, though not more so than in any other portion of the country. Nevetheless, these disputes have the effect of interfering greatly with the opportunities of transportation, which are confined to the limits of the summer season. Anything, therefore, which removes from the relations of employers and employes a cause or occasion of disagreement must be considered as a more favorable outlook for the future. The recent agreement between the Lumber Vessel Carriers' association, representing the lumber-carrying firms on the lakes, with the delegates of the 'Longshoremen's union, lays the basis for a permanent understanding between these two interests, so closely connected with the lumber trade. The agreement in question provides: 1. That the rate of wages be 50 cents per hour during the entire season of 1901 for the leading of lumber, laths, shingles and other forest products on the boats of the said Lumber Carriers' association. 2. That the captain of a vessel should recognize the union and give preference to union men in employment, so long as members of the union can be obtained. 3. That all disputes are to be settled by arbitration, without interruption of work, pending such settlements.

One of the immediate effects of the opening of the new source of fuel supply in Texas is to place all industrial establishments in that section depending upon steam power upon a more favorable economic basis. This applies to cotton mills, to cotton-seed mills, to cane-grading mills, and all others where coal fuel has hitherto been an expensive element in th cost of production.e The producers of fuel oil are well aware of this opportunity to substitute, and are making provisions to distribute fuel oil at all railroad points and points accessible to navigation. The influence of this new factor will be felt far beyond the localities directly affected. If the use of fuel oil becomes extensive enough it may materialy reduce the price of coal at the Lower Mississippi centers of consumption and also give a new stimulus to manufacturers in Texas and adjacent territory.

The opening of the Beaumont, Texas, oil fields has required new facilities for transportation to the seaboard for that commodity. For this purpose a pipe line has been constructed from the oil tanks at Beaumont to the shipe side of the canal leading to Port Arthur, a distance of over eighteen miles. Three tanks of 50,000 barrels capacity each, are located at Elvista, about midway between the wells and the seaport, from which intermediate station it is calculated that the oil will flow by gravity.

An additional pipe line was opened Feb. 9, 1901, for the conveying of petroleum from Bradford, Pa., a tide-water point in the Delaware river below Bradford to Marchshook, the distributing point, where large storage tanks have been built with a capacity of 50,000 barrels. The flow is by gravitation solely for the last 200 miles of the distance. A special pier of 600 feet in length has been constructed into the river for loading steamers. Wharfage has been secured at four European ports, and a fleet of ten modern oil carriers has been built expressly for this trade.

POLICE CHIEFS.

Association Elects Officers For Ensuing Year.

New York, May 31.—Maj. Richard Sylverton of Washington, D. C., was selected president of the National Association of Police Chiefs today by a vote of 51 to 49; Deputy Police Commissioner William Devery of New York was selected vice president.

Devery's selection was by acclamation. Harvey O. Case was re-elected secretary and treasirer. Those chosen on the board of directors are: Chief J. J. Donahue of Omaha and Benjamin Howard, of Richmond, Va.

The association voted to meet next year in Louisville, Ky. Commissioner Henchell of Cincinnati read a paper on "The Police of London." As a preface he made a plea for the larger liberty of the chief, and contrasted conditions in the German cities, where everything is open Sundays, with Glasgow, where he found it impossible to buy even a cigar on Sunday.

"What may have suited pastoral times and towns," he said, "is not suitable for the present times and great cities."

Mayor Jones of Toledo addressed the convention. "I'm glad to be with you," he began. "I always like policemen when they are not trying to arrest anyone. I was especially pleased to be here to hear Mr. Henchell's plea for a larger liberty, and observe that most of you applauded his sentiments. Too much restraint is far worse for the average city than too much liberty. I hope to see the efficiency of a policeman measured by his service to the people. I hope to see the time when each policeman will know it is his duty to make it easy for the good to be good, and hard for the bad to be bad."

This closed the business of the convention.

RAMBLING KATIE.

Won Big Purse at Whitsuntide Meeting.

London, May 31.—At the Manchester Whitsuntide meeting today J. Dawson's brown filly Rambling Katie, a 4-year-old, won the Manchester cup of 2500 sovereigns, added to a sweepstakes of 25 sovereigns each, distance 1¾ miles. Mr. Fairies' Parquetry was second and W. C. Whitney's Kilmarner II (L. Reiff) was third. Twelve horses ran.

Rambling Katie was a rank outsider and won in hollow fashion by four lengths. There was a head between Parquetry and Kilmarner II. Mr. Whitney's horse was a hot favorite and started with the betting 2 to 1 against him, but he never showed in front. hTe betting on the other horses was Rambling Katie 100 to 5 against, Parquetry 20 to 1 against.

THE BULLDOG

The Armored Canine Who Saved Chicken From Wildcats.

Worked Well as Long as He Held to His Class.

"Si Haskins' armored bulldog took a long and successful whirl at the strenuous life game," remarked the old guide reminiscently to the party gathered about the evening campfire. "But in the end he met downfall and disaster, owing to an inflated chest and an ambition to fight out of his class. The death of Pete, as he called the bulldog, was a grievous blow to Si," says the New York Sun.

"'A dog that was a credit to himself and his worthy owner!' said the good old man, mournfully, as he looked at Pete's flattened remains. 'And now if I want to give him honorable burial, I'll have to use a couple of barn doors for a coffin.'

"Si had been the owner of an unusually fine lot of chickens, which he kept in his back yard. Between the eggs and the sale of the chickens he was making a good thing out of it, but found that his feelings were lacerated and his profits cut down by the inroads of wildcats, who used to be pretty frequent in these parts. Once in a while Si would bring one down with his gun, but for the most part, wildcats were night workers. And even his affection for his prize chickens couldn't keep Si up watching for wildcats on a cold night.

"'Dead chickens can be replaced,' Si used to say feelingly, 'but there's only one of Si Haskins. The community would never forgive me if I let him get his death of cold through my own carelessness.'

"One day a neighbor suggested that Si should get a bulldog and put it near the hencoop to guard against the wildcats. The idea of delegating the watching in the cold to some one else pleased Si up to the limit. The next time he went to town he bought a bulldog. The dog had a deep chest, heavy undershot jaws and looked as if he was spoiling for a fight.

"'Look at the intelligent air and heavy jaws of that dog,' said Si admiringly to me. 'Once let him get a grip on a wildcat and an inquest will be the only thing that will interest the furry marauder.'

"I didn't know so very much about bulldogs, but I had some experiences with wildcats and I was doubtful of the success of Si's scheme. I didn't say anything to discourage him, though. That night Si fastened the bulldrog near the hencoop and went to bed rejoicing in the thought of the coming slaughter of wildcats. About the middle of the night there was a turmoil out near the hencoop. Si heard the noise, but didn't disturb himself about it.

"'One more wildcat gone to the great beyond,' he observed, placid like. And then he turned over in bed and went to sleep.

"In the morning Si found he had made a mistake in his great beyond proposition. On the ground near the hencoop he found the body of the bulldog. It looked as if it had been put through a stone crusher. The dog had evidently tackled the wildcat, but a wildcat is more than a match for a bulldog any night, and the protector of Si's hens had been practically torn to pieces. Then to add insult to injury, the wildcat had prowled around until he found an entrance to the hencoop. He crept in, killed half a dozen of Si's fowls and then made his way back to the woods.

"Si wasn't discouraged at the result of his experience, but imported another bulldog. It met the fate of the first. He tried two or three more, but it was evident that when they went against wildcats they were out of their class. The good man was mightily annoyed.

"'Seems to me my system is productive of a great waste of bulldogs,' he said to me mournfully. 'But I can't see that it is making many vacancies beside the firesides of happy wildcat homes.'

"And the old man trudged gloomily away. The next day he called over at my house. But this time he had the happy, contented look of a man who had hit upon some discovery that will be of benefit to others and himself.

"'I knew that when your Uncle Si's brain once got to running under full headway I would strike some way of solving the wildcat-bulldog problem. Now what is the strongest and most prominent point in a bulldog's anatomy?' he asked.

"I allowed that it was in his jaws and his biting capabilities that a bulldog excelled.

"'To be sure, to be sure,' replied Si, in the tone of a man who has gained an important point in an argument. But the rest of the notable creature's body is not protected from attack. Now in the olden times who were the main guys when it came to putting up a fight? Why the armored knights to be sure. And it was that fact that gave me the idea which I am going to use for the slaughter of pernicious and annoying wildcats.'

"I didn't quite understand what Si was driving at.

"'And are you going to knight your bulldogs?' I queried puzzled like. 'The Order of the Sacred Bulldogs might be popular with the dogs, but I can't see where it would affect the wildcat-killing game. I've heard of belted earls, but belted bulldogs is a new one to me.'

"Si looked at me as if he was amazed a man could be so dense.

"'It's no new order of chivalry among bulldogs that I'm thinking of establishing,' he answered impatient like. 'What made the knights such hot articles in their day was the fact that they wore armor. And I'm thinking that a bulldog equipped in the same manner would make any wildcat that attacked him mighty sick.'

"I didn't approve of his plan.

"'Turtle shells and wildcats have fur,' I said solemnly. 'But nature never intended bulldogs should be armored. In my opinion, ironclad bulldogs are flying in the face of Providence and there will no good come to the invention.'

"But Si only sneered and said that ironclad bulldogs couldn't fly in the face of anyone, let alone Providence.

"'Besides, it's dead wildcats rather than spiritual blessings that I'm looking for,' he added, obstinate like.

"So Si set to work, and after a good deal of work managed to make a sort of suit of armor, as he called it. It was part leather, but in the places where he thought a wildcat would be most likely to get in its work with its claws Si made the armor of little links of steel. Then he went to the city and bought a big and uncommonly ugly-looking bulldog.

"When he got the dog home Si adjusted the suit of bulldog armor on him. The dog didn't take kindly to the scheme and at first tried to test his teeth on Si. But there wasn't any use trying to get rid of the armor, and after a little, Pete, as Si had named him, got used to it. Then Si determined it was time to put his idea to a practical test.

"The next day we started out in the woods, and after a little came on the track of a wildcat. We traced it to near the cat's den. Then Si and I hid in the bushes, sending Pete up the trail toward the den. We judged that if we kept out of sight the wildcat would put in a prompt appearance and endeavor to give Pete a lesson on the evils of interfering with wildcat domestic relations. We were right. Pete hadn't any more than got fairly started up the trail when the wildcat came hiking down.

"The wildcat was looking for trouble. Pete was always ready for a fight, so they started to mix it up without delay. A bulldog in a fight has an honest, earnest way about him that a man can't help respecting, but he is slow compared with an active and angry wildcat. This one circled about Pete for a couple of seconds, looking for an opening. Finally the cat saw it, made a quick leap, avoided Pete's snap, and landed squarely on his back. Then the wildcat started to give a scientific exhibition of the way teeth and claws ought to be used.

"But the instant he tried this he was the most astonished and disgusted wildcat in that part of the state. His teeth couldn't penetrate the thick leather of the armor, while his claws got tangled in some of the links of steel and almost broken. The wildcat jumped off and stood looking at Pete with the most astonished expression you ever saw on the countenance of a wildcat.

"'Dogs I know and steel I'm familiar with,' the wildcat seemed to be saying to himself, but this combination is new, and it's an outrage to spring it on a respectable wildcat.'

"A wildcat is a hard thing to discourage, though, and this one came for Pete a second time. He gave Pete a scratch on the nose. Then Pete grabbed him by the throat. The cat whirled on his back, and began to bring his claws into play. Ordinarily Pete would have been half torn to pieces. But the wildcat's claws didn't make any impression on the armor. Pete held on after the single-minded manner of bulldogs, and when he let go another wildcat had joined the great majority. Then Peter let go, and stood looking at us and wagging his stub tail, the proudest and happiest dog in the state.

"And Si was just as happy as the bulldog.

"'Talk about your candidates for the Hall of Fame,' he said, expanding his chest. 'It seems to be that an especial niche is due the worthy old man who first solved the problem of the extermination of wildcats by means of bulldogs.'

"Every night after that Si chained the bulldog near the hencoop. For a time wildcats would visit the hencoops. But the same cat never came twice. The program was always the same. The furry intruder, filled with hunger and rage at the interfering bulldog, would go up against the armored game. There would be a little mix-up and then Pete would get his grip. After that it was a case of addition to the number of wildcat widows and Uncle Si's fur collection.

"If Pete had only stuck to the wildcat killing stunt, he might have been alive today, the pride of Si's heart. But after killing about half a dozen wildcats Pete became impressed with the idea that he was invulnerable. At night, he was always on hand for business near the hencoop. But during the day he would wander about looking for fights.

"He tackled all the dogs in the village and laid them out so easily that it didn't even amuse him. Then he got to wandering about the woods, looking for new worlds, or rather new animals to conquer. I warned Si that his pet would get into trouble.

"'It's true that funerals have been the portion of all animals that have tackled Pete up to date,' I said to Si, 'but if he tries to put all the animals in the North Woods to the bad, he'll find that he has gone out of his class. I've noticed two or three bears in the woods lately. There isn't a sweeter tempered or kindlier animal in the world than a black bear. But even the kindliest of bears may get vexed if an armor-clad bulldog gets to biting at his heels.'

"But Si didn't heed my kindly words. He said that Pete would know enough to let a bear alone, but even if he didn't, he would trust his pet to give a good account of himself.

"A couple of days later I was hunting near the top of the mountain, when looking down the valley I saw a big black bear. The bear was trudging along peaceably, minding his own business, when Pete broke through the brush. He began to growl at the bear. The bear looked at him in a reproving manner, as if to say the woods were big enough for both and that there was no occasion for such a display of bad temper.

"But by this time Pete had his head filled with the idea that the woods belonged to him. He rushed up and grabbed the bear by one of his front paws. The bear gave him a whack with the other that sent Pete rolling away. Then the bear looked at him more in sorrow than anger, as if he hated to have been obliged to hit Pete. The bear looked a little puzzled, too, as if he didn't understand why Pete wasn't hurt worse than he had been.

"Instead of being satisfied Pete made two or three more rushes at the bear. Each time the bear sent him flying with a blow from his paw. But Pete kept up his attack. At last the bear seemed to realize that blows with the paw didn't have any effect on Pete.

"A bear is an amazing intelligent animal, and while this one didn't of course, understand exactly what armor was, he appreciated that Pete was protected in some way. So when Pete got read for his next rush, the bear looked at him as if to say: 'If you insist on it, you'll get all that's coming to you.' And when Pete rushed in the bear just folded him in his paws.

"Armor was no protection against that hug. When the bear dropped Pete, Si's pet looked as if he had been caught under a pileDriver. The bear looked at Pete in a benevolently sorrowful, but satisfied sort of way and trotted placidly back into the woods.

"'My invention was all right,' said Si mournfully, when he found the remains of his pet, 'but nothing less than a steel-clad battleship could have held out against that hug. Armored bulldogs were far outclassed.'"

WATCH IN SMUGGLING.

Scheme of Man Who Brought In Diamonds.

"If I had not served an apprenticeship with a jeweller," said a man who was once connected with the government's secret service and now manages his own detective bureau, to the New York Sun, "I probably would have missed what I consider was the best stroke of business I ever did. It only goes to prove the old saying that there is no such thing as useless knowledge.

"I had been in the secret service about two years, grubbing around on unimportant jobs because I was only a youngster, when it was discovered that large quantities of diamonds were being smuggled into the country. The reputable diamond dealers in New York gave the first information. That was in the fall of 1879. Some of the best detectives in the business had been assigned to this job, and it was well understood that the man who succeeded in running it down would find his reputation made. In the middle of November the chief of our department sent for me and said:

"'Charlie, I think you are just the man I want to work out my theory of the diamond smuggling. From my investigations I have reached the conclusion that the stones are brought into this country by way of Canada. I want you to go up to Rouse's Point on Lake Champlain and see if you can get any clue to this business there. Don't let even the custom house officers in that country know what you are, and draw on me for expenses.'

"That struck me as being a pretty blind sort of a commission, but I was young and full of confidence in myself. I was thin as a rail in those days, and I got together a hunter's outfit and arrived at Rouse's Point after a week in the Adirondacks.

"In those days the through trains from Montreal to New York all stopped for breakfast or dinner at Rouse's Point. Having nothing to do I made the station my lounging place. I cultivated the acquaintance of the newsboys on the train and I kept close tap on all the passengers. My month lengthened into two, and at the end of that time I telegraphed my chief that I had a suspicion, and to verify it I was going to Montreal.

"I wanted to learn more of a certain Julius Kahn. He made regular trips between Montreal and New York, ostensibly as an agent for a fire insurance company. He was one of those bolsterous, hail-fellow sort of chaps who knew all of the trainmen by name. He tipped liberally. I had made some second-hand inquiries about his insurance business, with the result that I doubted his connection with any insurance company. I learned that he stayed, when in Montreal, in a quiet little third-rate hotel on Notre Dame street. The best hotels in Canada in those days were none too good, and that a man of Khan's generous tastes should stay in such a hotel was another suspicious circumstance.

"Kahn did not know me by sight, so that I felt myself safe in going to his hotel. People who come to such places from the states without any explanation are at once classed with the men for whom the law has punishment in store. I fostered this idea about myself, and two days after I was established in this hotel it was assumed by the other patrons of the place that I was a fugitive from the states. I had been there nearly a week when Kahn arrived. He was greeted as an old friend by the landlord, and in due course of time I was introduced to him.

"Kahn sized me up in accordance with the landlord's suspicions and we became very friendly. I discovered that he seldom left the hotel, and that he had no definite date for returning to New York. One evening as we were smoking together the landlord came over to us and told Kahn that some friends of his were waiting for him in his room. Kahn left me, and the next day I learned that he had gone to New York.

"Acting by my instructions, one of the men in the New York office shadowed Kahn on his arrival and until he left town. Kahn stayed at an old hotel that stood near what is now the New York end of the Brooklyn bridge. None of the men who visited him was identified with the sellers of the cheap diamonds, and if my suspicions were correct I knew that I had a clever man to deal with.

"Kahn came back to the Notre Dame street hotel a week later. The next time he went to New York I was on the train with him, and I was as indignant as he when customs officers came aboard as we crossed the line and made a very thorough search of the baggage and clothes of every passenger.

"'Don't kick,' said Kahn to me, 'it won't do any good. Let them go through you. If you make a fuss they may identify you.'

"This remark, of course, referred to his suspicion that I was a fugitive from justice. I watched Kahn's examination closely, and when it ended without the finding of any dutiable goods in his possession, I concluded that I had made a mistake. Kahn might be engaged in some sort of crooked business, but it was not smuggling diamonds.

"After the examination we went into the smoker. Kahn was in high good humor. He twitted me on my nervousness and told me to put up a bold front, and if I got into difficulties to let him know. He advised me to stay at his hotel. I accepted his suggestion, for we were now on friendly terms. We reached New York early in the morning, and an hour after our arrival a man came into the dining room where we were at breakfast and greeted Kahn as an old friend.

"'Well, how's business?' he asked.

"'I'm not complaining,' said Kahn. 'My commissions are good.'

"It was evident from the subsequent conversation that Kahn's friend wanted to get rid of me, but I stuck like a brother. Finally he said to Kahn:

"'Got a watch to swap?'

"'Yes,' said Kahn, 'an old-fashioned bull's-eye with about half a pound of silver in the case and no works to speak of.'

"'Let's see it,' said the friend.

"Kahn pulled out a watch of a pattern that I knew from my experience in a jewelry store was very rare. It was an unusually big watch, and the works within were so loose that they rattled. The friend brought out a neat little silver watch, and after some bantering the two men exchanged watches. I knew that Kahn's watch was not silver, and his friend had given him a very good silver watch in exchange for it. Kahn left for Montreal the next day and I stayed at his hotel in New York.

"The more I thought about the watch trade the more suspicious I was. When Kahn returned to the New York hotel a week later I was prepared for him. He greeted me cheerfully, and in the evening his friend came to call on him. Again I stuck close to Kahn. Finally his friend said:

Got any more bull's-eye watches to swap?'

"'Yes,' said Kahn, 'I've got another big fellow that I picked up in Montreal,' and he pulled out a watch that my experienced eye told me was the same one he had swapped before. I expected something of this sort. In fact, if it had not occurred, I had made a fool of myself.

"After the usual bantering on a trade, another exchange of watches was made, and I suggested that we go into the bar and have a drink on it. No sooner was the drink served than two of our special men, who had been leaning against the bar, pounced on Kahn and his friend. There was no fight. The officers showed their shields and their revolvers.

"'What's the charge?' asked Kahn.

"'Smuggling,' said I, and turning to Kahn's friend I said: 'I will trouble you ,for that bull's-eye watch. It has served in this business long enough.'

"They saw that the game was up. There were no works in the watch, and the case was filled with as fine a collection of diamonds as you ever saw. Kahn turned state's evidence and several small jewelers went out of business. My reputation was made. Had not my service in a jewelry shop trained my eye for watches I would never have discovered the fraud. It's the little things that count in my business."

WOMAN WHO MARRIES ON A SMALL INCOME

The Table Is the Rock Upon Which So Many Homes Are Broken---A Dollar a Day Will Provide For Two.

"It is rather amusing to read the letters that people write to newspapers questioning the possibility of two persons living on $20 a week," said an old-fashioned housekeeper. "Sometimes I wonder if they really mean and believe what they write or if they are only posing to themselves with a pen and ink.

"Twenty dollars a week for two people means $10 a week for each one. Any one who has ever been confronted with the embarrassing possibility of having nothing a week to live on knows how comfortably one can exist on $10 after such a contingency has passed. When two people are married the question of living becomes much simpler. It is often said that two people can live as cheaply as one. This is quite true in the case of housekeeping," says the New York Sun.

"But extravagance has got to be the fashion. People boast nowadays of their expenditures, not of their economy. Only the other day I was talking with a young woman whose income had suddenly ceased. She had been lucky enough to have an offer of a place at a salary of $25 a week, the place having been practically made for her by a friend of her father's. "It's only $25 a week,' she said grandly, 'but I suppose I can live on it!'

"When I was married, twenty-five years ago, people were not ashamed to admit that they had a sensible appreciation of what $20 a week meant. They didn't question whether it was possible to live on it. They made up their minds to live on it and got married, and got along very comfortably, but they will tell you that the $20-a-week days were the happiest.

"Many men prominent in finance and politics and the professions will tell you that they married on $20 a week, sometimes less. Plenty of those who married then under the most promising pecuniary circumstances are today wretched, unhappy, having gone through divorce courts and other trials that made them realize that mere money is not everything in life.

"I notice in these letters that the general opinion expressed is that it all depends on the girl, but this is a false deduction. It is a question of equal responsibility, equal self-denial and striving to make the new life as nearly perfect as possible. Later on when the care of a family becomes part of the woman's duties her share of responsibility increases. The woman with a family to look after and the care of a home, cooking etc., to perform without aid is little short of a slave. But we are talking now of the start in life of these young people who write to say that they are afraid to marry on $20 a week.

"Now, I have always been opposed to these scheduled lists showing in domestic expenditure that so much goes for rent, so much for coal and so much for gas, so much for amusement and so much for charity. The last item is never omitted, especially when the writer is explaining how a family of six can live in the country for $100 a year. These schedules are vastly amusing. Frequently some absolute necessary is quite omitted.

"When I married my husband we did so largely on the strength of one of these schedules. We neither of us knew much about what it cost to run a home and had had a somewhat extravagant courtship. After we married we sat down one night to adapt the schedule to our own particular needs. We found that on the closest calculation we had nothing left to buy clothing. In consternation we referred to the original schedule. There was no allowance for clothes, although there was for theaters and charity. Here was a horrible predicament.

"We went over it again and again, clipping out as much as we could, but it was no use. The subject of clothes getting was appalling. We almost quarreled. I said he should have thought of it before he married me and he said it was in my department. Then I wept.

"Finally we went over our wardrobe carefully writing down our different possessions, for this schedule habit grows on one and we concluded that we had clothes enough to last us at least a year. By that time the prospects might be changed. The wearing of clothes might go out of style. We left it with fate.

"That is the way the $20-a-week couples must go into their contract. You can not arrange this living matter on a schedule any more than you can get the best results from a servant by having strict rules about housework. There must be prudence, forethought and good management, but when you try to ascertain the span of life with a tape measure something will snap.

"By going Harlemward in Manhattan and in the suburbs of Brooklyn any number of four and five room apartments are to be had for $5 and $16 a month. And these flats offer such conveniences as steam heat and gas ranges, which at once does away with the coal bill. Then there are conveniences which make the work of a home mere play to any young woman. But it is a question if a young couple with $80 a month to live on should spend as much as this for rent.

"Even Mnahattan upper floors in private houses are often obtainable for $8 or $10 a month. This will not be in a fashionable part of town, rather the contrary, but never in an undesirable neighborhood. Here the couple can fit up a pleasant little home. Boarding house atmosphere is always demoralizing to a woman. In the case of a newly married girl it is pernicious. The first duty of the pair is to create the home atmosphere that will mean so much the more to them as life progresses.

"Now the chief part that the girl has to play in the $20-a-week paradise is to manage the funds. The man's chief work is to earn them and if possible increase them. These two matters attended to and the problem of living on the amount named is largely solved.

"The item of the table being carefully considered and mastered the great difficulty in the $20-a-week problem is passed. This is the rock upon which so many homes are broken. The books at the baker's and the grocer's and the butcher's gradually become records of extravagance that eats up all the careless housekeeper's funds. I do not mean to say that housekeeping with a credit system is not desirable, but in the first days the unpracticed housekeeper should steer clear of bills.

"A dollar a day will provide amply for the table for two. I can show you in my scrap book any number of housekeeping schedules in which sanguine writers and mathematicians declare that it will provide for six. One woman has proved positively by actual measures and weights and by practical experiment that four persons can live well on this amount and can have luxuries in their season, always provided the young wife puts her brain to work in her marketing and cooking.

"The $20-a-week girl can keep up her reading, her music, her embroidery, her athletics just as she always has done and she usually does do so with better results than her idler sister. Above all the $20-a-week people must cultivate the habit of happiness. Happiness can be made as much a habit as any other virtue. When you add a little loving, why $20 a week is a fortune.

"When persons begin to calculate on the plan of living on $20 a week keeping in mind cigars, matinees, maids, cabs and cold bottles they are figuring on an impossibility. The question then becomes, can a couple live extravagantly on $20 a week and this answers itself. It is true the age is an extravagant one and girls' ideas have enlarged as to what constitutes life's necessaries. And the girls who attract husbands are those whose dress and general setting is that resulting from a sufficiency of money. Such girls connot live in the circumstances I describe except in rare instances where their womanhood is so highly developed that it is a genius.

"But the girl who works behind the counter in a shop hesitating to marry the man she loves for the reason that he earns only $20 a week is making a mistake. If the man is desirable in every respect, but the smallness of his salary and is willing to share that with her, it is a pretty god omen for the future. But she should not marry him unless she makes up her mind to fill out her part of the bargain."

IN MICHIGAN.

Escanaba Man Dies From Effects of an Operation.

Escanaba—Octave Pelletier, aged 43 years, died at the county hospital from the effects of an operation for appendicitis. He was unmarried and a member of the French society, L'Institut Jacques Cartier.

Iron Mountain—Iron Mountain will soon boast of a half-mile track. The project is yet in its infancy, but it is a sure go. The promoters are prominent citizens of that city. The idea is to have ten people put in $100 each toward the track. The forty acres just south of the Standard Oil works, known as the Davis forty, can be rented, it is said, at a reasonable figure, and the $1000 collected will go toward fitting up the track. It is thought that some good races can be pulled off if the track is finished. If the venture proves a paying one the Davis forty will be purchased outright at the end of a year.

Menominee—William C. Koplin was robbed of $85 on the Chicago & Northwestern south-bound train, the robbers cutting his trousers while he slept and removing the pocket which contained the purse. Mr. Koplin discovered the robbery as the train was entering Menominee and notified Officer George Ferguson, who arrested a man on suspicion. Mr. Koplin was traveling from Escanaba to Menominee and, going into the smoking car, he soon fell asleep. David Plush was arrested on the charge of the larceny and he is the man Mr. Koplin suspects of being the guilty party.

Sault Ste. Marie—At a council meeting of the Soo it was decided to accept the proposition of John H. Goff, representing a Detroit syndicate, offering the city a site for a new pumping station, two acres of land near Big Point, for a consideration of $2000. The acceptance was with a proviso to the effect that Mr. Goff must obtain the assent of a party owning a fifth interest in the land. As the matter now stands the transfer will be made if Mr. Goff can execute a deed to the city, with the signatures of all the owners attached, within the next fifteen days.

HEIR TO A FORTUNE.

Convict at Waupun Has Inherited a Fortune.

Waupun, Wis., May 31.—J. H. Stokes, with a fortune of $50,000, is an inmate of the state prison in this city, where he must remain two years. He was convicted on a charge of burglary in Dane county, the sum involved being small. He today learned that he had inherited wealth. Stokes has been sent up from Oshkosh in 1896 and served four years for a robbery. After his discharge he wrote ex-Sheriff Horn, of Winnebago county, that he was going to the Paris exposition, where he contemplated doing some big jobs. It is evident that he did not go to Paris, as he was arrested and convicted of a robbery at a small town near Madison. Stokes was sent up under the name of John Johnson, and it was not at first known that he was the man who had inherited the fortune. He is known to the police under several aliases. He has served in Waupun under the names of Johnson, Stokes, Morgan and Langford.

ROAD RACE.

Henry Johnson Gets Both Time and Place Prizes.

Henry Johnson, a fast but previously unknown rider from West Superior, won both time and place prizes in the road race yesterday afternoon. He did it with a handicap of 2:30, covering the ten miles in 27:10.

It is the sixth time in ten years that an outsider has won the time prize, but only the second time that the first prize has been taken away from Duluth riders.

Had the race been run in last year's time young Johnson would have finished about fifth. Still the performance was good—rather extraordinary for a novice.

Rumple, of Duluth, crossed the tape for second time, thirty-eight seconds behind the winner. John Kolarth, of St. Paul, who won second time last year, was third.

Ed Rhue, a South Superior man, won second place, with Walter Scott, of Duluth, third.

The time finish was as follows:

Rider and City.	Time.
Henry Johnson, Superior	27:10
B. Rumple, Duluth	27:48
John Korlath, St. Paul	27:55
Walter Scott, Duluth	28:15

The positions of the first sixteen in crossing the tape were as follows:

DULUTH GOES DOWN.

Superior Wins at Ball, 11 to 7.

Manager Hansell gave Staub, the Fashion twirler, a trial at West Superior yesterday afternoon. He was hit hard. He held Superior down for four innings, but the strain was too much.

Superior tried Augustine, the lank wonder from Southern Wisconsin, and the maroon hosierled Duluthians hammered him hard enough to win an ordinary game. He was touched up for ten clean hits, two of which were triples.

Shepard played a great game at short as did Connors at third. Cameron was switched over to second and was more at home. Lambert and Cameron batted in five runs in the last two innings with three-base hits.

The score by innings was :

Superior.	1 0 0 0 3 1 2 2 2	11	15 3
Duluth	0 1 1 0 0 0 0 2 3	7	10 2

Batteries—Superior, Augustine and Scott; Duluth, Staub and Sturgeon.

THE DAY'S SPORTS

John W. Nelson Captures the Diamond Medal Badge.

Henry Johnson Wins Time and Place In Race.

Superior Defeats Duluth In a Pretty Baseball Game.

John Nelson is the champion shot of the head of the lakes. His fine shooting yesterday afternoon won the beautiful diamond badge, valued at $200. The shoot was for the final possession of this trophy. Twelve men who had won the badge in the preliminary events during the past two years were entered yesterday.

There was a good crowd out at the Central Gun club's grounds to see the shoot. It was a 100-bird event, shot off in strings of twenty-five. John Nelson and Dr. D. H. Day each broke 94 out of the posible 100, and in the 25-bird event between them Nelson broke 23 against Dr. Day's 19.

It was about the best shooting ever seen on the Central Gun club grounds. Only missing six birds out of 100 comes pretty near being a star performance, and Nelson's record for the day was 117 out of a possible 125.

The diamond badge was purchased by the members of the Central Gun club and the Lake Superior Gun club during the season of 1899. In the early preliminary shooting the Superior organization had decidedly the best of it. J. D. Finn, of Superior, had a way of breaking pretty nearly everything that left the trap, and it took the Duluth cracks sometime to get the medal away from him. Dwight Kennedy and Levi Fulton also won the medal for Superior. During the past year the Duluth men have been winning the medal handily at the preliminary shoots, and it is the source of much satisfaction to the Duluthians that the handsome badge is to remain on this side of the bay permanently.

The scores yesterday were as follows:

	1.	2.	3.	4.	Total
J. W. Nelson	24	24	23	23	94
Dr. D. H. Day	23	25	24	22	94
Dr. H. W. Spratley, St. Paul	23	24	23	23	93
A. W. Loud	23	24	22	23	92
Warren Mendenhall	21	23	22	23	89
Levi Fulton, Superior	22	22	23	20	87
Lewis Eisenach, Ely	21	21	23	21	86
A. A. Farrington	22	19	22	22	85
T. J. Storey	21	21	22	21	85
A. B. Thomas	23	18	21	21	83

The Freimuths Win.

The Freimuth team of the city league defeated West Duluth yesterday in a hard up-hill game with a garrison finish. The West Duluth team had the game pretty well in hand up to the eighth inning, when the dry goods men measured off a few of Freidel's beaders and made the entire team look like a remnant sale on a rainy day. The game had many features of interest. The score was:

Freimuth. .. .. 0 0 2 2 0 0 0 8 2—15
West Duluth.. .. .. 3 4 0 0 2 0 0 0 4—13

Batteries—Freimuth, Ryan and Kreager; West Duluth, Freidel and Robinson.

THE RESORTS.

All Pleasure Spots Were Thronged With People.

Though the flags at half-mast and the sad picture of the shattered remnants of the Grand Army of the Republic marching to pay their respects to the nation's dead—a much larger band—showed that yesterday was not intended as a day of enjoyment and pleasure, thousands of the people of this city took advantage of the holiday to crowd the dancing pavilions and pleasure spots in various directions.

While hundreds attended the memorial exercises and rode to the cemetery to drape the graves of the dead with flowers, thousands saw the annual road race on London road, and other thousands spent all or part of the day and evening at Park Point, Lester Park or some of the other breathing places of the city, all of which had on their freshest and prettiest garb in honor of the occasion. Now that the pavilion has been removed from among the pleasure resorts, the natural outing places are patronized more than ever, and Duluth is well equipped with them.

The principal places, of course, are Lester Park and Park Point, and in both of these places there were throngs of people all day yesterday. There is always some excuse for seeking these places, even on a day when pleasure-seeking seems out of place and jars the sensibilities of many. All nature was fresh and green and delightful, and the ways were carpeted with fresh spring grass and spangled with the early flowers of the wood.

Even in lesser places, such as Chester Creek and the parks nearer town, there were many people a-pleasuring, and the day—aside from its special significance—was charming in every respect and tempting to those who love the breath of the woods as a relief from the every day grind of life in the city.

BOG IRON.

Discovery at Coon Creek of No Commercial Value.

St. Paul, May 31.—Professor N. H. Winchell has punctured the Anoka iron boom.

The ore found on the Manley farm on Coon creek, he says, after investigation, is of no commercial value, and he doubts whether a dollar has been invested or promised by anyone having any knowledge of iron ore.

The report of the iron find on the Manley farm has attracted considerable attention, and reports were that the Minnesota Iron company and James J. Hill were negotiating for the property, offering large figures for options, and that there is a large demand for neighboring lands supposed to contain ore.

Professor Winchell is the state geologist and professor of geology at the state university. He has not only made a thorough study of the geological formations of Minnesota, but he is recognized throughout the country as an authority on geology.

Professor Winchell furnishes the Pioneer Press the following signed statement:

"I have just returned from a trip to Anoka. I regret to say that the iron ore found there is of no commercial value whatever. It has no relation to the iron ore of the Lake Superior region, but is a surface deposit such as is common in low ground, known as bog ore, and exists in many places.

"It would be well if the subject were dropped by the newspapers, as such agitation, having no valid foundation, only injures the state.

"I don't think one dollar has been invested nor promised by anyone who has any knowledge of iron ore."

"Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. I quickly secured a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure, giving her three doses. The croup was mastered and our little darling speedily recovered." So writes A. L. Spafford, Chester, Mich. Max Wirth.

MAY ASK REHEARING

Probability That the Insular Cases May Be Reopened.

Lawyers Who Argued Against the Government Are Hopeful.

Chance That Decision of Court May Be Reversed.

Washington, May 31.—When the supreme court resumes its sessions in October a motion will be filed asking for a rehearing of the Downes case, which was made the medium of the court's decision sustaining the constitutionality of the Foraker act for Porto Rico. A conference of all the lawyers who argued the insular cases against the government is to be called between now and October to discuss the new points that will be raised and submitted to the court as the basis of the motion for rehearing.

Former Attorney General Michener, of Indiana, and ex-Senator Lindsay, of Kentucky, and another attorney, who presented arguments to the court last December, have already held a conference to discuss the desirability of asking for a rehearing, and have reached the conclusion that it is the right step to take. They are not prepared as yet, however, to state the grounds upon which the rehearing will be asked, because they do not care to discuss the details until after these have been submitted to all of the attorneys concerned. Then, too, they want more time to study the several opinions that were handed down on Monday.

They are especially desirous to obtain printed copies of the opinions of Justice White and Justice Gray, who, while concurring in the decision upholding Foraker act with Justice Brown, repudiated the premises upon which that justice based his decision. Neither of these opinions is yet ready for circulation, but the attorneys who heard them delivered the opinions they contain views which, in their judgment border so close to the views expressed by Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Harlan that they have a right to believe a further presentation of the case upon rehearing might cause one or both of these justices to change their views and come over to join with the chief justice and Justice Harlan. Peckham and Brewer to reverse Monday's decision.

THE DAKOTAS

Wife of a Woonsocket Merchant Burned to Death.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Woonsocket—Mrs. L. J. Enebal, wife of a prosperous hardware merchant of this city, was burned to death Wednesday evening while trying to light a gasoline stove. The stove had burned dry and she poured some gasoline over the burner, when the fluid exploded, setting fire to her clothing.

Fred Moulton, who claims to have discovered gold here, was brought into court charged with stealing $150 of a showman. The old man was supposed to be moneyless, but when arrested some $75 was found no his person. The judge dismissed the case for want of evidence.

Lead—A reception was given Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, the "mother of Lead," at the residence of T. J. Grier. She is one of the principal owners of the Homestake Mining company, and is making a short visit here while on her way to her home in San Francisco. At the reception Mrs. Hearst made a short address and told in a few words the warm feelings she holds for the city of Lead. She is supporting a free library and kindergarten in this city at a monthly cost of about $500.

Aberdeen—One of the employes of the Sherman house was stricken with smallpox and the place was immediately fumigated and thoroughly disinfected and all employes removed to the detention hospital.

Sioux Falls—Fire Wednesday night in the Howard Taylor block started in the job printing establishment of Will A. Beach, causing an estimated loss of about $15,000. The hardware stock of Fred W. Taylor, on the ground floor, was badly damaged.

Tyndall—Smallpox has broken out and the following are under quarantine: J. V. Tarbel, Mike Daub, Charles Phoenix and William Muller. Daub is in the county jail. The state's attorney has served notice on the mayor to have the prisoner removed and the jail fumigated. The disease is in a light form.

Fort Yates—The Indians have received their annual interest payment and hide money, amounting to $5.20 for each person. The trading stores at the agency did an enormous business.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Bismarck—The supreme court has handed down a decision affirming the sentence of the lower court in the case of Mme. Massey, of Fargo, convicted of a second offense in the sale of intoxicating liquors, and sentenced by Judge Pollock to a year in the penitentiary. The supreme court finds that the judgment is sustained by the evidence and Mme. Massey will have to serve her term. She has been a well-known character of Fargo.

Hamilton—The monument erected to young William G. Lamb, a soldier of the First North Dakota regiment who was killed in the Philippines, was dedicated here Thursday in the presence of an immense throng of people. State officials, judges of courts, and many prominent in civil life participated. The monument was erected by the people of Pembina county, the home of the dead soldier.

New Rockford—A term of district court is being held here this week, Judge W. S. Lauder, of the fourth district, presiding. There are eighteen civil actions and one criminal. Interest is mainly centered in the disbarment proceedings against State's Attorney P. M. Mattson. His case will come to trial next Wednesday.

Fargo—Judge Amidon of the United States court has ordered the deportation of Fung Hen, Fung Chew and Lee Kee, three Celestials who came across the international boundary line at Portal some weeks ago. The Chinamen claimed to have formerly resided at Pittsburg and had the testimony of some people identifying them. They failed, however, to secure the proper evidence from their alleged partners in the Smoky City and will be returned to the flowery kingdom. They are much depressed over the decision of the court and assert that their partners refuse to aid them, so they would be able to secure all the property.

A BIG FEE.

Doctor's Bill of $100,000 Filed Against Chicago Estate.

Chicago, May 31.—Dr. Emma Nickerson Warne, through Attorneys Phelps and Cleland has filed in the probate court a claim for $100,000 against the estate of Francis T. Wheeler, who died in June, 1900, leaving $3,000,000. The claim as filed reads:

Estate of Francis T. Wheeler: To Dr Emma Nickerson Warne, debtor, to services rendered.....$100,000

When the claim comes up for hearing on June 18 a contest will be made against it by the representatives of the estate. Relative to the basis of the claim, which is one of the largest ever filed in the probate court, Attorney D. P. Pheps said:

"The claim is for medical services and personal attention rendered Mr. Wheeler, under a contract, by the terms of which Dr. Warne was to take care of Mr. Wheeler as long as he lived."

Mr. Wheeler, it is said, was one of the principal owners of the Union Bag and Paper company and was ill for many years before his death. The services of Dr. Warne are said to have extended over many years. Up to the time the contract was entered into she attended Mr. Wheeler as a regular practitioner. When the patient needed her entire attention it is claimed that she gave up a lucrative general practice to attend him.

Dr. Emma Warne is the wife of Dr. George B. Warne, of 4203 Evans avenue.

For a stiff neck there is nothing better than a free application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It quickly relieves the stiffness and soreness, effecting a complete cure. For sale at Boyce's Drug store.

WHY? IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST

Because it is healthy, clean, pure and brilliant.

HEALTHY— It has no odor. Prof. Thompson states that one cubic foot of gas consumes as much oxygen as four adults.

CLEAN— It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.

SAFE— As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.

CHEAP— By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

The Rights of Ticket Buyers.

The anti-scalping bill which was passed at the recent session of the New York legislature has been decided by the supreme court of that state to be unconstitutional. The court holds that a man who purchases property or a privilege becomes the owner thereof and may dispose of it again. The railroads have resorted to the signature ticket, which must be used by the agent before the return check is used, to protect the Pan-American excursion rates, and that device may prove temporarily effective. It must not be forgotten, however, that the courts have established the principle that a contract is void if the party of the second part is given no choice. This ruling was made in the matter of the release contract which shippers of certain freight are compelled to sign. The same logic would seem to apply to compulsory ticket contracts. But the railroads resume a good deal upon the fact that few excursionists will take the trouble to drag a case through the courts to avoid the inconvenience of having their tickets stamped at Buffalo before presenting them for the return trip. The New York court's decision is a great victory for the ticket brokers and foreshadows the fate of any other anti-scalping bill that may be passed, either by congress or a state legislature.

Hard Lines For the Chinese.

The strong efforts made by the United States to induce the European powers to take the pound of flesh, but forego the blood, have failed, and China has been forced to agree to the payment of indemnities aggregating $37,000,000. An imperial notice has been issued, stating that the Chinese government agrees to pay that vast sum, this notice being necessary before the powers would consent to withdraw their troops from Chinese territory. Special Commissioner Rockhill's proposal that the amount of the indemnity be reduced to $200,000,000 was rejected with surprising unanimity, even Great Britain, that has always been loud in protestations against this figure having failed to support the American commissioner's proposal. The fact is that Great Britain was as ready as the other powers to bleed the Chinese, although professing to be in sympathy with the program of the United States. The ways and means proposed to milk China are interesting. The issuance of bonds to the powers being 3 per cent is likely to bear hard on the smaller powers of continental Europe. Such bonds would easily sell at par in Great Britain and the United States, but since Russian 4 per cents sell at par, 3 per cent bonds would not sell readily. Spain, for instance, which has a finger in the Chinese pie, could not dispose of 3 per cent bonds at par. But, before the Chinese bonds are liquidated, many things are liable to happen.

Extent of the Carnegie Movement.

There is certainty how much money Andrew Carnegie possesses, or did possess before he started in his business of giving, but the donations he has made must certainly have made a good sized hole in his pile, including the $10,000,000 gift to the Scotch universities, the total of his gifts to public enterprises aggregates $40,964,552. Of this amount, $20,070,052 has been spent in America and $11,894,500 abroad. Of the American beneficiances, libraries outside of New York have received $6,599,104, while New York city libraries have had $5,200,000. Other institutions outside New York have been made richer by $16,836,200, and those in New York $434,752. He does not seem to have neglected his adopted country, for he has bestowed $17,175,552 more in the United States than in his own. The Carnegie epoch is not measured by his own gifts, great as they are. He has compelled other rich men to contribute, often making that a condition of his benefactions. His example also stimulates a spirit of endowing educational and benevolent institutions. Directly and indirectly, the Carnegie movement to date probably stands for not less than $100,000,000.

SENATOR FAIRBANKS.

The formal announcement of the candidacy of Senator Fairbanks of Indiana for the Republican nomination for president in 1904 has not created any surprise, as it has been generally known for a long time that he intended to be in the field. Upon what ground he bases his candidacy is not stated, although Harry C. New, one of the Indiana leaders, asserts that he is "the logical candidate" and will have a solid Indiana delegation at his back. It is said that the senator's chief arguments are that he has had the confidence of the McKinley administration from the start and has been one of its chief advisers, and that he lives in the "doubtful belt." These are rather flimsy arguments upon which to set up a presidential candidacy, but the Indiana senator does not appear to have any other.

Senator Fairbanks is one of those cold-blooded, oleaginous individuals frequently met in politics, lacking personal magnetism and gaining success by shrewd manipulation with a generous use of money to keep the wires in order. There is nothing in his personality or in his record to arouse enthusiasm. A Washington correspondent has said that he is a very pronounced type of what may be called, for the want of a better term, the "gum shoe" politician. He has been a source of unfailing amusement to a great many newspaper men in Washington. No one has been further than he from giving them any cause for offense, but he has uniformly given the impression that he was not frank, and that he was "feeling his way along," so to speak. He originates no policies, never takes a decided stand in the earlier stages of a debate, lacks personal magnetism, and is essentially a follower rather than a leader. He is probably well within the meaning of the words, "a safe man." There is in public no more striking opposite to Theodore Roosevelt than the senator from Indiana.

Senator Fairbanks has made no secret of his ambition, and it has been known since the last presidential campaign that he intended to be a candidate for the nomination in 1904. He is a persistent worker and will undoubtedly have a good-sized following in the convention, but his success is doubtful. Many things are likely to happen before the conventions of 1904.

SELF-REVERSALS.

The New York World draws attention to the fact that the United States supreme court is the one tribunal in the world which can give one judgment at one time and an opposite one at another—and be right both times. For example:

1. It has decided (Dartmouth College case), that a state charter is a contract which the state may not break, and later that a state may break it.

2. It has decided that congress has exclusive authority to regulate commerce on all our navigable waters, and later that it has not. Later yet it has reversed that reversal and reaffirmed its first decision.

3. It has decided that stock certificates may not be issued under a state law, and later that they may.

4. It has decided that any state may prohibit the importation of alcoholic liquors, and later that no state may do so.

5. It has decided that congress has no power to make paper money legal tender for debts incurred before its issue, and later that it has unlimited power to make paper legal tender in peace or war.

6. It has twice decided that an income tax is constitutional, and once—the last time—that it is not.

The unique thing about our supreme court is its supremacy over all things—including its own decisions. "The law of the land is thus and so," said an eminent jurist arguing before it. "The law is not thus and so," said the chief justice. "I beg your honor's pardon—but the law was thus and so until your honor spoke."

It is not improbable that the decision in the Downes case, holding the Foraker law constitutional, may be reversed at an early date. The attorneys who argued against the government intend to ask for a rehearing, and are said to be hopeful of inducing the court to change its decision of last Monday.

IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

The Washington Post gives an excellent resume of the Tillman-McLaurin controversy in four squibs, as follows:

"Mr. Tillman and Mr. McLaurin have generously decided to permit the South Carolina Democrats to make a choice between Populism and Republicanism."

"It would complicate matters in South Carolina if Democrats should decide to run a candidate for the United States senate."

"If Mr. Tillman and Mr. McLaurin will enclose the proper amount of postage stamps to Hon. Tom Platt, they may be able to secure some interesting facts concerning the effect of spur of the moment senatorial resignations."

"It appears from the deadly parallel columns now running in the South Carolina newspapers that McLaurin used to be somewhat of an anti-imperialist himself."

Perhaps it would be a good thing for the South Carolina people to give both Mr. Tillman and Mr. McLaurin a chance to rest, and elect a couple of senators who are more harmonious in their views. Senators Conkling and Platt, of New York, once resigned in a huff, because the president failed to give them the recognition they regarded as their due, and the legislature refused to re-elect them.

PORTO RICAN MISERY.

The arrival of a party of Porto Ricans at Honolulu in a half-starved condition draws attention anew to the deplorable condition of many of the people in Porto Rico. Those who have gone to Hawaii and to South America were forced to leave Porto Rico because they were unable to earn sufficient to keep themselves from starvation. This is the plain truth, notwithstanding the rosy stories told by Governor Allen regarding the improved conditions on the unhappy island.

It is not necessary to base these assertions upon the starved condition of the Porto Ricans who have reached Honolulu or upon the statements of Porto Rican representatives who have come to this country in behalf of their countrymen. The American Missionary association a short time ago sent two of its worwers, Rev. E. S. Tread, of Somerville, Mass., and Rev. A. F. Beard, of New York, as representatives of their association to Porto Rico, with directions to diligently inquire into the actual conditions which exist in the social, religious and material affairs of the people of that island. The representatives of the society went to the island, performed their duty, have returned to the United States and have made their report. The story they tell is well calculated to arouse an intense interest in the minds of all honest and philanthropic persons. Everywhere they went, and they visited all sections of the island, they found poverty, wretchedness and despair.

The story they bring back makes the heart sick. Ignorance, deprivations, disappointments, wretchedness and uncomplaining patience were met at every hand. Hunger, disease, infirmities crowd all wharves and starvation and death stared in the faces of the American missionaries, while pleading eyes and parched lips told the story of the broken faith of the conquerors, who had been welcomed as deliverers by that almost primitive people. In speaking of the neglect of the official life which the government of the United States has forced on the Porto Ricans the report of the missionaries says:

"All sorts of bodily deformities were displayed on the streets, such as blindness, twisted feet, dropsy, sores, bruised limbs, paralysis, women carried in carts or hobbling along on their haunches."

There is not a general hospital on the island. One could be built at comparatively small cost, but no attention is paid to its erection. The enjoyment of their official palaces—exhibitions of their ample gains for idleness and pompous and unnecessary equipages—employ the time of the representatives of our government. No effort is made to alleviate suffering or relieve distress. Miss Dr. Alkins, connected with the Presbyterian mission of San Juan, says that she has from twenty-five to forty calls a day from patients who need hospital treatment, and many of whose lives are lost by her inability to give them hospital treatment for lack of instruments to attend properly to the afflictions from which the people are suffering.

Only 40,000 of the 250,000 children of school age have the benefit of the schools. More than 300,000 remain unprovided with school facilities. The children are pleading to be instructed. The poor things have been taught that if they become educated all good things will follow as their portion. Under this view they are seeking the schoolhouses, only to be turned away for the reason that the school rooms are already crowded.

Poverty, we are told, stalks everywhere. All classes are to a greater or less degree sufferers from want of food. Trade has ceased. Markets once ample for the sale of the products of the island have been closed or are seriously impaired by the imposition of restrictive laws. The crops are not gathered, for the reason that if housed they rot in their bins or boxes. Instead of the advent of the United States government being a blessing to the Porto Ricans it has been a curse—it has blighted the island more than if hurricanes had laid it all prostrate. In sight of these truths the United States official life within the island enjoys the emoluments which it does not earn—is placid and contented, though surrounded by the miserable conditions which each hour burden the native people.

It looks as though the obstinacy of three little South American republics may prevent the holding of the Pan-American conference this fall. The natural supposition would be, however, that the United States, Mexico, Honduras, Salvador, Gautemala, Nicaragua, Columbia, Venezuela, Bolivia, Peru, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Brazil, Hayti and San Domingo have interests enough in common to make it worth while to hold the proposed conference even if Chile, Equador and Costa Rico should refuse to take any part in it. The conference could hardly fail to be of mutual benefit to the republics participating, and need not be in any sense prejudicial to those which from local jealousy or other reasons failed to do so. The time and place for the conference have been agreed upon and the committee in charge should go ahead with the work regardless of the atttitude of the obstinate states who have petty troubles of their own.

"Has it occurred to you that the initial letter J has played a not inconspicuous part in the recent game of pitch and toss in Wall street?" asks the Buffalo Times. "In former times of storm and stress we had J. Gould and J. Fish. Now we have J. Pierpont Morgan, J. R. Keene, J. J. Hill, J. Stillman, J. Schiff, J. H. Moore, J. W. Gates, J. Loeb and George J. Gould. Put a J in your name if you would be a power in the street." And still with all the Js there is not a jay among them.

No beautiful marriage ceremony marked the nuptials of Professor Herron and Miss Rand. On entering the presence of the minister, who did not seem to be at all necessary to the occasion, Mr. Herron said: "My friends, I have chosen Miss Rand to be my companion." Miss Rand then said: "I have chosen Mr. Herron to be my companion." The clergyman made a little speech and at the end said that, as Mr. Herron and Miss Rand were united together by the bond of reciprocal love, he announced that they were man and wife. The new marriage law of New York, requiring the filing of a copy of a written marriage contract where no ceremony takes place, does not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1902, and so Professor Herron and Miss Rand may be considered married in a most simple manner.

The people of North Dakota may well feel proud of the showing made by the state in the last decade. According to the report of the director of the census the value of manufacured products has increased nearly 100 per cent; the number of manufacturing establishments has increased over three fold and the amount of capital invested has more than doubled. The report shows the value of the manufactured products of the state in 1900 were $9,183,114, against $5,028,108 for 1890. The number of manufacturing establishments were increased during the ten years from 382 to 1150; the capital invested from $2,894,553 to $5,396,499. There was an increase of 60 per cent in the average of wage earners and of 61 per cent in the total wages paid.

The statement of the inspectors at Honolulu that the Porto Rican immigrants who arrived the other day, were thoroughly starved, and had to be detained and fed to recover sufficient strength to proceed inland would indicate that Governor Allen knows but little of the condition of affairs in the island he governs, or that he purposely doctored his reports.

The smart man at the office of the Standard Oil company at Evansville, Ind. always left the safe open at night and hung a sign on the door. "Help yourself; don't crack the safe." Burglars accepted his invitation on Saturday night and secured $750.

One of the stockholders of Lipton, limited, called Sir Thomas down in a gentle manner by inquiring whether the company was receiving due attention from the yachtsman. He was assured by the gentleman that business would not be neglected.

The strike of the machinists and the troubles of the employes engaged on the New York tunnel pale into insignificance before the strike of the sausage makers of that city. But the little dogs looked happy.

The man of Hundred, W. Va., who was supposed to be dead but woke up and commenced to sing the Doxology, was fined $5. If he had commenced to sing "old Hundred" he probably would have escaped.

The strike of the machinists and the troubles of the employes engaged on the New York tunnel pale into insignificance before the strike of the sausage makers of that city. But the little dogs looked happy.

The Sunday school class at the conference of the Dunkards at Lincoln, Neb., numbered 4000 on Sunday morning. Most any denomination would be proud of that showing.

A new magazine called "Beverages" has made its appearance in New York. It will treat of booze.

TART TRIFLES.

Philadelphia Press: "You men are contradictory animals," remarked the lady of wide experience. "Some of you get drunk because you're happy and a whole lot more because you're unhappy. What's a poor girl to do?"

Detroit Journal: "Why am I not shown common courtesy?" demanded the woman warmly.

The salesperson lost her temper at once. "You didn't ask to be shown anything but 2-cent prints!" retorted the latter.

Pittsburg Chronicle: "She hasn't many clothes on," said an observer of the ballet to the man who sat next.

"No; she's wrapped up chiefly in herself," added the latter.

Chicago Tribune: "It's a durned shame!" exclaimed Goodman Gonrong, as the officer led him away from the court room.

"What is?" asked the officer.

"The judge bindin' me over fur a hundred dollars, as if I wuz a cheap hobo! Fur a man of my reputation, b'gosh, it ort to have been a thousan'!"

Chicago Tribune: "Reynolds," said the older member of the firm, "how do you spell 'which?'"

"W, h, i, c, h," responded the other.

"That's what I thought," rejoined the older member, covertly scratching a "t" out of the word he had written.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I see that an ungrateful New York man stole the coat of the doctor who attended him."

"Perhaps it was poetical justice. The doctor's drugs may have destroyed the coat of the thief's stomach."

Washington Star: "That man must have a wonderfully strong constitution," remarked the physician.

"But he is always complaining of some ailment."

"Yes. Nobody could take so much medicine unless he had a wonderfully strong constitution."

Philadelphia Press: Mrs. Clancy (boastfully)—My husband was wan o' the pallbearer's at Callahan's funeral.

Mrs. Casey (spitefully)—Aye! An' well fitted fur the job he was. He's used to carryin' the bier that some wan else pays fur.

Chicago Tribune: "Isn't this a lovely view?" exclaimed the romantic young wife. "I wish everybody could see the beautiful landscapes we have seen on this trip."

"But if everybody could see them, my dear," said the practical husband, "who would buy the book I'm going to write about our trip when we get back home?"

DAILY STORY.

SOUL TO SOUL.

BY MILTON GOLDSMITH.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller).

Here are the facts as I related them to the Society of Psychic Research. I have no comments to make on them, except that they are strictly true.

The parting from Julia when I started for my four-week trip through New York state was tender and tearful. We had just plighted our troth, and it was inexpressibly hard to be separated for so long a time. Julia, however, promised to meet me at Oldport, where her uncle resided, and there a day or two of bliss would break into the monotony of a prosaic business trip.

When I arrived in Oldport, ten days later, there was a letter from Julia stating that her father had suddenly become indisposed, and it would be impossible for her to meet me. I called at her uncle's house, but here, too, I was disappointed, for the place was locked, and I learned from the neighbors that the entire family had left for Syracuse, where they were attending a wedding.

In no very amiable state of mind, I returned to the Essex hotel, the best rostlery the village afforded, and made myself comfortable. After supper I wrote a long letter to Julia, then lighted a cigar and sallied forth for a stroll. Suddenly, just as I turned a corner, I stopped with a shock of surprise. Ten feet in front of me, in the full glare of an electric light, stood Julia. I could have sworn to her identity. The gray tailor-made dress she wore, her jaunty velvet hat, were too familiar to my eyes to be mistaken. Her face was turned in profile, and every lineament was that of my beloved one.

Was it possible that her letter was but a joke, and she had come to surprise me? "Julia!" I cried, and sprang in her direction. Without a word of greeting she turned and walked away from me. I followed with conflicting emotions. At the next corner she turned, and when I saw her she was walking with a man who must have been waiting for her. Rage at once filled my heart, but it was quickly changed into surprise as I beheld in the newcomer a startling resemblance to myself. I recognized my own raglan overcoat, my tan gloves and slouch hat; but above all, I saw my own image as though in a glass.

Julia took the man's arm and walked on with him in eager conversation. She seemed to be pleading or begging for a favor, which he seemed to refuse. Presently she joined her hands as if in supplication, and as she turned her head I saw tears in her blue eyes. To say I was mystified puts it mildly. For a time I was incapable of thought or action. Then a ludicrous idea struck me. Perhaps Julia, deceived by the resemblance, mistook this stranger for me! I determined to watch the outcome of this strange adventure. After a short interval they resumed their walk and stopped directly in front of the uncle's house, where, after some conversation, they went up the steps and disappeared within the house.

A prey to conflicting emotions, I rushed up the steps after them. The door was locked. I rattled the lock and rang the bell, but to no purpose.

The perfidy of my betrothed was not apparent. She had another lover and had evidently deserted me. A terrible grief gnawed at my heart. I stood a silent sentinel on the sidewalk in front of the door, with murder in my heart, fully decided to kill my rival on his exit from the house. All night long I kept my dreary watch.

Toward midnight a terrible storm arose—a perfect hurricane. The rain fell in torrents and drenched me to the skin. The wind blew at a furious speed and I was obliged to seek refuge under the projecting porch of the house to escape the limbs of trees and other missiles which the storm hurled through the atmosphere. I never experienced such a tempest. It was of short duration, for an hour later the moon was shining brightly upon the scene of wreck and ruin.

I stood in my wet clothing till morning, waiting in vain for my perfidious Julia and her lover to emerge. At length, unable to curb my anger, I stormed to the rear of the house, broke open a kitchen window, and searched the premises. The house was empty! The lovers had evidently escaped! How, I knew not!

Despondent, I returned to my hotel. A vast concourse of excited people stood about the place, and I soon learned of the disaster which had occurred. The hurricane of the night had broken the sewer over which the hotel had been built, and the rear portion had collapsed like a house of cards and was now a mass of ruins. The firemen were searching the debris for the bodies of the guests who were supposed to be buried beneath the ruins.

In spite of my perturbation, I uttered a prayer of thanks. Had I retired to the room assigned to me, death would have undoubtedly been my portion.

At once I took a train for home. There I found Julia, a prey to the liveliest fears. Her face brightened as she saw me. "Thank God," she cried, "that I have you again!" "Tell me, Julia," I asked, "were you in Oldport last night?" "Certainly not; papa was ill, and I waited on him. Did you not get my letter?"

Thereupon I told her all that had occurred—the lovers, the startling resemblance, the lonely watch, the storm, the accident to the hotel. Julia was visibly affected, and trembled as I spoke.

"It is marvelous!" she said. "Last night I fell asleep and dreamed of you. I was impressed with the nearness of danger, and I tried to warn you not to go back to the hotel. Then it seemed to me as though I prevailed on you to go to my uncle's house with me. I awoke with a shriek, as I saw you in dream, the collapse of the hotel, as vividly as you just described it, and I could sleep no more. Thank God, you are safe!"

Long did we ponder and talk over this strange occurrence, of which we still seek the explanation.

"And you love me?" I asked, as Julia nestled against my heart.

"Can you ask?" she whispered. "Did not my soul go out to you to save you from harm? Soul to soul, and heart to heart, we will go through life together."

SUCCESS.

At the foot of the Hill of Endeavor,
Oh, Young One, look upward and see
The shine of the prize
That dazzles your eyes
With the gleam of the glory to be.

Far up in the clouds like a beacon,
Its luster illumines the world,
And you start on your way
At the dawn of the day
With the flag of your purpose unfurled.

Youth, Hope and Ambition attend you,
And the line of your march is bestrewn
With the roses that bring
You the fragrance of Spring,
While the fullness of earth seems your own.

Up the steps of the Hill of Endeavor
You battle and toil and keep on
For the glittering prize
That dazzles your eyes
At eve as it did at the dawn.

Its brilliance is always before you
To lighten the arduous way
That leads to success,
Through struggle and stress,
And crown you with laurel and bay.

At the top of the Hill of Endeavor,
Oh, Old One, look downward and call
To the brave and the true
Who are following you,
God speed and good cheer to them all.
—W. J. LAMPTON, in the Independent.

Doing Good Work.

Baltimore American: The Daughters of the American Revolution in Connecticut have prevented the desecration by the trolley fiend of the historic ground where Gen. Putnam made his famous leap. The patriotic societies are doing good work in snatching patriotic sentiment from the clutches of modern business iconoclasts.

Sinfulness of Speculation.

Washington Star: James J. Hill's remarks on the sinfulness of speculation are very convincing. Mr. Hill is one of the people who can afford to pay cash outright for anything they happen to want in the way of stocks. His advice makes it clear that the only way to be sure of a profit in stock transactions is to be rich enough to need it.

THE AMERICA'S CUP.

New York World: In the controversy between Mr. Lawson, the owner of the yacht Independence, and the New York Yacht club the sympathies of the public are instinctively with Mr. Lawson. public reasons that, whatever the technicalities, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge is to all America; that the New York Yacht club is the custodian of the American's cup for the yachtsmen of America; that its sole desire should be to send against the British challenger the best yecht which America can build; that Mr. Lawson, of Boston, is right in refusing to sail his candidate, Independence, under the flag of the New York Yacht club, since he is not a member of it and does not wish Boston to be deprived of any glory which might come through Independence.

Let us see how the facts are related to the public instinct.

The yacht America was built by a syndicate headed and inspired by John C. Stevens, the founder of the New York Yacht club. The America was not built by or under the auspices of the New York Yacht club, and the famous cup is won on Aug. 22, 1851, came into possession of the New York Yacht club only by deed of gift, dated July 8, 1857.

That original and only binding deed of gift was conceived and written in the true, the broad spirit. It simply provided for the sailing of the best obtainable American yacht against any foreign aspirant for the cup.

In that spirit the cup was defended twice, in 1885 and again in 1886, by yachts flying the flag of the Eastern Yacht club—the Puritan and the Mayflower—and in 1887 the cup defended Volunteer sailed as the joint representative of the Eastern and the New York Yacht clubs.

But in 1887 a new deed of gift was drawn—a preposterous, illegal proceeding. This contained a clause most offensive to the democratic spirit of this country and of the original donors of the cup, who were the only persons having a right to fix conditions. The new condition made the America's cup not an American cup, but a New York Yacht club cup. This proceeding would find a parallel if at some future time the trustees of the Carnegie free public libraries should make a new deed of gift excluding every one from the libraries except the trustees themselves.

Clearly, then, the public instinct is sound. Mr. Lawson is right, and the New York Yacht club is showng a spirit unworthy of this city, unsportsmanlike, unAmerican. It is trying to make these races no longer international, but New York Yacht club affairs.

THE AMERICAN EMPIRE.

Chicago Record-Herald (Rep.): Nor does it add to the force of Justice Brown's opinion that there is a distinction between "territories" and "states" of the United States respecting the power of congress to discriminate in the levying of "duties, imposts and excises" that it is in conflict with the vew of Chef Justice Marshall.

This is a John Marshall year, and in the case of Loughborough versus Blake he discussed this very question of what part of "the American empire" was embraced within the designation of the United States. "Does this term," he asked, "designate the whole or any particular portion of the American empire?" And this is how he answered his own question.

"Certainly this question can admit of but one answer. It is the name given to our great republic, which is composed of states and territories. The District of Columbia or the territory west of the Missouri is not less within the United States than Maryland or Pennsylvania, and it is no less necessary on the principles of our constitution, that uniformity in the imposition of imposts, duties and excises should be observed in the one than in the other."

But Chief Justice Marshall died some sixty odd years ago and the opinion of Justice Brown, backed by the votes of Justices Gray, Shiras, White and McKenna, is the law of the land today, though it tears the constitutional limitations into shreds, and, as Justice Harlan says, launches us an "an era of legislative absolutism."

A Bachelor's Reflections.

New York Press: A woman's tact generally has too many tucks to it.

A really successful woman is one who can always find one more pin somewhere.

The average man's study of woman is mainly an effort to learn to read the price mark.

Men make most of their enemies in society and women make theirs at auctions.

Probably Adam ate the apple because the snake had taught Eve house cleaning anyway.

Probably if women loved little babies less they would treat them more like human beings.

It will probably always be a question which changes a man's character most, a great love or a boil.

It is a shame some people ever get the idea that they ought to get married and quit being decorative.

A Cheapsides' Deduction.

New York Evening Post: Admit that, providentially or otherwise, England is committed to the work of a pioneer of civilization, and you have practically given to the pioneer race a roving commission from the Almighty to subjugate and rule all less civilized nationalities. And, mark you well, civilization is defined from the meredith of Greenwich. Take the Boers. "They are a pastoral people. A pastoral community is delightful, certainly, but impossible in Cheapside." That is, the tolerable on the face of the earth is to be measured by the possible in our respective Cheapsides. A satirist could hardly invent a more bitter irony.

Danger Point to Industry.

Philadelphia Press: Prosperity never lasts long after the millionaire railroad managers begin to fight and labor begins to strike. Good times are no accident. They never come, as another good thing does, "without observation." They have to be worked for. They rest on a balance of profit, peace, industry, efficiency and expansion. All have to work to get them. Any small group can destroy them by needless difference. Railroad rows or strikes fast bring panics. The tides of the ocean of business, finance and industry are at high flood. A very little folly will begin the inevitable ebb.

The Lesser Evil.

Chicago Chronicle: Possibly the talk about a third term for Mr. McKinley grows out of the proposition now receiving considerable serious attention to make Mark A. Hanna president in fact.

But the Creditors Have.

Washington Star: Mr. Zimmerman has been trying to compromise the duke of Manchester's debts at 50 cents on the dollar, and the duke's ancestral pride has not revolted a particle.

MR. TOWNE'S REMOVAL.

St. Paul Globe: The state of Minnesota is about to lose ex-Senator Towne. We are sorry for this, as Mr. Towne is a brilliant gentleman and a good citizen. Although we cannot always agree with his political propositions, we are sorry to have him pack his grip and move out. We are inclined to think, however, that in this contemplated move to New York Mr. Towne is showing the best of judgment. His political career has been exciting, but not profitable in a money sense. But while he has not made a fortune in the silver camp he has accumulated a reputation and a name that he can coin into good gold five-dollar pieces in the Eastern metropolis. It is always better to become a millionaire than to fight them—if you can.

Minneapolis Times: Here's hoping Mr. Towne may make his little pile even if his success does spoil a mighty interesting politician. * * * Just try to picture Charley Towne as a money devil of Wall street.

May Be a Keynote.

Chicago Chronicle: Is Mr. Roosevelt's extension of the prosperity-by-government bait to the farmers intended to signalize the opening of his campaign for the presidency in 1904?

Not a Laughing Matter.

Milwaukee News: With the mantle of the administration upon his shoulders Mr. Hanna's presidential aspirations are very remote from anything approaching a joke.

Unnecessary Words.

Chicago Record-Herald: Quay's declaration that he intends to quit politics "for good" is wholly superfluous. He couldn't quit politics for anything else.

Doesn't Think It's Serious.

Memphis Commercial-Appeal: Senator Foraker has not thought it necessary to reach for the fire alarm and have the hose turned on the Hanna boom.

NEW SHOWPLACE.

The new viaduct across the Manhattan valley, from the terminus of Riverside drive to One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street, is now complete except for the northern approach. The broad asphalted roadway rests upon graceful arches of steel, and the footpaths on each side are destined to become one of the popular promenades of New York, says the New York Sun.

The view of the Hudson and the majestice Palisades from the viaduct is superb and on bright spring days, last Sunday especially, thousands afoot, on horseback, in carriages and on bicycles crowded the ways. The only flaw is in the land view looking south. In that direction the architectural beauties of Grant's tomb are almost wholly obscured by the Claremont restaurant, a ramshackle frame building which is permitted to rest upon one of the most beautiful sites on Manhattan island.

The northern approach is planned to swing eastward in a graceful curve to a broad street which leads to the boulevard. The metes and bounds of the contemplated Riverside drive along Washington Heights have already been fixed and the extension will be undertaken as soon as the municipal authorities authorize the expenditure of the necessary funds. The new drive, if ever built, will be no less picturesque than the old, its lines winding in and out along the edge of the historic heights with the same uninterrupted view of the river and the cliff-lined Jersey shore.

The work of building the extension without doubt have been undertaken several years ago had it not been for the cupidity of certain property owners whose land adjoins it. Through their influence an act was passed by the legislature absolutely fixing the route of the extension and making it mandatory upon the old board of street openings to adopt it without alteration.

This was not discovered until after the bill became a law and the board of street openings rebelled furiously when called upon to carry out its provisions. At first its members refused flatly to put the law into effect and only yielded when the interested property owners obtained a mandamus from the supreme court compelling them to obey the behest of the legislature. When it came Mayor Strong's turn to vote he said:

"As William L. Strong I vote no; as the mayor of the city of New York I vote aye." Every other member of the board voted in the affirmative under protest.

It was then openly charged that the law was drawn in such a manner that the property of certain citizens would be benefited enormously by the extension of the drive, and the matter gave rise to a great deal of hard feelings on all sides. Probably for that reason no one has taken up the cudgels for the improvement in recent times.

Party of Seven Drowned In the Schuykill River.

Boat Full of Young People Carried Over a Dam.

They All Lost Their Lives But One Young Man.

Philadelphia, May 31.—A rowboat containing a merry party of eight young persons was swept over Flat Rock dam in the Schuylkill river yesterday afternoon and five girls and two boys were drowned. The victims, all of whom were Philadelphians, were:

Mazie Kennedy, 18; Maud Rutter, 19; Mamie Sullivan, 21; Florence Bond, 21; Florence Densmort, 19; Bertram Osmund, 19; Ray Ricker, 8.

The young man saved is John Moore, aged 21.

The party started out for a picnic early in the morning and pitched their camp at Rose Glen, along the Schuylkill river. The party separated after dinner for a row on the river and those above mentioned decided to go in one boat.

Heavy rains during the past week had made the muddy stream quite high and the current was much swifter than usual. However, the unfortunate party immediately struck out for midstream. All the girls were huddled in the stern, one of the boys was rowing and the other was sitting on the bow of the boat. After getting in the middle of the river and finding the current too swift for comfort the boat was rowed toward the shore. During this time it was carried slowly down stream. The boy doing the rowing decided to go through the locks and as he approached the dam he was hailed by the lock keeper not to approach any closer. The warning was not heeded and the young oarsman kept on rowing until he found that the lock was closed. He attempted to turn the boat, which was then about fifty feet from the dam and twenty-five feet from shore, but he turned the wrong way. A moment later the boat was in the swiftly moving current. Realizing then for the first time that they were in danger, the girls began screaming and the oarsman lost control of the boat. Swiftly it was carried toward the brink of the falling waters and just as it reached the breast of the dam, over which thirty inches of the water was passing, the entire eight stood up and the boat went over stern first.

The drop to the rocks below is approximately twelve feet. The boat struck the water bottom up and as it disappeared the whole party was under it.

Nothing more was seen by the few persons who saw the accident, for almost a minute, when the boat reappeared with one boy clinging to its keel. Then the other young man was seen to come to the surface and make a frantic effort to reach the shore by swimming. The five girls never rose to the surface. The boy who was swimming, and who proved to be Osmond, became exhausted and sank before he could be rescued.

Moore, the other boy, who was clinging to the boat, floated fully half a mile down the river, and his rescuers had an exciting time before they landed him in another boat. He was greatly exhausted and was slightly injured by the falling of the boat. Up to a late hour none of the bodies of the victims had been recovered.

LEONA ELOPED

Three Hours Before Time For Her Wedding.

Matoon, Ill., May 31.—Leona Shepherd, of Janesville, eloped with Richard Reed to Toledo just three hours before her wedding to Joseph Smith, of Terre Haute, was to have occurred. Smith is a manager of a carriage works. His employes had planned to meet him and his bride with a band upon their return. Reed and Miss Shepherd were lovers for years. An estrangement arose, during which she became engaged to Smith. The latter, on arriving at Janesville, found his bride had flown with Reed, who released her from a woodshed where the girl's relatives had imprisoned her.

LOVE FOR DAUGHTER

The Motive For the Murder of Dr. Joseph L. Barnes.

Thought to Have Incited Tragedy at Insane Asylum.

Negro Is Equally Culpable If the Women Are Guilty.

Jacksonville, Ill., May 31.—A child may shape the fate of the principals in the Barnes poisoning tragedy. A great state's prosecutor will attempt to trace to the love of the mother for the little daughter of Dr. Joseph L. Barnes he motive for his murder.

Martha Louise Barnes is the idol of her mother, the woman whom the state of Illinois charges with conceiving a plot to remove her husband as an obstacle to her dream of a distinguished future for their child. This little 12-year-old girl, who has innocently become a powerful influence in the lives of three persons, has the spiritual and material beauty that seems to plead for sympathy and mercy.

Those who know little Martha say that she has an almost divine passion for music. Her mother believes she is a genius. There has been a promise of it in the conservatory at Quincy, where her dainty fingers have discovered the soul of harmony and its expression. But there were realizations of needed opportunities in wider fields of musical education.

The mother watched the sensitive, imaginative mind of her darling develop its higher aspirations, watched this bursting of the chrysalis with the intuitive keenness of a mother's understanding, and yearned for the way to open to the one happiness of her life, a happiness which she said was all the sweeter after the shadow of agony and the mortal fear inspired by the constant presence for two years of a slowly decaying mind.

So the psychic features of the Barnes tragedy have assumed a tangible form in the chain of reasoning by which the prosecution has patiently and persistently laid out its plan to evolve before a jury the state of mind in which such a plot as that described to Mrs. Mamie Barnes and her mother, Mrs. Martha McWilliams, must have been conceived.

As for the negro, William Ferguson, his confession is accepted by State's Attorney T. Forrest Smith as a mirror of the tragedy up to the point where he seeks to excuse himself by denying any knowledge that he was the bearer of poisoned candy. The prosecution expects to show that he was equally culpable, if the women are guilty.

Mrs. Barnes is conscious of the value of her little daughter in her extremity. She related all her hopes and fears about the youthful figure in the case.

"I shall have little Martha with me when my trial takes place," she remarked.

"The loss of my little daughter during these terrible hours of waiting is causing me greater anguish of mind than the coming strain in the crowded court room, with its curious eyes searching every expression of my face. I do not know whether it would be possible for me to stand it if I did not look forward to the presence of the one thing in life to which I cling. With her by my side I shall be strong and brave. Because—well, everything I have done since my husband's affliction took him away has been for her."

Mrs. Barnes' eyes were wet with tears, the only softening of her laughingly defiant nature since she has occupied the small cell in the angle of the jail. Her pastime has been to sit at the solitary window which pierces the stone walls surrounding her and study the faces of the hundreds who pass that way every day and point out the shuttered window as her place of confinement.

"About the case I cannot talk," she explains, "but I have no objection to telling what I have endured from the time that I discovered that Dr. Barnes' mind was failing. We were living happily at Monticello. Joe was most kind and considerate. He made a comfortable competence from his dental business. Then there came the first signs of his malady. He became absent-minded. I chided him and he took it good-humoredly. The forgetfulness increased so as to affect his business.

"Finally there was distinct loss of memory, and with its dreadful appearance dawned the realization on both of us that his mind was giving way. He made a desperate struggle to avert the insidious advance of the disease by taking a rest, but there was no relief. Finally he grew uncontrollable and insisted on conducting his dental work. It was necessary for me to go to the office and watch him to prevent his patrons from discovering that he was unbalanced.

"One early morning just at break of day I awoke from a nightmare. I was dimly conscious that someone was standing over me and peering into my face. I was thoroughly awake. My startled eyes beheld Joe standing there silent and immovable. I spoke to him and said, 'Joe, go back to bed.' I dominated him completely after he lost his own control. He turned about without a word and ran back to his apartments. I dropped off to sleep again.

"Once more I awoke with a start. He was there. I half raised in bed and commanded him to return to his room. He retreated, sullenly this time.

"I was aroused from slumber now and determined to pretend to sleep so that I might watch him.

"I heard a stealthy creeping on the floor. I saw him raise himself cautiously beside the bed, and to my horror a surgeon's scalpel glittered in his hand. I looked him in the eye and saw him quail as I told him in a firm voice to go away. As soon as he disappeared behind his door I locked it and went down stairs with the awful consciousness that my husband was a dangerous maniac. Soon he had removed the lock from his side of the door and came down stairs. He gathered up his razors and stole out of the room to the upper part of the house. Then I sent for the authorities and had him removed to an asylum. His case was pronounced hopeless, and I entered the profession of a trained nurse.

"Do you wonder that I have been wrapped up in our little daughter?" she asked, after the tense recital of her story.

"I have watched her with never-ceasing fear for some slight trait of her father's malady. She is a highly sensitive child with a vivid imagination. Her nature is somewhat somber, and she is extremely thoughtful. Her spirituality is highly developed and her artistic senses make me believe that with the proper advantages she ought to have a marked career. It has troubled me to think that I have not been in a position to give her these opportunities."

The thought expressed in the last sentence is the essence of the prosecution's reason for the probable commission of a crime akin to that which sent Dr. Barnes so swiftly out of the world.

Ferguson's allusion to a wealthy man whom he declares Mrs. Barnes told him she intended to marry has an established aspect in the view of the prosecution which has secured the name of the Quincy business man, a name used by the negro in his statement to Attorney Smith

Mrs. McWilliams' part in the alleged plot is held to have been nothing more than that of an accessory, who, it is suggested, was influenced by a desire to further her daughter's interests.

The Skin AN INDEX TO THE BLOOD

Millions of little glands or tubes connect the blood with the skin, and through these small drain pipes perspiration passes out, carrying with it the impurities that are thrown off by the blood. Should the pores of the skin be entirely closed for even a brief space of time, and the poisonous matter forced back into the circulation, instant death would result. In addition to the sweat glands, the skin is provided with certain others which pour out upon it an oily substance, keeping the skin pliable and soft and protecting it from heat and cold. The blood and skin are so closely related that whatever affects one seriously interferes with the functions of the other. Not only health, but life itself, depends upon perfect harmony between the blood and skin. When, therefore, the blood becomes poisoned from any cause, it quickly manifests itself upon the skin in the form of sores and ulcers, pimples and various eruptive diseases. By the character of the sore we are enabled to determine the nature of the poison or humor in the blood, as every disease originating in the blood has its own peculiar sore or pimple. The skin is not only affected by the poisons generated in the system, but poisons from without enter through the open glands or pores and quickly infect the blood. Mercury rubbed upon the skin will produce Rheumatism, and Poison Oak and Ivy and other wild plants gain easy access to the blood through the skin. As so-called skin diseases originate in the blood, the application of powders, soaps and washes can do no permanent good, but often do immense damage by closing up the outlet to these little tubes and interfering with the natural action of the skin. The treatment must begin with the blood, and the acid or other poisons antidoted or neutralized. S. S. S. does this and purifies the circulation, builds up the blood and flushes the little glands or pores with pure, new blood, and restores healthy action to the skin. The use of cosmetics never yet brought health and beauty to a rough, red, pimply skin or sallow complexion. What is needed is rich, pure blood, such as S. S. S. makes. It not only relieves you of all disfiguring blackheads, blotches and irritating, itching eruptions, but improves your general health. S. S. S. contains no mercury, potash, arsenic or other mineral, but is a purely vegetable remedy and the safest and best in all blood and skin troubles. Write our physicians for advice or information; they have made a study of blood and skin diseases, and you can have the best medical advice without cost. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free. AFTER MASON

Havana Taking Interest In Senatorial Contest In Illinois.

Washington, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marcus A. Hanna, senator from Ohio, the maker of presidents and general all around politician, is taking a good deal of interest in the selection of a successor to Senator Mason, in Illinois.

It is conceded, of course, that it is not necessary for the chairman of the national Republican committee to interfere in senatorial fights in any state. Mr. Hanna, however, has taken it upon himself to show the members of legislatures in various states, within the past few years, that his judgment is better than theirs. There are several cases in point.

One—He endeavored to defeat Senator Quay for re-election to the senate in Pennsylvania. His anxiety to defeat Quay was possibly due to the fact that the latter, while in the senate, did not show unusual interest in the passage of the national shipping subsidy bill, which the Ohio senator was anxious to get through. In his attempt to defeat Senator Quay he failed. This is well known to everybody.

Two—In South Dakota the Ohio senator was successful in defeating Senator Pettigrew for re-election. He made a personal fight against Mr. Pettigrew and won.

Three—In Nebraska, Mr. Hanna attempted, as is well known, to dictate the two senators to be elected by the legislature of that state last winter. He lost. The men not considered good senatorial timber from this state were elected and Hanna's candidates were defeated.

Four—In Delaware, Senator Hanna interfered in a senatorial fight at Dover last winter, but his anxiety to elect senators favorable to the administration failed. This is a well-known fact. It was a great disappointment to the Ohio boss.

Five—In Maryland Senator Hanna's hand has been seen in the senatorial contests with in the last year, but owing to the shrewdness of former Senator Gorman he has failed in that state. Unless the unforeseen happens, Mr. Gorman will succeed Senator Wellington in the upper branch of the national congress when the latter's term expires.

Senator Hanna is anxious that William E. Mason, senator from Illinois, shall be defeated for re-election when his term expires. The Ohio boss, strange as it may seem, has a good man in view for Mason's successor. This gentleman is no less a person than Charles G. Dawes, present comptroller of currency. There will be a very heated contest in the "Sucker" state when Mason goes before the legislature of Illinois for re-election. He has opposed the McKinley administration policies for the last four or five years, and therefore is not in touch with Maj. McKinley or with Senator Hanna. In view of the fact that the administration controls a vast amount of patronage in Illinois, the prospects of Mason's re-election, handicapped as he is by the opposition of the administration, are not bright.

It may be said to the credit of Maj. McKinley and Senator Hanna that they have decided upon a candidate to succeed Mason who will not only be acceptable to the people of that state, but to the country at large. It is conceded everywhere that Charles G. Dawse is regarded as one of the brightest young men connected with this administration. He is a favorite with the young men in his state, and unless Senator Mason makes a remarkable fight he will be defeated for the senatorial toga by the present comptroller of the currency.

GOO-GOO EYES

By the Baby Melted Governor Durbin's Heart.

Indianapolis, May 31.—Mrs. Harry Wright, carrying her child in her arms, a fine little fellow, yet withal laughing and shaking his chubby fist at the chief executive, pleaded with Governor Durbin for the parole of her husband, who was committed to six months' imprisonment and was fined $500 and costs. The imprisonment sentence had been served, but the fine remained to hold Wright for many weary months. While the wife stated her case Governor Durbin kept his eye on the baby, which laughed and chuckled and made "goo-goo" eyes, until finally the old war horse turned to his private secretary, remarking, "Let's parole the, baby." The husband went free.

KRUPP MISSES.

Failure of Armor Plate For American Navy.

Washington, May 31.—The first plate representing a lot of Krupp armor manufactured for the American navy by the Bethlehem company was tested at the Indian Head proving grounds Wednesday and was a complete failure. It does not follow, though, that the group is worthless. Government inspectors will select another plate from the group and send it to the proving grounds for trial. Should it fail the department will reject the group, although under the contract it may allow the company to retreat the plates. The plate tested Wednesday did not possess the required toughness of back so necessary to insure the best results.

A LIFE SENTENCE.

Punishment For a Young Murderer In Indiana.

Helena, Mont., May 31.—Life sentence in the state penitentiary is the punishment meeted out to James Wolff, an 18-year-old boy who shot and killed Sheriff Summers of Madison county last winter. The jury that tried Wolff at Dillon, Beaver Head county, whither the case was transferred on a change of venue, reached a verdict in five hours. Wolff's youth saved him from receiving the extreme penalty.

The crime was most coldblooded and unexplainable as Sheriff Summers was attempting by a search warrant to search the cabin, in which Wolff lived near Virginia City, for articles alleged to have been stolen by Wolff, when the latter deliberately killed the officer with a rifle. Feeling ran high and Wolff would have been lynched but for the pleadings of the dead officer's wife who urged the crowd of maddened men to let the law take its course.

OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

Do the Kentucky Mountaineers Regard Their Votes.

Nothing affords a better opportunity for getting acquainted with the shy, reticent inhabitants of the Kentucky mountains than political campaigning, especially if that campaigning be local, involving county and district offices. The fact that the mountain counties are thinly populated and that candidates are numerous render the importance of the individual voter very great. Candidates have to do a great deal of running about, says a correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Your mountaineer is "your highness," when it comes to his vote. He does not promise it lightly, and does not give it lightly at the polls. The solid citizen of the mountains looks at all sides of a question before he makes up his mind about it, but his mind once made up he can never see a call to change it. The mountaineer never puts himself in the way of a candidate. The candidate must seek him, and must be thoroughly imbued with respect for the might and majesty of the individual voter.

In some cases the self-importance of the individual voter amounts to absurdity. For instance, not long ago a present county judge, who is a candidate for re-election, was watering his horse in the ford of a creek when a lank, loosely built fellow on a saddleless mule came down from the opposite mountain and turning neither to the right nor left rode lashing and plunging straight through the stream, almost bumping into the gasping, struggling judge as he passed.

"Hey, there, what you doing?" cried the man with the Judge, who was getting his share of the sprinkling.

"A-crossin' this crick in the ford," drawled the mountaineer.

"But, Lord," cried the other, "you needin' drown people."

"Hadn't a been thar, ye wouldn't a got splattered," returned the mountaineer, unmoved.

"But you could have ridden over a little," expostulated the other.

"Hain't never seed no call to git out of a straight road yit," remarked the mountaineer, serenely.

"I suppose, of course, you know this gentleman you have treated to a shower bath is the judge of this county?"

"Knowed it all the time," admitted the mountaineer, indifferently. "Taint so much though I 'low judges is made by votin'. Hain't they? I'm a voter—me," and a touch of arrogance came into his voice. "Got six boys and ten nephys, and three o' my gals is got husbands—all voters—yes. That air is something. Gee up, mewl."

And he disappeared through the low growing laurel.

Sometimes an old fellow will take it into his head not to commit himself with regard to his intentions on election day. With such a one the candidate always sees a time. One afternoon a candidate for sheriff rode up to a cabin built high up on the side of a mountain. In answer to the "Hello," eight shock-headed children came rolling out of the only opening in the side of the house.

"Where's your father?" asked the candidate. Several of the youngsters disappeared around the side of the house at the sound of the voice, but they gave no answer.

"Your father—where is he?" again demanded the candidate. Still he got no answer.

"Well, then, where is your pap?"

"Ah, pap"—a look of intelligence spread over their faces. "He's smokin'."

"Tell him to come out here, will you?"

The remainder of the brood scampered off. Presently a boy stuck his head around the corner of the house.

"Pap 'lows he never meanders about when he's a-smokin'. He jest sets an' smokes."

"Well, is he in the house or out of it? queried the candidate politely.

"Out," was the laconic reply.

"Do you suppose he will object to our riding around where he is settin' and a-smokin'?"

The boy darted out of sight and soon came back again.

"Pap 'lows he hain't holdin' yore horse."

"Pap" was sitting on a log taking long draws from a much-discolored cob pipe. Ordinarily the mountaineer is the most hospitable fellow in the world, but "pap" paid no attention to the candidate.

"Fine afternoon," remarked the candidate for sheriff.

"Seed a many a one as fine," returned "pap" listlessly.

"The warm, earthy smell makes a fellow feel like he wants to get hold of his hoe," again tried the would-be sheriff.

"'Pears like you hain't got hold o' yourn yit," returned "pap."

"You have a pretty clearing here. I presume you raise fine potatoes and corn."

"Pap" removed his pipe, spat deliberately, and returned his pipe to his mouth.

"Tain't a good idea to presoom."

Seeing that the man disdained to pass the pleasantries of the day the unlucky candidate plunged at once into politics.

"You are interested in the coming primary, I suppose?" he began blandly.

"Hain't much more sense in supposin' than they is in presoomin'."

The candidate began to become exasperated.

"Well, then, leaving 'supposin' and 'presoomin' out of the question, how do you stand in the coming election?"

"Hev stood in water and snow, but hain't never tried standin' in elections," snapped "pap."

"Well," cried the thoroughly exasperated candidate, "I reckon you know I'm runnin' for sheriff, and I'm here to ask you to vote for me."

"Pap" cocked his eye at him speculatively.

"How do you know you ain't walkin' fer sheriff?"

This was too much for the candidate, so he got on his horse and rode away without another word.

The next place the candidate stopped, his reception was typical of the big-hearted mountaineer. The owner of the cabin met the candidate at the fence.

"'Light and come in! 'Light and come in!" he cried delightedly. "Gettin' late. You must bunk right here tonight. No, don't say nothin' 'bout comin' in unexpected. Had my weather eye open all day fer ye. Tol' the ole woman this mornin' this was fine candidatin' weather. Got plenty dried beans and bacon. Meetin' at the church house tomorrer. Kin see everybody on the crick right thar. Come in, come in."

London, May 31.—A dispatch from Edinburgh says action has been instituted by Sir Charles Sutherland to set aside the purchase of Skibo casle by Andrew Carnegie. The ground for the objection has not yet developed. Skibo castle was taken over by Mr. Carnegie a couple of years ago and he has resided there since then on the occasion of each visit to this side of the Atlantic.

Though the name of the plaintiff is given as Sir Charles Sutherland, no such title is discoverable.

CABINET REJECTS

Action of the Cuban Constitutional Convention Not Satisfactory.

Secretary Root Will So Inform the Cubans at Once.

Convention Must Again Act on the Platt Amendment.

Washington, May 31.—The administration has decided that the action of the Cuban constitutional convention in accepting the terms of the Platt amendment, with modifications and interpretations of their own, was not "substantial" compliance with our terms within the meaning of the amendment, and Secretary Root wil convey this intelligence to the convention. The decision was reached at the cabinet meeting today. The meeting lasted over an hour and a half, and had been preceded by an hour's conference between the president and Senators Platt (Conn.) and Lodge (Mass.) The president desired to learn the views of Senator Platt, as the author of the amendment, and also those of Senator Lodge, who is one of the influential members of the committee on foreign relations. At the cabinet meeting, Secretary Root took the position that the interpretation of the Platt amendment contained the constitution adopted by the convention and the whereases appended to it, went outside of a fair interpretation of its meaning and was unacceptable.

In this view the cabinet concurred. When asked as to what would be the next step of the government after the Cuban convention had been notified of the rejection of its action, one of the members of the cabinet said that the government could do nothing further until the convention again acted, that as long as the conditions of the Platt amendment were on the statute books compliance with them must precede our relinquishment of control over the island. The cabinet also discussed the decisions of the supreme court in the insular cases especially their bearing upon the forthcoming decision of the court in the Philippine cases. It was the general opinion that in some phases the Delima decision might be held entirely inapplicable. No definite conclusion, however, was reached at today's meeting.

PRICE IS UP.

Old Potatoes Took a Shoot Toward the Top.

Old Potato is making a last expiring effort to secure the attention of the public. In this he is inspired by a spirit of emulation of his hopeful progeny, Young Potato, otherwise known as New Potato, who has caused some admiration at a distance—by the flight that his price has taken since he came on the market. Within a day or two old potatoes have nearly doubled in price, and if anything keeps up the pace a short time longer the older generation of potatoes will be nearly as expensive as the younger one, and that is saying a good deal, even though the new potatoes have gone off in price since they first came on the market. For some time old potatoes have been quoted on Michigan street at 45 to 48 cents, but today the only way to get them now is to put up 70 to 75 cents a bushel, and of course that means that if the dealers have to pay that much the consumer must pay more in proportion. New potatoes are holding steady, and have had no decrease in price this week.

Other articles in the fruit and vegetable line are mostly cheaper, though some of them are holding steady. There have been no changes in any rate, and most of the vegetables are lower in price.

In case some of the local butchers happen to be tempted by the action of the St. Paul butchers in putting up the price of meat, it may be well to mention that there are no increases in the wholesale prices, and that on the contrary dressed beef is lower than quoted last week, 6 cents instead of the price that has ruled for some time, 6½ to 7½ cents. Lamb is also a shade lower, and all of the other quotations are holding steady.

DRAWING CUTS.

"Everybody, I reckon," said an amiable man in a sou'wester and a suit of oilskins; "everybody, I reckon, has sometime or other drawn cuts for something; children draw cuts, broomsplints or straws, the longest gets it, and so on; and that way is old and familiar to everybody; but fishermen have ways that are a little different," says the New York Sun.

"Say, for instance, half a dozen men went on a fishing venture together. If they made a good catch, one that it would pay to take to market, they would market it and divide the money; but if they didn't get enough to pay for doing that, then they would divide the fish, and the firshermen would take them among themselves for their own use, or to sell at home or to give away to their friends.

"Of course, the fish might be of different kinds and so of different values; and they might be of different weights. So they divide the fishes, if there were six men, into six lots, as evenly and fairly as they can. But there may be a choice in them still, and so they all draw cuts for them, and each takes the pile assigned to him by the cut he drew. The piles are numbered, one to six inclusive, and six chips or sticks, numbered one to six inclusive, are held by somebody, and the fishermen draw, and each takes the pile with the number of his cut. But that's much like the old long and short broomsplints. The more characteristic way, after the fish have been divided, is this:

"Six sticks are driven in the beach and against each is drawn a number in the sand. Then one of the fishermen is blindfolded; and another, with his eyes clear, is stationed back of the row of sticks. The blindfolded man is then led along the line, after some little preliminary walk-about, so that he won't know exactly where he is, and halted in front of one of the sticks, its number unknown to him. Then says the man behind the row:

"'Whose pile is this?'

"And the blindfolded man says:

"'Harry Smith's.'

"Maybe they had halted the blindfolded man in front of stick No. 5, and so Harry Smith takes the pile of fish numbered 5.

"And so they go along, halting the blindfolded man in front of one after another of the sticks, but not taking them in order, and bringing him up in front in such a way that he doesn't know the number. And so he is brought up the second time and so on until all the piles have been awarded.

"Of course there couldn't be a fairer way of dividing the fish than this; but there is a way of getting around it, just as there is of getting around any way, if men are so disposed. If the two men picked out to do the choosing can get together, and if they are that way inclined, they can beat the rest. They can agree on a signal that indicates the best and the second best piles and take them for themselves. A shuffle of the foot on the sand by the man behind the sticks might mean: Take this one for me.' And a little cough might mean: 'Take this one for yourself.'

"But you don't often see anything of that sort done," the amiable man in the sou'wester and oilskins concluded; "for the fisherman is pretty likely to be a man that plays fair."

BAD SCARES

Illusions of the Rail That Try Nerves on Locomotives.

The Phantom Flagman and the Warning That Came True.

I wonder what was the first, instantaneous sensation of that Canadian engineer who ran down Jumbo in the fog. Probably no engineer ever had a stranger shock; but shocks, strange and otherwise, are the portion of every man who stands at a locomotive throttle, says the New York Sun. He must get used to them and stand them as best he can—or find some occupation with less nervous strain to it. Most of them in the business get hardened to the unexpected, which is always happening on the rails.

One of the worst starts I ever had was due to a large lazy pig who had got on my mind. Nothing will slide a train more easily and destructively from the rails than live pork. This particular specimen had a habit of burrowing alongside the track, and it was a fair presumption that sooner or later he would find something to interest him between the rails, and somebody would go down the bank.

I was coming down a hill one day at high speed, and craning my neck for a comforting sight of piggy in his accustomed place, when, as I popped around the curve, a bright red flag assaulted my anxious gaze. The connection between that flag and the pig was only a bit of mental aberration on my part, but it was very vivid.

I shut off and grabbed the whistle cord, but before I could even screech for brakes I saw that the flag was only a red flannel shirt, which the good woman of the shanty to which the pig belonged had hung on an improvised clothesline between the telegraph poles. That may not sound like much of a scare, but it represents a type that turns the railroad man's hair to a delicate ash color.

Railroad men have supplemented the rules with additions of their own, for the sake of convenience, and to expedite the work. When a man is sent out to flag he gets instructions. Perhaps he is told to let all regular trains pass, but to hold everything else; then he understands that his conductor will have his train in the siding when those trains arrive.

A freight train had occasion to cross to the other track, but there wasn't time to cross ahead of the limited. A man was sent ahead with orders to let the limited by and hold everything else until he should be called in. I was fireman on the limited that night, and the place I write of was in the middle of a twenty-mile run, where the engineer made a practice of catching up any little time previously lost.

I heard a sudden exclamation as George, my engineer, shut off and snapped on the air. I stepped to the gangway and caught a glimpse of a fellow waving a red light frantically as we flew by. In another instant we rounded the curve, and there was a headlight right in our face and eyes.

George "horsed 'er over," and I thought he would surely pull the sand lever out by the roots, but in spite of all, that headlight came up on us like a comet. Of course, we thought the other fellow was crossed over on our track, or he wouldn't have flagged us; it didn't make the difference that he had no right to be there; there he was. George yelled for me to "git off," but a single glance at the ground satisfied me with my chances where I was.

A moment later we rolled past the engine and half the train—which was on its own track. The flight conductor climbed up on our engine and asked George if that blanked fool had flagged him. George sputtered and stammered with nervousness before he found his tongue, but when he did that conductor heard something that was well worth listening to. Such a salvo of verbal pyrotechnics—George expressing himself about the conductor, and he about the flagman—one hears but once in a lifetime.

A newly located watchman's shanty—looking exactly like the end of a box car—set my scalp to tingling one night. There had never been anything there but the river before, and when the headlight glared on that very substantial structure I was sure my call had arrived.

Another time a tool box in a tunnel, partly covered over with clothes and a coil of rope, started me for the step, under the impression that it was a rock falling from the roof. But these are mere harmless scares which help to keep one awake. The engine gets by them before you get off, and you are back in your seat again breathing anathemas and curses against the thoughtless idiot who was the cause of it all. Then there are the other kind.

I was poking up a long hill one night when a red light suddenly showed up, followed at once by another, indicating that the caboose of the preceding train was just ahead—and I was coming up to it with astonishing rapidity. I yelled to my fireman to jump, and we had barely landed in the ditch when six cars and the caboose of the train ahead climbed all over our engine. The train had broken in two, and this was the rear section that had trundled down hill on top of us.

Frequently I have been asked if railroad men are superstitious. I think not, though they might be pardoned if they were.

One night, after the meeting, Fred Jones asked, with fairly well assumed indifference, if "any o' you fellers" had seen a mysterious flagman at Nichol's near the old stone house, this side of Oliendorf's Fill. Two or three of the men looked around, quick and sharp, as though the question reminded them of something, but nobody admitted he had.

"Darn funny," said Fred, puffing at his cigar like a "mog" on a grade. "I've seen 'im twice, 'n danged if I c'n make it out."

In response to careful pumping, Jones told me that on two occasions, on the night trip, a fellow had sprung out from behind the ruins of the old stone house and flagged him—not with a lamp, although it was nighttime, but with a flag. He stopped both times, but no man was to be found, nor was there any occasion for flagging.

On the second occasion his conductor hinted with railroad frankness that Jones was lopy, so Jones said he would disregard the fellow's signal if he ever saw him again. As to details, he remembered only that both nights were brilliantly moonlit and that a good breeze was blowing.

About two months later, along in the fall, after a heavy rain, Jones ran into a bad rock-slide a quarter of a mile beyond the old stone house. His fireman was killed, but he escaped with a sprained ankle. He came hobbling up to me a day or two later, as I was oiling round and said:

"Wal, I done it."

"Done what?"

"Run by that stone house flagman I was tellin' ye about; wonder if they'll think I'm dopy now?"

He went on to tell me that the same fellow flagged him the night of the accident; but, with his good name in mind, he dropped her down a notch, breathed defiance at the spook through his teeth, and went through the cut tail on end only to pile up on the slide a moment later.

One night, a long time after that, I was killing time on a clearance. The moon was about full, pretty well down in the west, and there was a stiff breeze from the same quarter. I remembered Jones' flagman, and decided he would never have a better chance to get caught. I shut off and let her roll on approaching the stone house.

Waving shadows on the track, cast by trees and bushes on the bank above, suggested a possible solution of the mystery. I kept my eyes fastened religiously on the spot Jones had described, and presently saw there was something there. Gradually the thing took form, until, when within a train length, I could have sworn that a man was in front of me waving a flag.

I put on brakes, slowed right down and gave an answering toot toot, but he paid no attention. Then I crawled out on the run board and looked at the moon, which was just visible above the bank at my right. As the moon, myself and the man came into line, he became blurred and indistinct, and I observed that a small pine tree on the bank was also coming into line with us. When the line was complete the flagman spread out and lost form.

Next time I saw Jones I told him about it, and he exclaimed:

"Well, I'll be darned!"

On his next day off Jones dead-headed to the station near the stone house and tramped four miles with an axe. The spook flagman never bothered him nor any one else thereafter.

A ludicrous case of misplaced confidence in the evidence of his own eyes was that of Pete Schufeldt, a crabbed, contrary, Lehigh Valley Dutchman. Pete had enjoyed a ten days' involuntary vacation through being "outlined" by his conductor and crew in regard to an open switch, and he hungered and thirsted for revenge.

Coming east shortly afterward in a dense fog and carrying white flags they crossed over at a water-plug and let some cars on a siding. They backed on to the train again, and while the fireman took water, Pete got down to oil. He found a warm wedge on the front driving box on his side, and pulled it down a bit, while he was under her, the conductor passed, and told him to call the flag when he was ready.

Pete got his tallow pot, gave the wedge a good dose of cylinder oil, put one the pot on the run board, finishing oiling and climbed into the cab. He was in the very act of reaching for the whistle cord to call the flag when he saw what looked like the target of an open switch right ahead of the engine. It was really the staff of the white flag, helped out by the tallow pot, which he had forgotten and left on the run board. But the heavy fog aided and abetted by the simmer of the safety valve, and escaping steam from the cylinder cocks, obscured his vision and distorted his perspective.

Here was a chance to get square with that conductor. A local was following them pretty close, and a few minutes' delay would "lay her out" and necessitate an explanation from the conductor as to how he came to leave that switch open. Pete sat down comfortably in his cab and awaited developments.

When the conductor came up fuming Pete told him with fine sarcasm that if he was in a hurry he had better close that gate in front of the engine. During the interchange of courtesies which followed this shot the fireman noted the absence of the tallow pot and asked Pete if he had had it. The conductor referred in a scornful manner to Pete's cranial density, and told him he couldn't see the switch from there anyhow.

"Ish dot so?" roared Pete, foaming with righteous indignation. "Better you get your eyes fixed. Vat you call dat, hey?" and he pointed triumphantly ahead, just as the fireman reached up and lifted the tallow pot down from the run-board.

Of course, the supposed open switch target disappeared and Pete has been trying to explain ever since.

GREAT MINE FIRES.

One Has Been Burning For Forty Years.

The announcement from Tamaqua, Pa., that the fire in the mammoth vein, started in the winter of 1860-61 in a colliery within the limits of the town, has been at last cut off in one direction and has burned down to the water level on the other, where the vein strikes the Schuylkill, brings to mind how great has been the destruction by underground fires of the unmined wealth of coal in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania, says the New York Sun. Considering the narrow limits of territory in which the anthracite veins lie the loss of irreplaceable natural treasure here has been as great, comparatively, as that wrought by fire in the forests of this country. The great 14-foot vein in which this Tamaqua fire has for forty years swept on a steady path of ruin is that in which the finest grade of anthracite os always found. For a space of more than a mile in length every atom of that coal has been reduced to ashes in this single fire.

There have unfortunately been many other similar fires. Three of the most urinous besides this have been the famous Summit Hill burning mine on the mountain between Mauch Chunk and Tamaqua, the Empire mine fire at Wilkesbarre, the Butler mine fire at Pittston. All three fires were in collieries where the vein lay high on the valleys below, thus making them the more difficult to combat. Both the Empire and the Butler mine communicated so closely with other underground workings that it was an imperative necessity to find a method to cut them off, as it eventually became compulsory in regard to the Tamaqua fire, now reported under control.

The Summit Hill burning mine, for more than thirty years pointed out to the thousands of tourists who stopped at Mauch Chunk for a ride over the famed switchback, was left to burn itself out. The earth's surface gradually sank in above it, leaving the whole space a picture of desolation.

In 1873 the great Empire colliery of the Lehigh Coal company, with its opening high on the mountain rising to the east directly above Wilkes-Barre, was discovered to be on fire. The flames were long for many weeks by officers and men who bravely imperilled their lives in efforts to subdue them. At last, these endeavors all proving vain, the idea came to a mine looeman in the company's employ to force steam into the workings after closing the mine openings. Happily, the vein lay so deep that there existed no danger of breakings-in of the surface.

A long row of immense boilers was planted on the mountain side, and steam was continuously forced into and through all the workings to where a great wall of rock and earth had been built to shut off the Empire from the adjoining mine. Nine months later investigation showed that the names had finally been smothered.

Early in the winter of 1878-89 a tramp, who had taken refuge in the mouth of an abandoned mine slope belonging to the Butler Coal company, high up on the eastern mountain range immediately above Pittston, left a fire burning that communicated to all the inside woodwork of the slope, and thence to the pillars of coal that are always left standing at certain intervals to support the mine roof. Owing to the fact that no part of the mine was then being worked the fire had reached a point where it was utterly beyond control before it was discovered.

It had followed all the windings of the vein, swept around and beyond the coal pillars into the mine chambers on either side of the great gallery, and was rapidly nearing the place where the abandoned workings opened into the mine next below. Thence unless checked it would have found open channels to communicate with other collieries down the entire length of the valley.

The vein lay very near the mountain surface. By the time the fire was discovered the earth was already beginning to cave in at many places, and new points of exposure of the fire to the open air were constantly appearing. There was therefore no possibility of using steam as an extinguisher as was done at the Empire mine. The more usual method of flooding he was in a hurry he had better close that gate in front of the engine. During the interchange of courtesies which followed this shot the fireman noted the absence of the tallow pot and asked Pete if he had had it. The conductor referred in a scornful manner to Pete's cranial density, and told him he couldn't see the switch from there anyhow.

"Ish dot so?" roared Pete, foaming with righteous indignation. "Better you get your eyes fixed. Vat you call dat, hey?" and he pointed triumphantly ahead, just as the fireman reached up and lifted the tallow pot down from the run-board.

Of course, the supposed open switch target disappeared and Pete has been trying to explain ever since.

Waves Seventeen Feet.

Last year the members of the government's engineering force made some measurements as to the height of the waves that rolled through the canal on one of the very windy days. It was found that waves rose to a height of 17 feet, measured from the hollow to the crest, just between the outer ends of the two piers.

BETTER PAY.

Put Up For Your Dog or You Will Be Arrested.

Is your dog licensed? Every dog is supposed to be licensed on May 1, but up to the present time only 480 licenses have been taken out. The canine population of Duluth is estimated at 1800.

The license fee or a male dog is $1 and $5 for a female. Out of the total of 480 licenses taken out this spring, 475 are males and about 470 are named Dewey.

The police department has men out now enforcing the dog license ordinance. The officers give ample warning to the owners to take out the license, and if this warning is not heeded, warrants are sworn out against the owners. Last year one dog owner decided to fight the police department on the license question, and it cost him $10 in addition to the regular license fee.

The revenue derived from licensing dogs is divided between the city and the Police Relief association. The city gives the policemen 50 per cent of all money collected in this way in excess of $800.

GIVES HIM CONTROL

Thomas Bardon Said to Have Nice Thing In Timber.

Controls Fine Tract That Will Be In Demand.

Said to Have Worked Himself Out of a Pocket.

About a week ago the sale of 30,000,000 feet of standing pine on the north shore, in Lake county, to the Weyerhaeuser interests, was made public, but since that time it has been learned that there was more timber in the deal and the Weyerhaeusers were not the main people in the deal. Subsequent light on the transaction indicates that it was a shrewd move on the part of Thomas Bardon, of Ashland, Wis., who through this and other deals about the same time has got control of 115,000,000 feet of standing pine in Lake county and is placed in a position where he can practically dictate the price of his timber to the other lumber companies that have timber mixed in with Mr. Bardon's, and that have, or will have, logging railways into the district.

Less than two years ago Kenneth McDonald, of this city, bought for Wilson Pleas and Thomas Bardon a tract of standing pine in Lake county that contained 50,000,000 feet of pine. About the same time Mr. McDonald bought for Patrick Culligan, of Alpena, Mich., another piece of pine in the same district that was estimated at a little over 31,000,000 feet. Other lumber companies having an eye on the north shore timber bought also so that the ownership of the timber in all the purchases was pretty well mixed up in two or three townships. Among the other interests owning timber there were Hunter & Steckbauer, of Iron River, Wis., the Split Rock Lumber company and Mitchell & McClure.

It is said that Mr. Bardon, after looking over the situation, figured that the lumber companies having railroads running into the timber would, if they reached out, practically have control of the timber, and his timber would not be marketable for a number of years, as they would first cut off all their holdings. Figuring it out on this basis, he set out to get control of an amount of timber large enough to make him one of the controlling factors in the timber supply of the district, and to this end he associated with himself the Weyerhaeusers. In the deals that have recently been closed, Mr. Bardon and the Weyerhaeusers have not only secured Mr. Culligan's timber, but they have bought 15,000,000 feet belonging to Hunter & Steckbauer, and have bought out Mr. Pleas' interest in the 50,000,000 feet of pine in a district now reached by the Split Rock Lumber company's road, and which will be tributary to the logging railway that Mitchell & McClure are said to be about to put in from the Iron Range road, near Highland.

The rails which the Mitchell & McClure company will put in to their timber are those used on their logging road last winter, and which were taken up this spring on the completion of the operations in the vicinity of Rice Lake.

It is claimed that the Culligan timber, which was estimated at 31,000,000 feet, will run nearer 35,000,000 feet, according to the estimate of an Ashland timber man, and the Bardon & Pleas timber is nearer 57,000,000 feet than 50,000,000. Mr. Bardon controls a large share of the north shore timber tributary to the roads of the other lumber companies, and instead of being frozen out by them, can easily put his price to $5 a thousand. The timber cost Mr. Bardon and his asociates $429,000, and local timbermen say that it is the best deal of the kind that has been put through in years in Northern Minnesota. The timber was bought years ago at $1.50 a thousand, and the parties closing out to Mr. Bardon have made a good thing. Mr. Culligan has not had his timber more than a year, and some of it about six months, and will clean up over $50,000, while Mr. Pleas will have a profit of about $100,000.

THE CANTEEN

Army Surgeons Make a Strong Plea For Its Reinstatement.

St. Paul, May 31.—By a unanimous vote, the Association of Military Surgeons in session here today, passed a esolution in favor of the repeal of the anti-canteen law. The subject was introduced with the resolution in a paper by Lieut. Louis L. Seaman, late of the First United States volunteer engineers.

His paper dealt with the army canteen and the army ration. It provoked considerabl talk, but every speaker agreed with the author. A supplementary resolution by Col. Reed, of Wyoming, constituted every delegate a committee to see the congressmen from his own state and provide for a committee of three to labor with congress. This last committee is to act with the legislation committee of the American Medical association.

The reading was frequently interrupted by applause and followed by a general discussion. Following is the resolution:

Whereas, The Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, now in session at St. Paul, recognizes that the abolition of the army post exchange or canteen has resulted, and must inevitably result, in an increase of intemperance, insubordination, discontent, desertion and disease in the army; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this body deplores the action of congress in abolishing the said post exchange or canteen, and in the interests of sanitation, morality and discipline, recommends its re-establishment at the earliest possible date.

NOT TALKED OF.

Philadelphia, May 31.—There was no representation of Vickers-Maxim interests at the annual meeting here today of the directors of the William Cramp Ship and Engine company and Secretary Taylor said after the meeting that there had been no discussion of consolidation with the Vickers-Maxim company.

THEY WANT MALIETOA

The Natives of Samoa Are Anxious That Their Former Ruler Shall Return From the Fiji Islands.

Apia, Samoa, May 8, via San Francisco, May 31.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The German government has made rapid progress with the roads commenced by the late government. But it has not yet been done altogether with German money, for that government, upon the partition of the islands, secured all the assets of the Malletoa government, including some thousands of dollars in cash on hand. Malietoa is still in Fiji, and the Samoans are wanting him to come back. It is stated that he will not return until Great Britain, Germany and the United States have carried out the promises made to him, when he was induced to abdicate the throne in order to give the high commission a clean field to work upon. He was to receive an annuity and an education.

Governor B. F. Tilley has paid a visit to the outlying islands of Manua and had a most loyal welcome from the king, Tulmanua, and his chiefs.

The German court of Apia has convicted two Samoans of the murder of a Chinaman. The principal, Pupu, was sentenced to be hanged and his accomplice to serve fifteen years at hard labor. Pupu suffered the penalty last week.

The balance of the lands held by a San Francisco firm in trust for the Polynesian Land company, has been sold to G. Kupnst, a wealthy German, who also several years ago bought Vailina, the home of the late Robert Louis Stevenson. This transfer places in German hands the largest American interest in real estate in the islands under German control. It is the intention of the new proprietor to send to Germany for settlers to work the lands. Mr. Kunst has purchased two steamers from the Union Steamship company of New Zealand for American trade. The first is daily expected at Apia and from thence she will proceed to Honolulu and San Francisco.

ASHLEY WILL RESIGN

Will Retire From General Managership of Wabash Road and Become the Chairman of the Board.

New York, May 31.—The Mail and Express says: C. D. Ashley will, at the next meeting of the Wabash board of directors, resign the position of vice president and general manager. Joseph C. Ramsey will be elected to succeed him. The meeting was called for June 8, but has been adjourned until June 20.

Mr. Ashley's resignation was entirely voluntary. He is to be made chairman of the board, a position which will be created for his benefit.

The extension of the Wabash to Pittsburg is being managed largely by Mr. Ramsey, and will be accomplished as soon as necessary authority from the board of aldermen of the city has been obtained.

LOOKS FOR AN EMPIRE

Towne Says the Republicans Will Nominate McKinley Again---Believes Supreme Court Decision Will Lead to It.

New York, May 31.—"The supreme court decision in the Porto Rico cases means an attempt will be made by the Republican party to elect McKinley for a third term. It means an attempt at concrete imperialism within the next four years."

This was the sentiment uttered last night by Former Senator Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, at the Fifth Avenue hotel, where he is staying.

"I know," he said, "that the proposition to run McKinley for a third term has been seriously considered by Republican politicians. They deceived the people and won on the last election upon the plea of 'unsettled complications,' and this chaotic decision the supreme court gives further ground for carrying the same argument. It was used in the time of Augustus, and he became emperor of Rome. It was used in the time of Napoleon, and he became emperor of France.

"The efforts of the Republican party have been to make the presidency a semi-monarchy, and I believe this decision, if it turns out favorably to the administration, will help make it an absolute monarchy.

"For myself, I believe we shall all come back soon to the old-fashioned idea of Americanism. I do not think we men of the United States will ever subscribe to the idea that the constitution framed by our grandfathers can and cannot, does and does not, follow the flag, is and is not supreme."

In regard to his presence in the city Mr. Towne said:

"I expect to live in New York. I am out of politics for the present. I am not going to affiliate with either Tammany or anti-Tammany factions. All I can say is there will be one more Democratic vote in New York."

WAS ROYALLY RECEIVED

Queen Wilhelmina Enthusiastically Greeted By the People of Berlin and Immense Throngs Witnessed the Parade.

Berlin, May 31.—On the occasion of the emperor's review of the garrison today, the public enthusiastically greeted Queen Wilhelmina. Immense throngs witnessed the parade. Owing to the sultry weather there were a score of sunstrokes, the sufferers including a number of soldiers. Many Dutch flags were displayed.

The newspapers are unanimous in extending a welcome to the queen.

The parade itself, in spite of the fearful dust and terrible heat, was the most successful held in years. All the military attaches, with Gen. Bonnal, kept in a cluster near the emperor, who led a brigade past the review stand, near which was stationed a carriage containing the empress and Queen Wilhelmina.

The foreign experts agreed in saying that they never had seen such marvelous drill and marching.

After the maneuvers, the emperor, with his suite, took up a position by the side of the empress' carriage, the crown prince, Frederick William, and Prince Henry of the Netherlands, had places, throughout, next to the emperor.

Several hundred Americans attended the review, mostly in carriages, among them Andrew D. White, the United States ambassador, and Mrs. White, with United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, E. V. Morgan, New York; ex-Mayor Schieren, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Londis, of San Francisco; Commander William H. Beehler, the United States naval attache, and Mrs. Beehler, with a party, Mrs. Kerr, wife of Lieut. Col. Kerr, the United States military attache, Admiral and Mrs. Smith, Dr. Angell, of Rochester, and Mrs. Shakespeare and Miss Rutter, of Philadelphia.

The ceremony of the emperor accompanying the regimental flags back to the Schloss, with his large suite, was most impressive, his majesty holding his field marshal's staff. The commands cheered with great enthusiasm.

The municipal ceremony of welcoming Queen Wilhelmina, was quite simple, but the floral decorations around the spot were most gorgeous.

The luncheon at the Schloss was participated in by all the members of the royal families, including the ladies, the foreign guests and the military attaches.

HE STILL LIVES

A Boy Who Received Ten Thousand Volts.

Hartford, Conn., May 31.—Arthur Budds, 9 years old, climbed on the roof of a barn in Albany avenue yesterday afternoon to see a circus parade. He caught hold of an electric light wire, and immediately swung off into the air, smoke rising from the wire while he was clutching it.

Policeman Vail broke the boy's hold by pounding his hands, and the little body dropped apparently lifeless, the lad having received 10,000 volts—for that is the current on this main cable of the Hartford Electric company, which brings electricity from the big plant at Farmington to the distributing station in this city. The cable is insulated, but the insulation is not sufficient to guard against such an accident.

Dr. Naylor arrived after the boy had been given up for dead. hTe physician worked the boy's arms producing artificial respiration, and brought him into a semi-conscious state, in which he still lies in Hartford hospital.

Both hands are severely burned, and one little finger is burned off, but it is said the boy will recover

Milwaukee Manufacturers Give Machinists Until Monday to Return.

Milwaukee, May 31.—The Milwaukee association of machinery manufacturers has issued an ultimatum to the striking machinists in this city which provides that unless the men return to work on or before Monday next at 10 a. m. they will no longer be considered as employes. The fight of the employers will be along the lines laid down in the declaration of principles adopted at a meeting of the administrative council of the National Metal Trades association in Chicago on Wednesday last. The strike situation is about the same as when the men quit work on May 20.

BUCKET SHOPS.

Several Indictments Against Alleged Proprietors.

Chicago, May 31.—At the instance of John Hill, the grand jury today took up the subject of bucket shopping, examined a mass of evidence submitted by Hill, took the testimony of Chief of Police O'Neill and Acting Mayor Walker, and then voted indictments against the following persons, accused of violating the law: D. J. Gunsalus, Rialto building; F. J. Holsapel, 106 Adams street; J. P. Royal, chamber of commerce building; E. A. Waesching, F. C. Bates, Omaha building; W. L. Talcott, 92 La Salle street; Sidney McHie, president central stock exchange; C. W. Pickerel, J. F. Southard, W. A. McHie, Sidney L. Wright, Rialto building; K. R. Owen, Henry Wallinsdorf, E. H. DEFENBACH CASE.

Smiley Gave Additional Testimony In Court.

Chicago, May 31.—Frank H. Smiley, who has confessed to conspiring with Dr. A. M. Unger and F. W. Brown and Miss Marie Defenbach in an effort to swindle various life insurance companies, which held policies on Miss Defenbach's life, was the chief witness at the trial of Dr. unger and Brown today. Smiley told how he was hired to pose as Miss Defenbach's promised husband. He said he was to be paid $1000 and that Miss Defenbach urged from the start that she would die soon of heart disease. She said she wanted her insurance to go to her friend, Dr. Unger.

ASKS THEM TO THINK.

Columbia, S. C., May 31.—In returning the resignation of Senators Tillman and McLaurin, Governor Sweeny, in part, writes: "I respectfully return your resignations that you may have time for serious consideration of the effects upon the people of this state of this action on your part. The commission which you hold is the highest compliment and testimonial which the people of this state can pay to one of its citizens. It is possible that you have taken this step hastily in the heat of debate and without due reflections of the consequences to the people who have so signally honored you."

GAME POSTPONED.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Cincinnati-Philadelphia postponed on account of wet grounds.

WHISTLING FACE.

The tune was "See the Conquering Hero Comes," and the whistler, hidden somewhere behind a pile of dry goods boxes, was rendering the music with spirit and precision, says the New York Sun.

"That boy is a good whistler," said the customer.

"Boy?" said the manager of the department. "That is not a boy. It is a woman. She is our assistant bookkeeper, and she certainly is one of the best whistlers for an amateur I ever heard. She must be unusually busy now or she wouldn't be rattling off that tune at such a lively rate. I've noticed that the deeper her interest in her work the better she whistles. The first time I heard her whistle back in the office I was inexpressibly shocked.

"'Why, my dear Miss Mellin,' I said, 'really this is most extraordinary.'

"'Yes,' said she, 'I suppose it is, but I've got to do it when I get down to real hard work. If you expect me to get through with all these accounts today, you've just got to let me whistle.'

"So she whistled, and she's kept on whistling, whenever we have an unusual rush of business. I don't know that it looks any worse to see a woman whistling when going about her work than when walking along the street."

The customer gasped. "Do women whistle on the street?" was the anxious question.

"Do they?" said the manager. "If you had kept your eyes and ears open that question would be entirely superfluous. Why, the number of whistling women seen here is one of the first things that strike a visiting foreigner as peculiar. Haven't you heard them? Haven't you seen them? American men long ago earned for us the name of a whistling nation, and now the women are doing their best to keep up the reputation.

"If you will watch them hurrying along the streets you will find that fully 50 per cent have their lips puckered into whistling shape. Sometimes this preparatory pucker really amounts to something and they emit shrill, unmusical noises, while again they are content with the dumb semblance of a whistle. In most cases these women, like my bookkeeper, are unconscious of their astonishing facial contortion, and merely whistle or strike the whistling expression as a relief to their high nervous tension.

"Before I became superintendent of this department I was on the road for several years and I noticed that the women of other cities are also given to whistling. You just ought to hear them out in Chicago. There is no half-hearted compromise about the whistling out there. The notes ring out loud and buoyant. The old adage about whistling girls and crowing hens has no terrors for Chicago women, and they don't care a rap who hears them.

"In Philadelphia they are more subdued, but they whistle just the same. But if you want to hear good whistling from the feminine portion of the population—soft, sweet, melodious whistling—just go to Richmond. That town is noted for many things, but if I was asked to give my opinion as to its chief title to fame, I should say it is the women's proficiency in whistling.

"But, taken all in all, New York beats the world on whistling. You will find more cases of the whistling face here than anywhere else. This phase of the habit is to be deplored, for the tell-tale lines in the face of a confirmed whistler are not pretty. The upper lip is lengthened and furrowed with fine lines, and the corners of the mouth become wrinkled. These facial characteristics are more pronounced when the whistler performs his litiet turn from nervousness instead of pleasure, consequently they are much in evidence, for it certainly is nervousness that makes most people, especially women, whistle their way through life."

The British war office has decided to appoint Lieut. Col. G. F. R. Henderson as the compiler and editor of the official history of the Boer war. The work, as now planned, will include six (possibly seven) volumes, each of about 450 pages. It will take the form of tactical and strategical discussion. Faults and weaknesses will not be directly imputed, but the reader will be furnished with sufficient data from which to draw his own conclusions.

A Berlin correspondent writes that the German public is again demanding more stringent laws against the adulteration of wine, which has lately been very prevalent. Wine merchants of repute, who ought to know better, buy the pure wine from the peasants, and out of one barrel they make five or six by watering and the addition of deleterious adjuncts. Most of the doubtful and deteriorated wine is exported to England, to her colonies and to Russia.

AT WEST DULUTH

The citizens who had occasion to go up and down Central avenue today, and the merchants with places of business along the avenue, were given another object lesson of the disagreeableness of dust on a day when there is wind. This morning the condition was almost unbearable, the dust swept through the streets in clouds, choking the pedestrian, filling his eyes and ears with real estate, and settling like a pall on the goods lined up on the shelves in the stores. Imprecations on the present condition of the street were numerous and apparently from the heart, and the West Duluthians are almost praying for a sprinkling wagon. The dust is doing many dollars' worth of damage in the business houses, and the situation is a most discouraging one to the merchants, for the dust will sift through even with the doors of the stores closed. If there is any new paving to be done it is their expressed wish that it be done very quickly. This week Alderman Barnes began distributing among the property owners on the avenue the printed petitions for a cedar block pavement, between Main street and the railroad tracks and Cody street, and it is hoped that a majority of the property owners will make haste to sign. A committee of the business men of West Duluth waited on the board of public works, at the city hall this morning, and petitioned for a street sprinkling district. They wish the sprinkling to extend from Cody street to Main street, on Central avenue, also one block each on Ramsey street and Grand avenue. The business men made a strong plea, and it is understood that the board of public works is very favorably disposed toward granting the petition.

SELLS MANY BOXES.

Charles Petruschke, the box manufacturer, has recently returned from a business trip through Iowa, where he has made a contract with a large wholesale house for the delivery of forty carloads of material for wooden boxes. Mr. Petruschke says that this contract will keep a good-sized force employed for a long time. He has also sold a quantity of hardwood lumber to another Sioux City concern.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Rev. A. J. Paulson, of Florida, has arrived in West Duluth and will very soon inaugurate a series of revival meetings.

The people of West Duluth are hoping that since the city engineer has reported the West Duluth viaducts serviceable for at least two years more, the street car company will very soon put the new cars into the West Duluth service, as it was understood that it was the condition of the viaducts that has been keeping them back. A force of men are at the present time putting new supports under the viaduct, near the brass foundry, on Oneota street.

The members of the school board have visited the West Duluth school buildings this week with the view of looking up needed repairs.

AT STAPLES.

Memorial Day Observed In a Most Fitting Manner.

Staples, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Memorial day was observed here in a most fitting manner. The day opened auspiciously, the weather being delightful; in fact all that could be desired for such a day. The people were early astir and in a short time the streets were filled with people all eager to partiepate in the events. Elaborate preparations had been made by the committee in charge and not a hitch marred the carrying out of the well arranged program.

The procession was formed on Fourth street at 9:20 a. m. and was in charge of J. M. Glunt, who was marshal of the day. It was the finest spectacle yet witnessed in this place. The procession was headed by Miller's cornet band and in the ranks were veterans of '61 and '98 marching side by side, proud of the fact that they had fought and bled for their country's honor. A fife and drum, in the hands of veterans who had seen service in the civil war, furnished martial inspiration that was especially enjoyable to the old time warriors. The school children followed in floats which had been most artistically arranged, two of which represented the states of the Union. Prominent citizens and visitors to the town followed in carriages. The line of march was taken to the cemetery, where the graves of the departed soldiers were literally buried in flowers in memory of their gallant deeds.

All places of business were closed and the day was given over to the honoring of the dead. The afternoon exercises were held in Masonic hall and included music by the church societies and an interesting address by Rev. W. W. Johnson, of Crokston.

Fully 500 people from Staples attended the ball game at Verndale between the Hewitts and the Verndales, which resulted in a victory for the Hewitts by a score of 5 to 4.

Staples is enjoying an era of prosperity, the greatest in the history of the town. Many new buildings are in contemplation, and the Northern Pacific will spend a large amount of money in improvements in the fall.

The "Why Not" club enjoyed an impromptu dancing party at the hotel, which was participated in by forty couples, who had a most delightful time.

A CRUEL STEPMOTHER.

Shocking Condition of Four-Year-Old Child.

Chicago, May 31.—Charges of cruelty were made against Merecka Blazozyk, 313 North Sangamon street, in the West Chicago avenue police court by Juvenile Officer John Phalen. The evidence of cruelty was startling and shocking, said Justice Severenson, as he held the woman to the criminal court in heavy bonds. The most damaging evidence against the defendant was the condition of her child, a girl 4 years old. A cat-o'-nine-tails was submitted as evidence to the court and the testimony showed that the child was repeatedly beaten with it by her stepmother. Officer Phalen submitted a book which showed the girl had been insured since she was only 1 year old. The child was removed to the Detention hospital, where she will be given treatment.

ELIGIBLE TO PRESIDENCY.

Boys Born In Porto Rico Since Cession.

Washington, May 31.—Whatever may be the status of the people of Porto Rico, it seems clear that any children born there since the ratification of the treaty are as good Americans as anybody else. The supreme court decided that as soon as the island was ceded properly, it became a part of the United States. Section 1992 of the revised statutes provides that "all persons born in the United States and not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed, are declared to be citizens of the United States." This was a law enacted in 1866. The rulings of the supreme court make it plain that boys born in Porto Rico since the treaty was ratified are American citizens, eligible to become presidents.

ACT SOON ON CANAL

Senator Cullom Says That Congress Will Take Action.

Problem Will Be Decided During the Next Session.

England Is Likely to Agree to the American Terms.

Washington, May 31.—"We must have a Nicaragua canal," said Senator Cullom. "The time has come when something must be done. Our people are universally in favor of the construction of a canal, and they will have it. Nothing will thwart them in their wishes in this direction, at least for any great period of time. I believe congress is strongly inclined to pass a bill at its next session authorizing the digging of a canal.

"Notwithstanding popular opinion, I do not believe the railroads will stand in the way of the canal. The transcontinental railroad lines naturally do not want the canal constructed, as they now carry a tremendous amount of freight across the continent. A canal would shorten the distance by water to our Pacific ports, doing away with the expensive and perilous voyage around Cape Horn. With a shorter water route, much of the freight hauled across the continent would go by water, but even with the prospects of small inroads being made on their carrying trade I do not believe the railroads would strongly oppose canal legislation.

"One or two things are necessary, however, before congress can authorize the construction of a canal. We must either make a new treaty with Great Britain or get rid of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which stands in the way of progress. We are now confronted with that treaty, and nothing can be done until it is abrogated either by agreement or by legislative enactment."

"I am in favor of abrogating the Clayton-Bulwer treaty by agreement," continued the senator, "as this is the only way in which it can be done properly. It must be remembered that a treaty is a solemn agreement between two nations, and merely because one party to it becomes dissatisfied with its provisions it has no right to break the agreement abruptly.

"To abrogate the treaty by legislative enactment is a forcible and improper manner of escaping the carrying out of an agreement which was entered into in good faith. The latter course may be a cause for war.

"The consequences that follow an arbitrary act of this kind must be borne by the nation which is responsible for the action. When a treaty is abrogated in this way the nation which suffers may determine what the penalty may be. It may break off diplomatic relations, declare war, or resort to other measures it chooses to adopt.

"I believe Great Britain will agree to the abrogation of the treaty without asking anything unreasonable in return. The treaty is antiquated and conditions have changed wonderfully since it was negotiated. Great Britain has no special reason for holding on to the old treaty unless it hopes to gain control of some of the South American countries. We would not permit it to do that as such action would be a clear violation of the Monroe doctrine, and our people would not allow that for an instant.

"Our commerce demands the construction of a canal. We propose to spend our money in the enterprise, and I do not believe Great Britain will stand in our way. Therefore, it is only reasonable to suppose the British government will agree to a treaty which will be acceptable."

"If the Clayton-Bulwer treaty cannot be abrogated in an orderly and proper way," the senator went on, "it then will be time enough to consider other methods. I am strong in the belief, however, that the English nation will yield gracefully. The control of the canal must lie with the United States. After we spend our money for this vast enterprise it would not be proper to yield the management of it.

"With the control of the canal in our hands we could afford to be liberal by making it neutral. Fortifying the waterway is of no particular consequence. To be of any value at all the canal must be neutral. If a war should break out it would not be likely to be fought in the neighborhood of the canal.

"From the first I have been inclined to favor the Nicaragua route. The proposed route is nearer to this country, and by adopting this line we would avoid all complications with the old canal or with France.

"I think there is a strong party in this country in favor of the Panama route, and I hear the owners are hard at work trying to have the government decide to purchase their interests.

"It may be necessary to issue bonds before the canal is completed, but this may be avoided, as the appropriations will be extended over a number of years. I would consent to a bond issue for this purpose, but much prefer to go a little slower and pay as we go. It is safter to do this.

"No treaty can be ratified by the senate which does not abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer treaty in toto," said Senator Cullom. "Our people are disgusted with that convention, and would not tolerate another treaty which continues that objectionable convention in force. This sentiment is reflected fully in the senate, and I believe the next treaty dealing with this subject sent to us for action will be acceptable to everybody.

"I sincerely hope the new treaty will be satisfactory even to those who take the extreme view and want the treaty abrogated by legislation.

"Lord Pauncefote and the officials of the British foreign office certainly understand that the sentiment of this country is exceedingly strong in favor of abrogating the Clayton-Bulwer. This sentiment has been brought to the attention of the British officials by the press of this country, and it would not be surprising if they knew of it officially.

"At any rate, the British know well that the temper of the people is such as to compel action that will permit the construction of the canal. Of course, no threats have been made, nor will any be made. It would be highly improper to make threats, especially when negotiations are actually in progress or in prospect.

"Understanding the attitude of the American people and government as they do so well, I am quite convinced Great Britain will assent to the abrogation of the convention which blocks the canal enterprise."

THE MISSING ANCHOR.

A Yarn Spun By an Old Salt.

"Of course," said a grizzled old salt with barnacles on his back and a fringe of gray whiskers under his chin, who was sitting on the stringpiece at the end of a South street wharf looking meditatively out across the East River and chewing meanwhile on a spear of hay that he had plucked from a bale waiting to be hoisted aboard a ship as fodder for a couple of mules they were taking away on the vessel, "of course, you know what a mushroom anchor is," said he to the New York Sun. "No? It is an anchor that has in place of the arms and flukes of the ordinary anchor, a casting shaped like a saucer, or a shallow dish. The shank of the anchor is set in the center of this casting, in the concave side of it; so that if, instead of letting this anchor hang down, you were to hold it bottom up, it would be something like a mushroom in shape; hence the name.

"Mushroom anchors are used for anchoring boats that are to stay in one place, and for anchoring buoys. They make these anchors in a great variety of sizes, from a few pounds in weight and a few inches across the mushroom, up to anchors 6 or 8 feet across the dish and weighing three or four tons apiece. They might use a little one to anchor a buoy to tie a sailboat to; they would put down anchors like the big ones to anchor a lightship by.

"When this sort of anchor is put down on the bottom the mushroom part of it buries, and with that great dish filled with sand and mud you can imagine how much power it would take to pull one of them up; but I know a one of 'em once being pulled up by a critter that lived on the bottom of the sea, which was one of my experiences when I was aboard the To'galan Shoals lightship, which was what I set out to tell you about.

"I suppose that the location of the old To'galan Shoals lightship is about as exposed as any there is along the whole Atlantic coast, and in the winter we used to have two of those mud saucers over, one of them weighing 6500 pounds and the other just an even four tons, mushroomy enough, you'd have thought to hold a fleet of vessels, and certainly enough to hold the old lightship in any sort of sea or weather; and so they would have been if they'd been let alone.

"But one day in a gale of wind, old Polly Ann begun after awhile to hunch to leeward. We had even deck a couple of ordinary big mudhooks, for use in case of emergency, and now we put one of them overboard and that stopped her. When we'd got that done, we found the cable of the 4-ton mushroom hanging straight up and down; and when we'd got that in we found the anchor gone and the chain cable parted a foot and a half from the end of the anchor shank.

"Now, that, you know, worried us considerable, because there was no rocks laid down on the charts at that point and we knew the cable couldn't have chafed off on a rock, and we didn't know what to make of it, and they didn't anybody else. So when our report of the loss of the big mushroom got ashore they sent off by the next boat that came to bring us supplies, a diver to look the bottom over.

"This diver hadn't been over the side much more'n time enough to let him get to the bottom when we felt a twitch on the life-line, and when we'd got him up and got his helmet off we saw the only pale diver I ever saw, because, you know, the diver is a man that never gets scared; he takes his life in his hands and goes down under the water into all sorts of surroundings without a tremor. But this diver had seen something he wanted to get away from.

"And what he'd seen was a lobster about 21 feet long, upstanding on his long legs about 8 feet, and with claws each about 9 feet in length, walking along on the bottom carrying our 4-ton mushroom, with the shank held in one of his claws and the mushroom up over his shoulder, as if it was an umbrella.

"As I said, and as you know, divers see when they go below, some strange things, but this was the strangest thing that this diver had ever seen, and he didn't want to see it but once. When the lobster had gone by him and had got far enough by so that even if he had discovered him, there was no danger of his turning 'round and snipping him in two with his free claw, the diver yanked the life-line and was hauled up.

"Of course, it was easy enough then to see what cut the cable. That lobster cut it with his big cutting claw, which he could easily do. It wasn't so easy to understand what he wanted of an umbrella, under water so; but I suppose there's a lot of things in animal critters' heads ha we don't understand. And then, of course, it might have been that the big lobster wasn't really carrying the mushroom that way for any umbrella at all, but only because that way was the handiest way for him to carry it. But seeing him carrying it anyway was enough to solve the mystery of the missing mushroom anchor.

"I never heard of that lobster being took, and I don't suppose anybody will believe this story about him, now that I've told it to you; but I tell you there's wonderful things in the sea, and you'll find things there someday that will make us look on sea serpents as nothing more than small eels."

"It was almost a miracle, Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body. I am very grateful." Miss Julia Filbridge, West Cornwell, Conn.

CAT HOBOS.

Some Tramps By Nature, Others Through Ill Luck.

Superintendent's Theory About Depew's Missing Cat Taffy.

"This is the season when the tramp cat starts on his downward career," said Superintendent H. Hankinson of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, says the New York Sun. "Certainly, there are tramp cats just as surely as there are tramps of the human species. May day movings and the annual summer migrations of city families to the country throw hundreds of cats out of good homes and so make tramps of them. But not all tramp cats are victims of environment; a great many are victims of heredity.

"Take Senator Depew's missing cat Taffy. Now I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings, but it is my belief that Taffy turned hobo. The charge is grave and I should not feel myself justified in making it except for the fact that I have studied cat pyschology for thirty years and I know a little about it. There are two sorts of tramp cats—the natural born hobo and the tramp that takes the road from hard necessity. Taffy was a splendid Angora, but undoubtedly he belonged in the best of the cat families.

"The genuine tramp is born with a thirst for adventure. Usually his parents are tramps. Offspring of prowling cats are just as sure to be prowling cats by temperament as the children of gypsies are certain to be gypsies.

"Often it has been my fortune to watch the growth of three or four generations of these nomad cat families; for instance, our cat catchers gather up all the tramp cats in a certain neighborhood. Some child claims a litter of kittens belonging to these cats. We leave the little cats and carry the big ones away to be done to death painlessly in our treacherous cat shelter on One Hundred and Twenty-third street. Before six months have passed the kittens grow up, run away from home and take to tramping. It's bred in the bone. Some cats will actually turn tail on saucers of real country cream and revel in the pickings of garbage boxes.

"But these are all ill-bred cats anyway, are they not?"

"Yes, as I say, in the majority of cases the parents and grandparents are tramp cats. But not always. A few days ago a lady came here to report the disappearance of her handsome Maltese cat that went by the name of Gwendolen Grandcourt. This tabby was Maltese with the bluest blood and the most ancient lineage, as things go in the cat tribe. Her mother was a dignified cat whose mother before her had been a pet in the same family. The father cat was of irreproachable character. But his father—aye, there was the rub. His father had been a reckless pirate of a cat. Besides that, he was fond of eggnogg. Gwendolen had inherited the dare-devil character of her grandfather. This is an instance of how the ancestry of a cat will often explain erratic tendencies.

"Then there are mysterious cases where good cats go wrong despite faultless pedigrees and the most pleasant surroundings. You can always distinguish the born tramp cat, of whatever upbringing, from the cat that tramps from necessity. The born tramp gets his living easily. He is always fat, if not sleek. There is a triumphant, devil-may-care air about him. He knows just where to find the richest garbage boxes. He has a genius for slipping through back doors and raiding larders. His sins never find him out until it is too late to catch him.

"A favorite trick too is to steal into a house and enjoy a nap curled up on the top of the company counterpane. That is a regular tramp cat trick. He is an adept at putting up a hard-luck story. I can't tell precisely how he does it, but a tramp cat will wheedle a meal from a cook where an honest cat will go away with an empty stomach."

"How about cats driven into tramp life?"

"I was just coming to them. They are a forlorn lot. The born tramp cat is so jaunty, so debonnaire in spite of his dirty coat and bad character, so evidently in harmony wth his surroundings, that pity affronts him. He likes to fly the red flag and live in a state of war and siege. But with the other sort of tramp cats it's a different story.

"They don't know how to forage for food and they always get caught in larder raids. Between hunger and homelessness and the tauntings of bad boys, they lead a terribly strenuous life. Most of them enter tramp-life about this time of year through no fault of their own. Every well regulated household, if it owns no cat makes haste to adopt one in the fall. The cat stays in the house all winter and catches rats and mice and drinks milk and grows as fat as butter. Summer comes and the faimly migrate. Frequently it happens that pussy has cleared out all of the rodents by spring and no one wants him about any longer. Many things combine to run a cat out of house and home at this season.

"There are too, of course, the blandishments of barn tramp cats that hang about the backyard and whisper to sedate house cats the temptations of anarchy. Spring is in the air. Birds flit temptingly in the trees. The good cat falls. In about six weeks he is a confirmed tramp."

"Can tramp cats be reformed?"

"The barn tramp, no; the tramp of environment, sometimes. I think that the average cat that ever really enjoyed a home will hanker after it again.

"There are people who have a weakness for tramp cats just as there are persons whose hearts go out toward human hobos. In a way, of course, they encourage vagrancy among cats. A little old lady living in the neighborhood of Twenty-sixth street and Madison avenue, I think it was, used to maintain a free lunch for tramp cats. Every morning at exactly the same hour she fared forth with a basket of appetizing scraps of victuals. Sometimes there were bowls of milk. Now, some persons will tell you that cats can't talk. Perhaps they can't, but the fame of that old lady's charity spread among the whole tramp cat fraternity of Manhattan. Actually, I believe that numbers of hobo cats came over from Jersey City to enjoy her hospitality. Cats thronged the neighborhood, and it was not in the power of any S. P. C. A. to break up that cleemosynary institution. The old lady died and then her proteges were scattered.

"Another tramp cat story that I know sounds like a bit of occultism. It is the most curious incident that I recall in my thirty years of work for dogs or cats. One rainy, cold afternoon when the wind blew the water in gusts and turned umbrellas inside out, a woman came here carrying a half-grown kitten in her arms. She set the little animal down and I recognized it at once for a small hobo. It was wet, miserable, shivering and covered with mange.

"'I brought this cat to you thinking as I walked along that I'd ask you to send it to the cat shelter and have it killed,' said the woman. 'On second thought I've decided to keep the little thing myself. You will think, perhaps, that I am fond of cats, but I am not; I dislike them.

"'As I crossed the street a few blocks away I heard the mewing of a kitten. I walked on and in a moment I heard the sound of distress a second time. I looked down and there in the gutter was this small creature chilled by the rain. I saw that it was wet and covered with mange and I did not like to take it up. So I hurried on again; but something caught my dress and held me.

"'Again I looked at the kitten, and in its eyes I seemed to see the eyes of my daughter who died a year ago. I can't explain it but the resemblance is there.'

"To me, of course, the cat only looked sickly and miserable, with uncommonly watery blinking eyes. It doesn't take much stretch of imagination to understand that the woman's heart was touched by the forlorn cat, and that her sympathy caused her to associate it with thoughts of her daughter. On the same principle you know one gives to an aged beggar with the thought 'Suppose that were my grandfatner or father!'

"But the woman as she talked grew more firmly convinced that in some occult way the cat had to do with her daughter. She went away carrying the cat with her. About five years afterward a lady walked into my office carrying something in a silk lined basket. She opened the basket and out stepped one of the handsomest, biggest cats I ever saw. It was the mangy runt which she had picked up on the street so long before.

"She had traveled extensively in Europe and Asia, she told me, and in all her journeyings she carried the cat with her. By that time she was wholly of the belief that her daughter's spirit either had entered the cat of controlled it."

WON THE BET.

Cleveland Man Raced on Bad Roads In an "Auto."

Cleveland, May 31.—One of the greatest amateur races ever run in America between automobiles was won by Albert S. Ingalls, superintendent of the Cleveland division of the Big Four road, who arrived in town Tuesday night, winning $2000 for L. Dean Holden and $3000 for others who bet on the result.

"The best part of this is that I did it all for fun," said Ingalls. "I won Dean Holden $2000 and honestly I would not make the trip again for that amount. My machine is rated at eighteen miles an hour. Kenyon V. Painter has the latest, rated at twenty-eight miles an hour. Holden and Painter had a dispute about the merits of their machines, and finally they bet $1000 on a race over a 200-mile course from Cleveland to Braceville, east of Warren.

"We left my residence on Euclid Heights at 3 a. m. Sunday. Just before we started Painter and Holden doubled their bet.

"Until we reached Wickliffe we kept pretty close together, Painter stopped there for water and I gradually pulled ahead. Six miles east of Wickliffe I lost him. I reached Braceville late Sunday night and began the return trip, arriving at Warren at midnight. I left there at 7 a. m. Monday, and when out five miles lost the tire of the right rear wheel. I ran forty miles on the rim, reaching Ashtabula at 6 p. m.

"I never saw such roads in my life. Why travel in the Yukon could not be any worse. I won't try to describe them. It has been like riding through a corn field. I had expected fair roads from Cleveland to Ashtabula, but I did not know anything about the roads from Ashtabula to Braceville, so I stationed relays of horses along the route."

There was no time limit in the race.

Painter gave up the race Sunday near Ashtabula.

Ingalls is a son of President Ingalls, of the Big Four. He is a young man, but built on the same lines as his father. He does not know what it is to give up. He has been handling an automobile for several years, and it is said Holden was betting on him rather than on the machine.

Painter is a son of a wealthy Cleveland banker.

JESUS OUR HIGH PRIEST IN HEAVEN

International Sunday School Lesson For June 2, 1901.

Hebrews 9:11-14, 24-28. "But Christ having come a high priest of the good things to come, through the greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this creation, nor yet through the blood of goats and calves, but through his own blood, entered in once for all into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption. For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the ashes of a heifer sprinkling them that have been defiled, sanctify unto the cleanness of the flesh; how much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without a blemish unto God, cleanse your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?

For Christ entered not into a holy place made with hands, like in pattern to the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear before the face of God for us; nor yet that he should offer himself often; as the high priest entereth into the holy place year by year with blood not his own; else must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world; but now once at the end of the ages hath he been manifested to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. And inasmuch as it is appointed unto men once to die, and after this cometh judgment; so Christ also, having been once offered to bear the sins of many, shall appear a second time, apart from sin, to them that wait for him, unto salvation."

Golden text: "He ever liveth to make intercession." Hebrews 7:25.

INTRODUCTORY.

The anonymous letter to the Hebrews is a very important piece of the New Testament literature. It is not known who wrote it or at just what time it was written, but its purpose was clearly that of showing to Jewish readers the superiority of the Christian faith over the old Levitical worship. The revelation which God has made through Jesus is superior to every other form in which He has revealed Himself. It is superior to the revelation through angels or even to that made through Moses. Its ministrations are superior to those rendered by Joshua or even by the Aaronic priesthood with all its elaborate ritual and equipment. The first nine and a half chapters of the letter are devoted to the elaboration of this composite thesis. The rest of the Letter is mainly occupied with exhortations based upon the foregoing argument. The lesson under present study may easily be regarded as an argument for the Christian faith as the absolute religion on the ground that it has an eternal priesthood which is superior to the old priesthoods in ways which will now be noted.

MORE EXCELLENT MINISTRY.

Jesus is the great high priest of mankind. The old priesthood of Aaron had its day and its ministry. The service it rendered was valuable, but temporary. It was but a shadow of the true mediatorship which is realized in Christ. He is as sympathetic a priest as any of the old order, yes, even more so, because "He was touched with the feeling of our infirmities." True, he was not of the order of the house of Aaron, but he was of a more ancient order, that of Melchizedek, who was a royal priest of righteousness, who sought to promote peace in the world, and whose priesthood was personal rather than inherited, for we are not told that he was priest because his father was such before him, but the indication of the story of his life is that he became a priest solely because of divinely given fitness for the work; nor was his work merely temporary, for, says the writer of the epistle, it is written "The Lord sware and will not repent himself, thou art a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek." Likewise the priesthood of Christ was given him directly of God as an eternal office. "He ever liveth to make intercession." His intercession is not ceremonial and formal, but real and vital.

Jesus has executed a more excellent covenant than had been given before, and this enhances the comparative value of his ministry. His was not a covenant which said: Obey the law and live, but he rather showed man the way of the Spirit, according to which the law of godly living is written on the heart, and the motive to keeping the covenant is love for and devotion to the great Father in heaven.

Jesus is "A minister of holy things, and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, not man." The old tabernacle and temple were but patterns or emblems of the true, and sought to instruct man in the worship and service of the God who is a Spirit. Jesus has obtained a more excellent ministry in that he has entered the sanctuary of God's eternal and immediate presence. And, by how much the glory of God in heaven is better than the best of his earthly sanctuaries, by so much is the ministry of Christ better than the choicest ministries which God gave to man before the coming of Christ.

The most decisive of all the points that emphasize the excellence of the ministry of Jesus is the superiority of the offering he made for sin. He needs not to go repeatedly into an earthly sanctuary to make offerings for sin, because he hath offered himself once for all to bear the "Sins of many." (Hebrews 7:27). The Levitical law said: "The life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul." But the writer of this Letter says that, "It is impossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sins." The sacrifices of the old covenant were but a remembrance of sins. (Hebrews 10:3). In Jesus we have "Redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace." So that, once again, Jesus is the best that God has given to man because he is the real, while that which went before was only the figure of that which was coming to pass in him. The figure was important in its time and place, but now that the real has come, there is no room left for the draperies of the old figure.

Why did Christ die? This was a question that seemed to the writer very important. His answer, summed up in brief compass is this. Jesus died because it is appointed unto all men to die once, and without such death the manhoood of Jesus might be called in question; Jesus brought a new testament to man, and without the death of the testator, the testament or will cannot be in force; as Captain of our salvation He was made perfect through suffering—perfect in obedience, complete in His self-sacrifice and faithful in His character; Jesus was both sacrifice and priest. He therefore had to make an offering of Himself first before He could enter into the eternal sanctuary.

The ministry of Christ must not be limited by the figures used of it in this letter to the Hebrews. The Letter was intended to assist those who were familiar with and devoted to the usages of the old Jewish sanctuary. To them the figures imparted a peculiar significance. But to the student of the Letter today it is next to impossible to appreciate the process of thought as it no doubt appealed to the original readers. One thing must be insisted on in the study of the entire Letter, and that is, that the writer intended to impress upon his readers the spiritual significance of the sufferings of Christ and of all His other ministry.

ACCESS TO GOD.

The priesthood of Jesus is synonymous with the bringing in "of a better hope, through which we draw nigh unto God." Paul says in Ephesians: "For through Him we both (i. e., both Jew and Gentile) have access by one Spirit unto the Father." This means nothing short of the priesthood of every believer in Jesus Christ. There is no need to call upon any other person to make one's petitions known to Jesus or to the Father. Each one can speak for himself in the name of Jesus and rest assured his supplication is heard by the Father of spirits. Let us draw near to Him with gladness, is the exhortation which comes from the writer. Let there be no hesitancy about speaking to God, as if He were hedged about after the manner of Sinai of old with fearful portents of lightning and cloud. He invites all who will to come unto Him to find consolation under the "Covert of His wing."

The writer has much to say about the finality of all the work of Christ. His work is of the eternal sort. His salvation and redemption are eternal. His covenant and inheritance are eternal. The writer's argument is that the old ceremonies were temporary, and that their validity has pased away to make room for these things of Christ, which are eternal. But if these things of Christ are eternal, then no new scheme of religion will ever arise to supplant them. To be eternal means that they shall be forever valid. "Heaven and earth shall pass away," said Jesus, "but my words shall not pass away." The writer of this Letter would say the same thing about the priestly ministry of Christ.

"THROUGH THE ETERNAL SPIRIT."

The expression, "Through the eternal Spirit," seems to suggest a rational explanation of the sufferings of Christ. According to this expression, the shedding of His blood is a manifestation of mind or spirit. It is not to be regarded as the grossly material thing that it is sometimes represented to be, even from the evangelical pulpit. The probability is that the spectacular feature of blood shedding upon the cross has been largely overdrawn. The scene was bad enough without exaggerating it. The effort of Christian teaching ought to be to indicate the spiritual significance of it rather than to dwell on the mere picture of it. Since the offering was made through the eternal spirit, it was certainly not a late thought in the mind of God, nor was it done from a new motive on His part, but rather from the motive of His eternal love for man, whom He Has ever sought to compass with evidences of His affection.

It was a free, loving, and holy offering for sin, through which, the Scriptures teach, we receive cleansing from sin. It is a notable fact that Paul especially lays great emphasis on the life according to the Spirit as the way of victory over sin for those who believe on Jesus Christ. May we not put these two things together and say, that, through the purpose and plan of the eternal Spirit Christ offered Himself in the spirit of the Levitical law of sacrifices as the sin offering for the world; this offering in its Levitical significance had a definite meaning for the first Christians, who came from among the Jews, which it is difficult for us to comprehend. To us the message of Paul comes with great force that the only way of assurance of our peace with God is the acceptance by faith of Jesus as our living Savior, whose death has atoned for our sins, and then, to live according to the Spirit.

SERVING THE LIVING GOD.

So far as practical life is concerned, the purpose of the priesthood of Jesus is to fit each person to "Serve the living God." The primary element of fitness is personal moral purity; hence the expression about cleansing the conscience from dead works. Romans vi. 22, has this very suggestive passage: "But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto sanctification, and the end eternal life." Every believer in Christ ought to have one great consuming purpose to serve his God with all his might. The person who honors God with his loyal service will certainly be rewarded with a clear conscience, a good character, a good reputation among his fellow men, a growing sense of divine truth, an abundant faith and an eternal hope that will wax brighter continually.

The day is coming in which Jesus, whose offering for sin has been accepted, and who is the Mediator between man and God, will appear again without reference to sin, because sin will then have been done away with; and He will at that time make manifest the salvation which He has secured for each one who has sought the redeemed life which the gospel offered him.

DECIDEDLY IGNORANT.

Result Was He Was Refused Marriage License.

Dayton, Ohio, May 31.—George Washington Parr, aged 60 years of age, who made application to wed Mrs. Mattie Hall, 20 years his junior, was confronted with several knotty problems which he could not solve to the satisfaction of the license clerk, and he left the probate office a badly disappointed man. When closely questioned the groom-to-be admitted that he had been previously married and that he did not really know whether he is legally separated from his wife. Neither could he state whether the prospective bride had been granted a divorce decree from her husband. The application was refused and the aged lover was advised to acquaint himself with a little family history before again venturing on the matrimonial sea.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE OLD MAID

The "New Woman" and the "Bachelor Girl" Have Made the Old Maid a Thing of the Past.

There is a notion at large that the genus known as "old maids" is becoming extinct, writes Gertrude B. Lane in the Brown Book.

The fact of the matter is that while the phrase may be on its way to obsolescence, the class itself as defined by the dictionary is flourishing as the green bay tree, though it would be idle to deny that the original article has become somewhat differentiated. "Old maids," says the Century, are "women who remain unmarried beyond the usual or average age for marriage," and if we confine ourselves to that definition, facts and figures will prove beyond question that the old maid is, numerically speaking, coming to the front.

In ancient history the unmarried sisterhood is conspicuous chiefly for its absence. From musty old volumes we learn that before the Christian era few women were "exposed to the mortifications of a single life." The Babylonians devised a happy expedient to prevent this catastrophe by producing annually all women of a marriageable age and disposing of them at a kind of public auction, the most beautiful being sold for considerable sums, and the purchase money being distributed among the plainer sisters so as to produce for each a husband. In Scythia only the frail or tender-hearted went unwed, since no woman was permitted to marry till she had slain with her own hand an enemy in battle, while in the ideal government of ancient Peru men and women alike were compelled by law to marry at or before the age of 30, and hence old maids were an unknown quantity.

We also hear of St. Bridget of Scotland, notable among early old maids, who, having resolved on a life of single blessedness, and being persecuted by the addresses of an ardent lover, prayed to heaven that she might be relieved from his importunities by the sudden loss of her beauty. Her petition was granted; "her lovely countenance was instantly deformed and the dangerous luster of her eyes was drowned in blood." So far as I have been able to learn, the heroic Bridget has had no imitators. Soon after, I believe, she got her into a nunnery. Maybe she felt like the little girl who prayed one evening that she might have diphtheria so that she need not go to school the following day, but awakening in the morning with a sore throat, was much frightened, and cried, "O Lord, can't you take a joke."

But nearer to our own time is the spinster, so called because, according to the ancient rule, she must have spun for herself a set of body, bed and table linen before ever she might wed. A pretty picture is the lass sitting at her wheel and listening to its soft and constant whirr, thinking, dreamy-eyed, of the voice of her lover, perhaps already come, perhaps to-be. The story did turn out sadly, though, sometimes. Do you remember the lady in the song whose chest was filled with fragrant linen, every thread woven by her patient hands, but, alas,

"No one ever came to woo?"

In the days of our grandmothers, girls were rarely single from choice. It was a matter of course that they should marry, and the prospect of living a single life was naturally distaseful and not without an element of chagrin. An old maid in those days was an object of pity, and it was small wonder that she thought,

"Far better be married to something
Than not be married at a'."

Those were not the days of friendship between single men and single women. By calling upon a girl a man placed himself at once in the attitude of a lover. It was taken for granted that he was "paying his addresses" to the object of his choice, and she straightway began to consider whether she would say him yea or nay. Then, if a maiden had no lover, everybody knew it, while nowadays, when the average girl has a dozen or more men freinds who make it their practice to drop in to tea, or to spend an hour or so in her society of an evening, the absence of a "real lover" is not conspicuous.

"O, that I should live to hear myself called spinster!" says Lydia in "The Rivals," and Wordsworth tells of "maidens withering on the stalk." A woman was not yet free to live a single life. Unless she chanced to have a comfortable income, marriage was the most natural and conventional of the very few ways of living open to her. A life of dependence on brothers and sisters, or even more remote connections, is not an attractive outlook for a girl of independent spirit. So thus it was that not many years ago the great majority of unmarried women were those who had had no opportunity to marry, and hence came the use of that dread term, "old maid," a disrespectful appellation, the pitiless weapon of the small boy and the comic valentine against the defenseless unelect, and sometimes used with good effect by the married older sister or unthinkingly by the well-meaning but tactless "old family friend."

This condition of affairs is also responsible for the fact that even to this day, especially among older men, the idea is rife that the sole end and aim of women is to make themselves pleasing to the men.

"O, the vanity of these men! If they did not commend us we were not handsome!" We are told that "So-and-So does not realize that men do not care for such showy dress," or that "somebody else is bright and witty and all that, but that men prefer a less independent woman and one with quieter ways."

The revolution that has taken place in Spinsterdom during the last quarter century has wrought a vast change in the definition of "old maid." Here the Century Dictionary is obviously inadequate. The expression "old maid" is not unlike guineapig, in that the latter neither comes from Guinea nor is it a pig, while the former is neither necessarily old nor a maid. I have seen old maids of both sexes, married and single, young and old.

It was suggested to me the other day that with the increasing rarity of old maids among the gentler sex, the ranks of men who have earned the title are rapidly filling. We all know the "fussy" man who will not have his things touched, who is wretched if his dinner hour deviates a minute from the orthodox time, who frets at a speck of dust and worries at a wrinkle in his coat, who must have the doors shut (but not too energetically), whose food is never quite properly cooked, to whom a spot on his clothes is a tragedy. And have you not among your acquaintances a married woman whose card you dread to see unless by happy chance you have cleaned house on the day of her call? Have you not seen her eye with suspicion a table strewn with magazines, and look aghast at the guilty shining rectangle left on the polished table when she lifts a book? And is not her own dwelling as spick and span as that of her Puritan or Dutch ancestor?

"Every time I come into your house," such a one said to a friend, "things are arranged differently. I should go quite distracted if I could not see my pictures on the very spots on the wall where they have been since I was married. And I could never bear to change about my bed and dresser. When I was married I thought the matter over quite carefully and decided just where to put each thing and there they are to this day."

The unmarried women who deserve the title today are distinctly not of the present generation. Perhaps the opprobrium cast upon the name has caused them to eschew the qualities that gave rise to the ridicule; or perhaps the higher education of women and the wider openings in the fields of business and professional life have brought about the change.

The "new woman" and the "bachelor girl" have made the old maid a thing of the past. We love Miss Matty in "Cranford," but we do not wish to be like her. The brains equipment and opportunities of the young women of today enable them to laugh instead of shudder at the appalling statistics that tell how many thousand more women than men there are in New England. They are less likely to marry because they demand more from a husband than their grandmothers did; they can better compare men with one another, and they know that much is left to them should they remain unwed; that they can be happy, though single. I once heard a beautiful and wise woman say to her daughter: "My dear, marriage should be considered as a happy accident. You must mould your life without taking it into consideration, and if it comes, well and good."

As spinsterdom rapidly adds to its list of attractions it becomes more and more difficult for a girl to give up her freedom. The unchangeable law that a woman must look up to her husband is proving an embarrassment, but let us hope an incentive, to the men. Even the girl who can not have the advantages of a college education is reading, studying, traveling and making such splendid use of her ready wit that it is a difficult matter for her to "look up" to the men of her acquaintance.

The result is a diminution of marriages, and this the men, in their poor, clumsy way, are trying to remedy. They have set their wits to work, and behold, a few weeks ago there appeared in the Pennsylvania legislature a most amusing bill, proposing to tax bachelors over 40 years old in various ways, the money to be applied to the support of three homes for old ladies over 40 years of age "who have not had a suitable opportunity or offer of marriage, and have not means sufficient to keep themselves in clothes and spending money." Go at the matter from the other end, friends and legislators! Tax the women who have declined "suitable opportunities or offers of marriage" and found a dozen homes for homeless old gentlemen over 40 years of age.

Peace to the ashes of the old maid. She has served her purpose if only as the defenseless target for the shafts of the would-be wit. And all hail to the self-dependent woman of the twentieth century, who has fought the good fight and can now rise in her dignity and demand as her just right respect and recognition.

SNOW ON THE MOON

So Says Professor Pickering of the Harvard Observatory.

Photographs of Luna Taken In Jamaica at Various Times.

Result Is an Informing Atlas of the Moon's Surface.

Cambridge, Mass., May 31.—Professor W. H. Pickering of the Harvard observatory, who has been making astronomical observations in Jamaica, West Indies, for several months, is at home for a few weeks, and has brought, among other material, a series of photographs of the moon, which appear to establish the interesting fact that there is snow on the moon.

This fact was suggested about a year ago by Profesor Pickering, and while in Jamaica he made a special study of this feature, adopting a method that would afford fuller data. The result is an informing atlas of the moon's surface, and an exceedingly beautiful contribution as well to what may be called astronomical art.

The method adopted was to take eighty photographs of the moon at lunar sunrise, noon and sunset and half way in the two intervals, and they know that much is left to them should they remain unwed; that they can be happy, though single. I once heard a beautiful and wise woman say to her daughter: "My dear, marriage should be considered as a happy accident. THE MAY FLAX DEAL

Was the Interesting Feature of the Duluth Board.

Wheat Sees Better Prices, the Tone Being Strong.

Crop Conditions Generally Reported to Be Excellent.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 31.—The May flax deal, a small one, but of much concern to those interested, nevertheless, was the matter of most interest on the board here today. During the morning about 6000 bus of short May flax was settled at $1.78, $1.79 and $1.80. It was rumored at the close that there was still about 5000 bus outstanding, and the close was anxiously awaited. There was no effort to bid it up, however, and the price closed very tamely at $1.79. The clearing house will go in tomorrow morning and bid the flax in unless the shorts settle before then. The settlement will be at $1.80 in all probability as that has been the settling price of thes long interest.

There was a strong tone to the wheat market all morning, due largely to the lack of rain in sections of the wheat-raising country that are in need of it. The opening rise was checked somewhat by profit-taking. The market absorbed it very well, however, and the close was practically at top prices. The cables were improved, Liverpool closing unchanged to ½d higher, and the Northwest receipts were moderate. The Argentine shipments for the week were 624,000 bus.

Crop reports continue to absorb the attention of the wheat trade. Fargo this morning reported that the weather cool with no sign of rain; the crop is in good condition with no danger from drouth for another ten days. The winter wheat outlook continues good although there are local reports of damage from drouth, bugs, etc. The Price Current says the general condition of winter wheat has not changed materially and spring wheat is in more uniformly good condition than usual, and while rain is needed in North Dakota there is no suffering as yet.

Duluth stocks of wheat are estimated to decrease 600,000 bus this week and Minneapolis looks for a decrease of 450,000 bus. Primary receipts of wheat were 883,000 bus, last year 597,000. Shipments 88,000 bus, last year 606,000. Clearances of wheat and flour were 594,000 bus. Bradstreet reported this week's exports of wheat and flour as equalling 4,139,000, against 4,553,000 last year.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 650 cars, against 196 last week and 714 last year. Chicago receipts, 64 cars, 1 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was fairly active on the Duluth board, July wheat opened ⅜c up at 75¼c, sold at 75¼c at 9:31 advanced to 75⅝c at 9:44, reacted to 75¼c at 10:20, recovered to 75⅝c at 11:35, declined to 75¼c and then bulged suddenly closing at 75¾c, an advance of ⅝c over Wednesday's close. Chicago and Minneapolis made the same gain.

Cash sales today were liberal, aggregating 80,000 bus at the July price.

Corn was up to in Duluth today. The May price closed quietly in Chicago at 1¼c below July. Primary receipts of corn were 342,000 bus, last year 556,000. Shipments 316,000, last year 628,000. Clearances were 273,295 bus. Bradstreet reported the exports of the week at 2,607,000 bus, last year 3,882,000.

Flax to arrive closed 2c off and September flax 1c up. Other coarse grains were unchanged in prices.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Ruled Strong on Various Reports.

Chicago, May 31.—Wheat ruled strong today on improved cables, lighter rainfall than was expected in the West and Northwest, and moderate receipts. July opened 1¼@⅝c higher at 74@74⅛c and under an active demand advanced to 74⅝@⅝c. Profit-taking developed and a reaction to 74⅜ followed. Argentine shipments for the week were 624,000 bus. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 650 cars, against 196 last week and 714 a year ago. Local receipts were 64 cars, one of contract grade.

July later was bid up to 74⅝@⅝c and although there was considerable profit-taking, the close was firm at 74⅛@⅜c.

Corn ruled firm in sympathy with wheat. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 44⅜@44⅝c, and under a fair outside demand with light offerings, improved to 44⅝. Profit-taking caused a reaction to 44½c. Local receipts were 581 cars, 123 of contract grade. Trade was fairly active.

Corn closed steady. July ¼c higher at 44½c.

Oats were moderately active with fair demand. July opened ⅛@¼c higher at 28¾@28¾c, and steadied to 28⅛@28¼c. Local receipts were 366 cars.

Provisions were dull, but firm, in sympathy with higher prices for hogs. July pork opened 2½@5c higher at $14.70@14.72½. July lard opened 2½c higher at $8.22½, and July ribs unchanged at $7.50.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 31.—Wheat, Liverpool unchanged, but foreign houses were reported good buyers of wheat at the seaboard. The cause of the advance here was light selling pressure and continued dry weather throughout the West and Northwest. Advices are that except in limited sections the conditions of spring wheat in the Northwest are good and that no material damage has yet resulted from the dry weather. If rains do not come, however, the bullish feeling will likely increase. The Modern Miller says reports of damage by Hessian fly and drouth are coming from Kansas, Southern Illinois and Southern Missouri, but the damage so far is not widespread. Snow says the winter wheat condition has been lowered about 10 points during the month and complaints of fly are increasing. Our own judgment is that while there is nothing alarming so far the tendency of developments are again the crop and that wheat should be bought on weak spots. Exports for the week 4,138,000 bus.

The corn market was dull and steady and local operations in the May featureless. Snow says corn is making slow growth and that rain is needed in important districts.

The feature of the oats market was the break in May, which had been selling at a sharp premium and which was lost in today's trading. Otherwise local business is moderate and without particular feature.

Provisions were dull and steady There was some foreign buying of lard. Cash demand continues satisfactory.

COTTON CONDITION.

Washington, May 31.—The statistician of the department of agriculture estimates the total area planted in cotton at 27,582,000 acres, an increase of 2,411,000 acres, or 8.3 per cent over the acreage planted last year and of 2,498,000 acres, or 10 per cent over the acreage actually picked. The average conditions of the growing crop is 81.5 as compared with 62.5 on June 1 last year and 85.7 at the corresponding date in 1899 and 86.4 the mean of the June averages of the last ten years. A condition of 81.5 per cent with one exception is the lowest June condition in twenty years.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 31.—Cotton opened 3 points lower to 3 points higher, and on bullish news from all directions advanced steadily. July started at 7.78 and advanced to 7.83 while August worked up from 7.31 to 7.37. The later months advanced 5 to 6 points over Wednesday's closing. Better cables than expected from yesterday's Liverpool market, cold weather in the Southwest, more soaking rains in the Atlantic states, poor crop news, an estimate by the Journal of Commerce of an acreage increase of only 5 per cent and rather better cloth mill reports. Floods were privately reported from the Carolinas, Georgia and parts of the central belt. Dangerously low temperatures were poted in Texas, ranging from 34 to 48 degrees within the next few days. A forecast for more rain South tonight and tomorrow, did not help matters any. Operations for the most part during the forenoon were in the direction of settlements owing to uncertainty concerning the midday bureau statements. Trading was not active at any time during the early session. Selling of cotton purchased on the opening, for profits, caused a slight reaction after the first hour but no real weakness was apparent.

Cotton spot closed dull; middling uplands, 8¼; middling gulf, 8½; sales, 1015 bales. Cotton futures closed steady: June, 782; July, 786; August, 733; September, 710; October, 708; November, 704; December, 705; January, 708; February, 708; March, 710.

BOGUS CAR TICKETS.

Washington Was To Be Flooded By Forgers.

Washington, May 31.—Frederick D. Engley, a conductor on the Washington Traction company's line, and his brother Samuel Engley, of Hyattsville, Md., whose arrests yesterday on a charge of forgery revealed an alleged plot for flooding the city with bogus car tickets, was arraigned today and waived exmmination.

The police had received a cablegram from the authorities of Glasgow, Scotland, announcing that they had recovered the plates from which the bogus tickets were struck and that along with them were recovered 40,000 sheets of tickets, aggregating 240,000 tickets. The ball of each of the two men was fixed at $5000, which they were unable to furnish.

SERVICE R

NEW GOWNS FOR THE SUMMER GIRL

She Will Be Clad as Gorgeously as the Queen of Sheba---Much Handwork on This Season's Gowns.

The "summer girl" will soon reign supreme and verily will she be clad as gorgeously as the queen of Sheba, judging by the gowns displayed at the various shops, for it seems that the science and skill of 1900 years had culminated in one grand finale to do homage to the summer girl of 1901. Ethereal fabrics, with warp of silk printed in the daintiest tints and patterns with wool of filmiest fiber, rare laces, embroideries and needlework of sheerest beauty. Never before since the advent of the machine was there so much handwork as on this season's gowns—tucks, plaits, shirrings, hemstitching—all done by hand. A very late fashion is to hold the seams together by catch-stitching. The narrowest of narrow ribbon is gathered and applied to edges of nets and laces, or is utilized to outline the design of laces. Plain net or bobbinet with this gathered ribbon on the edges makes one of the prettiest of trimmings for summer goods.

Silk and linen and part silk batistes and mercerized linens, all in the delicate subdued roses, greens, pinks, blues and helios, and the linens in their natural color, are seen in the best models of summer gowns. The heavy guipure and applique laces, as well as heavy embroideries, allovers and galloons are used as garnitures, these in the deep rich colors of the natural linen. An abundance of lace sets off these tantooned gowns in the form of collars, boleros, fichus, vests, paniers, flounces, cascades and insertions, and quite frequently black lace is used with striking effect.

The batiste embroideries are employed extensively, as are linen appliques. An entire gown of cut-out batiste stitched to fancy net, with a white silk flat braid made an exquisite gown. This cut-out batiste, edged with cord and stitching, is considered among the swellest novelties. One of the full-length cloaks affected by the ultra-fashionable was entirely made of this novelty, over a foundation of white silk. The effect was stunning.

It is difficult to tell which has the supremacy—foulards or fancy taffetas. Both are having a strong following, and with small wonder, for both are seen in the most beautiful of pastel tints with thoroughly artistic floral and conventional designs. In both the patterns are suggestive of L'Art Nouveau decorations. The most impossible, as well as some of the most natural looking flowers and foliage are seen running riot, over gray, green, blue, brown, tan, biscuit, reseda, rose and helio grounds, the blossoms, of course, being in harmonizing pastel tones.

The same ideas are carried out in the cotton, mercerized and silk warp taffetas and foulards. A very pretty and inexpensive dress fabric is known as printed taffeta. The warp is of silk with the weft of mercerized cotton, giving it a soft clinging effect not attainable by an all-silk textile. The silk warp is printed with beautiful floral patterns before weaving. The filling is then interwoven, producing a soft, subdued effect that is artistic and refined. There are seven of the season's best shades printed in pretty rosebud effects. These goods come in twenty-five and fifty-inch widths.

Among the season's lace accessories are shown any number of adjustable collars in various graceful shapes; some in fichu styles, with pointed ends which reach to the waist in front; others in marine, yoke, collarette and similar pretty forms, and also made of bisque yellow linen lawn, batiste and grass cloth. These are used to decorate the low-cut, collarless etons and boleros, summer tea gowns, empire negligees and new silk "coffee packets" made with lace-frilled elbow sleeves and scarf fronts.

Bertha collars of embroidered batists appear on very many of the new gowns. Another fashionable mode for linen lawns shows a short, oddly shaped bolero jacket, with stole ends of lace, and edged round with the sides with narrow bands of stitched linen, the jacket worn over a tucked blouse of embroidered batiste. The skirt is laid in plaits, meeting on the front breadth, and stitched down either side of these plaits, widening gradually toward the back breadths.

French challi and the sheer, beautiful nun's veilings are proving two very favorite materials in preparing the summer outfit. A lovely ciel-blue silk veiling made by Paquin has a bodice of cream guipure lace, with a net drapery forming a deep corselet, which is trimmed with black velvet ribbon. The skirt is made with a very wide graduated flounce of the veiling, two-thirds of the depth of which is trimmed with guipure entre-deux. The short upper sleeves are formed entirely of motifs of lace, laid over chiffon, nd the under-sleeves re f naoet matching that which forms the draped ceinture.

Of the many fads of the girl today! The colonial tie is one, and the little black velvet bow on the back of the head is another. This little bow has taken the place of thes hell pins so popular all winter for catching up the stray hairs at the back of the neck. Do you want to know the easiest way to fasten it? Just thread a needle, such as you use for running tape through articles, with the ribbon and slip it under your hair, tie the velvet in a perky little bow, and there you are.

Most numerous of all is the girl who sails down the street with her gown well caught up to display her Cuban heels and colonial ties. These heels give you a very tottering feeling, but they are the very latest thing in footwear for summer, and give one the much desired forward tilt to the figure.

Although the airy tulle bow has been worn at the back of the collar all winter, either in black or tulle, it is still a part of the Maytime girl's costume. After all it's a dainty way to add a bit of freshness to the toilet, only the latest touch is to wear it tucked under the chin.

Another fad is the lace collar with square tabs in front, and laced down the center with narrow black velvet ribbon with gold-spiked ends.

Then there's the jingling maid. You can always tell she is behind you by the rattling and clinking of her many little silver charms attached to her belt.

The rage for the turquoise matrix has, literally speaking, gone to our heads, for now our shell combs are set with them, and very pretty the blue stones looks against dark locks.

And last, but by no means least, the "strawberry shortcake hat," as the milliners call it, has made its appearance. It has an upper and lower crust of white straw with a filling between them of bright scarlet silk. All this hat needs is some whipped cream on top to become a walking advertisement of "the real old-fashioned strawberry shortcake."

This is the great season for garden parties and outdoor fetes of all kinds. England sets the fashion in garden parties for the whole world. When people entertain large house parties in the spring and early summer there are series of grand receptions given out of doors on the terraces and laws in honor of the guests. Frequently two or more orchestras are stationed in different parts of the grounds and play alternately, and in the evening there are splendid displays of fireworks. In some instances the grounds are illuminated in a gorgeous manner, special arches of vari-colored bulbs of light adding brilliancy to the scene. In the United States there is a great fad just now for entertainments of this character.

Nothing is more charming for wear at garden parties than flowered mull and sheer mousseline in the pastel colors with a touch of black velvet, either the narrow velvet trimmings or huge rosettes on the corsage and at the waist.

Gowns of moss green mousseline combined with white are extremely dainty and cool looking, reminding one of lemon ice.

A very odd costume completed for a June garden party shows light sky blue taffeta with overdress of the palest green mousseline. This striking combination of colors is toned down by a profusion of lace. The skirt is made with a train and there are exquisite appliques of lace in wavy lines, like a deep ruffle, sewed on the skirt in imitation of a tunique, the pattern being repeated front and back. Also, there are lace appliques higher on the skirt, giving the effect of paniers. The yoke and the full front of the bodice are veiled in lace with narrow black velvet ribbons forming a lattice work across the front, lightly holding together the jaunty bolero, which is finished about the edges with fluffy ruchings. Some of the loveliest imported gowns sent from Paris to be worn at garden parties are made with trains, and one shudders to think how the skirts with their narrow flounces and dainty ruchings will be trailed over the grass and trampled in the crush. Black Chantilly lace forms irregular wavy lines on some of the sheer summer gowns. The high bodice is similarly trimmed with a Chantilly or Cluny. The full fronts of the bodice show plastron of Point d'Venise with exquisite jabots as a finish.

Pale blue, either in Louisine silk or in a fine taffeta, is extremely fashionable for fancy blouses and for garden party dresses. A vivid light blue and a now blue on the turquoise shade, that can scarcely be distinguished from green, are the colors par excellence for sheer summer toilets. Pearl gray and pastel gray, also moss green, as well as white and ecrus in many shades, as deep as beige, are correct colors also for dainty summer frocks. There is an odd fancy for sewing lace in serpentine effect. The velvet ribbons should contrast well with the sheer goods. The elbow sleeves having the upper portion of sleeve very tight and the lower half of transparent lace. A very deep sailor collar of white or cream-tinted lace, with deep pointed revers of lace falling over the front of the bodice, is an effective manner of trimming. These sets of lace collars and revers can be worn with various silk blouses, the color of the silk of the bodice making the outfit look new and different each time. Crush silk belts are in vogue with narrow strappings of velvet ribbons on the belts and jeweled buttons or buttons set with diamonds as a finish. A pale blue silk or velvet throatlet, with lace velling it, with oval diamond buckles fastening the front, completes a dainty blouse or a lovely garden frock. If there is a great amount of lace, caught at the middle of the corsage with a buckle, is very neat and dressy. Occasionally the lace yoke, the shirred lace forming the bolero and the lace throatlet or neckband are all cut in one piece. There should be elbow sleeves of lace to match. The full puffed upper sleeves on some costumes are banded every inch or inch and a half with black velvet ribbon with tiny bow and pearl buckle on the outer part of the arm. Other sleeves show but three bands of velvet near the wrist. Fancy sleeves of mousseline may be banded down by triangular pieces of lace starting at the outer and inner seams. These triangles of lace are caught together with tiny velvet bows and pearl buckles on the outer part of the sleeves.

One should not mistake the up-to-date woman for a snake charmer in a side show—perish the thought—even though she has snakes around her throat in the form of necklaces, snakes in her hair, comb and barrette, a snake brooch and her watch suspended on a sinuous shiney thing with jeweled head and emerald eyes, and another writhing round her slender waist—no, she is simply indulging in and enjoying the serpent fad in jewelry. In the way of bijoux the turquoise, the pearl and the serpent are the rage. The turquoise matrix is a novelty.

The round and oval shapes are alike popular, both in the turquoise and the matrix. Beautiful finishes in green, rose and old Roman gold lend a fitting charm to these antique gems. Some pretty effects are also seen where the old silver finishes are used with the heavily marked matrix, suggesting excavations from submerged Egyptian cities. French gray is also used as mountings, but the modern tone of the metal seems incongruous.

Pendants of pearls and turquoise are the very latest fad, and are worn suspended from necklaces as well as the long slender neck chains. The newest are in irregular globular shapes circumvoluted by the ubiquitous serpent in gold or silver in the fashionable tones. The new neck chains and necklaces with which these are worn are remarkably pretty—unusual and effective combinations of pearls and turquoises being the latest. Diamond bands and bars hold the strands of beads together.

With the whilom return to barbaric modes of adornment, it is noted that the earring, as well as the jeweled Pyrvonfere encircling the forehead, are on the verge of a resurrection. For the revival of the latter we have two actuating influences—the reign of the Oriental and also the dominance of styles favored by the Empress Eugenie—who affected a low mode of coiffeur, and who wore the jeweled bands encircling her royal brow. The new bandeaux are like the old—strings of pearls growing larger toward the center, meeting over the forehead in a most pretentious ornament of pearls or diamonds. The French beauty, Cleo de Merode, revived this caissic fashion a few years ago, but the fad quickly died because of the dearth of Madonna-like countenances. It is possible that a similar fate awaits the forthcoming fad, as it is hardly to be expected that a generation of classic beauties has matured during the past three years.

AN EMBROIDERED MULL.

This dainty afternoon gown of cream mull, embroidered in pale pink, is a dream of beauty. The blouse bodice has a yoke and sleeves of the embroidery, and a lower portion of accordeon plaited mull. Falling from the yoke is a flounce of the embroidery, longer in front than at the sides or the back. The skirt has five ruffles of the embroidery. A sash of pale pink mousseline ribbon is tied at the back.

WHITE ORGANDIE WAIST.

Waists are more elaborate this season than ever before, and are used for all occasions. This model of fine white organdie, tucked and inserted with lace, has a bolero effect.

LATEST FAD FOR SUMMER FANCY WORK

Burnt leather work is the thing just now, and it is something of a revelation to the uninitiated to see in what varied and effective ways this pliable material can be manipulated. Articles of leather or wood, with more or less elaborate designs traced on them with the pyrographic needle, can hardly be considered a novelty when the work has been on view for several years and has attracted considerable attention. But until this spring the idea of burnt leather for decorative use appealed to the few; now it is favored by the many, and it has become a decided feminine fad to own a pyrographic outfit and display one's ability in the ornamentation of cushion covers, desk fixings, library accessories or articles for the Oriental corner or bachelor's den. The up-to-date woman, whatever else she may depend upon to furnish occupation during leisure hours at the cottage or the hotel this summer, is pretty certain to include the burned leather outfit. The work of decorating a bit of leather or an entire skin is much more fascinating and less exacting than Battenberg and Renaissance lace work or embroidery on linen—the favorite fancy work in past years. It gives scope for the display of artistic ability of a high order, and at the same time is within the range of the worker whose art knowledge and talent is limited. Heretofore this fascinating work has seemed to many women an undertaking beyond them, because it appeared to call for so much artistic talent. It is true that the greater the artistic instinct and art knowledge of the worker, the higher the grade of work, just as with art embroidery or anything else into which the art element enters. But there is a large field for the women who want to do pretty, effective and dainty work in the execution of conventionalized designs on large and small pieces of leather. These designs are stamped, and the rapidity with which they may be outlined or "burnt" by the practiced worker seems astonishing to the novice; yet the process is a simple one—particularly since gas has been substituted for benzine as the heat producing agent. It is the introduction of gas that has, to a considerable extent, popularized the work. In the first place, the gas outfit is less expensive than the benzine machine, and in the second place many women prefer to use it instead of the more explosive heat producer. The benzine machine, however, is preferred by some experts, but the question of the relative merits of the benzine machine or its substitute is one that need not trouble the woman who merely wants to decorate fancy articles for her own use, or as gifts for her friends, for the gas apparatus will be found sufficient for her needs. The drawback is that gas is not always to be had in country places, and so the benzine machine has to be adopted, and is as easily operated.

Some people prefer the skins for decorative use, without ornamentation, and truly the sheen and the shading of the finer grades is sufficient adornment. Calfskin and sheepskin are especially utilized, and are dyed a variety of colors. A deep tan is the most effective without decoration, and when the leather has been tanned first and then dyed, it has all the softness and luster of velvet. As a cover for a library table, a wall hanging and background for a handsome placque, a buffet cover—and, in fact, used in a variety of ways it is exceedingly effective.

A rich shade of red, delicate gray, dark green, copper, gold, ochre, brown and fawn are some of the tints in which the skins are dyed, and all the shades serve admirably for a background for conventionalized designs or bold free decoration.

In the way of pretty things for gifts, opera glass bags, table mats, pen wipers, stamp boxes, desk pads, letter racks, book and magazine covers, writing pads, cushion covers, are suggestions for the novice. The list can be supplemented by a host of trifles, and all are easy of execution.

The expert worker has opportunity for the display of original designs. Magazine covers in gray or tinted calf skin, with decoration of a finely executed head and a tablet similarly ornamented, are evidences of artistic work by experts, but the simpler designs by the amateur are as effective in their own way.

For the cozy corner or the bachelor's den burnt leather suggests numerous decorative effects, and either burnt or plain leather possesses decorative possibilities that appeal to the lover of the artistic.

To quote an authority on the subject: "Battenberg and Renaissance lace making and similar fancy work are now old fashioned and practically dead. Leather is the thing for this season, at any rate."

DESPERATE

Fight With Flames In Bowels of a Coal Mine.

Salineville, Ohio, May 31.—Patrick Connelly was the hero of an exciting episode that came very near ending his life and destroying the Big Vein coal shaft.

Connelly yas alone in the mine as usual at night, attending the pumps and keeping the fans in operation. By some means, the oil house in the mine took fire about 11 o'clock. Connelly attached the hose to the pump and tried to drown out the fire, but could do no more than keep it from approaching nearer the pump. The coal and timbers of the shaft took fire, and soon threatened to drive Connelly away from the pumps. To leave them and the fans meant death by suffocation, so he could do nothing but stand and pour water upon the flames and beat them back as they crept beyond the danger line. He had no means of getting out of the mine, for the fire was between him and the mouth, nor had he any means of giving an alarm above ground that would call aid.

After 4 o'clock a passer-by saw smoke coming from the shaft and rang the fire bells. The town turned out. Miners made desperate efforts to enter the shaft, but to no purpose. At last dozens of ladders were spliced together and hung down the air shaft. Half a dozen men went down, just in time to save Connelly, who was on the point of giving up the fight. He had been crowded past the pump, but still held the hose. He was hauled to the top unhurt but for the scorching and nervous shock sustained. The fire was soon quenched when the whole force got to work, and the mine will soon be in operation.

MME. YALE'S HAIR TONIC

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It affords me great pleasure to call the attention of the public to Mme. Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic, which is the first and only remedy known to chemistry which positively turns grny hair back to the original color without dye. It has gone on record that Mme. M. Yale—wonderful woman chomist—has made this most valuable of all chemical discoveries. Mme. Yale personally indorses its action and gives the public her solemn guaranty that it has been tested in every conceivable way and has proved itself to be the ONLY Hair Specific. It STOPS HAIR FALLING immediately and creates a luxurious growth. Contains no injurious ingredient. Physicians and chemists invited to analyze it. It is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary, it makes the hair soft, youthful fluffy and keeps it in curl. For gentlemen and ladies, entirely gray and with bald heads, it is especially recommended.

A SCIENTIFIO MEDICINE.

March 10, 1900.

Dear Madame Yale:—I wish to say a few words in regard to your Excelsior Hair Tonic and Hair Cleanser. I have used both with the best possible results. My hair had been falling out for some time. I had used various remedies with little or no avail. Finally my attention was called to your Excelsior Hair Tonic. I purchased a bottle and began using it. The result was beyond my expectations; after the second application my hair had ceased to fall out, and as I continued my hair seemed to have more life and vigor and new hairs began to come in. After using the second bottle I was surprised to see that my hair is no longer tinged with gray but had returned to its natural color.

Your Excelsior Hair Tonic is certainly a scientific medicine and I believe the only one that treats the hair as a sick member and feeds and nourishes it until it is restored to its natural and normal state of health. I cheerfully recommend it to any one who is in need of a Hair Tonic or Restorer, as I have the utmost confidence in the efficacy of all your remedies.

Respectfully,
MRS O. L. BROWN,
51 Harper Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

WHITE QUEEN

The Mysterious Woman Who Ruled an African Tribe.

Was the Original of Rider Haggard's Famous "She."

For more than half a century the rainmaker for all the native tribes south of the Zambesi river, in South Africa, was Majaje, the white queen of the Majaje tribe, which lived in the woodbush in the northern part of the Transvaal. The Zulus, the Hottentots, the Kaffirs, the Basutos and scores of other tribes recognized her as the great rainmaker, and whenever there was a drought in their provinces they sent their emissaries to her with requests for rain. There were rainmakers in every tribe, but Majaje was greatest, and was supposed to open the clouds when all the others had failed, says the New York Evening Post.

For fifty years or more she held this important native office, and in that time she succeeded in enveloping herself in deepest mystery. None but members of her own tribe were allowed to see her; white men were halted by her tribesmen thirty miles from her capital, and visiting chiefs were informed by her headmen that she had gone on a far journey. The tales which white men heard concerning her led them to believe that Majaje was a myth, and Rider Haggard elaborated the report in his novel "She," which had for its leading character a mysterious white woman who ruled over a race of blacks somewhere in Central Africa. Haggard wrote his novel in the eighties, while he was in South Africa, and long before it was established that the white queen was not a myth. The fact that such a woman really lived was proved by three white men who talked with her, and one of these, the late Piet Joubert, commandant general of the Boer army, was authority for this account of the woman. The good old general and I were caught in a rain storm one night, and while we were drying our clothing at a fire he related to me the story. I told him that I would some day write it out, and promised to send him a copy of the publication which it should appear. Alas! nothing from human hands, not even modern journalism, can reach him now.

Henning Pretorius, one of the Transvaal's first commandant generals, and probably the most fearless Boer that ever lived, returned from one of his frequent journeys into unknown regions of the Transvaal in the latter part of 1885, and reported to his government that he had succeeded in seeing Majaje. In a voluminous report which he made of his journey he stated that the woman was queen of a section of the Makatese tribe, and that her capital was surrounded by an almost impenetrable forest of small thorn trees. On the outskirts of this forest he was met by a large number of well-armed tribesmen, who asked him and his companions to depart from the neighborhood immediately. Pretorius refused to leave and insisted upon seeing the queen.

After a long discussion, during which many messengers were sent to the queen's kraal, Pretorius was granted permission to visit the monarch. He was disarmed, and his companions were left behind under guard of a large number of tribesmen. He was led along a narrow, winding path through the bush, and after a journey of about thirty miles he came to the queen's royal kraal. In his report he described the woman minutely and at great length. He said that she was absolute monarch over her people, that she undoubtedly had the power of life and death over them, and that she had established a government that was far in advance of any negro government he had ever seen. The most astonishing part of his report was that the woman was not a negress. He described her as having straight, soft hair of a light-brown color, thin lips and light-blue eyes. The color of her skin was not black, but as white as that of a Portuguese. Pretorius stated that she refused to tell her age, or anything concerning her antecedents, and added that she appeared to be more than 100 years old—perhaps 115.

After Pretorius' journey many other travelers and hunters tried to see the woman, but none succeeded in passing the guards that watched the entrance to the forest day and night, inasmuch as the Makatese were ruled by the great rainmaker, all other tribes regarded them as neutral in all intertribal wars, and consequently Majaje was able to remain quiet in her isolation for many years. No one disturbed her unless rain was wanted, and she herself made no effort to gain publicity either among whites or blacks. Pretorius' report was not printed by the Transvaal government, and consequently the popular idea of Majaje, that she was a fictitious personage, like many other strange characters of which negroes spoke, remained. Boers living in the northern part of the Transvaal near the boundaries of the tribal home frequently heard natives report that Majaje's people worshipped crocodiles, and that the thornbush surrounding her territory was bewitched in such a manner that none but Makatese were able to penetrate it.

In 1854 the Makatese tribe formed an alliance with Magoeba, the king of the wood-bush Kaffirs, who lived near the same district, and Majaje's people were dragged into a rebellion against the Boers. Joubert, the commandant general of the Boer army, was sent against the rebellious natives, and he took with him a small number of Swazis, who had been driven into the Transvaal from their native country by Umbandine, the father of the late King Bunn, who acquired the fatal habit of drinking five quarts of champagne a day. When Joubert and his forces reached the "betoverd" (bewitched) bush, the warriors fought valiantly for several weeks. The natives were defeated finally, and fled into the bush and mountains. The Swazis then asked Joubert for permission to follow the rebels, and it was granted. When they returned, several days afterward, the Swazis brought with them the heads of Magoeba and several of his indunas, or headmen, in order to prove to the Boers that the had really been victorious. Joubert reprimanded the Swazis harshly for having decapitated the rebels and punished several of the leaders.

The day after the return of the victorious Swazis, several messengers came from Majaje, bringing peace-offerings in the shape of two ivory tusks and a beautiful white ox. The emissaries declared that Majaje had been misled by Magoeba, and that she had no desire to be an enemy of the Boers. Joubert told the messengers to tell their queen that if she would surrender her arms unconditionally and permit some one to go to her kraal, the war should be ended. In her reply she accepted the first condition, but declined to allow any one to visit her kraal, adding, however, that she would come out and grant an interview to the Boer leader. This was acceptable to Joubert, and the following day he made arrangements to receive her in state. The army was drawn up in imposing array, a conference-tent was constructed, and all the cannon and machine guns were placed on near-by hills to be prepared for any treachery that might be attempted.

The following morning the bush resounded with the beating of drums and the shrill noises of crude wind instruments. Forthwith emerged from the bush and announced the coming of the queen. Joubert and several of his generals went forward to meet her, and the Boer soldiers sung their national anthem. At the head of the procession which came out of the bush were twelve native priests dressed in magnificent skins and beadwork. They walked slowly, bearing a huge palanquin, covered with rich skins of lions, giraffes and leopards. The handles of the couch were small elephant tusks, elegantly carved, and the sides and top were fitted with tall staffs of highly polished wood. Behind the palnquin followed the members of the tribe, several thousand magnificent formed warriors in spectacular war costume of feathers, shields and beadwork. Each man carried a bundle of assegai, tied with string, or a gun and a small skin-pouch containing ammunition.

When the head of the procession reached Gen. Joubert, the priests deposited the palanquin on the ground and drew aside the curtains that concealed the queen. She reclined on a beautiful quagga skin, and was clothed in a variegated costume of skins. Gen. Joubert and Gen. Joubert observed her closely and found that Henning Pretorious' description of her was accurate in every detail. The woman had light, soft hair, thin lips, blue eyes and a complexion as light as that of the majority of white persons who have lived in the tropics for many years.

Through an interpreter she stated that she was eager to conclude peace, and that she desired to be allowed to spend her days under the protection of the Transvaal government. Dr. Laxton, the English physician who had accompanied the expedition in order to see the queen, asked her many questions concerning herself, but she would give no satisfactory replies. He estimated her age at 120 years. She seemed to be very weak and frail, and her voice was scarcely more than a whisper. Gen. Joubert found her to be very tactful in her replies, and as a diplomat she was far superior to any native chieftain with whom he had ever come in contact. As soon as the peace negotiations were concluded she and her tribesmen returned into the bush, having first extracted a promise from the Boer general that she was not to be followed, and that thereafter she was to be allowed to live in peace among her people. Three months after this meeting a messenger came to the Transvaal government, bearing the information that Majaje had died.

Many persons have attempted to explain the mystery of the Queens ancestry, and the result has been that many strange tales are current in the country, each being heralded as the only true solution. The most plausible theory is the one that Commandant Gen. Joubert advanced. From some old chieftains he learned that there was a tradition among the Makatese that many generations ago a large number of white men had come into the Zambesi region to dig gold. These men incurred the enmity of the blacks, who massacred all except one or two. Gen. Joubert believed, as did the chieftains, that Majaje was the descendant of one of these survivers, but the native tradition does not explain the process by which she rose to the position of ruler of the tribe. Proof of the fact that gold was dug in that neighborhood has been found in scores of places along the Zambesi, where in recent years many old shafts have been uncovered. A few investigations have proved, to their own satisfaction, at least, that Mashonaland and the Makatese country were the Ophir of olden days, and that Solomon's wealth came from these mines. Another native tradition is that the negroes' ancestors came from the North, where the waters of the sea parted so that they might escape from their oppressors. Whathever be the truth or falsity of these traditions, there can be no doubt that Majaje was queen of a tribe in Central Africa, and that she was a white woman. Joubert, Pretorius and Dr. Laxton conversed with her, and their testimony would be sufficient to dissipate all doubts even if the 500 Boer burghers who were present at the peace conference had not seen hr.

GOOD LUCK.

He was one of the men who wear good clothes, put on a good front and know lots of nice people—who seem to live well; in fact, he was a little brother of the well-to-do, one of those people who walk downtown "for exercise" when they have got the price of a car fare. Still, with all these drawbacks, his friends curiously enough seemed to like him, perhaps because he never borrowed from them. "Prefer to borrow from comparative strangers," is his explanation to the New York Sun.

One Sunday not so long ago this Little Brother remembered with pleasure that he had an invitation to dine with a friend at one of the best hotels in Brooklyn; so having carefully pressed his trousers with an iron lent by his landlady he kissed the last dime and tucked it away in the pocket with the strongest lining and started forth to keep his engagement. The walk down Broadway from the boardhouse in the Thirties was delightful; so was the walk across the bridge and through the unknown town of Brooklyn to the hotel. Seven o'clock was the appointed time, and 7 o'clock was the time that the Little Brother got there.

But the hosts were out; no word left for him. The report from the grinning hall boy that "de lady am out, suh," merely added to the appetite created by his long walk on top of a week's diet of milk and free lunches—an appetite already capable of digesting the hotel itself, let alone the contents of the dining room.

The Little Brother walked around the lobby and the parlors until half past 7, which it occurred to him that his friends might have come in and gone to the dining room; so he entered boldly the much-desired place. The headwaiter had not seen the friends since breakfast; but as the unhappy Little Brother was turning away he saw, just seating themselves, a charming young widow and her mother, old friends of his, and also acquainted with the missing hosts.

The widow bowed and beckoned to him with an expression of her eyes that seemed to say, "I am glad to see you;" and the mother likewise approved. He paid his respects and asked if they had seen his friends.

"They went to their country place for the day," answered the mother. "They must have missed their train, but they can get back later." This was an explanation, but nothing more. But then the charming widow, who never looked more charming in her life, added: "I know you were to dine with them; as they are not here, you must dine with mother and me instead."

Happy Little Brother once more! Dine with them he did, exhibiting an appetite that left little in any course to be removed by the waiter. And as he walked back over the bridge and up Broadway to the Thirties and felt his dime still in his strongest pocket, he felt certain that the young widow was really about the most charming person he had ever met and hoped that her second husband might be worthy of her and wondered—but he was in his third story back room by this time, and went to bed to sleep the sleep of a Little Brother who had satisfied an excellent appetite and had a good digestion.

CAUSTIC IN CRITICISM

London Press Echoes the Comments of Lord George Hamilton on Micawber Methods of British Employers.

London, June 1.—Commenting on Lord George Hamilton's letter of yesterday, replying to the attack of Sir Alfred Hickman, in the house of commons, May 23, on American locomotives and bridges, the newspapers are unsparing in their criticism of what the St. James Gazette calls the "you-be-damned" attitude of British manufacturers towards their customers. The St. James Gazette applauds Lord Hamilton's "crushing, brutal frankness in commenting on the Micawber methods of British employers and the selfish idleness of British workmen," and, proceeding to censure the methods of trades unionists as "thoroughly and unscrupulously dishonest," the paper said it could almost wish Lord Hamilton had not given an undertaking to give preference to British firms where it is possible, as "it would be well for the future that our industrial classes learn the bitter lesson of experience."

The Globe does not hesitate to predict that unless the methods of trades unionism as practiced in this country are modified, Americans within the next few years will beat the British out of the field. The Globe compliments American trades unionists on their good sense in fostering skill and industry while simultaneously keeping up the rate of wages.

COMING AND GOING.

The Emigration and Immigration of United Kingdom.

London, June 1.—A parliamentary paper just issued shows the emigration and immigration from and to the United Kingdom, during the past year, were, respectively, 168,825 and 62,505. Sixty-one per cent of the former went to the United States. The immigrants were mostly Jews from Russia, Poland and Roumania.

AN EXTRA

Session of Congress May Be Necessary.

Crisis May Be Precipitated By Cubans.

Washington, June 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is more serious talk in Washington today of an extra session of congress in high official circles than there has been any time since March 4. A member of the cabinet stated today that in his judgment an extra session of congress might be precipitated any day and that he believed that the president would find it necessary in any event to call it not later than Oct. 1. "If possible," he said, "no extra session of congress will be called during the heated term unless it should become absolutely necessary." No one can foretell, with any accuracy, what might happen at any time in Cuba.

The reports from that island, received this morning, indicate, in his judgment, that a crisis might be brought about by some foolish action on the part of the Cuban people. The administration is most positive in its declaration not to permit any modification of the Platt amendment. In fact, it is asserted that the president has no authority to entertain any suggestions in this direction. The Platt amendment is a law of the land and it cannot be changed, except by congress. Before the adjournment of the Fifty-sixth congress, President McKinley favored the calling of an extra session. He believed that he might be compelled to carry the burden of responsibility entailed in the settling of the insular problems which confronted him. The passage of the Platt amendment and the Spooner Philippine amendment at the eleventh hour averted an extra session of congress in March, but the president's judgment today is that, it can be stated on high authority, congress must meet to settle this and some further legislation which is absolutely necessary. Unless a critical situation develops in Cuba he will not ask congress to meet, it is understood, until some time in September or early in October.

GIVES ENCOURAGEMENT

Improvement In Mrs. McKinley's Condition Is of a Very Gratifying Character and Gives Strong Hope.

Washington, June 1.—A bulletin regarding Mrs. McKinley's condition issued this morning is the most encouraging statement given out since her return. The three physicians were only in consultation a short time, and at 11 o'clock, immediately after their departure, Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following bulletin:

"Mrs. McKinley's physicians report that she rested well during the night, and that her condition is somewhat more favorable this morning."

The president appears to be encouraged over the slight improvement shown, and this morning took a stroll through the White House grounds in company with Gen. Gillespie, chief of engineers.

There were many inquiries at the White House today regarding Mrs. McKinley's condition. The gloomy character of the bulletins issued yesterday has revived the alarm felt when she was so low in San Francisco, and many telegrams have been received asking about the state of her health. Several of the ladies of the cabinet called this morning to make personal inquiries. They were slightly relieved to learn that she had a comfortable night. The general public is showing much consideration for the president, and there is no disposition to intrude on him during the trial and strain he is undergoing. A number of senators and representatives, including Chief Justice Fuller, Senators Foraker and Lodge, Representatives Boutelle of Illinois, Livingston and Adamson of Georgia, called. The president saw the chief justice and the senators for a few minutes, but excused himself to the representatives.

THE TREATY OF PEACE

Speculation as to the Identity of the New Men Who Will Enter the Northern Pacific Directorate.

New York, June 1.—There is keen speculation as to the identity of the new men who will enter the Northern Pacific directorate under the treaty of peace subscribed to by the rival interests in the property. Many names have been called up in Wall street, but according to a member of the Harriman syndicate there has been no decision as to any of them. To a reporter of the Associated Press the man in question said:

"There are several months to deliberate over this matter, and there will be no announcements for some time. My understanding is that several strong men, who are neutral in this affair and not now connected with the boards of any of the properties concerned, will be chosen. The plan of their appointment is highly satisfactory to the Harriman syndicate."

WORK DONE IN STATES

Members of Woman's Suffrage Association Tell What Has Been Accomplished For the Furtherance of Their Objects.

Minneapolis, June 1.—At the session of the National Woman's Suffrage association this morning, Susan B. Anthony, chairman of the convention resolutions committee, reported that she had addressed the American Federation of Labor and secured authorization for its president and secretary to sign a sixteenth amendment petition. Petitions and letters had been sent to a long list of conventions of various ational organizations. Half the states of the Union were on the program for reports of state presidents.

Annie R. Wood, for California, reported an increased membership. A number of suffrage women there pay their taxes under protest, and Ellen Clark Sargent has sued the supervisors of San Francisco county to recover taxes so paid.

Susan R. Ashley, for Colorado, reported that a large percentage of the registered women voters in that state cast their votes as men. She described bills introduced in legislature, in the interest of women, by Mrs. Evangeline Heartz, the woman member form Arapahoe counay.

Elizabeth Harnet, of Illinois, reported a victory in the passage of the bill, securing to mothers equal rights with fathers in the guardianship of minors. She reported also a resolution of the state convention calling for a department of the government, with a cabinet member at its head, devoted to the interests of home and children.

Evelyn H. Belden reported suffrage sentiment active in Iowa, and gave statistics of the work accomplished.

For Kansa, Helen Kimber reported that a bill to deprive women of municipal suffrage had been overwhelmingly defeated, and that because of the temperance agitation, women had voted at the spring elections in larger numbers than ever before, materially assisting in the victory for law and order in many cities and towns.

Lucy Hobart Day reported active work in many directions in Maine.

WHERE McGEE FELL.

A Long Lost Stone Found at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., June 1.—Laborers engaged in excavating for a new building to be erected next to Buttworth's foundry, on Queen street, have located the long lost stone, fraught with so much historic interest which marked the scene of the assassination of Hon. T. D'Arcy McGee, one of the fathers of the Confederation. One surface of the stone was polished and on it was inscribed: "April 7th, 1868—here fell D'Arcy McGee."

PEASE ELECTED.

London, June 1.—J. A. Pease, Liberal, has been elected to parliament for the North division of Essex, succeeding Armine Wodehouse, Liberal, deceased. His majority was 792 as against a Liberal majority of 110 at the preceding election.

IS VERY RETICENT

Anxiety Caused By Silence of British Government on Boers.

Claims to Know Nothing of Reported Defeat Near Pretoria.

Battles Said to Have Occurred at Widely Separated Points.

London, June 1.—The reticence of the government regarding the battle of Vlakfontein and other military events of some importance, which have recently occurred at widely separated points in South Africa has led to considerable anxiety. This is in no way alayed by the curious answer of the war office today to a question regarding the accuracy or otherwise of the recent Boer report that the British were severely defeated near Pretoria May 21, losing forty-six killed, eighty wounded, 600 prisoners and six guns. The reply which the war office vouchsafed, "We have no official information," has aroused some misgivings.

BIG PLANT

For Ship Building to Be Located at Chester, Pa.

Philadelphia, June 1.—The Times says: "A company with a capital of at least $3,000,000 is being organized to build another shipbuilding plant on the Delaware river. The promoters of the company claim that $2,600,000 has already been subscribed, and that they have optioned a plot of ground at Chester, Pa., where it is proposed to erect the plant. One of the leading factors in the new concern is State Senator W. C. Sproul, of Delaware county, a son-in-law of the late John Roach, who represents the largest investors. Interested deeply in the company, and in fact one of the largest capitalists in it, is a man who is one of the officials of the Bath Iron works, at Bath, Me., but whose name is withheld at this time.

"It is said the formation of this new concern will mean the consolidation, or at least the working in harmony, of the Wetherill Engine Building company and the plate and steel industries of Chester."

A DAUGHTER.

A Female Child Born to the Queen of Italy.

Rome, June 1.—Queen Helena was accouched of a daughter at 9 o'clock this morning. Both mother and daughter are doing well.

The princess will be named Yolanda Margherita. Amidst general congratulations, there is considerable disappointment at the infant's sex though the king is understood to have expressed contentment. Salutes are being fired throughout Italy.

The infant's nurse, besides receiving liberal pay and a pension, will get $2000 with the baby's first tooth, another $2000 when the child is able to speak, and a similar sum when the little princess walks unsupported.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

Managers to Consult O'Connell at Toronto.

Chicago, June 1.—President Mellican and Business Agent Roderick of district No. 8, International Association of Machinists, will leave tonight for Toronto to confer with President O'Connell of the international organization relative to the strike of machinists now in progress in Chicago. It is believed sympathetic action on the part of the allied trades will be urged. There are now about 1600 men out.

Manufacturing employers whose machinists have gone out will meet this afternoon to consider plans for terminating the local strike. Any action that may be taken will not be binding on the National Metal Trades' association, however.

NEGOTIATIONS OFF.

Purchase of Bethlehem Steel Company Abandoned.

New York, June 1.—The negotiations of the Vickers Sons & Maxim company of England for the purchase of the Bethlehem Steel company have been abandoned, and, according to one of the New York bankers interested, will never be resumed. Discussing the matter with the Associated Press today the banker interested said:

"You may say that the negotiations are off. The English company made an offer to the Bethlehem company and there was an extended discussion between representatives of the two interests. An agreement was impossible and the matter has been dropped. The Vickers-Maxim company still plans to come into the American field, but is in a position to wait until it can come under favorable conditions. When a satisfactory bargain is offered, it will come. For the present, however, with the Bethlehem plant eliminated from the project, it has no property in view."

WILD RIOT

Discharged Soldiers Destroy a Saloon.

Claimed Companion Was Drugged In Joint.

San Francisco, June 1.—Soldiers to the number of 500 or 600 indulged in a riot last night and wrecked one of the many drinking places just outside the Presidio reservation.

There are many conflicting stories as to the origin of the trouble. The soldiers of the Forty-sixth volunteer infantry were mustered out yesterday and the men given their discharges and pay. Most of the men had several hundred dollars coming to them, and they did considerable drinking in the Presidio resorts. A man by the name of Morgan, of the Forty-sixth, was found unconscious in front of Mrs. Powers' saloon. Two of Morgan's companions took him to camp for treatment. The doctor pronounced it a case where drugs had been administered. The news spread rapidly about the camp, and soon there were a dozen or more men running to Mrs. Powers' saloon. They demanded reparation for the drugging of their comrade, but any knowledge of the affair was denied. Two or three men lounging about the place sided in with the woman and ordered the soldiers from the premises. They went back for reinforcements and spread the report that two of their companions had been killed in this saloon.

A mob, made up of members of the Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth regiments, then rushed pell-mell through the Presidio gates to the saloon, which was entirely wrecked. The place caught fire from the overturned lamps. One of the bartenders was severely beaten and cut. There were threats to lynch him, when a squadron of cavalry and the provost guard of sixty men from the Forty-fifth arrived and rescued him.

The efforts of the cavalry and guard to disperse the crowd were futile until the fire department turned the hose upon them. This and the entire guard of the post helped to restore order. A careful investigation of the report that some of the soldiers had died from drugged liquor proved that such was not the case. Morgan, of the Forty-sixth regiment, was the only man whom, it is thought, might have been the victim of a drug.

An investigation of the riot will be made today by the police and military officials.

PUT UP A STRONG FIGHT

Decisive Proof That Boers, When Under a Wary General Like Delarey, Can Still Offer Strenuous Resistance.

New York, June 1.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: Gen. Kitchener's account of the battle of Vlakfontein serves to light up public interest once more in the Boer war. Two facts stand out:

First, the determined nature of the Boer assault upon an entrenched position, fifty miles from Johannesburg, and,

Secondly, the heavy losses suffered by both sides. This has been the first real engagement which has been fought for many months and it is decisive proof that the Boers, when led by a cool and wary general lige Delarey, can still offer strenuous resistance to British arms. The details of this battle may indicate that Gen. Dixon's force was surprised and that the casualty was run up to 174 in this way. But the Boers, in any event, were assailants and were not repulsed without severe losses. The Boers are also reported to have fought with exceeding gallantry while in pursuit of Gen. Plumer's convoy.

A British officer, who is on a furlough after fighting from Colenso to Lydenburg, has been predicting that the closing skirmishes of the campaign would occur on the line of the Durban-Johannesburg railroad in the vicinity of Heidelberg and Standerton. Both of these affairs were within the theater of war defined by this officer months ago as the last Boer ditch.

The natural explanation of the fighting is that one mine after another is opening and the refugees are returning to Johannesburg in small groups and the Boers have been making desperate efforts to frighten them and to prevent resumption of industry in the gold belt.

AMERICANS IN LONDON

Many Prominent Residents of the United States at the World's Metropolis on Business or Pleasure Bent.

London, June 1.—Rarely if ever has London been so full of prominent Americans as at present. Many of them have been attracted here by the chamber of commerce's love-feast, but there are numbers who have come to England for other reasons. Of these a goodly percentage, several of them being themselves members of the New York chamber of commerce, have asked for invitations to the dinner of June 5, but unsuccessfully, for the banqueting hall will only hold a limited number. Such well known figures in public life as Levi P. Morton, ex-Senator Edward O. Wolcott, Senator W. A. Clark, Cornelius N. Bliss, J. P. Morgan and a host of others are frequently seen in the streets and hotels. Of leading American business men whose names are not so well known to the public there is a perfect legion, intent on securing contracts or supervising interests already established this side of the water.

The Mortons are staying at their lovely country house, Virginia Water, taking frequent trips to town.

Mr. Wolcott, who intends to stay in London about a month, finds it so enjoyable that he is not going to the continent, as he first intended.

"I am having a very fine time," said Mr. Wolcott, "and think all the Americans here are doing the same."

Senator Clark is combining business with pleasure, purchasing bric-a-brac and looking ever for his copper interests.

ROBBED.

Kansas Man Touched For $17,000 While at Seattle.

Seattle, June 1.—George Mulligan, of Liberal, Kas., who says he is president of the Eagle City Mining and Exploration company, while in this city awaiting the sailing of a vessel for the Yukon, was last night robbed of $17,000. He was drawn into a dark alley by two men as he was passing down a brightly-lighted street, in a busy section of the tenderloin, sandbagged and despoiled of the money by the ripping open of his shirt, underneath which the money was concealed. He reported his loss to the police, but no clue has as yet been obtained to the perpetrators.

Berlin, June 1.—Andrew D. THE REVISION.

Dr. John Watson's Opinion on the Matter.

London, June 1.—The Rev. Dr. John Watson ("Ian MacLaren"), who last year was moderator of the English Presbyterian synod, was asked by a representative of the Associated Press for his opinion of the American decision to revise the confession. He writes: "Many on this side of the Atlantic are glad to know that their Presbyterian brethren in the United States propose to revise the confession. It is an intellectual wonder, but would be improved by a reduction in size and an infusion of love.

CAUSTIC IN CRITICISM

London Press Echoes the Comments of Lord George Hamilton on Micawber Methods of British Employers.

London, June 1.—Commenting on Lord George Hamilton's letter of yesterday, replying to the attack of Sir Alfred Hickman, in the house of commons, May 23, on American locomotives and bridges, the newspapers are unsparing in their criticism of what the St. James Gazette calls the "you-be-damned" attitude of British manufacturers towards their customers. The St. James Gazette applauds Lord Hamilton's "crushing, brutal frankness in commenting on the Micawber methods of British employers and the selfish idleness of British workmen," and, proceeding to censure the methods of trades unionists as "thoroughly and unscrupulously dishonest," the paper said it could almost wish Lord Hamilton had not given an undertaking to give preference to British firms where it is possible, as "it would be well for the future that our industrial classes learn the bitter lesson of experience."

The Globe does not hesitate to predict that unless the methods of trades unionism as practiced in this country are modified, Americans within the next few years will beat the British out of the field. The Globe compliments American trades unionists on their good sense in fostering skill and industry while simultaneously keeping up the rate of wages.

COMING AND GOING.

The Emigration and Immigration of United Kingdom.

London, June 1.—A parliamentary paper just issued shows the emigration and immigration from and to the United Kingdom, during the past year, were, respectively, 168,825 and 62,505. Sixty-one per cent of the former went to the United States. The immigrants were mostly Jews from Russia, Poland and Roumania.

AN EXTRA

Session of Congress May Be Necessary.

Crisis May Be Precipitated By Cubans.

Washington, June 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is more serious talk in Washington today of an extra session of congress in high official circles than there has been any time since March 4. A member of the cabinet stated today that in his judgment an extra session of congress might be precipitated any day and that he believed that the president would find it necessary in any event to call it not later than Oct. 1. "If possible," he said, "no extra session of congress will be called during the heated term unless it should become absolutely necessary." No one can foretell, with any accuracy, what might happen at any time in Cuba.

The reports from that island, received this morning, indicate, in his judgment, that a crisis might be brought about by some foolish action on the part of the Cuban people. The administration is most positive in its declaration not to permit any modification of the Platt amendment. In fact, it is asserted that the president has no authority to entertain any suggestions in this direction. The Platt amendment is a law of the land and it cannot be changed, except by congress. Before the adjournment of the Fifty-sixth congress, President McKinley favored the calling of an extra session. He believed that he might be compelled to carry the burden of responsibility entailed in the settling of the insular problems which confronted him. The passage of the Platt amendment and the Spooner Philippine amendment at the eleventh hour averted an extra session of congress in March, but the president's judgment today is that, it can be stated on high authority, congress must meet to settle this and some further legislation which is absolutely necessary. Unless a critical situation develops in Cuba he will not ask congress to meet, it is understood, until some time in September or early in October.

GIVES ENCOURAGEMENT

Improvement In Mrs. McKinley's Condition Is of a Very Gratifying Character and Gives Strong Hope.

Washington, June 1.—A bulletin regarding Mrs. McKinley's condition issued this morning is the most encouraging statement given out since her return. The three physicians were only in consultation a short time, and at 11 o'clock, immediately after their departure, Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following bulletin:

"Mrs. McKinley's physicians report that she rested well during the night, and that her condition is somewhat more favorable this morning."

The president appears to be encouraged over the slight improvement shown, and this morning took a stroll through the White House grounds in company with Gen. Gillespie, chief of engineers.

There were many inquiries at the White House today regarding Mrs. McKinley's condition. The gloomy character of the bulletins issued yesterday has revived the alarm felt when she was so low in San Francisco, and many telegrams have been received asking about the state of her health. Several of the ladies of the cabinet called this morning to make personal inquiries. They were slightly relieved to learn that she had a comfortable night. The general public is showing much consideration for the president, and there is no disposition to intrude on him during the trial and strain he is undergoing. A number of senators and representatives, including Chief Justice Fuller, Senators Foraker and Lodge, Representatives Boutelle of Illinois, Livingston and Adamson of Georgia, called. The president saw the chief justice and the senators for a few minutes, but excused himself to the representatives.

THE TREATY OF PEACE

Speculation as to the Identity of the New Men Who Will Enter the Northern Pacific Directorate.

New York, June 1.—There is keen speculation as to the identity of the new men who will enter the Northern Pacific directorate under the treaty of peace subscribed to by the rival interests in the property. Many names have been called up in Wall street, but according to a member of the Harriman syndicate there has been no decision as to any of them. To a reporter of the Associated Press the man in question said:

"There are several months to deliberate over this matter, and there will be no announcements for some time. My understanding is that several strong men, who are neutral in this affair and not now connected with the boards of any of the properties concerned, will be chosen. The plan of their appointment is highly satisfactory to the Harriman syndicate."

WORK DONE IN STATES

Members of Woman's Suffrage Association Tell What Has Been Accomplished For the Furtherance of Their Objects.

Minneapolis, June 1.—At the session of the National Woman's Suffrage association this morning, Susan B. Anthony, chairman of the convention resolutions committee, reported that she had addressed the American Federation of Labor and secured authorization for its president and secretary to sign a sixteenth amendment petition. Petitions and letters had been sent to a long list of conventions of various national organizations. Half the states of the Union were on the program for reports of state presidents.

Annie R. Wood, for California, reported an increased membership. A number of suffrage women there pay their taxes under protest, and Ellen Clark Sargent has sued the supervisors of San Francisco county to recover taxes so paid.

Susan R. Ashley, for Colorado, reported that a large percentage of the registered women voters in that state cast their votes as men. She described bills introduced in legislature, in the interest of women, by Mrs. Evangeline Heartz, the woman member form Arapahoe counay.

Elizabeth Harnet, of Illinois, reported a victory in the passage of the bill, securing to mothers equal rights with fathers in the guardianship of minors. She reported also a resolution of the state convention calling for a department of the government, with a cabinet member at its head, devoted to the interests of home and children.

Evelyn H. Belden reported suffrage sentiment active in Iowa, and gave statistics of the work accomplished.

For Kansa, Helen Kimber reported that a bill to deprive women of municipal suffrage had been overwhelmingly defeated, and that because of the temperance agitation, women had voted at the spring elections in larger numbers than ever before, materially assisting in the victory for law and order in many cities and towns.

Lucy Hobart Day reported active work in many directions in Maine.

WHERE McGEE FELL.

A Long Lost Stone Found at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., June 1.—Laborers engaged in excavating for a new building to be erected next to Buttworth's foundry, on Queen street, have located the long lost stone, fraught with so much historic interest which marked the scene of the assassination of Hon. T. D'Arcy McGee, one of the fathers of the Confederation. One surface of the stone was polished and on it was inscribed: "April 7th, 1868—here fell D'Arcy McGee."

PEASE ELECTED.

IS VERY RETICENT

Anxiety Caused By Silence of British Government on Boers.

Claims to Know Nothing of Reported Defeat Near Pretoria.

Battles Said to Have Occurred at Widely Separated Points.

London, June 1.—The reticence of the government regarding the battle of Vlakfontein and other military events of some importance, which have recently occurred at widely separated points in South Africa has led to considerable anxiety. This is in no way alayed by the curious answer of the war office today to a question regarding the accuracy or otherwise of the recent Boer report that the British were severely defeated near Pretoria May 21, losing forty-six killed, eighty wounded, 600 prisoners and six guns. The reply which the war office vouchsafed, "We have no official information," has aroused some misgivings.

BIG PLANT

For Ship Building to Be Located at Chester, Pa.

Philadelphia, June 1.—The Times says: "A company with a capital of at least $3,000,000 is being organized to build another shipbuilding plant on the Delaware river. The promoters of the company claim that $2,600,000 has already been subscribed, and that they have optioned a plot of ground at Chester, Pa., where it is proposed to erect the plant. One of the leading factors in the new concern is State Senator W. C. Sproul, of Delaware county, a son-in-law of the late John Roach, who represents the largest investors. Interested deeply in the company, and in fact one of the largest capitalists in it, is a man who is one of the officials of the Bath Iron works, at Bath, Me., but whose name is withheld at this time.

"It is said the formation of this new concern will mean the consolidation, or at least the working in harmony, of the Wetherill Engine Building company and the plate and steel industries of Chester."

A DAUGHTER.

A Female Child Born to the Queen of Italy.

Rome, June 1.—Queen Helena was accouched of a daughter at 9 o'clock this morning. Both mother and daughter are doing well.

The princess will be named Yolanda Margherita. Amidst general congratulations, there is considerable disappointment at the infant's sex though the king is understood to have expressed contentment. Salutes are being fired throughout Italy.

The infant's nurse, besides receiving liberal pay and a pension, will get $2000 with the baby's first tooth, another $2000 when the child is able to speak, and a similar sum when the little princess walks unsupported.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

Managers to Consult O'Connell at Toronto.

Chicago, June 1.—President Mellican and Business Agent Roderick of district No. 8, International Association of Machinists, will leave tonight for Toronto to confer with President O'Connell of the international organization relative to the strike of machinists now in progress in Chicago. It is believed sympathetic action on the part of the allied trades will be urged. There are now about 1600 men out.

Manufacturing employers whose machinists have gone out will meet this afternoon to consider plans for terminating the local strike. Any action that may be taken will not be binding on the National Metal Trades' association, however.

NEGOTIATIONS OFF.

Purchase of Bethlehem Steel Company Abandoned.

New York, June 1.—The negotiations of the Vickers Sons & Maxim company of England for the purchase of the Bethlehem Steel company have been abandoned, and, according to one of the New York bankers interested, will never be resumed. Discussing the matter with the Associated Press today the banker interested said:

"You may say that the negotiations are off. The English company made an offer to the Bethlehem company and there was an extended discussion between representatives of the two interests. An agreement was impossible and the matter has been dropped. The Vickers-Maxim company still plans to come into the American field, but is in a position to wait until it can come under favorable conditions. When a satisfactory bargain is offered, it will come. For the present, however, with the Bethlehem plant eliminated from the project, it has no property in view."

WILD RIOT

Discharged Soldiers Destroy a Saloon.

Claimed Companion Was Drugged In Joint.

San Francisco, June 1.—Soldiers to the number of 500 or 600 indulged in a riot last night and wrecked one of the many drinking places just outside the Presidio reservation.

There are many conflicting stories as to the origin of the trouble. The soldiers of the Forty-sixth volunteer infantry were mustered out yesterday and the men given their discharges and pay. Most of the men had several hundred dollars coming to them, and they did considerable drinking in the Presidio resorts. A man by the name of Morgan, of the Forty-sixth, was found unconscious in front of Mrs. Powers' saloon. Two of Morgan's companions took him to camp for treatment. The doctor pronounced it a case where drugs had been administered. The news spread rapidly about the camp, and soon there were a dozen or more men running to Mrs. Powers' saloon. They demanded reparation for the drugging of their comrade, but any knowledge of the affair was denied. Two or three men lounging about the place sided in with the woman and ordered the soldiers from the premises. They went back for reinforcements and spread the report that two of their companions had been killed in this saloon.

A mob, made up of members of the Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth regiments, then rushed pell-mell through the Presidio gates to the saloon, which was entirely wrecked. The place caught fire from the overturned lamps. One of the bartenders was severely beaten and cut. There were threats to lynch him, when a squadron of cavalry and the provost guard of sixty men from the Forty-fifth arrived and rescued him.

The efforts of the cavalry and guard to disperse the crowd were futile until the fire department turned the hose upon them. This and the entire guard of the post helped to restore order. A careful investigation of the report that some of the soldiers had died from drugged liquor proved that such was not the case. Morgan, of the Forty-sixth regiment, was the only man whom, it is thought, might have been the victim of a drug.

An investigation of the riot will be made today by the police and military officials.

PUT UP A STRONG FIGHT

Decisive Proof That Boers, When Under a Wary General Like Delarey, Can Still Offer Strenuous Resistance.

New York, June 1.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: Gen. Kitchener's account of the battle of Vlakfontein serves to light up public interest once more in the Boer war. Two facts stand out:

First, the determined nature of the Boer assault upon an entrenched position, fifty miles from Johannesburg, and,

Secondly, the heavy losses suffered by both sides. This has been the first real engagement which has been fought for many months and it is decisive proof that the Boers, when led by a cool and wary general lige Delarey, can still offer strenuous resistance to British arms. The details of this battle may indicate that Gen. Dixon's force was surprised and that the casualty was run up to 174 in this way. But the Boers, in any event, were assailants and were not repulsed without severe losses. The Boers are also reported to have fought with exceeding gallantry while in pursuit of Gen. Plumer's convoy.

A British officer, who is on a furlough after fighting from Colenso to Lydenburg, has been predicting that the closing skirmishes of the campaign would occur on the line of the Durban-Johannesburg railroad in the vicinity of Heidelberg and Standerton. Both of these affairs were within the theater of war defined by this officer months ago as the last Boer ditch.

The natural explanation of the fighting is that one mine after another is opening and the refugees are returning to Johannesburg in small groups and the Boers have been making desperate efforts to frighten them and to prevent resumption of industry in the gold belt.

AMERICANS IN LONDON

Many Prominent Residents of the United States at the World's Metropolis on Business or Pleasure Bent.

London, June 1.—Rarely if ever has London been so full of prominent Americans as at present. Many of them have been attracted here by the chamber of commerce's love-feast, but there are numbers who have come to England for other reasons. Of these a goodly percentage, several of them being themselves members of the New York chamber of commerce, have asked for invitations to the dinner of June 5, but unsuccessfully, for the banqueting hall will only hold a limited number. Such well known figures in public life as Levi P. Morton, ex-Senator Edward O. Wolcott, Senator W. A. Clark, Cornelius N. Bliss, J. P. Morgan and a host of others are frequently seen in the streets and hotels. Of leading American business men whose names are not so well known to the public there is a perfect legion, intent on securing contracts or supervising interests already established this side of the water.

The Mortons are staying at their lovely country house, Virginia Water, taking frequent trips to town.

Mr. Wolcott, who intends to stay in London about a month, finds it so enjoyable that he is not going to the continent, as he first intended.

"I am having a very fine time," said Mr. Wolcott, "and think all the Americans here are doing the same."

Senator Clark is combining business with pleasure, purchasing bric-a-brac and looking ever for his copper interests.

REQUEST GRANTED

Filipino Will Be Provided With an American Passport.

Entitled to the Protection of the United States.

Ambassador Choate Is So Instructed By Secretary Hay.

London, June 1.—The officials of the United States embassy inform the Associated Press that the matter of granting a passport to the Filipino who applied for one yesterday, had to be referred to Washington, as it was the first time such an application had been made by a person of this nationality. The Filipino desired to travel in Russia and though the applicant took the oath of allegiance to the United States in Spanish and English, the ambassador considered it advisable to submit the matter to Washington, as it has frequently done when passports were required. The embassy is now awaiting a reply. The applicant was quite contented and thanked the officials of the embassy for the action taken.

Washington, June 1.—In answer to his application for instructions, Secretary Hay has directed Ambassador Choate, at London, to issue passports to the two Filipinos who appeared at the embassy yesterday "as residents of the Philippine Islands, and as such entitled to the protection of the United States."

The decision on this point, is of importance, as having some bearing upon the status of the people of the Philippines, Porto Rico and Guam. A year ago the decision was reached to regard the Porto Ricans as "citizens of Porto Rico" to the protection of the United States government. It is now held that the Spooner law conveys the same privilege to the inhabitants of the Philippines.

The United States statutes prohibit the issue of passports to any but American citizens but these later acts, the Foraker act and the Spooner act, impose obligations in their return which may be regarded as qualifying the original act and may enable the government to ovid a decision upon the question of the American citizenship of the Islanders. At any rate the circular instructions now in formulation which will be sent to all United States diplomatic and consular representatives, will direct them to issue passport to the Islanders.

THE OPENING.

Park Point Auditorium to Begin Its Sunday Concerts.

The Oatka Beach Auditorium will open the season tomorrow with a free concert by Professor Perbouer's Famous Ladies' orchestra, assisted by Miss Jessie Pringle, soprano. The auditorium this season will be under the management of G. W. Alexander, who successfully managed the hilltop pavilion in the season of 1895, when the high-class vaudeville concerts were a source of delight to Duluth citizens. Manager Alexander's first offering is the Famous Ladies' orchestra, and he hopes to give a varied line of strong attractions at his Sunday concerts. The auditorium has taken on a holiday appearance. The usual Wednesday and Saturday evening dances and private parties will be taken care of by Manager Alexander.

MR. LEE HERE.

Member of State Board of Control Visiting Duluth.

W. E. Lee, of Long Prairie, Minn., member of the state board of control, arrived in the city this morning and will remain for a few days to transact business in connection with the duties of his office. When seen this noon Mr. Lee said:

"My visit to Duluth in an official capacity is for two objects, to confer with the resident director of the state normal school, Professor Phelps, regarding some heating and plumbing contracts for the Duluth normal school, which are very soon to be let, and to look up a suitable place for a temporary detention hospital for the insane of this county.

"Under the new law the state board of control will co-operate with the normal school board in the management of financial matters relating to the state normal schools, and while the board has already had occasion to act with the normal board at some of the other state normals, this is the first visit to Duluth in connection with the financial matters relating directly to the schools here.

"In regard to the temporary detention hospital, it will be remembered that the legislature of the state of Minnesota passed an act providing for places of detention for the supposedly insane, to be located in cities with a population of 50,000 or more inhabitants, and for the care, control and management of such institutions and the people committed to them. Under the provisions of the law such a hospital is to consist of a ward in the city or county hospital, or if this is impracticable, of some other suitable place, which shall come under the supervision of the board of control. Such hospitals are not necessary at all times, and thus far have been established only at St. Paul and Minneapolis, but before I leave I hope to meet with the hospital managements of this city, confer with the health officials and make all the arrangements necessary for such an institution as soon as there is any need for it.

"The object of such places of detention is that a temporary place may be provided in which patients whose sanity is doubted, may be detained. Such cases come up once in a while and have placed the authorities in a quandary to know just what to do. Under the present arrangement the person examined may be detained at the local detention hospital until such time as the examiners are fully satisfied that he has insanity, then he can be sent to the state institution for those thus afflicted.

"Patients committed to the detention hospital for the insane will be under the care of the city or county physician, as the case may be, or such other consulting physicain as the person committed or his relatives may determine. In no case is the patient to be kept at the local detention hospital for a period of more than six weeks.

Mr. Lee says that the funds for the support of such an institution come out of the state treasury.

MEMORY HONORED

St. Louis County Bar Pays Respects to Col. Harris.

Judge Cant, Capt. Smallwood and Others Speak Eloquently.

Resolutions Adopted and Spread Upon the Records.

The bar of St. Louis county paid its respects to the memory of the late Col. A. A. Harris a ta meeting this morning, before the opening of the special term of district court, by passing memorial resolutions appropriate to the occasion.

Recently the court appointed a committee, consisting of Capt. W. H. Smallwood, S. F. White, John H. Norton, Thomas J. Davis and H. H. Phelps to draft suitable resolutions, and this morning the committee reported through its chairman, Capt. Smallwood, who made a brief but eloquent speech, in which he spoke of the early history of the deceased in Kansas, where he knew him, and in the Confederate army.

He was followed by Judge S. F. White, who fittingly paid a tribute to Col. Harris' character, saying that he was a man that well and nobly filled all his various positions in life, as a neighbor, as a citizen, as a lawyer and as a man.

T. J. Davis spoke bredly but touchingly of the loss of this member of the bar, after which Capt. Smallwood moved the adoption of the report.

Judge Cant spoke of some of the striking characteristics of the man. He said that he had an opinion, and no uncertain one, on all public questions, and there was no chance for misunderstanding as to what it was. He never sought to conceal his opinions or feelings. As an attorney he was fair with the court and fair with the opposing counsel, and a marked feature was his uniform courtesy to all, no matter of what walk of life. He was physically and morally brave. Judge Cant concluded by speaking of his visit at Col. Harris' beside when the end was drawing near. He found him sitting upright in bed, looking so little changed that it was hard to realize that he was dying. He gave the visitor a hearty grasp of his hand, and when the time to say good-by for the last time came, he did it firmly, parting with his visitor with the backward wave of the hand that was so familiar to those who knew him. A strong characteristic was his faith in the life beyond and his hope of what it would bring.

Judge Ensign then ordered that the resolutions be spread upon the records, and a certified copy transmitted to the widow. The memorial is as follows:

"Death has recently removed from our midst one of the most honored members of the St. Louis county bar, A. A. Harris, after a lifetime of labor in the profession he loved so well, has been called to appear before that Supreme Judge whose summons awaits us all.

"In memory of his virtues and attainments we offer this simple and fraternal tribute:

"He was a kind neighbor, a good citizen, a man who loved his family and who enjoyed the respect of a host of friends in the city of Duluth and throughout the state of Minnesota. Among his brethren of the bar he was held in high esteem and his death leaves a vacancy in our circle which will long be felt. To his widow and family we tender our profound sympathy and condolence in their great bereavement."

VICTORIOUS GOPHERS.

Wipe Up Second Superior Normal Team.

The Gophers, a crack baseball team, composed of promising youngsters, defeated the second team of the Superior state normal school at West Superior this morning. The Normals were unable to hit either Summers or McLean, the two curveless wonders of the Gopher team, while the Duluthians smashed the ball into unexplored territory after the fifth inning.

Up to the sixth it was a very close game, the score being 3 to 2 in favor of the Gophers. But in the last three innings the Gophers simply walked away from the "swamp-jumpers" and won out by the following score:

Gophers ..... 1 1 1 0 0 2 4 3—15
Normals ..... 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 0— 5

The line-up of the two teams was:

Gophers.		Normals.
Schaffer	catcher	Logee
Summers and McLean	pitchers	Leclaus
Roberts	first base	Goetsinger

THE MAN OF MYSTERIOUS POWERS.

Hundreds of Miles to See the Great Magnetic Physician.

Dr. Mitchell Cures the Sick Without Medicine.

Paralyzed Limbs Take on New Life and Rheumatism Is But a Toy in His Hands.

Have we healers among us? The stories afloat concerning the wonderful things done by a man in Duluth have led to an investigation with strange developments.

One-half of a double two-story business block at 17 East Superior street, near Lake avenue, bears the sign, "Dr. Mitchell's Institute of Magnetic Healing." When called upon by a reporter, he admits he is a healer, but says his power was given him by the Lord and came to him in a trance a number of years ago. He told the reporter the afflicted came to him from all parts of the state; people who have tried all remedies known to medical science are flocking to this city to try, as a last resort, the treatment which so many declare has freed them from ailments that promised to end their lives or inflict lifelong pain and inconvenience. He says he has restored the hearing of ninety-one who were deaf in a greater or less degree, cured fifteen who were deaf and dumb, restored sight to eight and cured six who were perfectly paralyzed during the past year. That such wonders have been performed by Dr. Mitchell is the best guarantee that all who seek him will receive relief from their ailments, no matter what their cause or of how long standing. You can be benefited by the magnetic power of this great healer. He has saved many who were on the brink of the grave. He has restored to the helpless invalid the use of limbs that had been powerless for years.

The record of cures made by Dr. Mitchell is doubly wonderful when you consider that most of the cases were cured by him after drugs and doctors had completely failed. Proofs are given of his ability and power to cure diseases by his many cures made in this city and from letters received from all parts of the country and kept on file for reference. These letters are filled with expressions of gratitude to Dr. Mitchell for relief and cure and perfect restoration to health.

To those who are weary and discouraged, to those threatened with operations, to men and women who feel that in spite of heroic efforts they are steadily declining, and to those who have been cast aside as insurable, investigate this matter and be convinced that there is yet hope for you. It matters not from what disease you are suffering, Dr. Mitchell can benefit you. Investigate testimonials that have been published in this paper from time to time; you will find them all bona fide. Consultation free by bringing this advertisement with you.

WANTS BIG DAMAGES

William H. Shea Claims He Was Malicously Incarcerated.

Sues Cloquet Lumber Company and William B. Phelps.

Is Another Feature of Cedar Island Lake Case.

William H. Shea, one of the settlers on the disputed shore of Cedar Island lake, who was arrested early in April, on the complaint of William B. Phelps, charged with assault with intent to kill, this morning began suit in district court against the Cloquet Lumber company and H. C. Hornby to recover $25,215 damages for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

This is another of the many outgrowths of the dispute over a large tract of land on the shore of the lake. When the government surveyed the section the maps made it appear that the disputed land was under the waters of the lake. The settlers through whom the Cloquet Lumber company claimed took up land that abutted on the shore of the lake as it appeared on the map, and then the company claimed all of the land between there and the real shore of the lake, having bought all the timber to the lake shore. There was a good deal of timber on the land, and in the dispute that followed there were a good many difficulties between the lumber company's employes, who were cutting the timber, and the settlers, who were trying to protect the timber.

As a result of one of the conflicts, Shea was accused of showing a gun, and he was arrested, but was acquitted in the municipal court here. The damage suit is the result. Shea alleges that on April 10 the defendants, through their agent, W. B. Phelps, had him arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill Peter Campbell and other employes of the defendant's. He alleges that this prosecution was malicious and without probable ground. He says that he was in the custody of the sheriff for nineteen hours before he was acquitted and his case dismissed by the court. He paid $215 costs and attorneys' fees, and he seeks to recover that. He also alleges $25,000 damages to his good name and reputation, and this makes up the total of $25,215 that he sues for. R. R. Briggs is his attorney.

$15.10 Milwaukee & Return $15.10.

June 2 to 5, inclusive, the Northern Pacific railway will sell tickets to Milwaukee and return for $15.10. Good returning up to and including June 8. For full information and tickets call at city office, 332 West Superior street or Union depot.

A SUMMER TONIC.

Pe-ru-na, an Appetizer, a Vitalizer, a Restorer of Worn-Out Women.

Miss Mary Goerbing, of Medford, Wis., in a recent letter to the Peruna Medicine company, says:

"I take great pleasure in acknowledging the curative powers of Peruna. As a nerve tonic, a gentle stimulator to a sluggish system, as an appetizer and a restorer of lost strength and vitality of worn-out women it is very superior.

"I find it is splendid as a preventative for catching cold, and whenever I feel used up, I take a dose or two and it never fails to relieve me."—Mary Goerbing.

Systemic Catarrh.

Miss Alma Cox, assistant postmistress of Orum, S. C., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from chronic disease and dyspepsia for five years. How I suffered no tongue can tell. I tried eight or ten of the best physicians without receiving much benefit, also tried lots of patent medicines. But still I suffered with sick headache, cold feet and hands, palpitation of the heart, and such a heavy feeling in my stomach and chest. At times I would be so nervous I could not bear anyone around me. I had been given up to die.

"One day a friend sent me one of Dr. Hartman's pamphlets and I decided to write to him. He advised Peruna and Manalin, and after taking the medicine two weeks I felt greatly relieved. My head did not pain me any scarcely, and my stomach was relieved of its heavy feeling. I am so thankful that I can say after using several bottles of the Peruna and Manalin I am restored to perfect health.

"Before using your remedies I could not eat anything. I lived on barley water and Panopeptin for two years. Now I can eat with pleasure. Everybody is so surprised at my improvement. Everyone says I am looking like a rose. I would advise all suffering women to take your remedies. I know if it were not for Peruna and Manalin I would have been in my grave today. I cannot thank you enough for the kind advice you have given me."—Miss Alma L. Cox.

Pelvic Catarrh.

Catarrh is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases popularly known as female weakness. Catarrh of the pelvic organs produces such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people—in fact, the majority of people—have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

The Nervous System.

Weakness of the nervous system not only produces catarrh of the mucous membrane, but also causes nervous prostration in some cases, and different degrees of nervous debility, derangements of the stomach, sleeplessness and tired out feelings.

Depression of the nervous system is a fertile source of blood impurities. Peruna invigorates the system and produces regular sleep. It builds up the system run down by overwork.

Miss Mary Rennie, of Port Byron, Ill., writes:

"Peruna has been of such wonderful help to me. My system was completely run down and needed a general toning up.

"Peruna acted like magic and after using only three bottles I felt my usual self and have been in excellent health ever since.

Mary Rennie.

Catarrhal Weakness.

A great proportion of women have some catarrhal weakness which has been called by the various doctors she has consulted, by as many different names. These women have been treated and have taken medicines with no relief, simply because the remedies are not adapted to catarrh. It is through a mistaken notion as to the real nature of the diseases that these medicines have been recommended to them.

Dr. Hartman's Free Advice.

If all women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply with complete directions for treatment, free of charge.

"Health and Beauty," a book written especially for women, sent free by Dr. Hartman, president The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

WRECKS A BUGGY.

S. E. Peachey's Horse Cuts Some Capers.

A hair-raising runaway occurred about 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, when S. E. Peachey's horse broke lose from the hitching post in front of the printing office of Peachey & Lounsberry and ran down Second avenue west to the railroad tracks at full gallop. In crossing Michigan street the carriage, to which the horse was attacked struck a glancing blow on a passing truck. No damage was done at this stage of the game, however. The frightened animal dashed straight on toward a string of boxcars, and was making for the side of a Northern Pacific boxcar, but she stopped within ten feet of that and, turning up the track toward the Union station, again hit up a 2:40 gate. This time she ran in between a box car and a pile of ties. The opening which separated them was insufficient to allow the buggy to pass and the result was the wreck of a buggy. The horse stopped quietly a few yards beyond and waited to be caught.

TO WIN FAME

Western College Athletes Meet In Arena.

Flower of Teams Struggle For Supremacy.

Chicago, June 1.—The eyes of the Western college world will be turned toward Chicago today. Upon the arena of two athletic fields, the pick and flower of Mississippi valley athletes will strive with every effort to win glory and fame and the plaudits of the multitude. Never before in the history of Western athletics has an event of greater importance been held, or one in which a keener pitch of enthusiasm has been aroused.

For the first time since the colleges came together in athletic rivalry there has been a division in the ranks. At Marshall field ten colleges will watch their representatives contesting for the trophies of the Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association. Up at Ravenswood the rooters of ten other institutions will cheer their heroes on to victory, with the cup of the Western Intercollegiate Athletic association as the spur of effort.

The history of the great secession is well known to all followers of college athletics. Several hundred college men poured into the city on every train yesterday and last night. The meets are the largest ever arranged to be held in one city at the same time in the Western part of the country, and the managers of each are confident of gathering the largest crowd.

On Marshall field, teams from Wisconsin, Michigan, Chicago, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana, Iowa, Illinois and Beloit will try for the supremacy of the big nine. In some respects the meet will be triangular as the real struggle will lie between Michigan, Wisconsin and Chicago. The Wolverines have been generally picked as the winners. At Ravenswood, teams from Notre Dame, Drake, Grinnell, Knox, Lake Forest, Carleton, Lawrence, Illinois college, Yankton, S. D., and the university of South Dakota will contest. The battle will probably be fought out by Notre Dame and Grinnell.

The winners in today's meet will be asked to take part in the sports at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo this summer. Last night Coach Stagg, of the university of Chicago, received a telegram from the Pan-American sports committee, notifying him that eight of the first point winners and six of the second point winners at the recent Eastern intercollegiate meet had sent in their entries to the Pan-American contests and also asking Professor Stagg to notify competitors in the Western meet that a certain amount of expense money would be guaranteed each winner in the Western meet of today if he would come to Buffalo and compete. Professor Stagg expects to receive further particulars by mail.

Chicago, June 1.—The annual field meet of the colleges, comprising the "Big nine" of the Middle West, but the first one under the auspices of the new Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association, was held on Marshall field today. Bright skies and balmy air gave promise of some record breaking events. The field was in perfect condition. A light rain during the night laid the dust, but did not interfere with the work of the contestants, who were cheered by the presence of a large, enthusiastic crowd.

The entry list contained the names of 204 athletes, representing ten of the leading institutions of learning in the Middle West. The universities represented were Michigan, Chicago, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Northwestern, Minnesota, Indiana, Purdue and Beloit. Since Hopkins, the broad jumper of the Chicago team, was taken to a hospital suffering from blood poisoning, Coach Stagg had given up all hope of Chicago winning the meet, and predicted success to the team representing the University of Michigan.

One-mile run—Won by Keachie, Wisconsin; Hahn, Wisconsin, second; Hall, Michigan, third. Time, 4.34 2-5.

440-yard run, final heat—Won by Morrill, Beloit; Maloney, Chicago, second; Poage, Wisconsin, third. Time, 49 4-5, breaking Western intercollegiate record of 50 3-5.

Discus throw—Won by Baird, Northwestern; Webster, Wisconsin, second; Warner, Iowa, third. Distance, 113 ft. 3 in.

100-yard dash, final heat—Won by Hahn, Michigan; Leible, Michigan, second; Bell, Illinois, third. Time, 10 sec.

120-yard hurdle, final heat—Won by Maloney, Chicago; Beckman, Minnesota, second; Schule, Wisconsin, third. Time, 15 4-5.

DOWIE FREE.

Grand Jury Fails to Indict the Alleged Healer.

Chicago, June 1.—The grand jury today after a thorough investigation of the facts surrounding the death of Mrs. W. H. Judd, decided to vote no indictments against John Alex Dowie and several of his followers, in connection with the death of Mrs. Judd and her child at Dowie's "Zion."

ADMITTED TO BAIL.

Dr. Unger Released In Sum of $10,000.

Chicago, June 1.—Dr. A. M. Unger, on trial for alleged conspiracy to swindle insurance companies which had written policies on the life og Marcie Defenbach was admitted to bail today in the sum of $15,000.

Mrs. Alice Kelly, a witness for the state, was called today, but failed to appear. It is said she later will testify on behalf of the defense. Mrs. Kelly formerly was Miss Defenbach's landlady.

Calvin Huntsman, uncle of Miss Defenbach, testified that the young woman's story about owning a farm was false. The state's aim in producing this evidence was to prove that Miss Defenbach had intended to defraud the insurance companies.

FOUND IN TRENCH.

Body of Kansas Woman Evidently Murdered.

Holton, Kas., June 1.—In a shallow trench less than 100 yards from her home, one mile north of Holton, the mutilated body of Mrs. W. H. Kleusmire was found today.

On Sunday, the children of the family were absent. When they returned they say their father told them the mother had gone to Texas on a visit. Later Kleusmire left ostensibly for Texas. Yesterday the children received a telegram saying that their mother had died from yellow fever and had been buried in Texas. The discovery of her body has created intense excitement.

ELECTRIC COMBINE.

Would Take In Many Street Railroads.

Detroit, June 1.—The Journal this afternoon states, on the authority of a "local man interested in street railways," that the entire street railway system of Toledo will pass into the control of the Everett-Moore syndicate of Cleveland within sixty days. The Journal says:

"The Everett-Moore general scheme is to acquire all the electric lines between Cleveland and Port Huron, Mich., and from Cleveland south to Wheeling, W. Va., and all their suburban feeders, and when the Toledo city deal shall be completed every city terminal in the lake section of this territory will be under their control.

Barnitz, of Des Moines, Western secretary. A reception will be tendered him by the delegates in the afternoon. Last evening $4500 was raised.

The report of the pastors of the under secretary showed that the number of ministers and widows aided during the past biennium had been ninety-six. The number regularly "on the funds" at present is twenty-six. The amount received was $22,024 and the amount expended $20,327, leaving a balance of $1697. Every year the number of applicants for aid is increasing, involving at present a monthly outlay of $1000. The society has proven a great blessing and is becoming more useful and popular.

The only coast provinces to be omitted are Infanta and Principe. On their way they will prepare distinct governments in Bontoc and Lepanto. They will return to Manila June 6. The government will be inaugurated July 1.

SAW THE KING

New Yorkers Pay a Visit to British Royalty.

Windsor, Eng., June 1.—Visiting members of the New York chamber of commerce were favored with the delightful weather this afternoon for their visit to King Edward and the royal demesne. On their arrival at Windsor they were met by carriages, in which they were driven direct to Frogmore, where Lord Edward Pelham-Clinton, maste of the household, took charge of the party and showed them the tomb of Queen Victoria and the adjacent sights of interest. Thence the visitors proceeded to St. George's chapel, where the dean of Windsor, the Very Rev. Philip Eliot D.D., conducted them over the historic building. The delegates were then taken to the East Terrace, where they were received oy the king and queen. Refreshments were subsequently served in the Orangery.

DEFAULTS INTEREST

Big Electric Company at the Capital Is In Trouble.

A Movement For Reorganization Has Been Inaugurated.

A Big Deficit Exists In the Company's Revenues.

Washington, June 1.—The Washington Traction and Electric company, which controls the electric lighting plants and all the electric railways in the District of Columbia, except the lines of the Capital Traction company, have defaulted in the payment of interest, June 1, on the bonds of the corporation, and a movement for reorganization of the company has been inaugurated. The stock and bonds of the company are mainly owned by New York parties The earning capacity never has been equal to the demands. The company was organized two years ago with a capital of $12,000,000 in stock and $20,000,000 in 4½ per cent bonds. Its property consists of the stocks on eleven street railways and two electric lighting companies in Washington. The traction bonds are collateral securities and not a mortgage bond.

The deficit in the company's revenues has been made good at each successive period by those largely interested it is said through an assessment on the stock. It is supposed a floating debt has thus been accumulated. Some conjecture that his form of encumbrance has reached a million dollars or more. It is not known outside of the company how great a gap exists between the receipts and expenditures George W. Young, one of the majority bondholders estimated today that it would be four or five years before receipts of the company on its present basis, will meet the operating expenses and the fixed charges. Today's action is attributed by some to large holders selling out their stock. It being purchased, it is claimed, by the Roeblings, of New York.

A PROTEST.

West End Merchants Appeal To the Railroad Commission.

The merchants at the West End who have been protesting ever since the Northern Pacific Railway company closed its freight and passenger depot at Twentieth avenue west, have made the first move toward bringing the matter to the attention of the state railroad commissioners, and urge that body to take steps for their relief. C. O. Nelson, of the West End, went to St. Paul yesterday with a petition, signed by the West End merchants, in which they set forth that the Northern Pacific company, about nine months' ago, discontinued its passenger service at the Twentieth avenue station, and within the last month has discontinued its freight service. Several days ago the merchants held a meeting, and as a result one of them wrote to a prominent attorney of St. Paul, who advised the merchants to either engage a lawyer, or bring the matter before the railroad commision; that no railroad company has the right to discontinue passenger service at a station established in the state of Minnesota without first getting the consent of the railroad and warehouse commission. The merchants are said to be united in their fight against the company to compel it to maintain a freight station at the West End, and will continue to push the matter until they get satisfaction. The commission has not yet set a time for hearing.

NEW COMMISSION HOUSE.

A. J. Cummings Opens An Establishment Here.

A. J. Cummings, of St. Paul, who conducts one of the best-known grain and stock commission houses in the Northwest, has opened an office here at 306 West Superior street, in the Duluth Trust building. Charles E. Wheeler is manager and E. J. Murphy assistant manager. While the office is associated with that of Mr. Cummings', it will be a distinctively Duluth office, putting all of its orders through direct, banking all of its moneys here and being in general a home concern. Trades in 10-share lots will be handled in New York stocks and in grains in 1000 bushel lots. Arrangements have been made for prompt service, and the line of stock and market gossip will be the very best that is to be had.

FOR THE FOURTH.

Great Series of Horse Races Expected.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the Fourth of July sports at the driving park reports that a great afternoon is assured. There will be a large string of horses, making the best horse racing the head of the lakes has seen, including at least one 2:08 horse. In addition there will be a feature that will make this Fourth more like the old-time ones than any in recent years. That is an old-fashioned balloon ascension.

Company A Election.

Company A held an election of officers last evening. It was called for the purpose of electing a successor to First Lieut. Haagenson, resigned. Second Lieut. Chapman was elected to the place and H. Whittaker was selected to fill the vacancy thereby left in the office of second lieutenant. They left this afternoon for St. Paul to take the examinations necessary before they qualify. They are anxious to take the offices before the practice march next week.

ELECTION IN CUBA

Considerable Excitement Prevails at Santiago de Cuba.

Several Fights Occurred at Organization of Election Boards.

No Disturbance Has Been Reported From Havana.

Santiago de Cuba, June 1.—All business is suspended on account of the municipal elections. Gen. Whiteside yesterday ordered American officers to act in each precinct as a board of supervisors of election, serving continuously from 6 o'clock in the morning until the vote is counted and verified. The Republicans bitterly resent this. They had openly asserted that they would elect their candidates regardless of methods. The rural police have superseded the city police at the voting places, insuring absolute fairness. There were several fights in the morning when the election boards were organized. One Nationalist candidate for the council was severely clubbed by the police and taken to jail.

The voting is progressing rapidly. The Nationalists probably will elect their entire ticket, headed by the veteran Alcade Barcardi.

Intense excitement prevails, but good order is maintained all over the district, and no trouble is anticipated.

Havana, June 1.—All interest today is centered on the municipal elections.

The press has devoted little space to Washington's decision to reject the action of the Cuban constitutional convention on the Platt amendment. The merchants regret that agitation must again disturb business. They fear unsettled conditions more than the actual rejection of the amendment.

Gen. Wood has held a conference with Secretary Root over the special wire to Washington.

No definite plan of action has been decided on. The conversation is inclined to let the United States take the initiative. It has been suggested that the convention withdrew the legislations and interpretations, etc., leaving them to be incirporated in a future treaty.

No disturbance of importance is reported as a result of the elections. Quintin Bandera, the colored leader, has been arrested at Colon, province of Matanzas, for assault on a policeman.

PAPER MILLS

Crippled By Strike of Over Two Thousand Employes.

The two mills which granted the demands of their employes, the Whiting Paper company and Valley Paper company, are not affected. The textile manufacturers have been given until Monday to meet the demands of the workmen.

The Germania mills have granted the demands, and this afternoon a conference is being held with officials of the Farr Alapaca company which is said to promise an amicable settlement with that company.

Dayton, Ohio, June 1.—A strike has been ordered of conductors and motormen on the People's Street railway to take effect at 4 p. m today. The strike is the result of the officials refusing to recognize the union. Two of the principal lines of the city are involved.

Buffalo, June 1.—About 400 machinists of the New York Central railroad and their helpers, numbering about fifty, struck today for a 10 per cent increase in wages.

Washington, June 1.—Secretary Root was with the president for about an hour and a half today, discussing with him, the cablegram which has been prepared to be sent to Gen. Wood, at Havana, relating to the action of this government on the Cuban constitution. This message is long and will be forwarded to Gen. Wood, with the idea of having him communicate it to the convention. It will not be made public now and probably not until the convention takes action. Secretary Root has received no official copy of the Cuban constitution, as adopted, the copy received being furnished by Gen. SYNOD OPPOSES UNIONS Reformed Presbyterians Say That Labor Organizations Are Pernicious In Their Influence and Wrong In Principle.

Pittsburg, June 1.—Discussion of the report of the committee on secret societies took up nearly the entire morning session of the Reformed Presbyterian synod of America. The resolutions in regard to labor unions were subject to much argument, especially the following: "We look on membership in many unions, as organized, as dangerous, and warn our members against joining any union which has an immoral obligation to keep inviolate as long as life remains any rites and regulations the issue of which he is necessarily ignorant."

Several speakers, including ex-Moderator Foster, denounced labor unions, asserting that they did not leave a free field for labor, held their meetings on Sunday, and that they are pernicious in their influence and wrong in principle. The sign of a labor organization was called "the mark of the beast" by Dr. T. P. Robb, of Sharon, Iowa. The discussion was still in progress at noon. The report of the trustees of Geneva college showed 215 students enrolled during the year and 24 graduates. The endowment fund now amounts to $127,000.

AT WEST DULUTH

It is expected that the camping along the banks of the St. Louis river will soon open and it is understood that several West Duluth families are planning on beginning their summer outing by the middle of the month. During the past winter a number of the young men of West Duluth have formed small clubs and erected summer cottages on the Wisconsin side of the river in localities where the scenery is very beautiful. There are many of such spots along this river and not far from West Duluth. Most of this season's campers are among the business men or clerks in the West Duluth stores and these will row back and forth from the West Duluth dock to their cottages.

Parties that have been fishing on the St. Louis river this season report very fair success though they think it will be a little better as the season progresses. James Bradly who was recently credited on a large placard in a down town meat market with catching a forty-seven pound muscalonge in the St. Louis river at a recent date, feels very much hurt that the weight of the fish was put at such a low figure. The story told was that the fish towed the boat with Mr. Brady in it up the river for several miles, and Mr. Brady says every fisherman in West Duluth knows that he could easily land a forty-seven pound fish before it could pull him two rods, that is, when he is in condition.

L. O. T. M. PICNIC.

The ladies of Duluth Hive No. 1, L. O. T. M., will inaugurate the picnic season in this city by holding their third annual picnic at Lester Park on June 4. In the evening there will be a grand ball at the park.

ANNIVERSARY SALE.

The Hendricks Dry Goods company, of West Duluth, is celebrating its tenth anniversary with a grand anniversary sale that began this morning and will last for one week. This firm has been successfully engaged in business in West Duluth for the past ten years and by fair dealing has established an excellent record among its many customers. During the anniversary sale the people of West Duluth will be offered splendid bargains along all lines of goods handled by the firm.

The subject of the morning sermon at the Plmouth Congregational church tomorrow will be "What Shall I Render Unto the Lord?" In the evening the topic will be "Jesus' Divine Call." Services conducted by Rev. F. O. Krause, pastor.

The subjects at the Westminster Presbyterian church on Sunday will be "The Forgiveness of Sins, the Foundation of All True Religion" and "Naaman, the Syrian, or the Great Typical Disease."

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Capt. J. W. Mann will open Zenith Park tomorrow and his steamer, the Mary Mann, will make regular trips from the West Duluth park. Capt. Mann has secured the management of the park this season and has made many improvements there. He says that no liquor will be sold on the grounds this year.

Dr. David Graham, who has been on a visit in the southern part of the state for a few weeks, returned this morning.

A very pleasant social affair among the young folks of West Duluth during the past week was the banquet and entertainment of the seventh grade at the Longfellow school given in honor of the eighth grade, yesterday afternoon, between the hours of 4 and 9 o'clock. The time was enjoyably spent in games, followed by a fine spread.

AT SUPERIOR.

Games Today and Sunday---Hansell Trying New Twirler.

The Duluth baseball team plays at West Superior this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon. In today's game, Manager Hansell is trying a new pitcher named Young. He is a graduate of the Duluth corner lots, and a twirler of considerable promise. The Duluth team is badly handicapped for want of a second pitcher, and it is to be hoped that Young makes good. He is only 19 years of age, but he has both speed and curves.

Manager Porter of Superior has secured a new third baseman named Chase. He comes from St. Paul and is said to be fast. It is reported here that Superior intends to give Si Bennett, the Big Duluth shortstop, a trial. Bennett will certainly make good. He was given a trial by the Duluth management last year and he has improved greatly since.

THE DAKOTAS

Brakeman Gets Verdict For $4150 For Loss of Foot.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—Some months ago John Sharpstein of Fargo was working as a brakeman on the Great Northern between Grand Forks and Duluth. While attempting to make repairs under a car, under orders, the train was started and he lost a foot. He instituted a suit for $20,000, and a settlement has just been effected for $4150. He is a young man and will use a portion of the money in educating himself for some profession.

This has been a good week for Ole T. Aasen. He owns some land in Noble township in this county, and some years ago the road overseers turned a ditch through his field, flooding some wheat land. Aasen didn't like the deal and dammed up a culvert. He was arrested and the township given judgment against him. He again stopped up the culvert after being enjoined by Judge Pollock and was arrested and fined for contempt. From this he appealed to the state supreme court, which has decided that he was all right and has reversed Judge Pollock. As a side issue, Aasen has a suit on trial this week in the United States court for damage done by the water, and the jury awarded him $58.

Bismarck—Governor White has issued an order to the State Guard, granting it permission to leave its several stations and attend the fire festival at Fargo the first week in June. Field and duty regulations are to be observed. Preparations are being made to send tents and equipments to Fargo for the encampment of the troops upon proper requisitions. It is expected that about half of the state guard will take advantage of the permission granted to go into camp for several days at Fargo.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Pierre—Reports has been received of the death of D. S. Hooper at the home of his daughter in Nobono, Mo. Judge Hooper was for years a prominent politician in Spink county, representing that county in the legislature, and lately held the position of receiver of the land office in this city, having been relieved here but a short time ago and going to Missouri for a visit.

Parkston—Reports of the killing of Lewis C. Grimm, a former business man of this place, and of Tripp, have reached here from Junior, Ark. He had recently located at Junior, and while walking on the railroad track was run over and instantly killed by a train. The remains were taken to Wisconsin for burial.

Spearfish—The entire faculty of the state normal school of this city has been re-elected, except the instructor in music, who did not apply for the position. Miss Brouflette, of California, was elected to the place.

Armour—While the family of John Robeldyke, living in the country near here was absent from home, a 16-year-old boy tramp, who has been working as a farm hand in the neighborhood, entered the house and stole a small amount of money and a suit of clothes. He then went to the barn and took a valuable horse and saddle and disappeared. Officers have so far been unable to find the boy or the stolen property.

IN MICHIGAN.

A Party of Sixty People Leave For European Points.

Calumet—A party of forty Calumet people left this week for points in Europe. About fifteen Hancock and Houghton people joined the party at those points, swelling the number to nearly sixty. The tourists will have their special sleeper, which will be taken directly to the docks at Boston, where an ocean liner will be in waiting. Most of the party will visit Cornwall in England, while a few go to Finland and sections of Norway and Sweden.

The Laurium council appointed Engineer Farrington, formerly of the Houghton County Street Railway company, superintendent of public works.

Steps towards the formation of a Gentlemen's Driving association in Calumet are being taken. W. H. Thielman was selected president; Paul P. Roelan, vice president; Fred Eaton, secretary, and W. S. Whisler, treasurer. The purchase of property on which a race track will be constructed is under consideration.

Escanaba—Henry B. Hazzen, for many years supervisor on the county board from Sac Bay township, is dead. He was 68 years old and had been a resident of Delta county for forty-five years. He leaves two sons and three daughters.

Hancock—Fire broke out in the interior of Harry Richard's 1-story frame house on West Hancock street, Hancock, at 9:30 Thursday night. It spread rapidly and soon enveloped Mike Doyle's large 2-story frame structure adjoining. The firemen worked under difficulties, there being very little power and the hose being stretched a long distance. The fire partially destroyed both buildings, which were insured.

GOT ONLY PART OF A MAN.

Chicago, June 1.—Mrs. Augusta Appleman, born Wolf, says Leonard Appleman, her husband, played a scurvy trick. When he began rehearsing "love's young dream" he had a sort of Byronic limp. "I've sprained my ankle," said he. He made such good progress into the affections of Miss Wolf that they were married May 11. "We had not been married more than two hours," she recites in her petition for divorce, "before I discovered he had a wooden leg." Then Mrs. Appleman goes on to assert that she had been deluded and deceived.

TAKE ACTION.

Owners of Bon Voyage Would Limit Liability.

The White Line Towing company, owning the steamer Bon Voyage does not intend to leave itself open for a big damage judgment on account of the burning of the steamer even though Capt. Singer is confident that there was no negligence on the part of the crew or the boat itself. By a petition filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of the United States court the company proposes to take advantage of a law which was passed a good many years ago by congress but which is still in effect. It is to the effect that the person claiming damages against a boat cannot collect more than the value of the boat as it is when he begins a suit. Under the law the owners may petition the court to appoint appraisers to determine the value of the boat and the sum they claim the boat is worth is then placed in the hands of the court for distribution to those who have claims against it. If the boat is entirely destroyed the owner's liability ceases and the court issues a restraining order that will stop all suits.

The White Line Towing company has filed a petition asking for the operation of this law and as the steamer is burned to the water's edge it is not likely that there will be much value left in it for Mr. Altman to collect from, should his suit be sustained.

The petition recites the circumstances of the burning of the vessel and claims that it was without fault or neglect of the owners or crew. It states that in spite of the efforts of the crew four passengers were drowned and all of the baggage destroyed. It is claimed that the damage should not be laid to the owners of the boat or the crew and that therefore the benefit of the limitation of liability is claimed. All persons having claims will be cited to appear and make proof of them in court.

The company is represented by Davis, Hollister & Hicks.

Warren, Ohio, June 1.—The twenty persons in Turnbull county, who believe themselves heirs of Sir Francis Drake and thereby entitled to part of the property in England, valued at $200,000,000, held a meeting here and organized to contest for the fortune. The same parties are interested in securing control of the Burkhardt-Mosier estate in the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania, now held by the Lehigh Coal company.

THEY LIKE IT.

First Street Owners Fall Into the Boulevard Idea.

East First street property owners have fallen in with the boulevard idea with enthusiasm. Petitions now in circulation for the narrowing of the street between Sixth avenue east and Twenty-first avenue east, are receiving signatures freely, and it is probable that steps will be taken to make the improvement within a month.

Each piece of property is to have a grass plot between the walk and curb, and the curb will be something new and a thing of beauty. It will be cement with a combination cement gutter.

So enthusiastic have the First street property owners become over the idea that they are talking somewhat of having the name of the street changed—the new name to be in keeping with aesthetic conditions of the property and street after the improvements have been made.

FOOLED ALL EXPECTANTS.

Wilkesbarre, June 1.—James Molley, of Plymouth, who is over 100 years old and whose life is insured in favor of some fifteen or twenty people in amounts ranging from $50 to $200, has disappeared. Despite his great age he has worked steadily picking coal until May 14. Ten years ago, when he was about 90, many people took out policies on his life at high rates, expecting him to die in a year or two.

DULUTH

BUSINESS UNIVERSITY

And College of Shorthand and Typewriting,

To Introduce Phonograph and Other New Features.

Phonograph to Facilitate Work in Shorthand Department.

THIS MACHINE will be placed in the shorthand room and connected with tin tubes which shall extend the entire length of the shorthand and typewriting rooms. Rubber tubes will connect with the tin tubes over each student's desk and over each typewriter. All kinds of correspondence at different rates of speed will be dictated to this machine and in turn taken by the student from the machine. This device will make it possible to have the shorthand and typewriting rooms much quieter by dispensing with the old method of reading aloud to the different classes.

Lessons by Mail.

BEGINNING June 1, lessons by mail will be given in shorthand at very moderate rates in any system desired. In no case, however, should we advise students to take lessons by mail if they can possibly enter the college for a complete stenographic course, as ability to write and read shorthand is but a small part of the qualifications necessary for the competent stenographer, as we always find the best educated students we receive require at least six months' faithful drill in grammar, composition, correspondence, penmanship, arithmetic, etc., before they are prepared to fill the average office position, and any school that advertises that three or four months is sufficient time to prepare for such positions is searching for the gullible.

Summer Rates.

A SPECIAL discount from regular rates will be allowed all students who attend our college during the months of June, July or August. Our attendance is usually very small during the summer months, and as we employ the same staff of teachers we feel that we can afford to make a better rate to our summer students than we can to those who attend during the winter months.

Gold Medals to Be Given.

TWO GOLD MEDALS are to be awarded by the college during 1901. One will be given to the pupil who reaches the highest standard of excellence in phonography, the other has been promised to the pupil who becomes the most skillful touch typewritist.

Charles G. Robson,

Expert Accountant.

Principal of our Commercial Department.

Applications From Business Firms For Our Graduates.

SINCE March first we have received sixty-one applications from business men for graduates of our school to fill good clerical positions. Forty-seven of these positions were accepted by our graduates, fourteen of them we could not fill as we had not the graduates to fill them. Twelve of these positions were outside of Duluth, two in St. Paul, two in Chicago. The positions we could not fill were chiefly for young men, competent in accounting and stenography. The continually increasing demand for such young men should prove an incentive for more to take a combined course with us.

An Incentive for Ambitious Students.

IN FUTURE all students who reach a speed of one hundred words a minute in shorthand and thirty-five words in typewriting and pass the required examinations in all other branches of the stenographic course, will be permitted to continue in this department at the nominal rate of $5.00 a month, and all students who attain a speed of one hundred and seventy-five words a minute in shorthand and sixty words a minute in typewriting, shall then be refunded all money paid to the institution at the $5.00 a month rate. The fact that several of our best students have recently left the college to accept positions which experienced stenographers could not fill, is very flattering, and we have decided in future to offer every encouragement and inducement we can to students to excel in this art as, we find there is always room at the top. We shall have expert teachers for speed developement and shall be in touch with many of the largest firms in the country, and feel assured that we can procure excellent positions for all of our students who make themselves thoroughly proficient.

Will Teach Any System.

THE ADDITIONAL teacher to our staff gives us four thoroughly competent teachers of shorthand, and in future we shall be prepared to teach any of the standard or light-line systems now in use. Students who have begun in the Pitman, Munson, Perin, etc. may, if they prefer, complete the course here in the same system. One of these light-line systems is soon to become a part of our course.

About Assisting Students to Positions.

DURING THE last month a number of graduates of other business colleges have written or called on us personally and offered to pay us for assisting them to positions. We make no charge for such services and on two conditions only can we render assistance to any such student. First, the student must pass a written examination set by us; second, we must feel assured that not a graduate of our school can be had who desires the position. The fact that sixty-one applications were received since March 1st, for our graduates from the best business houses, is evidence that we are in touch with all the leading firms at the head of the lakes and that they apply to us direct for their clerical help. It is gratifying to know that business men have from long experience learned to place such implicit confidence in our endorsement of young people. We hope to retain this confidence and shall be just as careful in the future about whom we recommend for positions offered.

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT

Louisville Courier-Journal: A New York preacher used a Marconi apparatus to ring a bell during his sermon. Of course, it was not a chestnut bell.

Boston Globe: This being the age of condensed foods, some of the Presbyterian brethren are strongly in favor of a condensed creed. But how to carry through the process of condensation still puzzles certain learned upholders of the denominational belief.

Boston Transcript: The Methodist ministers of Worcester country seem to be terribly brought up over the report that President McKinley drank a glass of champagne on board a battleship. This looks more like a case of madness in Methodism than method in madness.

Cincinnati Commercial: "Introduction in church of wireless telegraphy as illustration of his sermon is not to be regarded as an innovation, except as to its object. Many young men and women could, if they would, bear testimony to successful experiments in wireless telegraphy across church pews during many a sermon.

New York Sun: Bishop Mallalieu of Massachusetts and the Methodist church derides golf. He says that it is "a very silly game for grown men to play" and "a game fitted for little children." "What is more foolish and silly," he asks, "than to see a man take up a club and whack a little round ball to see if he can place it in a little round hole away out in the field somewhere?" Well, possibly it is more foolish and silly to abuse a healthful game simply because you don't play it yourself.

Chicago Chronicle: Anyone might have foreseen that it would come to this at last; consolidation has struck the churches. The pastors' union of Toledo has projected a church trust for the 102 preachers and places of worship in that city. It has been found that there is an overproduction of ministers and of pulpit eloquence and that better results can be secured in Toledo with one-half of the present number of churches and pastors when managed by the trust. Nothing could better illustrate the prevailing liberality, or laxity, of doctrines and creeds than the fact that such a consolidation should be seriously proposed.

Kansas City Star: The enthusiasm of the Presbyterian general assembly over home missions found expression yesterday in the singing of "America." This was highly appropriate. Home mission work is directed especially toward making the United States a better place to live in. It is essentially a patriotic movement. The home missionary of the Western frontier is a pioneer of order and progress. With the establishment of the church in a rough frontier town comes a greater regard for order and the amenities of life throughout the community. When the Presbyterians sang the national anthem they were simply giving expression to that love of country on which home mission work is based.

DUN'S REVIEW

Trade Operations Are Reported Well Up to the Average.

New York, June 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: While the weather in the East has hampered distributive trade to a considerable extent this week, rendering the situation in some lines rather unsatisfactory, the West and the South report unchanged conditions, with operations well up to the recent average. It is the season when crop damage rumors are always heard, and they have come from New York quarters, but probably in large part owe their origin to speculation. There is nothing as yet to cause any modification of the general estimates made recently and founded upon the special returns from correspondents of R. G. Dun & Co. The labor situation is a little brighter. Many strikes have been settled and others are expected to terminate shortly.

Iron and steel mills are working at full capacity and more new plants have been put in operation. Quotations are well maintained, without any effort to secure advances. Farming machinery is a feature of the domestic business, and there is no sign of decrease in the export movement of these products which has attained enormous proportions. Rails are also going out freely to Australia and South America. Railways are unable to secure sufficient freight cars and other supplies, while structural work proceeds briskly with little interruption from labor controversies. There is a little less activity among manufacturers of boots and shoes, some of the smaller plants reducing time or closing down, ostensibly for the purpose of taking stock. Inventories would easily wait another month, however, if orders were abundant. Salesmen in the West and South are sending good orders for fall delivery, but the local jobbing trade has received a setback from the continuous rain. Leather is still strong and active for heavy sole and high priced upper stock, and offal has been freely taken for export. Medium grades are quiet with less demand than the extreme qualities. Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston have shown the expected decrease from the phenomenally large figures of recent preceding weeks, but are still very heavy, and since Jan. 1 exceed last year's by about 70,000 cases.

Extended holidays abroad and a short one in this country have tended to make the grain markets unusually quiet, while corn has had the added drawback of hesitation among traders, who have not yet recovered from the effects of manipulation in the May option. Foreign purchasers were driven out of this market by inflated quotations, as shown by Atlantic exports in five weeks of only 9,436,285 bushels against 17,341,065 bushels last year and 13,433,818 bushels in the same weeks of 1899. Each reaction in wheat is quickly followed by recovery and much support is found in gloomy reports from growing sections. Insufficient moisture and low temperature are the chief causes of complaint and injury from insects is also rumored, but there is always more or less loss through these influences, and the splendid condition earlier in the season gives reason to hope for an abundant yield.

Misfortune has also overwhelmed cotton plantations, according to the pessimistic views circulated by traders and factors who are endeavoring to sustain prices in the face of heavy receipts and unsatisfactory conditions at New England mills, where print cloths have been sharply reduced to 2⅝ in order to dispose of the accumulation, which is said to reach 2,000,000 pieces.

Heavy brown goods have steadied under better Chinese inquiry, but local retail and jobbing trade is restricted by unfavorable weather. Although it is between seasons with the silk trade, there is a good demand and available stocks of the more desirable lines are reported light. The ribbon trade continues brisk despite lowering skies. Carpets and upholsteries improve, and in staple clothing woolens there is more activity. This brings out raw wool more freely, but there is not sufficient demand to advance prices in the face of heavy stocks and a large new clip coming forward. In fact, the accumulation of supplies has had a distinctly depressing influence and in the Philadelphia market quotations are perceptibly easier. The decline extends to the entire list of domestic wools, although not more than a cent in any grade.

Failures for the week numbered 148 in the United States against 160 last year and 27 in Canada against 20 last year.

GOOD MAY RECORD

Shipments of Lumber Aggregate Thirty-Two Million Feet.

Heavy Movement Considering Lateness of the Start.

Sabin Road to Begin Hauling to Duluth Monday.

Lumber shipments from the port of Duluth for the month of May have been about 32,000,000 feet as compared with 24,000,000 during the month of May, 1900. The shipments last month were 2,000,000 feet less than during the same month in 1900, but it will be remembered that the lumber vessels were moving earlier last season by many days. Last season there was some lumber shipped in April and none was shipped this season before May 8. But two cargoes of lath, amounting to 2,100,000 were shipped to the lower lake ports last month and 3,875,000 shingles. During the past month 85,684 ties have been towed to Duluth from north shore points.

The lumber movement from Duluth has been the heaviest during the past two weeks and the docks here are still in a congested condition as the sawmills are turning out new cut very rapidly and several mills are fearing that they will have to reduce their operations on account of lack of dock room. Buyers of the new cut lumber are not in a hurry to have the new lumber moved and it is said that some of the sales have been made with the understanding that the new lumber is to remain on the docks here for sixty days.

The Bayfield Western Railway company, ex-Senator Sabin's logging road, will begin Monday hauling to the Scott-Graff sawmill in this city logs belonging to the Street-Chetfield Lumber company, of Chicago, which are to be cut on contract. The contract for the hauling was made some months ago. The logs will be hauled from near Poplar, Wis. Several million feet belonging to the Chicago firm will be cut here and it is expected that the Bayfield Western road will have enough other contracts for Wisconsin pine to be cut in Duluth to keep the road busy hauling logs to Duluth all the summer. Last summer this road was hauling logs to the Scofield mill in West Superior.

PROGRAM FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

Baccalaureate Sermon By Dr. T. H. Cleland Sunday, June 9---Class Day Exercises and Five Honor Students---School Reopens Sept. 3.

School closes June 14 for the summer and will remain closed until Sept. 3. At the High School the closing days are full of exercises, joyous and otherwise. The otherwise begins Thursday, June 6, and covers a period of two days, a period bristling with the accumulated thought of four years of study, and when they close the senior will think that his troubles are over, for he will have passed or not passed, as the case may be, the final high school examinations. The examinations for the rest of the school take place Tuesday and Wednesday, June 11 and 12.

The last days of school are always pleasantly spent by the lower three grades, who look forward with anticipation to the holidays before them; but the seniors, those who are going to graduate and who have been working and toiling for twelve long years for that especial occasion, begin to think that it is not such a good thing after all to cut loose from old associations and to go out on the "cold, pitiless world," where there are no teachers to reprove and no lessons to get.

The graduation exercises commence Sunday evening, June 9, when Dr. T. H. Cleland of the First Presbyterian church will preach the baccalaureate sehmon to the graduating class in the Assembly hall. Other ministers have been invited to be present and several will participate in the exercises.

On Wednesday evening, June 12, the class day exercises will be held in the Assembly hall. The president's address will be delivered by Jesse Bradley, the president of the senior class; the class history will be read by Miss Kate Allen and the class prophecy by Miss Mary Morris. An oration by Edward Payne will be one of the features of the evening. The last will and testament of the class of '01, written by Miss Alice Scott, will be read by the author. The class night exercises are always among the most enjoyable features of the week, and large crowds are always in attendance.

The reception and dance given by the junior class to the departing senior class will occur at the Spalding Thursday evening, June 13, and promises to be one of the most enjoyable high school affairs ever given.

Friday evening, June 14, the culmination of the week, the apex of the scholar's ambition, takes place—graduation. The sweet girl graduate will outnumber the young men by a goodly margin and the evening will witness the crowning event given by one of the largest and most popular classes that ever came out of the high school. The five pupils taking the highest honors will have parts on the program, while musical selections will be rendered by the senior class and the high school choir, under the direction of Professor A. F. M. Custance. The honor pupils are as follows:

William Rose. Leifer Magnusson,
Hans Haroldson, Florence McLean,
Ella Deetz.

The diplomas will be presented by Superintendent Denfeld.

The graduation of the grade schools will occur Thursday evening, June 13, at the Assembly hall.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Mayor Talks to Pupils Concerning It.

Mayor Hugo visited the high school Monday morning and made a short address to the students in his usual, humorous style, which was greatly enjoyed. He was introduced by Superintendent Denfeld, who conducted the morning exercises on that day, Professor Smith being absent for the first time this year. Mr. Hugo spoke on "Patriotism in Duluth on the Fourth of July." After a few preliminary remarks, he said that he had come to enlist the interest of the pupils in the celebration, which is to be held in this city on the Fourth.

Arrangements have been made for a school division in the parade, which is to be under the management of Professor Alletzhauser, the physical culture instructor of all the city schools. The mayor expressed a desire that the high school students take part in this, and advised gravely that "on this occasion the juniors cast off the air, which they usually have, of obliging the community by their presence on earth; that the sophomores cease for a while to act as patrons of the juniors, and that the seniors cut a few inches off the height of their collars." If this were done, he said, the demeanor and appearance of the school would be so agreeably changed that even their parents might fail to recognize them.

The parade on Independence day, in which the school children are to participate will, after marching through the streets, proceed to the corner of First avenue west and Second street. The pupils will assist in laying the corner stone of the new public library, as all of the music furnished for this occasion will be furnished by members of the city schools under the direction of Professor Custance, who will shortly begin drilling his singers on selections suitable for the occasion.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED.

The Winners In the Zenith Competition.

Last December the high school Zenith board, in accordance with the usual custom of Zenith compilers, offered prizes in a contest for the best short story, poem and esay published in the annual. The result of this competition has been announced and is as follows:

Prize for best story, $4, awarded to Mildred Cleland, for "A Frontier Romance;" prize for best poem, $4, awarded to Louis Zalk, poem, entitled "The Winds." The board of editors decided, at the last moment, to offer the prize, originally intended for the best essay, as a second prize in the story competition. It was awarded to Frank Kane for a pleasing historical sketch, "On the York Road."

The competitions have been unusually successful this year, and have called forth a much larger amount of good material than is ordinarily the case. In the short story competition the two winning compositions were so nearly equal that the judges had great difficulty in deciding between them, while the succesful poem, "The Winds," was in a class by itself.

It is authentically reported that even now—one week before publication—all but a very few copies of the Zenith have been sold, and it is expected that the edition will be exhausted immediately upon publication. It will appear June 6 or 7.

THE LITERARY SOCIETY.

The Best Meeting of the Year.

The High School Literary society held its last meeting for the year on Friday afternoon. The annual election of officers preceded the meeting. The following officers were elected: President, Frank Fee, '02; vice president, Ethel Bartlett, '02; secretary, Katherine Watterworth, '03; treasurer, Xenia Woolman, '03; sergeants-at-arms, Rop Prudden and Leonard Melby, both of '04.

The program presented was easily the best that has been given this year, and probably the best ever rendered by the society. It was as follows:

Oration—"Regulus to the Carthaginians" ..... Simon Cook. '03.

Vocal solo—.....
Miss Frances Woodbridge.

Address—"The Value of Literary Work" ..... Principal C. A. Smith.

Piano solo ..... Miss Etheline Fee.

Recitation—"Cup Winner" ..... Miss Burnham, of Superior.

Vocal solo—"The Choir Boy"..... Miss Alice Cooley.

Simon Cook, who made his debut as an orator at this meeting, showed much talent for that line of work, and under the instruction of Professor Thomas of the elocution department, is expected to develop into an excellent speaker. Miss Frances Woodbridge sang so well that Principal Smith referred to her work as uplifting and soul inspiring in his address. Mr. Smith gave the students another of those little heart to heart talks of his which are always so well received. The piano solo rendered by Miss Etheline Fee was undoubtedly one of the best that has been heard at the High School this year. The recitation, "Cup Winner," by Miss Burnham, of Superior, was one of the bright features of the program. Miss Alice Cooley sang a solo in her usual enjoyable style.

INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET.

Scores Made By Athletes at Minneapolis.

The athletes of the high school who were disappointed last week for the reason that the track team was unable to attend the interscholastic meeting at Minneapolis will be interested in the following from Minneapolis:

"The St. Paul high schools won a victory over the schools of Minneapolis at the ninth annual field day of the Northwestern Interscholastic Athletic association held at the fair grounds.

"The St. Paul Central secured first place with 40 points, and retains the cup for another year. The Mechanics Arts, of St. Paul, proved a worthy competitor, with a total of 39 points. The points received by the other schools in competition were: Minneapolis South Side, 29; Minneapolis Central, 16; Minneapolis East Side, 7; Minneapolis North Side, 6; Stillwater, 3; St. Paul Humboli, 2.

About 1200 students attended the contest, all armed with megaphones and tin horns, and profusely decorated with the colors of their respective schools. The general opinion had been that the Mechanics Arts would be an easy victor, as they were strong in the dashes, bicycle events and jumps. As these contain most of the points, something unexpected must happen to defeat them.

"The unexpected was sprung by the South Side, in Myrick, a colored boy. With a short, snappy stride, he easily showed that he was in a class by himself, and won all the dashes.

"The interscholastic records were broken in two events. O'Brien jumped 20 feet and 2 inches in the broad jump, the former record being 20 feet. The record of 128 feet and 5 inches for the hammer throw was broken by Gunther, of the South Side, throwing 141 feet 4 inches."

The following scores were made in the events:

One hundred yard dash, 10 3-5.
High jump, 5 ft. 4 in.
Quarter mile bicycle, 35 3-5.
One hundred and twenty yard hurdles, 16 sec.
Mile run, 4:56 3-5.
Four hundred and forty yard dash, 53 sec.
Hammer throw, 141 ft. 4 in.
Broad jump, 20 ft. 2 in.
Half mile run, 2:18.
Shot puts, 42 ft. 4 in.
Discus throwing, 91 ft. 7½ in.
On mile bicycle, 2:44.
Two hundred and twenty yard dash, 23 2-5.
Pole vault, 9 ft. 6 in.
Two mile bicycle, 5.44.
Two hundred and twenty yard hurdle, 26¾.
Relay—Minneapolis Central first, St. Paul Central second.

It will be seen that the Duluth high school athletes, should they have entered, would have made a good standing in the number of the events and have some of the fastest men in the state.

Playing Superior Normals.

The high school baseball team is playing the Superior normal school team this afternoon in what promises to be one of the most interesting games of the season. Both teams are good, strong ones, and the result cannot be prophesied. Allen Cummings, the crack pitcher of the high school team, has been under the eye of Manager Hansell of the Duluth team, and it is quite possible that he may be seen in the box for Duluth in some of the games this summer.

WORLD OF LABOR

Meeting of Duluth Delegates to State Federation Called.

Labor's Showing In the Fourth of July Parade.

Plenty of Work For Building Trades' Union Expected.

Meetings next week are:

Printers, tomorrow afternoon, Kalamazoo block.

Stone masons, Monday evening, Burrows block.

Painters, Tuesday evening, Kalamazoo block.

Carpenters, Tuesday evening, Kalamazoo block.

Cigarmakers, Wednesday, 21 East Superior street.

Electricians, Thursday, 21 East Superior street.

Building trades, Friday, Kalamazoo block.

Longshoremen, Saturday, Gilley's hall.

* * *

All Duluth delegates to the coming convention of the State Federation of Labor are requested to meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the offices of the Labor World, Manhattan block. This meeting has been called for the purpose of discussing matters of importance to Duluth organized labor.

* * *

There has been very little doing in labor circles during the past week. Many of the unions are selecting their delegates to the Mankato convention, and the indications are that Duluth will be represented by the strongest set of delegates ever sent to a labor convention in this state. There is plenty of rivalry for the various offices, and there are rumors of an outside candidate for the office of secretary which has been so ably filled for several terms by W. E. McEwen, of this city. Last year there was opposition to Mr. McEwen, but it was so small that it was not visible to the naked eye when the convention assembled.

* * *

The building trades' unions will have plenty of work for June and July. Indications are that there will be quite a building boom during these two months and some of the jobs will be quite large.

* * *

It is now expected that the labor organizations of Duluth will make a showing in the monster Fourth of July celebration that can not be excelled by any other. It is proposed to invite the Superior and Ashland labor organizations.

* * *

The Carpenters' union held an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening.

* * *

Duluth machinists are not only not affected by the general strike, but members of this craft say that they are experiencing one of the most successful years on record.

LABOR NOTES.

The bread eaters of the world require more than 2,300,000,000 bushels of wheat every twelve months.

France consumes more wine than Germany, the United States and the United Kingdom put together.

The American Federation of Musicians is steadily gaining members, and reports that it now has 400 competent professionals on its rolls.

France consumes but 50,000,000 tons of coal a year and produces about 32,000,000 tons; that is, the coal produce of France amounts to only 5 per cent of the net product of the world.

Peter Curran, of the British Trades' Union congress, said: "Wages, while higher in America, scarcely go farther than they do in England, as the cost of living in England is considerably cheaper than it is here, and the continuity of employment is much greater."

A veritable "quick luncheon," it is said, is to be had at a restaurant in Paris, where a dinner of several courses composed of concentrated food in the form of tablets can be consumed in a few minutes. The entire meal, indeed, can be carried about in the vest pocket or pocketbook.

Of the meals our pig iron is worth almost as much as all others together, the value of the product in 1899 being given at $245,000,000. Copper comes next, with $104,000,000, and the $71,000,000 in gold is third. The market value of the silver produced in 1899 was about $33,000,000 and the lead and zinc together were about as much.

General Organizer Dold, of Chicago, representing the International Piano and Organ Workers' union, in an address to the New York C. F. U., stated that it was the intention to organize the 6000 artisans employed in constructing these instruments in New York, and that already about 2500 of them are in the union.

"We are a clean-cut winner all along the line," said Delegate Warner, in his report to the New York C. F. U. as to the results of the machinists' strike for a nine-hour day. He stated that the shorter workday in his trade seemed to be assured throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, and also in the Hawaiian islands, where the jurisdiction of the International Association of Machinists extends.

New York tailoring trades have resolved to exterminate the sweater. "Fourteen and sixteen hours of daily work is the rule for the tailor, excessive hours that undermine him in soul and body and stunt him intellectually and morally, as evidenced by the woeful fact that 25 per cent of our fellow workmen die of consumption and that the homes and hospitals are filled with the victims of the sweat shop."

The Pittsburg Telegraph, in discussing the question of labor saving machinery, notes that labor cost has been reduced from $150 for a given quantity to $1. In ruling paper the old-time system cost $400 for what can be done for 85 cents. In boot and shoe making the cost is now $35 for turning out a certain amount of work with machinery that cost $400 under the old system. In bread baking one-third of the time is required to do the work, on an average, that was formerly required by hand labor.

The exhibition of 1900 showed that German meallurgy was ahead of that of France, the Germans to make and deliver in France boilers 20 or 25 per cent cheaper than French manufacturers; the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean Railway company orders its locomotives in Vienna, the Eastern Railway company in Alsatia and the Orleans company in the United States, and soon the steel and coal trusts will endeavor to flood the French markets with American iron, steel and coal at prices that will ruin French industry.

The strike at Montceaux les Mines, in France, has now lasted for nearly five months, and at this period presents the curious aspect of the French government practically supporting the strikers. The minister of the interior has even offered to find employment for the strikers in other quarters, and the condition of the operators has been much improved. Government supervision over all labor disputes is a much more popular idea in France than it was before M. Millerand, a Socialist, became minister of commerce, and, incidentally, the sympathy for so-called trade union methods has increased. It is owing to this element, encouraged and interpreted by such Socialists as M. Jaures, M. Viviani and the minister of commerce that the discipline of the Montceaux miners has been attributed.

SMART HOBO.

Makes Points That Are Sustained By the Court.

Lafayette, Ind., June 1.—The trial of George Bain, the alleged criminal, now in custody here, is set for June 8. Additional interest centers in this trial on the ground that when arraigned and interrogated by the court, Bain displayed remarkable legal talent and made several telling points that the court sustained.

It is believed that the prisoner at one time either practiced law or had been through the mill so often that he is an unidentified important personage, and this belief strongly exists in the minds of the authorities, for Chicago law talent will defend the prisoner in connection with one of the leading law firms in this city.

Bain seems to have wealthy and influential friends behind him. When arraigned by the judge he said:

"I desire, your honor, to state that I have never been arrested legally, and am now held illegally, never having been arrested under a warrant, and do not know under what charge I am held."

The court asked the sheriff if such was the truth. The sheriff acknowledged it to be a fact, and then read the warrant to the prisoner.

Bain then said: "Your honor will admit that no money can be used against me as evidence unless it be marked money, and I therefore demand of the court to instruct the police authorities to return the money taken from me at the time of my arrest, that I may use the same in communicating with friends and telegraphing for counsel."

The court sustained the prisoner's point.

Bain is considered a remarkably intelligent fellow, and he may turn out a hobo prince in disguise. The mystery of his identity increases every day.

BOY IS BRANDED

Instead of the Sheep That Got Away.

Santa Fe, N. M., June 1.—Jose Dolores Salazar, of Rio Arriba county, has been arrested, accused of branding a 9-year-old boy on the cheek, his hands and his thighs with a hot iron used to brand sheep, disfiguring the boy. The youth was holding a sheep to be branded, but the animal tore away. Salzar, in his rage, it is charged, branded the boy instead.

NOVELS CAUSED HIS DOWNFALL.

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., June 1.—Although Raphael Moffo is only 12 years old the police regard him as one of the most dangerous burglars that they have ever dealt with. He has already been convicted of four burglaries, and he was arrested charged with committing two more. He blames dime novels.

Practical Suggestions About What to Eat and How to Prepare Food.

THE ONION FOR HEALTH.

The French tell us that the American prejudice against onions is purely an affectation. And this must be granted them from the fact that when the onion is carefully and judiciously introduced into dishes by a skilful cook, the very people who hold it in such disdain and regard it as a very vulgar vegetable are loud in their praise of the preparation that owes much of its deliciousness to the presence, in cunning disguise, of this despised bulb.

After salt, the onion is the most valuable and indispensable flavoring substance in the hands of an experienced cook, who would consider himself handicapped indeed without the powerful little ally.

The onion, as we know it, embraces several varieties; those which are grown in the warmer climates being much milder and sweeter, but all possessing a pungent oil of an irritating nature which renders them decidedly indigestible when eaten raw; but as a flavoring agent, a condiment or a vegetable, they are valuable as food.

THE STRONG ODOR.

The pungent volatile oil which gives the onion the strong flavor and smell is rich in sulphur, but the quantity of this oil is minute and when properly cooked is soon dissipated and the irritating properties so far removed as to render the vegetable only slightly laxative. The food value of the onion is considerably above that of the turnip.

MEDICINAL VALUE OF THE ONION.

It may not be generally understood that onions are disinfectants as well as preventives against contagious diseases. They readily absorb impurities as well as defend against disease. They are invigorating and in many instances nature presents her demand for this class of food through the craving of the individual for this tabooed little vegetable.

An old-time remedy for colds and one that was very effectual in producing good results, was a baked or roasted onion.

STEWED ONIONS.

Select the medium-sized silver onions; peel off the outer skin; let them lie in cold water half an hour and drain; cover with boiling water; add a teaspoonful of salt and boil, uncovered, for ten minutes; drain off this water, cover with fresh, boiling water and salt and boil ten minutes longer, then change the water again and boil until the onions are tender. They should be white as snow; do not boil too hard or cover the saucepan or the onions will be strong and dark colored. Make a cream sauce and pour over the onions after carefully draining them.

ONION FARCI.

Take the large Spanish onions; wash them, trim off the bottoms, but do not peel them; put them in slightly salted boiling water, and boil them for an hour. Drain and remove the centers. If you have remnants of cold chicken mince fine with the livers; add a third as much fine bread crumbs, pepper, salt, beaten egg and cream or gravy enough to moisten. Chop the onion taken from the centers and mix with the force meat; then fill the onion shells; cover with bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter, place in the oven and brown. Make a white sauce, add a beaten egg, a little lemon juice and minced parsley and serve with the onions.

ONIONS A LA POULETTE.

Select button onlons and cook them same as for stewed onions, when done drain and serve with yellow sauce made as follows:

Melt two level tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan; add two level tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until smooth; then add a cup of milk or half a cup of cream and half a cup of chicken broth; cook and stir until it boils, then season with salt and pepper. Add the onions and heat thoroughly before serving.

PICKLED ONIONS.

Choose small button onlons of uniform size. Make a brine strong enough to float an egg; when boiling hot pour it over the onions and let them stand for twenty-four hours. Drain and wipe them dry and pack in large-mouthed pint bottles, adding a small red pepper, a blade of mace and a few slices of horseradish. Fill the bottles up with white wine or cider vnegar, and seal closely.

ORMALOO.

Peel a dozen white onions, cover with cold water and steep for an hour. Then boil until soft; mash them and add to an equal quantity of mashed, white potatoes; add two or three well-beaten eggs, about a cup of milk; do not have the mixture too soft, and salt, pepper and nutmeg to taste. Whip the mixture until quite light; turn into a baking dish and bake in a quick oven half an hour. When half done pour a little melted buttor or gravy over the top.

ONION RAGOUT.

Peel a pint of small button onions; take four large ones, peel them and chop fine. Put half a cup of butter into a saucepan; when melted and hot, put in the onions and stir them about until a nice brown; add two tablespoonfuls of flour and shake them about until thick; then add a cup of gravy or stock, salt and cayenne to taste and a level teaspoonful of mustard. Cook gently, stirring so as not to break up the small onions, until the sauce thickens them, turn into a heated dish and garnish with friend bread crumbs. These are made by pulling the bread from the loaf with a fork, in pieces about an inch in size and frying them a delicate brown in deep fat. The bread must be dry. Arrange these pieces around the dish of onions and dust lightly with finely-minced parsley.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

(No attention paid to inquiries not giving name and address of writer, plainly written).

Dr. Zwigtman writes: I saw mentioned rhubarb wine, but alas no recipe. Will you kindly give the details for making rhubarb wine?

(This recipe was given our readers last year, but we will repeat it for the benefit of those who did not secure it then. Editor.)

RHUBARB WINE.

Skin, chop and mash the rhubarb to a pulp. Weigh and allow one quart of water and a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Mix well together and pour into an earthen crock or jar. Cover closely with a piece of cheese cloth to keep out dust. Let it ferment well, stirring it up once or twice a day. When the fermentation ceases, skim and strain and pour into a cask and let stand for twenty-four hours, then close the bung hole and stand away for four months. Then rack off the wine into bottles and put them away on their sides.

CUCUMBER SAUCE.

Miss P. A. B. writes: Will you please publish a cucumber sauce for panned fish?

You can add half a cupful of grated cucumbers into a cupful of good stiff mayonnaise, chill it on ice and serve. Another way is to grate the cucumber, removing the seeds; drain the pulp dry, then season with salt and cayenne and to a cup of pulp add a tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar. Cover and let stand in a cold place for several hours. The sauce is improved by adding a tablespoonful of salad oil in mixing.

TOO MUCH BAKING POWDER.

C. S. T. writes: Will you plase tell me why my layer cakes are so coarse-grained and fall to pieces; that is, crumble apart when I cut them?

If your cakes are not rich in butter and eggs, in all probability you use too much baking powder and bake your cake too lonk. Very little of a good baking powder is required in a plain layer cake.

AT LYCEUM

"Nathan Hale" Booked For Tuesday Night.

Howard Kyle Appears In the Title Role.

Clyde Fitch's stirring play, "Nathan Hale," which will be at the Lyceum next Tuesday, will create more than a passing interest. But this production does not rest its claims upon the predominant American sentiment alone. The entire beautiful outfit of scenery and costumes, as it was seen in New York during the play's remarkable run at the Knickerbocker theater, will be presented here in all its elaborate detail and by a company that is more than adequate.

The salient facts of the life and death of the young revolutionary martr, who faced death as a spy with the immortal words on his lips: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country," are known to all Americans. The play tells an interesting story in a natural way, a story filled with patriotic sentiment and free from obvious appeals to sentimentality. It is considered a masterpiece of American stage craft, sententious to the point of pantomime in the last act, and replete with powerful dramatic qualities. The first act is delightful comedy of a fresh and wholesome kind. The second is given over to love making, but changes from comedy to drama. The third act is highly dramatic yet contains the comedy strain and the last act is chiefly pathetic pantomime. "Nathan Hale" does not follow the stereotyped lines of drama, and on this account commands the respect and attention of the intelligent auditor. Its human qualities appeal to gallery and parquet alike. It is at once lightsome and serious, humorous and pathetic, brilliant and intense. Nobody can witness this beautiful play without having all his noble qualities stirred and without feeling himself a better citizen for it.

The title role will be played by Howard Kyle, who is said to bear a striking resemblance in form and feature to the published portraits of Nathan Hale. Mr. Kyle is one of the younger generation of stars who has succeeded to his present position by reason of his ability. Always an excellent actor, having served as leading man in the best of stock companies, and to many of the most noted actors. He has surrounded himself with a very good company, including Miss Jessie Izett, whose daintiness and piquancy, it is said, fit her for requirements of the character of the sweet colonial maid, Alice Adams.

"I WISH LIFE WERE ONE LONG RECESS."

LIFE OF THE SOUBRETTE.

Heiress to Perils of Life and Limb.

With the microbe of organization working through the veins of the theatrical profession, with the Actors' society, the Managers' associations, the White Rats with the strike feature as the leading item and the White Mice, the avowed object of which is the aiding of the members of the chorus who are stranded out of town through the failure of some company to continue, it would seem that the next combination should be of the soubrettes of melodrama. When the organization is formed it will undoubtedly include an accident fund as its chief feature, for the melodramatic soubrette is heiress to all the perils of life and limb to be found between the flies and the basement; not stage prils, but real ones.

To the public mind, all soubrettes are classed under one head. The public recognizes as a soubrette only the short-skirted young woman who shriekingly entreats a patient public to "Break the News to Mother," while on her own account she is engaged in rupturing the ear drums of her hearers with a voice best suited to the vending of vegetables from a wagon. The dramatic manager recognizes half a dozen sorts. There are well-defined boundaries between the several kinds, well understood in theatrical circles.

The melodramatic soubrette is the more or less young person who goes out at night without a chaperone, filling, in the play, the position of an unrecognized life-saving service. Without her the hero would be killed at the end of the first or second act, and the play would not proceed. She transports herself to far distant countries, while apparently not in possession of either cash or pass. She is the entree to the homes of the rich. She is the guest of honor in humble flats. By the grace of the author, all times and places are her own to be shared with the hero. She is the feminine melodramatic IT. Even the heroine bows before her. She has a voice —sometimes—knows how to dance, is an all-around athlete and an expert marksman, and some of the stunts required of her in her various roles would make a flying trapeze performer pause to think.

Writers of melodrama appear to imagine that a sensational incident gains in effect through the employment of a soubrette as the central figure. Her endeavors are largely confined to preserving the life of the hero. It is a very poor play which does not give the soubrette an opportunity to save his life at least three times out of three acts. When the ingenuity of the play constructor is devoted to the invention of new forms of life-saving devices, such as would hardly be regarded with favor by coast guardsmen.

As an example of how this trend of modern melodrama affects the soubrettes, "The Tide of Life," which started out last fall, had a soubrette slide down a rope from the second story of a warehouse in the first act, make her escape from a burning building in the second act, and jump to the roof of a rapidly moving freight car in the third. On the opening night the manager suggested to the young woman who played the part that she try the slide before the curtain rose. There had been no complete dress rehearsal of the piece. The property man had provided a braided bell cord, which, while possessing the necessary strength, was hardly larger than a lead pencil. The slide was accomplished and the soubrette arrived on the stage with the skin torn from her fingers, owing to the fact that the rope was not large enough to be properly grasped.

Almost fainting from the pain, she had the injured hands hurriedly dressed while the overture was being played. Twenty minutes later a second descent had to be made, with the result that the wounds were torn still deeper. In spite of the agony she was enduring, she was forced to cross the stage, climb a stepladder to the deck of a scenic ship and save the life of the secondary hero. As the curtain dropped she fainted, being saved from falling off the platform by the villain she had just subdued. At the close of the third act of the play she tumbled off the platform on which she was supposed to ride across the stage. She promptly handed in her two weeks' notice. The present soubrette uses a rope big enough for a ship's cable.

In "The Bowery After Dark," in which Terry McGovern, the pugilist, is starring, most of the work originally fell to the soubrette. The soubrette had a companion in the shape of a newsboy, who assisted her in her efforts to rescue. When McGovern took the piece the situations were reversed, the pugilist becoming the central figure. In the Western company the soubrette is still the life-saver-in-general to the entire company. In one scene she is let down to the stage at the end of a rope, and last season a broken strand deprived the company of the services of one of the best players of the part. When she left the hospital she decided to take her specialty into peaceful vaudeville, letting the risky legitimate severely alone.

The part of Madge in "In Old Kentucky" contains two scenes which threaten the safety of the life-saver. One of these is that in which she swings across the ravine at the end of a rope in order to save the life of the hero, who lies helpless on the ground, a dynamite cartridge securely tucked between his feet. This act used up three soubrettes in one season, after which the property man was informed that the next time the rope broke he would lose his job. After this the slaughter of the soubrettes was conducted excisively by the press agent. This worked well for a season, then, in the following year, the press agent had the horse which Madge is supposed to ride to victory in a horse race regularly bolt. As a matter of fact, the horse grew fractious on several occasions, bad bruises being carried for a time by those who played the rider's part.

The same player who is the first Jill in "The Tide of Life," for two seasons was the soubrette of "The Span of Life." This, it will be remembered, was the first play to introduce the living bridge. A party of travelers, pursued by natives, headed by the boss villain, seek to escape capture. Three old circus men in the party mount each other's shoulders, and, falling forward, the topmost man catches the farther side of the awful chasm, a distance of about seven feet. Across this bridge the party is supposed to make its escape, leaving the audience to wonder how the members of the bridge succeeded in crossing themselves. Each member of the trio is supported by two invisible wires, connected to either side of a belt worn around the waist, the weight of the soubrette being taken off their bodies by a traveling wire fastened to her belt. One night of the second season the wire broke, precipitating the middle man to the stage, a distance of several feet. This left the soubrette in midair, to the detriment of her digestion and the wounding of her feelings. The next season the company carried a new player of the part.

At the time of the tank melodramas, several years ago, it was quite the fashion to have the soubrette make a dive. In many of these tanks it was necessary for the performers to crawl around on their hands and knees, instead of as swimming, owing to the shallowness of the water. In one piece, the title of which has already passed into oblivion, the soubrette, in endeavoring to save the life of the hero, was expected to dive from a platform some ten feet above the stage. In one part of the tank was set a square well, some seven feet in depth. The soubrette miscalculated her distance one night, striking her head on the edge of the well. The desperate hero had to stop drowning and reverse the situation in spite of the author's stage direction. After the incident the soubrette dove feet first, a fashion of going into the water, which, if less spectacular, was also less dangerous. In answer to the protest of the stage manager, she pointed out that a sprained ankle was far more easily treated than a fractured skull.

In a border melodrama, popular several years ago, the hero, bound and gagged was placed on the railroad track in order that an express train might render the services of a coroner unnecessary. As usual, the Prairie Rose was called upon to get the hero out of the difficulty and to remove him from the track in order to give the right of way to the express. This train was collapsable, being carefully coiled up at one side of the stage, and was stretched by the scene shifters as they ran across the stage, wooden supports being provided about every six feet, which were grasped by the "grips." When the company was playing one night out West, where the stage management was not particularly promising, the hero's coat caught on a nail in the stage, which had escaped notice, and his rescuer was unable to get him out of harm's way with her usual promptitude. The stage hands, not noticing her dilemma, proceeded to rush the train across the stage at the proper cue, the one who handled the locomotive, the front of which was stiffened by thin boards, running into the soubrette who was bending over the hero with her back to the approaching train. Some three seconds afterward the soubrette arose grandly from the ruins of a locomotive, two express cars and a Pullman coach, while the five supers groveled in the wreckage. In this case there was no risk of life or limb, a quarter's worth of arnica readily reduced all bruises, but the soubrette's standing with the recording angel was severely impaired. The company's stage manager ran risks for his soul's salvation in subsequent conversation with the offending shifters.

Rather more dangerous was the situation of the soubrette in "War on Women," who was compelled to roll down the mountain side with her hands and feet securely fastened, into a camp of ferocious Indians. For this run an incline platform had been built at the rear of the stage, which was covered by the scenery. Quite a realistic effect was produced, until one evening the soubrette rolled off the run and hung suspended in midair from a brace which had fortunately caught her skirt when she went off the platform. Even the phlegmatic Indians were considerably startled by this new incident, and the only ones who really enjoyed the affair were the small boys in the gallery, whose weak minds advice only contributed to the chagrin of the heroine of the episode. Had her dress torn away broken bones would have resulted.

"When London Sleeps" introduced a sensation in the shape of a young woman who, to elude the villain, seeks safety by crossing a telegraph wire stretched to the opposite side of the street. In this case it was not the soubrette, but the leading woman who indulged in the circus feat. As in the case of "The Span of Life," an invisible suspended wire attached to a belt harness was the real supporting force. One evening when the visible wire broke, an agreeable variant was offered in the customary scene by the young woman continuing her promenade, supported only by thin air.

There is a constant competition now for something new and more startling than anything that has gone before in the line of spectacular thrillers. To this demand for "a sensation" continues it is quite possible that in the near future the dramatic papers which already advertise for "Tom actors that can double in brass" and "soubrettes who can cook" will send out hurry calls for "leading ladies who are also lion tamers," and make a demand for soubrettes who are familiar with trapeze work.

It is impossible to obtain statistics, but calculating roughly, it may be estimated that fifty actresses are incapacitated for work for periods ranging from one week to three months, because of some accident consequent upon the failure of the much heralded "effect" to work properly. One or two players have been permanently injured, and a member of this class of performers expressed great satisfaction the other day at the fact that she was called upon for no greater effort than the fabrication of a real apple pie in full view of the audience. On the other hand, some of her sisters are less fortunate, and one melodrama as yet unnamed, will take the road next season, trusting for its success to the finale of the second act in which the soubrette, a street waif, plunges from the masthead of a ship into the muddy waters of the East river to rescue the hero, a ship's captain, who has just been thrown overboard by an unfeeling gang of river pirates. In the trick is used the old rubber cord, which breaks the jump and then snaps back into the flies, a trick first introduced over here some twenty-five years ago by Hanlon brothers. If the rubber should ever break the chances are that there will be a much battered soubrette and a hasty resignation.

If you are driving across a railroad track and hear the screech of an approaching engine, you don't stop to see whether a train is coming. You get off the track.

Dan Daly Will Go Back to Lederer.

New York, May 29.—Dan Daly has made up his mind to go back to his old love and this fall will see him again under the banner of George W. Lederer. Dan was so long making his peace that Lederer had secured Francis Wilson for "The Strollers," and there isn't room in in for Daly. He will wait for the fall productions and spend the summer at his country home, just outside of Boston. Before departing from town he wanted it distinctly understood that when George McClellan says in London that Daly is going to play here for him, he is uttering something a shade worse than the average weather report. Herr Daly likewise wishes it fixed in the public mind that McClellan tried to get him, but failed ignominiously. With these few remarks the genial comedian headed for the Grand Central depot.

Now that "My Lady" is a sealed memory Charley Ross has gone to his farm at Beal Beach for the summer. From that Jersey resort has come a new story on the comedian to this effect: Two friends reached Long Branch a few days ago in search of the Ross farm. They bargained with a hackman first to carry them first to the New York club, and he said he would, for a dollar. The visitors offered 50 cents and it was promptly accepted. Then they wanted to know why there was such a sudden fall in the tariff. "Well," replied the driver, "business is so dull at the Branch we have to get all we can while the chance lasts. All the money is being made by a man named Charley Ross over at Deal Beach. Everybody goes there because he's the same Charley Ross who was kidnapped twenty-five years ago, and they go over there just out of curiosity to see him."

Miss Annie Russel closed her season on Monday night at the Music hall in Orange with a charity performance of "A Royal Family." It was for the benefit of the Record ambulance, a local charity, and the performance was given in its entirety. Another charitable performance will be given in this city at the Herald Square theater on June 2. Attorney Herman L. Roth is arranging it for the Cosmopolitan Hospital society. Among the volunteers are Bertha Waltzinger, Caroline Rohe, Eddie Foy, Thomas Q. Seabrooke, Toby Claude, W. P. Carlton and Eugene O'Rourke.

The advent of Nat Goodwin's "Merchant of Venice" was marked by the most remarkable advance sale on record here. When the Knickerbocker's box office was opened on Monday of last week the line of waiting purchasers extended one block up Broadway to Thirty-ninth street, through that thoroughfare to Sixth avenue and down the latter to Thirty-eighth street. Many of them were messenger boys who had been on that line for hours. The situation was practically the same in Brooklyn, where a one night stand was played on Monday.

Goodwin has come to town to find a rival. Over at the Murray Hill the Shakespearean revival was elaborate, and it got in three days ahead of the Broadway production. Daniel E. Bandman was the Shylock and Miss Dorothy Donnelly the Portia. The staging was remarkably good and the audience enthusiastic.

So great is the desire of the East Side for Bowery attractions that the Bowery was treated last week to "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in Yiddish at the People's theater. It's title was "Feta Youkel's Heisel," and Joseph Tomasofsky was Uncle Tom. His wife was the little Eva, and they got an ovation. The Academy version was followed very closely, but naturally the negroes had to be Hebrews.

Samuel Schubert, of the Herald Square, is finding out that to run a company of stars requires both patience and much ingenuity. His "Buxton Burglary" went smoothly enough until after the first night. Then all the stars discovered there were not enough dressing rooms to go round. Ever since carpenters have been busy building them in every nook and corner. Two of them were put on the stage so that quick changes could be made.

One of the events of the week was the benefit to Rudolph Aronson at the Casino Tuesday afternoon. It was sad reflection that the man who introduced that playhouse to the public and who amused audiences there for years should need financial assistance. The Casino was chosen purposely that it might be the scene of one last triumph in the Aronson career. The list of patrons was Henrietta Crosman, Adele Ritchie, Marie Dressler, Louise Beaudet, Nina Farrington, Emma Carus, Jessie May, Mayme Gehrue, F. F. Mackay, Richard Golden, Grafton Baker, James F. Reach and Dan McAvoy. Aronson has been particularly unfortunate of late years. One scheme after another has failed, and, while his direction of the Strauss orchestra was successful, it made money for the leader and none for the manager. His latest venture, "Vienna Life," was the result of the subscriptions from old friends, a number of them being Wall street brokers who hoped to set him on his feet again, but it was altogether hopeless. It could not even finish its New York run, and would be only a memory were it not for the lawsuits that now make sad the angels souls. The benefit was a financial successof old Casino proportions.

George Tyler, who is better known to Broadway as "Liebler & Co." will sail for Europe on June 8 on the Deutschland. His stay abroad is indefinite, but it will be as lengthy as his affairs at home will permit. The Liebler attractions are closing rapidly for the summer, only "Sag Harbor" being on the books away into July. Mrs. Le Moyne and Otis Skinner have a couple of more weeks of it in "In a Balcony." Tyler's trip will result in a couple of new plays at least, and more if he can find what he wants.

Julius Steger has been much in evidence along the Rialto this week, and Herman Oppenheimer has had the brunt of it in consequence. Steger, who has been assisting in the success of "Foxy Quiller" on the road, returned to town with an idea, a real heavyweight thought. He had read that Lederer intends to direct the stage fortunes of Rose Coghlan next season, and what struck Julius was that what she will need will be a few barytone songs to help out her emotional scenes. Strangely enough the point of this great thought has as yet failed to penetrate the cranium of Manager Oppenheimer. Visitors at the Holland building have been hearing strange sounds through the Lederer office doors, but up to date the strenuous Julius has failed to engage himself.

It's a poor day when Koster and Bials is not leased to some manager; but for three whole days William A. Brady held the floor against all comers. Then it went down the line again. But there is no money in sight and no takers.

New York is to welcome a new librettist next season in the person of James T. Tanner, an importation from London, where his "Messenger Boy" has been enjoying a two years' run. Tanner is one of the few Englishmen who admit that anything good can come out of America. He never hesitates to express the belief that American artists, authors, singers and managers are a blessing to England, in that they stir up business on the other side and help all hands to make money.

Another member of Miss Bingham's comedy shrdl ushrdlu shrd company, Miss Minnie Dupree, will spend her vacation in Canada. She will be the guest in Quebec of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Sutherland, of Boston. The other members of "The Climbers" will be widely separated. Miss Ethel Winthrop will be one of a house-boat party on Lake Erie. Robert Edeson will go to Nantucket and later to the Adirondacks. Bijou Fernandez, Mrs. Madge Carr Cok, Frank Worthing and Ferdinand Gottschalk are going abroad.

A conspicuous figure along Broadway is a man who is fortunate enough in Wall street to make a fortune of at least six figures, but who is burdened in private life by the shadow cast by his brilliant wife. He is Lloyd Bingham, who finds time to manage "The Climbers" when he's not watching the tape. Bingham is good looking and a remarkably good dresser. He is likewise an athlete and wonderfully clever with his fists. Once he was an actor, but he had sense enough to divide with his better half, and it has been a huge success. She speedily proved that she could do the acting for the whole family, so he now devotes himself to the dollars. Should "The Climbers" close this summer the Binghams will spend a week at Manhattan Beach and then hie themselves to their Seabright cottage. In August they will sail for Halifax, and thence for a tour of the great lakes.

William Collier is wondering who put up a job on him by telling people that he was going to run a Staten Island show during the dog days. That friend was chuck full of details. He took a scribe into his confidence and filled him with these facts: That Collier was to have a partner named Charles Bigelow, who, the friend cautiously declared, had at times claimed to be a comedian. The would-be managerial team had beaten Jerome Sykes out of the scheme by a belt, and would give minstrel and light opera performances, with Sykes in the company, assisted by Peter F. Dailey, Harry Bulger (who is working at the New York), Norma Whalley (at the Casino), Sherle Mathews, Lizzie Collier and Mayma Gehrue. hTe scene of this interesting venture was laid in an abandoned pickle factory at St. James, S. I.

It took a deadhead to draw out the fact that John C. Fisher, of "Florodora" fame, is a real colonel. Manager Rosenbaum, of the Casino, was informed by the said deadhead that "Col." Fisher had sent him over for two of the best seats in the house. "Rosey" wanted to know who the "colonel" was, when the man broke in: "Why he owns the show. I thought even you knew him pretty well. You'd better let me have those seats or he may be offended and take his show away from this theater." He got two seats all right, and when Fisher showed up he blushingly admitted that it was all true except about his sending over for those seats. That was where the deadhead had collaborated.

George V. Hobart is likely to find playwriting even more profitable than "Dinkelspiel.' He has written many of the lyrics in "The King's Carnival" at the New York, and he is now working hard on two plays for next season. In his spare moments he is putting the finishing touches on a book of humorous sketches, which are to be published in the fall.

The San Toy company has fixed up their summer plans, and now are playing with much calmer minds. James T. Powers, Melville Stuart and Wilfred Clarke are going to London, Minnie Ashley has picked out Great Neck, over on Long Island, Flora Zabelle will be over on the ocean side at Long Beach, while near her, at Manhattan Beach, will be George Fortesus, Helen Royton and Carolyn and Frances Gordon. Will Carleton will visit St. John, N. B.

Miss Henrietta Crosman's ancestry has been studied and compiled with great care and elaborateness by a gentleman who is not a press agent. Oh, dear no, but who is sure the dear public will be deeply interested. Quite a warlike element prevails on the male side, of course. Her grandfather, Gen. George H. Crosman, won fame in the civil war; her father, Maj. George H. Crosman, did likewise in the Indian country, and her uncle, Alowen Crosman, was Admiral Dewey's classmate at Annapolis. His career, unfortunately, was cut short by some sharks in Panama waters. Of Miss Crosman's own career the compiler has been most particular in his details. He outlines her early life at the army post at Wheeling, W. Va., as well as he study of vocal culture in Paris. After her return from the French capital she spent several years at Youngstown, Ohio, and there developed a desire for the stage. After repeated urgings her uncle, Morrison Foster, introduced her to John Elsler, then manager of the Grand Opera house in Pittsburg. She secured a small part in Bartley Campbell's "White Slave." Afterward she joined Augustin Daly's company, playing Celia in the Rosalind of Ada Rehan. Her success with the Frohmans later was small, because of lack of Joseph Tomasofsky was Uncle Tom. His wife was the little Eva, and they got an ovation. The Academy version was followed very closely, but naturally the negroes had to be Hebrews.

Harlem will soon see the old Ice Palace at One Hundred and Seventh street and Lexington avenue turned into a theater. This was built for indoor skating, but it was not a success. Then Tom O'Rourke had it for an athletic club, and several fights were pulled off there. O'Rourke had to abandon it, and it has been practically idle ever since. The property is owned by the estate of Peter A. H. Jackson, and the new theater will cost $150,000. It has been leased for a long term to the William T. Keogh Amusement company.

Mrs. Leslie Carter's farewell performance of "Zaza" was given last Saturday night at Rochester, and she will now rest until November. "Zaza" has been a wonderful success this year, and in several big cities, where a return engagement was played, the later audiences were even larger than the former. Mrs. Carter will lay "Zaza" aside for awhile, however, and will produce "La Dubarry" in the fall.

Delcher and Hennessy will have as stars next season the caricature comedians, Fisher and Carroll, in a new musical comedy by Frank Keanedy, "Put Me Off at Buffalo." They threaten to bring this to Broadway later on. In the meantime Delcher is having the time of his life with a corset manufacturer, all on account of his wife's injured feelings. Mrs. Delcher was Miss Helen Grantley, and it still on the stage. She was playing in "Vanity Fair" with Gertrude Coghan when she won the heart of Delcher. The now make and the angels souls. The benefit was a financial successof old Casino proportions.

verted by commercial managers and made the basis of the deceptive and wholly ridiculous theory that box office receipts are indices of the artistic merits of plays, says the New York World. The absurdity of the theory is apparent in the cases of dramatized novels and of stars whose claim to distinction rests upon individual popularity and personal magnetism. They have been the principal money winners of the past season. Yet to their combined influences are due the decadence—an almost complete obliteration—of the drama as an intellectual and literary institution and a sensitive, edifying art. There is no reason to disguise the pitiable condition of the stage as the new century finds it in this country. It has declined entirely from an artistic plane. It is a sordid comercial calling, in which managers and actors are partners. The business of dealing in plays and what now passes for the art of acting is on the same foting as the business of dealing in railroad stocks or hardware. Money, not art, is the thing involved. Syndicates and combinations of capital rule the roost. The few ambitious and well qualified actors and dramatists who survive are their legitimate prey. There is no country in which the drama as an art stands so low. Public taste is partly responsible for the prevailing condition, but there is little hope for improvement as long as the box office receipts form the only standard for dramatic productions. The tendency of the stage, indicated by the development of the year just closed, is more than ever towards gorgeous scenery and prodigal display. Scenic environment and stage trappings which should be considered as accessories to the art of the actors have been forced into the places of first importance.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES.

The "Sacrament of Judas" was a failure in London.

Hoarth Bosworth has joined Henrietta Crossman's company.

Matthew Flynn, of burlesque fame, who died last week, had been on the stage thirty years.

There is a woman harpist in Rome who plays on a new chromatic harp which has no pedals.

The government "examiner of plays" is now looking up his mind as to whether he will let Madame Rejane play in "Sapho" when she appears in London.

Puccini is going to set "The Lady and the Butterfly" to music. He would have liked to put "Cyrano de Bergerac" into operatic form, but Rostand refused his consent.

The condition of Maurice Barrymore is reported somewhat improved, though little hope is entertained for his recovery from his mental trouble.

Mrs. P. T. O'Connor is the author of "The Lady from Texas," which was produced in London last week.

Poor Duse! She has been rather hardly treated by d'Annunzio of late. In "La Gioconda" she is hardly seen during an entire act, and in "The Dead City" she is blind till the last scene, when she recovers her sight, only to see the terrible tragedy that has been enacted before her sightless eyes.

During the pest season there were 77 new productions in New York; plays, 50; comic operas and musical comedies, 20; burlesques and travesties, 7. Thirteen of the plays were dramatized novels. Thirty-four of the plays were by American authors. There were five Shakespearean revivals.

In Hal Reid's new play called "The Prince of the World," there is a scene that is expected to create a sensation. It is in the act where the heroine goes into a cage of lions and is about to be torn to pieces when a strong ray of the calcium is thrown upon these animals with such a glare as to blind them while the heroine escapes.

Wilson Barrett is recovering from a severe and painful illness, the effect of neglected influenza. But with characteristic courage he wouldn't give up, and has been playing to big receipts. Mr. Barrett embarks for Australia the first week in June, under engagement to J. C. Williams. He will put in a fortnight in Ceylon en route, and will there join his company, who follow him a fortnight later. The repertory will include "Hamlet," "Othello," "Ben-My-Chree," "Virginius," "Quo Vadis," "The Sign of the Cross," "Man and His Makers," "The Silver King," "Clito," Jenny the Barber," "A Clerical Error" and "Chatterton" and "The Christian King."

Mascagni had a long talk with Italy's king some little time since respecting the reintroduction of drums in the Italian army, the king said that his reason for doing this was that trumpeters frequently contracted dangerous chest diseases while playing the trumpet when marching. The king also told Mascagni that he wished the repertory of the military bands to be reformed. He objected to operatic music for military bands, and would like a revival of the inspiring marches of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Mascagni, by the bye, is going to be his own publisher for his new opera, "Vestilia." Perhaps this determination is owing to the fact that one of his publishers has realized over $50,000 by one of his operas alone. This, I believe, is the first instance of an opera composer publishing his own music.

Lillian Lawrence played the title role in "Priscilla" at Boston last week. Stanislaus Stange has taken for the inspiration of his play the famous poem by Longfellow, but has added to it much that is new and interesting from a dramatic point of view. During the first year of the colony in the new world, when the pilgrims had such hardships and privations, Capt. Standish had fallen in love with Priscilla, and got his lieutenant, John Alden, to woo the maiden as a proxy, but, unconsciously, she had fallen in love with him,—and she asks, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" Alden reports the result of his errand straightforwardly and without omitting one incident, but Standish misconstrues it into a betrayal and violently denounces his loyal friend. Priscilla unwittingly overhears him and attempts to vindicate Alden, but Standish is obdurate in his passion and departs to fight against the Indians, firmly convinced of the treachery of his friend.

Mr. Charles Hendee, of 1811 Superior street west, night foreman at the Northern Pacific Railroad roundhouse, says: "I was troubled on and off for years with pains through my loins and kidneys. If I caught cold or strained myself the pains became very severe. I attribute the trouble to the heavy jarring I received while a locomotive engineer in years past. If I sat or laid long in one position my back became so lame and sore that I could hardly straighten up and in the morning on rising I felt tired and unrested. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and determined to try them. Procuring a box from W. A. Abbett's Drug store, I used it and was promptly relieved of the trouble."

Not a Large Sum Involved.

With the exception of refunding duties collected on Porto Rico imports during the period between the cession of the island to the United States and the enactment of the Foraker act, the work of the insular division of the government will proceed without reference to the supreme court decisions, for the next six months at least. It is thought that after all those who are entitled to reimbursement on account of the unlawfully collected duties, have presented and proved their claims, it will be found that the total is a very inconsiderable sum. It is stated at the war department that few importers protected their rights by filing formal protests against the duty. The law requires that this be done in every case and that the protest shall be filed within ten days from the date of collection; otherwise all claim to rebate or reimbursement is forfeited. It is stated that although no decision was rendered in the Philippine cases, Secretary Root is now about satisfied that the president has authority to impose a new tariff schedule for those islands and will give his attention to completing the proposed tariff which has been in preparation for the past six months. It is apparent that Secretary Root takes the view that the Spooner amendment gives to the president full power to exercise congressional power in the Philippines.

Fat Salaries in Hawaii.

The territory of Hawaii certainly makes very liberal provision for its officeholders. With a population of 154,000, about two and one-half times the population of Duluth, its territorial payroll far surpasses the salaries attached to like positions in this state, and must be regarded as "clean velvet" by the fortunate patriots of Hawaii. How the money will be raised is a question the legislature has not yet solved. The Honolulu Republican says the territorial debt now is $19 per capita and growing. At the opening of the extra session of the territorial legislature two weeks ago Governor Dole submitted a list of government employes and salaries. The list was slashed by the legislature, official heads were "recklessly cut off," according to the Republican account, and the salaries of the remaining officers materially reduced. Yet the list shows these salaries in the judiciary department approved by the legislature: Clerk, $5000; stenographer, $3600; one messenger, $1200. First circuit—First clerk, $3000; second clerk, $2400; third clerk, $2000; stenographers, $6000; district magistrate for Honolulu, $4800; Hawaiian interpreters, $4000; Chinese interpreter, $3000; second district magistrate for Honolulu, $2700. Here are some salaries in the attorney general's department: Attorney general, $8000; deputy attorney general, $4800; assistant to the attorney general, $3600; clerk, $3000; clerk to high sheriff, $3000; sheriff of Hawaii, $4200; seriff of Maui, $4000; sheriff of Kauai, $3680; clerk to sheriff of Hawaii, $3000; clerk to sheriff of Maui, $1500; pay of Honolulu police, $50,000. The treasurer gets $5000; the registrar of public accounts, $4800; license clerk, $2400; stenographer, $1800. The assessor for Hawaii is pail $4800; the assessor of Maui, $4200; registrar of conveyances, $4800. The superintendent of public works receives $6000; assistant superintendent, $3000; chief clerk and clerk of market, $4000; first assistant clerk and bookkeeper, $4000; second assistant clerk, $3000; third assistant clerk, $2400; stenographer, $2400, messengers, $1200; draughtsman, $6600; road supervisor, $4800; superintendent of waterworks, $4800; first assistant clerk, $1800; payroll government buildings, $4944. The public lands commissioner enjoys a salary of $6000. The president of the board of health receives $7200, and the city sanitary officer is paid $3000. Under the head of public instruction are the following salaries: Superintendent, $6000; secretary, $3600; assistant secretary, $3000; superintendent of boys' reform school, $2400. Holding office in Hawaii is certainly highly profitable.

THE VACANT LOTS.

The appearance of Duluth could be wonderfully improved if some attention were paid to beautifying the vacant lots, especially those in the residence portions of the city. The streets may be put in condition and cleaned and adorned with shade trees and the improved properties may be beautified by carefully trimmed lawns, fine trees and attractive gardens, but the whole effect is spoiled by the unsightly appearance of vacant lots covered with weeds and rubbish. It is time to deal with this vacant lot nuisance and compel the owners of unimproved property to keep them in a condition that will not be an eyesore and a disgrace to the city.

Duluth is not the only city where the nuisance exists. Every city, large or small, contains numerous lots held for speculative purposes, the owners of which permit them to be covered with unlovely weeds and noisome rubbish, and are careless as to the effect on the general appearance of the place. Chicago is troubled with this nuisance, and the Tribune of that city is agitating for action that will abate it. It asserts that "no private owner has a right to maintain in the closely inhabited parts of a great city a plat of ground in an unwholesome or even an unsightly condition. The day has fully come when the owners of vacant urban lots should be expected, and if need be required, to maintain them in a presentable condition. They need not be improved elaborately, but they should at least be smoothed off, kept clear of rubbish, and in residential districts devoted to grass instead of weeds. If real estate owners were required to pay this reasonable deference to the public appearance of the city from whose growth they are seeking to profit the result would be a distinct addition to the city's good looks and wholesomeness."

This is no less true of Duluth than it is of Chicago, but there may be some question as to the power of the city authorities to compel the owners of vacant lots to change their methods. It may be that the health officer would have power to compel the cleaning of these lots, on the ground that the accumulation of rubbish is a menace to the public health. One paper has suggested, however, that the object can usually be most smoothly accomplished by the organization of local improvement societies, each one covering a certain district, comprising perhaps a few blocks along a street. The smaller the associations the more efficient they are likely to be. They will cultivate a local pride in keeping not only vacant lots, but also alleys, clean, and in beautifying the lawns and back yards of the homes. There are said to be several associations of this kind in Minneapolis, and the districts in which some of them operate are models of urban cleanliness and beauty. Why not try this plan in Duluth? Certainly something should be done to beautify the vacant lots. The Duluth Improvement association might devote some of its spare time to this really important subject.

FUEL FOR THE FUTURE.

The question of a fuel for the future is one which has worried a great many nervous and dyspeptic people, who fear that the scarcity of coal will sooner or later become a most serious matter. However, there is no need for worry. In practically everything, no sooner does one material become scarce than another appears, and thus the world goes on. Scientific investigation has disclosed the fact that the product which remains after gasoline, naphtha and kerosene are extracted from petroleum can be used as fuel, and far-seeing people are already speaking of petroleum as the fuel of the future.

The fuel of the future, according to the London Express, is petroleum, or, rather, the residuum after the finer oils—as naphtha, gasoline and kerosene—have been distilled from it. This residue, which constitutes two-thirds of petroleum has till recently been thrown away, but is now found to be superior to coal. "A ton of liquid fuel," says the Express, "will produce as much steam as two tons of coal and fills only a third of its space." Besides being a concentrated fuel, the oily residuum has the merit of packing closer than coal, so that it can be used as ballast, being run into the ship's double bottom. When space is scanty, as, for example, in torpedo boat destroyers, the use of a fluid fuel seems to be almost imperative. It is already, in fact, very largely used in the French, Russian and Dutch fleets. On the Volga steamers use it altogether, and the same is to be said of the forty steamers that ply between Borneo and London, a distance of 10,000 miles. Locomotives on two of the greatest railway systems of England employ liquid fuel. On several important continental railways it is used exclusively, and the same is to be said of the Southern California railway. In South Africa, on the traction line between Umtall and Salisbury, Rhodesia, oil is used because wood and coal are too expensive.

But there are objections made by the British admiralty to the use of oil to propel the fleet. It is urged that the oil supply is insufficient—Russia and America being the only large producers—and at present costs over twice as much as coal. In case of war England might find herself cut off from oil, whereas she has stores of coal at numerous stations all over the world. The larger cost of oil is a weighty objection. To be added are the cost of adapting furnaces to the use of liquid fuel and the difficulty of reconverting them in case it should become necessary to return to the use of coal. At present England mines 200,000,000 tons of coal annually, and would need 100,000,000 tons of petroleum to replace it. To this it may be answered that oil mining is an expanding industry, and that an enlarged demand for oil would increase the supply and reduce the price.

THE GUARD AT PEKIN.

The position of the legation guard of the United States in China is somewhat peculiar. It is stationed in a country with which we are at peace, and is to protect our legation from attacks by troops or other inhabitants of that country. The guard itself consists of Company B, Ninth infantry, 150 men, under command of Capt. Andre W. Brewster, who has as officers Lieuts. Ira C. Welborn and Robert S. Clark. Provision is made for a stay until Dec. 31. Maj. Joseph C. Byron, U. S. V., remains as constructing and post quartermaster, to oversee the erection of barracks and storehouses; Acting Assistant Surgeon Charles Lewis is made medical officer, with eight men of the hospital corps to assist him, and a post quartermaster sergeant, a post commissary sergeant and three civilian employes will assist the quartermaster, and Lieut. Welborn, the latter acting as commissary. Supplies for 162 men and twelve animals, including 100,000 rounds of ammunition, and infantry accoutrements for 180 men an allowance of 20 per cent additional—a small but complete train, and a hospital containing twenty beds, are left in Pekin with the guard.

Until the barracks are completed, the main guard will be stationed in the temple of agriculture, with the hospital and the stores; fifty men, with a commissioned officer, will be stationed at the south gate of the Forbidden city. A guard will be posted daily at the legation. The entire guard is under the command of Maj. Edgar B. Robertson. In detailing this officer, Gen. Chaffee informed him "that the troops under his command are stationed in a foreign country with which the United States is on terms of friendship. The guard, therefore, is not to be used aggressively, unless in defense of the American legation, or of the persons and property of American citizens in its immediate vicinity." The officer is directed to consult frequently with the American minister, and to be guided by his wishes. In case the Boxers desire to have another uprising, they will find the legations better prepared to receive them than before.

William E. Curtis says in the Chicago Record-Herald that the first iron in the United States was made at Falling Creek, Va., by a son of Sir William Berkeley, who brought over 150 expert miners and iron workers from Warwickshire and Staffordshire in 1619. It was made from bog ore, and Governor Berkeley said it was the best iron in the world, but the industry was not continued long. The Indians attacked the furnaces in 1622 and massacred young Berkeley and all but two of his men. Those who were fortunate enough to escape hid in the bushes and made their way to the nearest settlement. The furnace was never rebuilt and the mine from which the ore came has been forgotten.

The British export tax on coal is evidently helping the American market for coal in France. According to a Paris dispatch to the New York Evening Post, shipments of American coal to Marseilles are now on a scale to warrant the statement that they will amount to 100,000 tons for the present year. Shipments to Marseilles of English coal, upon which that market has hitherto been mainly dependent, are now more than double what is being received from the United States. Last year American coal exports to all France amounted to less than 170,000 tons, and in 1898 to nothing worth mentioning.

The action of the Philippine commission in imposing a poll tax of one peso on all male inhabitants of the islands above 18 years of age is regarded by the New York Mail and Express as "only a small measure of return to Spanish fiscal methods." This admission of some measure of return to the spirit and forms of the Spanish tyranny is, however, important to note. Heretofore our allen power has taxed those people indirectly without representation, and now we tax them directly without representation.

The court of appeals of the District of Columbia called up the local telephone company and took a fall out of the management. The latter thought itself "a bigger man" than congress, denying the right of congress to regulate charges, but the court in substance said to the company, "if you want to do business in the district, do as congress says. If not, move on." It will take several days for the company to recover from the shock. Mean while, subscribers refrain from "breaking in."

Mr. Dooley

On Mr. Carnegie's Gift.

By F. P. DUNNE.

"Tin millyon dollars to make th' Scotch a larned people," said Mr. Dooley.

"Who done that?" asked Mr. Hennessy.

"Andhrew Carnaygie," says Mr. Dooley. "He reaches down into his pocket where he keeps th' change an' pulls up tin millyon bawbles an' says he: 'Boys, take ye'er fill iv larnin' an' charge it to me,' he says. 'Divvle hang th' expinse,' he says. 'Th' more th' merryer,' he says. 'A short life an' a happy wan,' he says. 'Larn annything ye like,' he says. 'Name ye'er preference,' he says, "an' put it all down to me,' he says.

"That's th' way we do it, Andhrew an' me. Whin other men are chasin' a bit iv loose money to th' corner iv a little leather purse to make good on a chair or a foldin' bed iv classical larnin', we ordher th' whole furniture shore an' have th' bill sint up to th' house. Idjacation in Scotland has been on th' retail. Th' Scotch have been goin' in with a bag of oatmeal an' exchangin' it f'r enough larnin' to last over th' night. It's been hand to mouth with thim f'r years. Andhrew an' me propose f'r to buy idjacation f'r thim in th' bulk. Profissor, wrap up tin millyon dollars worth iv thought an' sind it to th' Scotch.'

"Hinnissy, I don't know what's goin' to happen whin th' American millyonaires begins to unbelt. It used to be that we niver knew whin we had enough. No matther how much I made I was hanted be th' fear that I'd wake up in th' mornin' an' find it all gone an' me with a pair iv overalls on runnin' up a ladther with a box iv mortar on me neck. Whin ye run in an' paid me the three millyon dollars ye owed, I was afraid to put it in a dhrawer f'r fear ye might come back afther I was gone an' I didn't want to carry it in me pocket f'r fear I'd lose it an' if I stuck it in a bank an' see th' prisidint ridin' in a cab, a chill run up me back an' I dhreamed that night iv myself with a dinner pail undher me arm pikin' off to th' rollin' mills just befure th' sun come up. But ye get used to money just as ye get used to poverty. Hinnissy, though niver as much used to it, f'r'm th' lack iv companions, an' there come a time whin I didn't know what to do with it. I cudden't give it back to th' men I got it f'r'm. They wudden't take it. Manny iv thim ar-re dead. Besides 'tis agin me system. I've got into th' habit iv makin' it, but not into th' habit iv spindin' it. I can't buy things with it f'r there's nawthin' I've larned how to buy that won't make money f'r me. I can't give it to th' poor because if they had it they wudden't be poor anny longer. Besides no wan ought to be poor in this land iv opporchunity. As th' pote says, Opporchunity knocks at ivry man's dure wanst. On some men's dures it hammers till it breaks down th' dure an' thin it goes in an' wakes him up if he's asleep an' iver aftherward it wurruks f'r him as a night watchman. On other men's dures it knocks an' runs away an' on th' dures iv some men it knocks an' whin they come out it hits them over th' head with an ax. But ivrywan has an opporchunity. Th' poor ar-re people that've been out at an't do annything f'r thim. Th' poor mustn't be pauperized. But I must do something to git rid iv th' accumulations iv roly boly that's grajally crushin' out me young life, so I buys a univorsity to play with."

"Th' day whin we millyonaires bought yachts an' brown stone houses with mansard roofs onto thim an' were proud iv havin' thim, has gone by, Hinnissy. 'Twill not be long befure none will be so poor as not to own a private yacht an' th' nex' time a Coxey army starts f'r Wash'nton, it'll ride in a specyal vistibule thrain. What was luxuries a few years ago is mere necessities now. Pierpont Morgan calls in wan iv his office boys, th' prisidint iv a naytional bank, an' says he, 'James,' he says, 'take some change out iv th' damper an' r-run out an' buy Europe f'r me,' he says. 'I intind to re-rorganize it an' put it on a paying basis,' he says. 'Call up th' czar an' th' pope an' th' sultan an' th' Impror Willum an' tell thim we won't need their sarvices afther nex' week,' he says. 'Give thim a year's salary in advance. An' James,' he says, 'Ye bether put that r-red-headed bookkeeper near th' dure in charge iv th' continent. He doesn't seem to be doin' much,' he says. Ye see, Hinnissy, th' game has got so much bigger since we first made our money that if Jay Gould was to come back to earth with some iv th' plays we used to wondher about, he'd think he was an old clothes man. So, 'tis nawthin' strange with Jawn D. or Andhrew or mesilf buys a string iv universities an' puts in tin millyons to teach th' young idee how to loot. Befure long we'll be reachin' thim. I don't know but what 'tis th' finest kind iv spoort th' wurruld has iver heerd about.

"Father Kelly don't think as much iv it as I do. He was in here ins' night an' says he: 'Ye can't buy idjacation f'r people,' he says. 'If ye cud, th' on'y man in th' wurruld that knew annything wud be Jawn D. Rockefeller,' he says. 'Idjacation,' he says, 'is something that a man has to fight f'r an' pull out iv its hole be th' hair iv its head,' he says. 'That's th' reason it's so precious,' he says. 'They'se so little iv it an' it's so hard to get,' he says. 'They'se anny quantity iv gab that looks like it, but it ain't th' rale thing,' he says. 'Th' wurruld is full iv people wearin' false joolry iv that kind,' he says, 'but afther they've had it f'r a long time, it tur-rns green an' blue an' some day whin they thry to get something on it, th' pawnbroker throws thim out. No, sir, idjacation means throuble an' wurruk an' worry an' Andhrew Carnaygie himsilf is th' on'y wan I know that's been able to pick it up in th' brief inthervals between wan dollar an' another,' he says. 'Th' smartest man in my day at th' colledge iv th' Sacred Heart was a la-ad who used to come to school with a half a dozen biled potatoes in an' ol' newspaper an' sawed wood all avenin' to pay f'r his larnin', Annything that boy larned, he larned, ye bet. Ivry line iv Latin he knew riprisinted a stick iv wood an' belonged to him. 'Twasn't borrowed at th' back dure iv a millyonaire. DOMESTIC PLEASANTRIES.

The Smart Set: Husband—Today I met a gentleman who told me he was engaged to you at one time.

Wife—What did you say?

"I congratulated him, of course."

Philadelphia Record: Mrs. Newbride (who has been baking)—I wonder who first invented angel cake?

Mr. Newbride (who had to sample the baking)—I don't know, but I fancy it was one of the fallen angels.

Detroit Free Press: "Why on earth, Lucy," did you ever consent to marry Mr. Fitzgoober?"

"Why," replied Lucy slowly and apologetically, "I thought he'd do to begin with."

Pittsburg Chronicle: Parke—I suppose you have great hopes of that new baby of yours, haven't you?

Lane—Well, yas, I have, old man. When I think of what that baby is likely to be I fairly tremble at my own insignificance.

Philadelphia Press: "Poor Henpeck's wife still bosses him."

"Nonsense! She's dead."

"I know, but he's a spiritualist, and he can't get away from her."

"Ah! She is 'the ruling spirit strong in death,' eh?"

Chicago Post: They were speaking of the wedding.

"It was a high church affair, I understand," suggested one.

Here the head of the house and father of the bride and father became suddenly interested.

"High!" he exclaimed. "High! Well, if you had to pay the bills I guess you would think so."

Detroit Journal: The woman wept bitterly.

"Once," she protested, "you talked of burning with love!"

"And now," sneered the man, "I am not permitted to smoke, even, in the house!"

But no! It could not be that she herself was answerable for her own unhappiness.

More Pleasant.

Denver Republican: Ex-Senator Pettigrew is inclined to make light of Gen. Funston's octopus-eating ability. Since his Wall street experience Mr. Pettigrew thinks it is pleasanter to be eaten by an octopus than to eat one.

Whither Are We Drifting?

New York World: The divorces granted in all other civilized countries put together do not equal the number granted in the United States. And while our population is growing at the rate of 25 per cent per annum, the number of divorced persons is increasing at the rate of nearly 70 per cent per annum. All of which may well make sobermin'ded citizens, who understand that the strength of a nation is its marriage altars rather than its divorce courts, ask themselves, whither are we drifting?

The Herald's "want" columns contribute to grow in volume and in usefulness. This is conclusive evidence where to obtain the best results.

Dr PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

Dr Price's Baking Powder supplies a pure, wholesome leavening agent, which makes the biscuit and cake of highest healthfulness at medium cost and protects the food from alum, which is the greatest dietary danger of the day.

The foremost baking powder in all the world.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
CHICAGO.

NOTE.—Alum baking powders are low priced, as alum costs but two cents a pound; but alum is a corrosive poison and it renders the baking powder dangerous to use in food.

RAILROAD PRINCIPALITIES.

Boston Transcript: An attempt has been made to group the large railroad systems of the country in view of the recent progress of the "community of interest" idea. The Harriman-Kuhn, Loab & Co. group figures a total mileage of 20,245 and easily leads. The Morgan group has 19,073 miles and the Northern Pacific-C., B. & Q. group has 18,453 miles. Many think of the latter as a Morgan combination, and if so we have 37,526 miles under that control. The Vanderbilt group has 19,517 miles, the Pennsylvania 18,220 and the Gould 16,074. If the 7808 miles of the Atchison be added to the Pennsylvania there is a total of 25,028 miles. In the tabulation the St. Paul, the Rock Island and the Louisville & Nashville are considered separately. Together they have 15,041 miles and doubtless will land ultimately among the various combines.

In effect, less than six gross of ownership now control considerably over 100,000 miles of railroad and are likely to control more. The railway situation is settling down to a division along practically horizontal lines—the Northern Pacific group in the North, the Morgan in the South, the Vanderbilt and the Pennsylvania between, the Gould in the Southwest. It takes but little imagination these days to reconstruct the railway map of the United States. Most solid of all the combinations is the Vanderbilt, reaching from Boston to Omaha; a systemetrical colossus on natural lines of strength is the Pennsylvania-Atchison, giving a transcontinental line, well secured by branches and feeders; the Gould group is well fortified in its territory and the Southern combination shows ability and wisdom in its amalgamation. It is the Northern Pacific-Union Pacific business that is still "adjusting," and when the dust of the conflict clears it is very likely that these great roads, with others like the St. Paul and Rock Island, as yet unclassed, will be seen in a close and harmonious relation to the whole.

"The United States railroad" may not be so much of a dream as some think—everything points in that direction. It will take time and perhaps the rage for combination may be checked by unlooked for and untoward consequences of its own intensity, but certainly giant strides are taking towards making the expression "community of interest" hold very much of a practical meaning.

Hearts Beat In Unison.

Baltimore American: It is safe to say that in every home in the land there is rejoicing at Mrs. McKinley's recovery, and when the gentle woman finds how intense and general has been the interest in her case she may feel recompensed for her past danger in its bringing her so near the hearts of the people.

Mr. Towne In Gotham.

New York special to the Pittsburg Dispatch: Speaking of politicians, another interesting celebrity has consented to colonize in Greater New York, after the fashion of Thomas B. Reed, James Hamilton Lewis and others. The new arrival is the Hon. Charles A. Towne, former United States senator from Minnesota, who has purchased a Fifth avenue residence dangerously near "Steel Trust alley."

Relieving the Anxiety.

Chicago Chronicle: Ex-Attorney General Grigg and Secretary of War Root are said to be in high glee over the supreme court decisions in the Porto Rican cases. Now, if we could only be sure that Maj. Gen. Corbin is happy, there would be no occasion for anxiety.

An Easy Prediction.

Milwaukee News: If the Tillman pitchfork has not become over-rusty from disuse, it will not be difficult to see the finish of the movement to Hannaize the South Carolina Democracy.

Pension Grafters at Work.

Indianapolis Journal: The report comes from San Francisco that the pension attorneys are so zealous that they send out runners to meet the soldiers returning from the Philippines on the wharf. The pullers-in of one firm are said to call out: "Come to the doctor, come to the doctor: he can give you $2 a month more than anyone else." The military authorities have driven these runners off the military reservation and out of the hospitals, but they lie in wait for the soldier as soon as he gets beyond the boundary of military control. Doubtless hundreds of men will be induced to apply for pensions who would not otherwise think of it.

Perils of the Poles.

Baltimore American: Three expeditions are trying to locate the South Pole, and six are after the one at the other end of the world. This means nine new faces on the lecture platform next year.

'TWAS NOT ENOUGH.

'Twas not enough to give the cup of water cold,
And bid the stranger rest beneath my wide porch shade,
When just within the door refreshments manifold,
Of bread and meat were on my table laid,
Though thankful he for what I chose to share,
I should have bidden him unto my table fare.

'Twas not enough to say, "Sad heart, take better cheer,"
And bid godspeed the stranger on his way—
Not let him pass from sight beset with gloom and fear,
When he might tarry with me for the day,
And healed his sores and slept upon my bed,
And soothed his aches with head soft pillowed.

'Twas not enough for me, to words of counsel say,
And bid him mend his life and seek of nobler things,
And then on bended knees to eloquently pray
For him, and miserlike withold the human minist'rings
Of help and love, and walk with him to show
The better, safer path where I would have him go.

Each were enough and God would make it blest,
And sanctioned the gift, had I not selfish kept
For mine and me the choicest and the best
And satisfied and full, had laid me down and slept.
God's sanction comes, and Heavan's eternal prize
Is won, by self-effaced and Christlike sacrifice.

Sheep Husbandry.

The Herald has received a copy of "Sheep Husbandry in Minnesota." This useful little book is from the pen of Professor Shaw, in charge of the animal husbandry department at the University of Minnesota. It was written, as the author states in the preface, in the hope that it may prove helpful to the farmers. It embraces some 216 pages, is nicely bound in cloth, and is handsomely illustrated. It covers in the simplest language the whole ground relating to sheep husbandry as adapted to Minnesota conditions, and as Minnesota conditions are virtually the same as in all the Northwest, the book is equally applicable to all that area. It treats of every phase of sheep husbandry, as adapted to the conditions of the farm, from the birth of the lamb until it is ready for the block. The individual who follows the instructions contained therein will follow a safe guide, even though previously unacquainted with sheep husbandry. The book is published and distributed under the auspices of the Minnesota Live Stock Breeders' association. The first edition of 3000 copies was soon exhausted. The legislature of Minnesota, at its last session, authorized the publication of a second edition of 10,000 copies. It was written by the author without compensation, and is dedicated to the farmers of the state. A copy will be sent to any farmer in Minnesota who forwards 7 cents for postage. Anyone outside of Minnesota can obtain a copy who forwards 25 cents to the Minnesota Live Stock Breeders' association. Address Professor Thomas Shaw, secretary, St. Anthony Park, Minn.

WHY? IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST

Because it is healthy, clean, pure and brilliant.

HEALTHY—
It has no odor. Prof. Thompson states that one cubic foot of gas consumes as much oxygen as four adults.

CLEAN—
It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.

SAFE—
As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.

CHEAP—
By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

Strong Again.

The woman who knows the full value of health is the woman who has lost it and regained it; the woman who from being weak and sickly is once again made a strong woman. Half a million weak and sickly women have been made strong and well by the aid of Dr. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription." It cures the ills which weaken women. It regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It nourishes the nerves and so cures nervousness. It promotes a healthy appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 838 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ills. "Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none. Friends urged me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I commenced taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. Now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pain, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work and am a strong and healthy woman."

Use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets with "Favorite Prescription" if the bowels are inactive or irregular.

for Mrs. F. W. Lee, who expects to leave for the East in a short time. Among the guests present were the following:

The beautiful drama, "Elizabeth of Thuringia, or the Miracle of Roses," which was presented last week by the Young Ladies' sodality of St. Clement's church, assisted by members of St. Clement's Dramatic club, was an artistic and financial success. The interest of a large audience was well held by the players, and the roles were all well taken. The audience was very sympathetic and closely followed the trials of Elizabeth, the reigning countess of Thuringia, who was ever surrounded by her faithful poor, and severely censured and cruelly persecuted by her ambitious mother-in-law, Countess Sophia, who usurped the power of the countess of Thuringia. The wily and faithful servant of the castle created a fund of laughter in her efforts to protect the Countess Elizabeth from the abuses of the wicked Castellan of the court, who was in league with the ambitious Sophia. Justice and humility were well represented in the last scene when the dignified empress reinstated Elizabeth countess of Thuringia. The play was one of much interest, with a good moral. A request has been made to repeat it for a charitable purpose.

Danish Independence.

What the Fourth of July is to Americans and May 17 to Norwegians, June 5 is to the Danes, a day of commemoration of the nation's independence. On that day in 1848 the constitution was signed by King Frederik VII, which secured for the people a constitutional government. In Denmark the day is celebrated with patriotic speeches, open air exercises, fireworks and illumination. In the United States the day is remembered wherever any number of Danes are located. In this city the uncertainty of the weather at this time of the year has often had a chilling effect on open air celebrations, and the Danish Sisterhood have, therefore, decided this year to have the exercises take place at Kalamazoo hall, next Wednesday evening.

YOU CANNOT CURE PILES

By Internal Remedies.

The only sure way to cure every form of piles is to use a remedy like the Pyramid Pile Cure, which is applied directly to the parts affected, and its wonderful healing effects are apparent from the first application, because the medicinal properties are rapidly absorbed by tissues and sensitive membranes of the rectum, and the cure is made speedily and almost before the patient is aware of it every trace of piles has left him.

This is one of the reasons why the Pyramid Pile Cure has been so uniformly successful. It is applied directly just where it is needed and where it will do the most good. Not by the roundabout way of the stomach, nor the harsh barbarous methods of various surgical operations and so-called systems.

Direct application to the seat of disease is the only rational way, and this is fully accomplished by the Pyramid Pile Cure.

If the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried this remedy is worth anything, then no sufferer has any excuse for longer delaying in giving it a fair trial, knowing that when you do so the Pyramid Pile Cure will have made one more friend, the best possible advertisement we can have. The chief advantages of the remedy are: It cures without pain, the cure is lasting, it contains no poison, and, lastly, it is the cheapest and quickest cure yet found. Your druggist can tell you what it has done for others.

Testimonials of cures from all parts of the United States will be sent on application to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

HAS BEAUTIFUL TEAM.

Harry Roberts Gets a Handsome Present.

Capt. Harry Roberts is driving a pair of the finest and fastest driving horses in the Northwest, and the best of it is that they are a present. The donors are W. T. Bailey and Capt. James Sullivan, and it is said that their generosity is the result of gratitude for a little favor done them by Capt. Roberts, in the way of throwing them a very fine business opportunity. Just what this opportunity was is not definitely known, but it is supposed to have been the Columbia Mining company deal. The three men were all in it, and they sold out to Jones & Laughlin at a figure that was very satisfactory.

The three went to Chicago Sunday night, and Messrs. Sullivan and Bailey slipped Capt. Roberts and spent two days looking over the horse markets. The first horse bought was Tacomis, for $775, and the second was Pilot Lambert, for $570. After Tacomis had been purchased John Splan, the horseman, wanted to buy him, and would have paid a high price. Splan bid the price of Hoppergrass, which the Duluth men were after, up to $1575, where the Duluthians dropped out at Splan's statement that he had to have the horse. Both Capt. Sullivan and Mr. Bailey bought horses for themselves as well.

THE MAY FESTIVAL.

Second Concert Given Before Large Audience.

The second event of the May musical festival took place in the high school assembly hall last night before a large audience, and it was an altogether charming entertainment. The song cycle of Arabian love songs, which was to have been given at the first concert, was added to last night's program, and it was well received. It was sung by Mrs. Cecil Berryman, Miss Clara Hector, George L. Tyler and E. W. Prophet. All four did extremely well, and the singing of Mr. Prophet resulted in one of the encores that were necessarily few owing to the length of the program. The original program was given in its entirety, and it made up a most delightful evening. The numbers were all of a high quality, each of the excellent musicians that had a part seeming at his best. The chorus and orchestra work, the solo by Mrs. James McAuliffe —who responded to an encore—the violin solo by Mr. Bradbury, the piano number by Mrs. Hoelscher, the soprano solo by Miss McKay, and the duets by Mrs. McAuliffe and George L. Tyler and by Mrs. Gaston Borch and Cyril Tyler, were all excellent. The audience showed its pleasure by giving the participants a very warm reception.

EXCURSION TO MESABA.

Pilgrim Church Ladies to Conduct One.

The ladies of Pilgrim Congregational church have arranged for an excursion to the Mesaba range to take place on Wednesday next. Excursions of this nature have several times been given in the past and they have always been popular. They give an opportunity to view the mines and the cities of the range to many people who never have any other chance, and the outing of one day is always thoroughly enjoyed.

The train will leave the Union depot at 8:40 instead of 8:45 as announced on the posters, going to Virginia over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, where an hour will be spent in watching mining operations at that place. From there the company will go to Biwabik, where the ladies of the Congregational church in that typical mining town will serve a lunch to those who wish, or furnish coffee to those carrying their own lunch. The afternoon will be spent in viewing the mines at this place and at 4:30 the train will leave for Duluth over the Duluth & Iron Range road, arriving at Endion station about 9 p. m.

DEATH OF J. H. POTEET.

Consumption Brings His End In New Mexico.

James H. Poteet, freight agent of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad at Duluth, died yesterday morning at Los Vegas, N. M., of consumption. He had been there since about April 1 in the hope of checking the dread disease, but the effort was hopeless. Mrs. Poteet has been in New York for some time, but was called to her husband about two weeks ago and was with him when he died.

Mr. Poteet came here from St. Paul in 1890 and has been one of the most popular of Duluth's railroad men. He was an enthusiastic whist player and one of the strong members of the Duluth club.

The deceased leaves a wife and two children, a daughter, 7 years of age and a son of 5 years. The children are now with an aunt in New York. The body will be taken by Mrs. Poteet to Reno, Neb., for burial.

DAILY STORY.

THE MISSING LETTER

BY JOSEPH BAUGHER.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

George Goddard, the well-known banker, had been cloistered for forty minutes after office hours with his junior clerk, Slay, the cashier, was lingering about, suspicious and jealous of the lately manifested interest of his chief in the subordinate.

Upon a pretext Slay entered the private office.

"I will not detain you further, Mr. Slay," the banker remarked, "but I will say good-by now, as I am giving Harmon some instructions prior to my departure this evening for the West." He pleasantly extended his hand.

When the cashier had gone the banker continued:

"Now, Harmon, the cipher is two words, only one of which I shall use, and that is 'dead,' meaning 'to buy,' and 'dean,' to sell. When you get my dispatch you must act immediately and secretly, for, as I told you prior to our interruption, if my hand was suspected in the transaction the street would follow us like so many sheep, and our interests would be correspondingly affected. I have taken you into this confidentially, not that I have less confidence in my older employes, but because you are little known on the street, and the brokers I have named think you are one of the 'lambs' who have come to be shorn. You will probably hear from me within a week. Remember the words—'dead' and 'dean.' Who was that, Harry, the banker said, interrupting himself, as the door of the outside office opened and closed. The junior clerk ran quickly out into the hall. Returning, he said he could see no one.

"The janitor, likely," returned the banker. "And, now, Harry, here is a little present for yourself. I have deposited in your name at the Third National money sufficient to purchase as large an option as I have told you. That's what I wanted you to write your name on a slip of paper for the other day, and I had it turned into the bank as an evidence of your signature when I sent the money." The banker handed his young clerk the treasury note he had mentioned as the gift.

"Good-by," he continued; "I have a letter or two to write, and I will close up the office myself, but remember, Harry," the banker added, with raised finger, impressively, "immediate action and secrecy in the office as well as out of it. Good-by." Whereupon Mr. Goddard cordially grasped the hand of the young man, who, flushing with pleasure, left the building, wondering what she would say if she could only know.

Five days later Mr. Slay, the cashier, sat in the private office of the Goddard bank, when a messenger boy came in and handed him a dispatch. It was addressed to Henry Harmon. After the boy had gone he looked at it and fingered it cautiously, and then he quietly locked the door.

"This telegram reads," he said to himself, "either 'dead' or 'dean,' for those were the words I distinctly heard the chief use, but as to what they mean, why they might as well be Greek."

He looked at the clock. It would, he knew, be twenty minutes before the junior clerk returned. He carefully inserted a sharp pencil in the corner of the envelope and slowly unrolling it down between the gummed edges he opened the envelope without blemishing it.

"Dead," was the word he read. He thought to change it to the other word 'dean.' He did not know why. He simply wanted to do something that would hurt Harmon, who gave him so much cause for jealousy.

On trying the office inks on a piece of paper, he found a marked difference between them and the ink of the telegram. He concluded to erase the final letter "d," and let the junior clerk guess the rest.

"I will manage to get back the dispatch," he said to himself, "after Harmon has read it, and then, burned telegrams, like dead men, don't blab. The copy down at the telegraph office will show up all right, and, as the kid won't be able to produce the original, Mr. Goddard will believe his confidence in his new confidential clerk was misplaced, and then—well Mr. Harmon will be out of a situation. And that suits me, for I intend to marry Miss Nellie Minton myself. So, he will be out of something else, too."

The clock was striking 1 and he remembered that Harmon would soon return. He took the two small bottles of chemicals used in the office for erasing, and after applying one and then the other to the final letter "d," he carefully dried it with a blotter, enclosed and sealed the message again in the envelope and unlocking the door he passed into the outer room and threw the telegram on Harmon's desk.

A minute after Harmon came in.

"A telegram for you, Harmon," said Slay.

The boy opened it, while the cashier was watching him from the corner of his eye, and the young man read the contents, apparently without a shadow of surprise or annoyance. Placing the message in his pocket, he leaned over his books and pretended to add up columns of figures, but his brain was surging and his heart beating against his ribs.

"How could Mr. Goddard make such a mistake?" he asked himself. It was too late to wire back 1300 miles for a correction he knew. The error might be at the receiving end, and he arose to telephone the telegraph office. Slay had anticipated that and when Harmon got up to go to the instrument the cashier said:

"The phone is out of order, Harmon. Better see the trouble department about it."

"I will go to the telegraph office myself," said Harry to himself, as he went for his coat, but when he returned he found the cashier gone and the office empty. He knew he could not leave the office in that condition. It was thirty minutes within the "last call" on the stock exchange.

"What can I do?" he sighed aloud.

A young girl rushed breathlessly in.

"Oh, Harry!" she cried. "I know I ought not to speak of it, it is against the company's rules, but, Harry, I copied a dispatch addressed to you a short time ago, and I'm so frightened! Harry, who is dead?"

"No one, Nellie," he said calmly, "but I would have been had you been a moment later."

"You sit right here," he continued, "and keep office for me until I come back."

Before the breathless and astonished girl had time to reply he had pushed her gently into a chair and ran into the street.

Within twenty minutes he was back. The cashier had preceded him.

"Is this the dispatch you copied this morning, Nellie?" Harmon said, ostentatiously handing it to her in Slay's presence.

"Yes—no—why, Harry, this says," she began to spell it, "D-e-a—" What does that mean? D-e-a, 'dea?' The one I copied read 'D-e-a-d, dead!' And, Harry! What a queer odor this has! Just like a photographer's gallery! Can't you detect it?" she finished, in a puzzled voice.

"No, Nellie. My sense of smell is not at all acute. Is it anything like this?" he asked, taking the stopper out of one of the erasive chemical bottles and holding it to her face.

"Yes. Exactly!"

"Then, Nellie, I know now how the little 'd' happened to do the disappearing act. Mr. Slay, can you tell us—"

But the cashier had quietly disappeared.

"I wonder if he has been using some of that stuff on himself, Nellie," the junior laughed.

"Nellie, dear," he went on, "you have been the cause of a big advance in my expectations, and, ah! you can soon send in your resignation to the telegraph company."

He took her in his arms, and she really seemed very willing, although she understood nothing.

"But," she exclaimed, bewilderedly, "I don't understand."

"I'll tell you all by and by. Here come some of the clerks. There, there, go! If you don't I shal kiss you again before them all."

So the banker found his cashier's place vacant on his return, and he gave it to Harmon, and Nellie sent in her resignation to the telegraph company. Harmon's share of the profits in the "dead deal," as they still call it, was enough to make his wife a present of a pretty home. The banker, who was at the wedding, said Mrs. Harmon deserved the whole share, for it was she, after all, who had found the missing letter.

GAME CALLED OFF.

The Superior Normals Were Unable to Play.

The baseball game that was advertised to come off between the Duluth high school team and the Superior normal school, this afternoon, was called off last night and a game was arranged with the Blaine high school of Superior to take place of the proposed one. Two of the normal players were sick and two were out of town, crippling the team to such an extent that they felt that they could not do themselves justice if they attempted to meet the Duluth team.

A very interesting ball game was played Thursday afternoon between the Black Diamonds and the Tigers, resulting in a victory for the former by a score of 3 to 2. The game was an eleven-inning one and the issue was in doubt for a long time. For the Black Diamonds Lowe pitched, striking out five men, and Blake caught, while for the Tigers Duncan struck out nine and Stockman seven. Pearson caught.

GOWNS FOR THE SUMMER TRAVELER

They Are Smart As Well As Serviceable, and Taffeta Modeled On Tailor Lines Is the Latest Novelty.

The travelling gown plays an important part in the summer wardrobe, and for the woman who expects to spend some time during the next few months journeying from one interesting place to another, or stopping at hotels, gowns that are practicable and serviceable at the same time that they are elegant and smart, have been devised. There are indications that the summer travelers will form a particularly large contingent, for the Pan-American exposition is an added attraction this year, and the Rainbow City will doubtless prove a magnet that will draw visitors from near and far, and of whom not a few may reasonably be expected to be women.

The novelty of the season is taffeta, made on severest tailor lines. Other departures are variations rather than essentially new designs, but these simple silk gowns have the merit of being fresh, serviceable and chic. As a rule the colors are black, dark blue, gray, brown or tan—these being generally becoming. To be quite correct, the taffeta gowns must be simple, with stitching for a finish. No trimming of any sort is allowed, unless bands of cloth be termed such. The favorite jacket is the Eton, although short coats are also worn. Skirts vary somewhat in cut, but are uniformly of moderate length. Women who object to skirts that escape the ground have theirs made sufficiently long to touch. Their wiser sisters, however, adopt a length that just permits escape from contact with muddy streets and much traveled pavements. Skirts that are made shorter are not graceful, and when it is possible to combine grace with comfort and common sense, it would seem as if an ideal result had been attained. Taste and discretion are shown by the wise woman in the selection of her traveling gown. These tailored taffetas, worn with shirt waists, make a very desirable combination. As a rule the waists worn for the journey are simple and severe. Cheviot, madras, mercerized duck, wash silk, pongee and silk linen are the best materials. White is a favorite, but other plain colors and stripes are worn.

The more dressy waists, suitable for the hotel dinner, are more dainty, and may be made of many materials. Fine white fabrics, however, are much favored. French models, hand embroidered and tucked, are truly fascinating, but less costly substitutes are offered by the score. Persian lawn, linen lawn, batiste and the like are all obtainable, with trimming of lace and tucking, and are as charming as could be desired. More serviceable materials are found in pongee, taffeta and louisine silks. Any one of these blouses transforms the gown into an appropriate afternoon costume and, beside freshening the toilet, makes a very agreeable change after a shirt waist has been worn for hours. It is possible to have two skirts made for a single jacket and so provide for many occasions with little luggage. The second skirt is longer, perhaps, includes a flounce, but is made on the same tailored lines as the first. With it and a few fine blouses, in addition to the short skirt and shirt waist, the tourist is appropriately dressed for any occasion that is liable to arise—an inestimable advantage when either travelign or sightseeing. The taffeta is light in weight and occupies little space, in addition to which it is cool and it sheds the dust, characteristics which go far toward making an ideal traveling gown.

Resourceful women tuck a collar of batiste, edged with Arabe lace, in a convenient corner of the trunk and add it to the Eton when worn with the long skirt, so making a complete change of toilet with the least possible friction and luggage.

Mohair, light weight wool and linen duck are less novel, but hold their popularity despite the attractions of the newer material—silk. For the two former colors are preferably gray, tan, brown and mixtures. Linen is at its best in the natural color, but brown, dark blue and black, with white dots and stripes, are added to the list. For all these, as for the silks, styles are severe and the Eton leads all other coats, although many take the modified blouse form. The washable materials are deliciously cool and the fact that they can be laundered makes them a luxury for short trips; but real journeys are rendered more satisfactory by the wool, mohair and taffeta, that can be shaken and brushed free of dust, and that can be relied upon to endure harder usage without becoming unsightly. Fresh, dainty, washable gowns are always charming, but what is more popeless than the same costumes when they become bedraggled and soiled? Crispness is essential to smartness, and experience shows that crispness is difficult to maintain for any considerable length of time. Some of the darker linens are silk trimmed, but can hardly be commended for this use. In spite of the fact that we have ceased to make all our cotton and linen gowns in a manner to allow of laundering, the duck must be so treated before dust and soil can be removed. To rob these gowns of the possibility of being made new and fresh by means of soap and water is to rob them of the very characteristic that makes their charm. Costumes that are liable to see little service and that will be worn only when it is possible to keep them from contact with soil are often trimmed in such manner, but they should be avoided, even for the brief jaunts that inevitably mean exposeure to dust if not smoke from the engine.

Mohairs of the better sorts are admirable, their only drawback being greater warmth than is involved in silk. The Sicilians shed dust and are readily shaken clean. Handsome ones are banded with stitched taffeta, but self-trimming is both correct and smart. Cheviot is always preferred by certain conservative women and retains its place whatever novelties may appear. Gray and tan mixtures are most serviceable, but plain colors are worn and are often preferred, although they relentlessly reveal every spot. Raglans and dust cloths are much in vogue, whatever the material of the gown, and make valuable additions to the traveling outfit. The former of light weight covert cloth, gray or tan, are so loose as to allow of slipping on and off with ease at the same time that they perfectly protect the gown. The best seen are half loose, fall to the edge of the skirt and include comfortably fitting coat sleeves cut in raglan style, with the point extending to the neck. They are not over heavy and can be carried in the strap or carry-all, when not in use, while their value in a rain storm or shower can scarcely be over-estimated.

Dust coats are both more attractive and more practical than in any previous season. They are long, loose-fitting and made of taffeta, pongee, Sicilian, mohair and gloria, all of which materials are ideal for the purpose. Some models suggest the empire idea, and hang loose from shallow yokes with deep, turn-over collars, and include bell sleeves. Others are half-fitting, with scant, circular flounces; others, again, are cut after the latter style, but are plain at the lower edge. One of the most satisfactory and sensible yet seen is of black taffeta and is made with a deep flounce. The neck is finished with a sailor collar of tucked linen batiste and the cuffs of the bishop sleeves are of this same material. Another quite different, but equally practical, is of heavy linen in the natural color, made with the empire yoke, and is trimmed only with stitched bands of the same.

Hats are simple in the extreme. Short backed sailors and turbans are the leaders, although numberless variations are seen; but whatever the shape, the trimming is selected with a view to service. Feathers are not worn at all and flowers are not in the best taste. One of the prettiest traveling hats seen recently was of rough white straw with the flat protecting brim of the modified sailor. Draping the crown and nearly covering the brim was Liberty satin, brown with a polka dot of white, and at the left side a chou of the same with white wings. The model came from a leading Parisian house and was extremely chic. There was nothing that dampness could harm. No feathers to become bedraggled and unsightly; no flowers to fade, and the soft silk had no dressing to lose.

Turbans are admirable when becoming and are seen in temptingly lightweight straws, with trimming that suits them to a nicety. A black Neapolitan is a delight to wear. Trimmed with silk net and a stiff cockade, it becomes as smart as the most exacting woman could ask and is perfectly suited to the traveler's needs.

One of the daintiest of white crepe de chine blouses, just completed to be worn at a June garden party, is trimmed with flowered cretonne. The bolero is edged with pink roses, made of cretonne, and there are tiny vines and green leaves as a background to the trimming, and similar bands of the cretonne from perpendicular bars on the plisse full front.

The other fancy blouses completed on special orders are as follows: A waist of India silk in Cyrano de Bergerac shade. The waist is tucked in shield effect, flaring in a puff above the waist line. The yoke is veiled in cream-tinted Russian lace. The sleeves are tucked from shoulder to wrist. A similar waist has the tucks of the upper and lower portion of the sleeves divided with a full puff at the elbow.

A white silk waist is one solid mass of tiny tucks as small as cords. Some exquisite black lace forms scrolls and arabesques on the upper parts of the sleeves, the scrolls extending over onto the blouse. A deep girdle effect of the lace, a black velvet belt and the black lace showing below the belt complete this striking blouse in black and white.

An exquisite embroidered batiste has pale blue taffeta bands for trimmings, with appliques of white lace on the silk. The revers and cuffs are edged with full ruffles of batiste embroidery. A natty waist of white Liberty satin has spots of pale green woven in the goods. There is a plisse front of the palest green crepe, with slashed revers of white satin turned back. Tiny buttons of green enamel, flecked with silver, edge the white satin revers.

The newest shirt waist buttons in the back. This is whimsically inconvenient, but inconvenience is unimportant. In front it has a tucked yoke, pointing down in the middle. The shirt waist that buttons in front has a tucked yoke in the back, the yoke that last season was discarded. This yoke—the "American yoke," it is called in London—gives a neater fit than can be obtained without it, wherefor it has been restored in favor.

The smartest of the new shirt waists are white; white flannel, white pique and white cheviot for golfing wear; white muslin, white batiste and white brilliantine for less violent forms of morning exercise. The waist that is not white is striped; it is apt to be decidedly "sporty." Outspoken shades of green, lemon-yellow and orange, of blue, violet, cardinal and poppy red are patterned upon grounds of white and cream color.

Next to the white waist and the striped waist comes the polka-dotted waist, third in favor. A white pique golf waist with large polka dots in blue, well-made and well-fitted, if the pique be of the new, soft and supple variety, is a handsome garment.

A ready-made shirt waist may cost as little as 25 cents and be pretty and presentable. To get a shirt waist cut to measure at a good but not exclusive New York house costs from $5 to $6. To get a similar waist—Madras, simply made—from an establishment of the highest reputation costs about $20. Such is the range in price of the most popular of all summer garments.

The outing wardrobe of one of the prettiest girls in New York includes a Madras waist in stripes of pale lemon and green on white, one of silk gingham in narrow stripes of blue, green and black on a ground of white, one in mercerized gingham in raised stripes of pink on white and one in pink and white on a ground of blue. This young woman has also a white pique waist with trappings of red Madras and one of white flannel with red pipings. For boating wear she has a waist of lavender and white spotted flannel, the fronts and the deep sailor collar outlined by a hem of white lawn set on with fagot stitching. A knotted cravat of the lawn makes a charming finish. Also for boating is a waist of white pique with large red polka dots, the sailor collar being white lawn piped about the edge with pique. A couple of automobile waists in this well-provided girl's wardrobe are made of white linen with half-inch tucks piped with colored chambray.

But the pure white waist is the waist that's in fashion. Sheer lawn or batiste is the favorite material, and the design is of the simplest and daintiest, carried out with fine hand-run tucks and old-fashioned delicate stitchery. To use a large amount of trimming is decidedly not the fashion, though now and then the allurements of lace seduce the most severe.

A good model shows a tucked back, a tucked yoke in front, and tucks forming a point at the tops of the sleeves. The sleeves also are tucked in vertical lines around the wrist, forming cuffs four or five inches deep, but leaving full edges finished with lace over the hands.

A more elaborate model has its yoke tucked in squares, into which are set lace insertions. At the waist are more tucks, making a corselet, the portion between the yoke and the corselet being left full. The sleeves are tucked vertically to a point a little below the elbow, leaving a puff above the hand. With the white waist it is correct form to wear a white belt and a white stock.

The dress that goes with the shirt waist is of the good old coat and skirt or separate skirt variety. Last year's edict, disestablishing all costumes save those that match throughout, no longer holds in its intirety. The washable coat and skirt are too convenient and too chic, too girlish, too well suited to the pretty informalities of warm weather to be cast aside. The linen or pique coat makes a light wrap that is often convenient; it is useful in traveling. The costume with waist of the same material is still recognized as newer, as having its especial cachet, but the coat and skirt is vindicated triumphantly from the charge of being "out of favor."

The white linen or pique separate skirt is a necessary article in this summer's wardrobe, and the pure white shirt waist is the correct thing to wear with it. This waist, so long as it is white, may be of any material. White waists are worn also with the beige linen skirts, sometimes assuming for this purpose beige-colored embroidered batiste collars.

One of the prettiest coat and skirt linen costumes that I have seen during the week belongs to a recent trousseau. The skirt is severely tailor made, the coat is a short, loose, sacque bolero, with a wide, turn-over collar of rose-colored silk spotted with white; this collar is tucked for three-quarters of its width and then allowed to flare in a full ruffle. The sleeves are a modification of the bishop variety, with narrow cuffs and link buttons. Link buttons are used again to close the fronts, while at the waist, finishing the white lawn at the waist, is a broad sash of rose and white silk knotted in front into a huge bow. Another good linen coat is half-fitting, with rounded fronts and a flat collar decked with a wide applique of colored linen. A great many attractive linen costumes are being made with strappings on both coat and skirt of colored galatea.

The accepted finish of the shirt waist costume is the sailor hat, and this is blossoming in great variety. A scarf of Rumchunda silk is one form of trimming, held in place by two gold slides in front. Then there are rough straw sailors with drooping brims, the trimmings in both cases being silk scarfs with bands of black velvet and fancy quills. Some hats are hit very lightly by freaks of fashion. Certain designs in white and brown Manila, grass cloth duck and pique, certain shapes in felt reappear with little change season after season.

Coat and skirt costumes of alpaca and tummer serge rival in popularity those of thinner materials. A handsome tailor dress of chocolate brown alpaca is well suited for a traveling costume. Its skirt is lightly decked with stitched bands of the same material. It is worn with a small bolero, stitched and strapped, opening upon a blouse of tucked white muslin. A scarf of dark brown panne is knotted around the top of the princess skirt, fastening in front with a loop and bow, finished with lace.

Another brown alpaca of slightly more elaborate design has a skirt laid in tiny tucks upon the hips and finished with four shaped bands at the bottom. It is worn with a bolero adorned with bands of cream-colored silk caught with rosettes. It opens upon a double-breasted white silk waistcoat, and this upon a vest of white muslin. There is a belt of dark panne.

Yachting costumes are beginning to absorb the attention of the tailors. White serge seems for the water the favorite material. A dress just finished is made with a white serge. Eton cut, without darts, having the fullness caught into plaints at each side of the bust with a dull gold buckle. The jacket is trimmed with broad, flat blue braid; it is worn over a white surah blouse and a broad girdle of blue panne.

A second yachting dress of blue serge is severely plain, with an effective collar of heavy white silk edged with blue. Large gold buttons fasten the jacket; a golf belt of blue tissue folds around the waist of the white silk blouse.

ONE OF THE FASHIONABLE RED HATS.

Red hats are a furore this season. This model is of red rough straw with a high side flare and trimmings of red ribbon velvet, berries and foliage. From S. Koch & Sons.

MY LADY'S TEA GOWN.

Indorsed for Women

Timmonsville, S. C., August 4, 1900.

I have had the "whites" for two years. Nothing would cure me until I began using Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught. Now I am a well woman.

Miss ALICE CARTER.

Thousands of women before Miss Carter found out that Wine of Cardui would relieve leucorrhoea. She need not have endured the dragging torture two years. Why do you continue suffering that baneful malady when thousands of women indorse Wine of Cardui as a cure? Mrs. Waters suffered six years and tried twenty-five doctors to no avail. Two bottles of Wine of Cardui cured her. Hundreds of others could be quoted as Miss Carter and Mrs. Waters are. If only one woman in the world had been cured by

WINE OF CARDUI

It would pay you to try it. But every woman who tries it gets a permanent cure or some substantial benefit. You should not suffer another day when Wine of Cardui, at $1.00 a bottle, will stop that nerve-racking distress. Can you conscientiously ignore this positive relief offered you?

Murray, Ala., August 7, 1900.

I have been down with the "whites" but two bottles of Wine of Cardui and two packages of Thedford's Black-Draught made me well. I have suffered six years during which time I tried twenty-five doctors and got no relief. My husband told me to try your medicine and I did. So I am well. I told about fifty other women about it.

French Woman In Maine Too Fat to Be Arrested.

Bangor, Maine, June 1.—Dame Quillette, a fat old French woman living in a house under a hill in Portage Lake Plantation, defies both the United States government and the Maine authorities, and the officer who has the courage to arrest her is yet to be found.

The old woman weights 400 pounds and is as unwieldy as a hippopotamus. For years she has been unable to walk. One of her sons has built for her a special chair on rollers, and in this she wheels to and from the cupboard, where she keeps her supply of liquor, and the kitchen table, which serves as a bar. She threatens to crack the skull of the first man who ventures in her reach with intent to arrest her. The badge and authority of a United States marshal have no terrors for her.

Various plans have been laid for the disposition of Dame Quillette. At one time a new deputy United States marshal came to the house determined to take into custody the doughty old defier of Uncle Sam. When he looked at her weight and then looked at his buggy his resolution weakened. But he told her that she was under arrest and must go to Portland with him. Dame Quillette smiled amiably and told him to take her. She declared that she was ready to go just as she was.

The deputy walked first on one side of the huge chair and then on the other. He lifted cautiously. He could not budge her. She only grinned at him. He ordered her to stand up and walk to the buggy. She explained that she had not been able to walk for years. The neighbors verified her statement. The marshal used his authority and obliged several of the men standing around to assist him in carrying the woman to his carriage. But once out of doors, at the side of the conveyance, the impossibility of getting her in made itself manifest. She was conveyed back to her kitchen, still smiling. Since that time no United States officer has made any determined attempt to move her.

No state officer wants to be seen carrying that mass of avoirdupois across the state of Maine to Portland, boosting her from one change of cars to another. And once in jail she would be even more of an incumbrance. The county officers of Aristoocook, in which section she lives, would not have her in their jail for $10 a day.

And so Uncle Sam simply shakes his fist at Dame Quillette, and she answers him with her smile.

Duluth Ball Team at Superior Sunday.

Two Fast Horses For Capt. Harry Roberts.

The maroon stockings are to play at West Superior today and tomorrow providing Jupiter Pluvius or the police do not interfere. Next Saturday and Sunday the Superior team will play return game at Oneota park. By that time it is expected that Manager Hansell will have signed a new pitcher. He has been negotiating with him for some time, and the negotiations are now about to the landing point.

Glenney, however, is the star twirler at the head of the lakes this year. He plays ball for the amusement there is in it, and taking him all around he is one of the best pitchers that ever wore a Duluth uniform. He is also fast as an infielder.

Manager Hansell might do lots worse than to give Al Cummings, the high school pitcher, a trial. All he lacks is experience. His curves are well assorted and break sharply at the plate. He also has speed, and the beauty of his work is that he can pitch about as good with his left arm as he can with his right. At Cloquet recently he struck out over twenty of the opposing batsmen, and at Aitkin, on Decoration day, he caused the hevay hitters to fan thirteen times. Backed up by a fast team Cummings should hold his own.

Duluth has two more fast road horses W. T. Bailey and Capt. James Sullivan have just presented to Capt. Harry Roberts, as a slight token of appreciation for a business favor, one of the fastest and well-matched teams in the Northwest. The purchases were made at a recent sale in Chicago. The horses are Taconnis, with a record of 2:14¾, for which $775 was paid, and Pilot Lambert, which cost $570.

The Big Duluth team is getting quite a reputation round through the country. Although defeated by Aitkin on Decoration day, it is probable that another game would result differently.

* * *

Henry Johnson, of Superior, the young cyclist who won both time and place prizes in the Decoration day road race, has the appearance of a winner. His action on a wheel is nearly perfect. He is young yet, however, and it is very evident that he has not had the proper kind of handling. It is the first time in the history of the road race that one rider has taken both prizes.

The Aitkin correspondent to the Twin City papers sent out a dispatch Thursday to the effect that Aitkin had defeated Duluth by a score of 5 to 3. The Minneapolis and St. Paul papers might do well to get a more reliable correspondent. The Duluth team played at Superior on Thursday. There is all the difference in the world between the Duluth team and Big Duluth team, which the Aitkin newspaper man would find out if the regular team should drift down that way.

The Big Duluth and the Duluth Fashions will meet for the second time this season, at Oneota park, tomorrow afternoon. The line-up will be as follows:

Fashions.		Big Duluth.
Kline	catcher	Girard
Staub	pitcher	Lovell
Kremmerer	first base	Hurd
Cheyne	second base	Walker
Murphy	third base	Irwin
Bennett	short stop	Olson
Ryan	left field	Faulkner
Carroll	center field	Cole
Casper	right field	O'Connell

"Major" Taylor, the colored American cyclist, in the return match Monday defeated Jacquelin, the French champion, in two out of three races.

The races were at the same distances as when the riders met May 16 at the Parc-des Princes—333 meters, one kilometer, and, if necessary, 2000 meters. Monday however, the riders followed single pace to the last lap.

Taylor today reversed the position, winning the first two races with comparative ease. The warm weather prevailing helped Taylor considerably.

Taylor finished the first race three and one-half lengths ahead and the second a length ahead. The riders crawled around the track until within 200 meters of home, when they spurted.

This series was the second between the famous French rider and the colored champion, Jacquelin having won in the first clash, May 16. No pacing was allowed, and Taylor was at a further disadvantage because of the extremely cold weather. Even then the decision went against him by only a wheel in one heat and a length in the other.

In the match Monday single pacing was provided, following the American style, and according to a cable received at the N. C. A. office Taylor easily won both heats. Since each rider has scored in the kind of racing most popular in his own country, the honors are even, and a decisive meeting would be in order in which there could be a heat in each style, and if the decision still remained unsettled a limited pursuit race would be a fair method to secure the winner.

While offers have been made to Jacquelin to cross, it is far from a certainty that he will be lured to this side, where half a dozen American riders rate themselves his equal, if not his superior.

The accident aboard the Shamrock appears to have been due to a bobstay fastening which didn't stay fastened, which broke a shroud, which strained the topmast, which buckled and burst the mainmast, which tumbled and broke down the rigging, which wrecked the boat and nearly caused the loss of his majesty the king of England—and all on account of a bobstay fastening. Which reminds us of the poem.

Michigan, Chicago and Wisconsin stand out as the three Western universities whose track teams have a fighting chance for the championship banner in the first annual games of the conference colleges at Marshall field this afternoon. The wolverines have an advantage, and unless the unexpected happens, are generally picked to carry away the coveted silk, emblematic of the championship, although a repetition of last year's contest, when the last events decided the meet, would not prove a surprise.

Capt. S. S. Brown, owner of Garry Herrmann, bet $1000 against $9000 on his colt's chances to win the American Derby. Capt. Brown lost the ticket. If the colt wins Capt. Brown loses $10,000; if he loses the captain is out only $1000. This gives the captain a chance to beat the race for $9000, according to that way of juggling the figures.

Charley Mitchell and McCoy have been doing a land office business in vaudeville exhibitory artists in Boston this week, and those who have seen Mitchell perform there with the mitts say that he is "still in it," and that, though being a good ways from in proper condition, he can still handle himself very skilfully. He and McCoy, if they can be induced to pull together in double harness, ought to make plenty of money by these exhibitions, especially in Buffalo, where large crowds can be expected to patronize the Pan-American during the summer.

McCoy doesn't take kindly to show life, however, and there is no knowing when he may kick over the traces and "fuhluh it up." If this should come to pass, I would like to witness the last set-to between him and "England's boxing champion." I'll bet it would be worth double the price of admission of any man's money.

Col. Billy Patterson, the well known Cincinnati sporting man has this to say of New York's phenomenal young college twirler:

"The shooting of Christopher Columbus Matthewson athwart the baseball horizon, recalls to my mind the fact that our old friend Dad Clarke is now doing stunts in the Cowboy league on the Pacific coast, and Tacky Tom Parrot is serving up benders in the Seashell league down South." observed Col. Billy Paterson, as he shoved his pedal extremities under the mahogany of a Vine street cafe recently. "I have kept cases on the great national game ever since Buck Ewing quit driving a wagon for Maddox, Hobart & Co. to don the spangles. Recent events lead me to believe that Scar-Faced Charley and Pig Iron Mike are now out of the running. To deliver the goods nowadays a guy has to have more than gall and a bum wing. He must have a nut that works well. Graduates of tomato canning factories are no longer able to shine in the legitimate. They may make good over the 10, 20 and 30 circuit, but in the big league they come one, two eleven. In these enlightened days on the emeral sward it requires more than a 0-cent nut and a $10,000 wing to shine as a star. Of course, Rube Waddell hangs on, but he don't count. He is liable to join out with Pawnee Bill's Wild West show any day and sign a contract to pitch out boisterous Indians and throw bucking bronchos. If you cast your lamps over the list of winning pitchers you will find that Christopher Matthewson got his education at Bucknell college. 'Uncle Sam' Leever sat on tacks and wielded the rod in the little red schoolhouse at Goshen, Ohio. Professor 'Nodles' Hahn is a composer of rag-time selections and a piano tuner of note. Ted Lewis is studying theology, and this kindergarten wonder that Philadelphia has got his foundation at Georgetown college. Barney McPhee, the fleet schoolhouse man, Dr. Newton is a disciple of Esculapius, and Hildebrand, of Princeton, has been better than half the big league guys for years. Selee now has five college men on his staff at Boston, and is hunting for more. I tell you it looks bad for the graduates of Goose Hill university and the Millcreek bottoms.

"Of all the wonders, however, this fellow Matthewson has 'em all skinned several city blocks. Why, he is almost as big a man in New York now as Harry Lehr, the society peacemaker. Just think of a gent pitching thirty-nine consecutive innings, and the other squad at being able to get a man across the pan.

Why, they are naming cigars, soda water and suspenders after Matthewson, now in New York. That overgrown village is so full of four flushers who stride up and down Broadway wearing dickeys and plug hats and no socks that when the real thing pops up he takes like a house afire. The record of Matthewson, whom the Gotham scribes call Christie, shows that fighting booze and inspecting red lights will not mix with outdoor sport. Here is a young chap, with a battery partner as wild as they make 'em. I mean 'Broadway Aleck' Smith. Smithy, old boy, knows every piece of chalk in the Hot Springs pool rooms. He is on speaking terms with all the opulent soubrettes, and would rather stand in front of a Broadway window and rubber at two-bits neckties, with no coin in his kick, than own a bunch of automobiles and have to live in Joplin, Mo. Smithy must play in New York or not at all. He likes to stroll through the Waldorf-Astoria and minzie with the millionaires. He knows a couple of waiters there. Every time he gets down from a high stool at Mink's, on Sixth avenue, he brushes off the sinker crumbs and then has his trousers pressed. Aleck is a sport. At that he is quite a bockstop, and can hit a few. For the good of baseball in New York and the National league as a body, I would suggest that Matthewson confine his dealings with Smith strictly to the ball park. If he attempts to go the pace of Aleck after the electric lights are turned on, his pitching wing must become petrified. Just think of the difference between these men. Smith is a rounder and a good fellow. Matthewson is a college man, who neither drinks, smokes nor chews. He don't play ball on Sunday, because his mother asked him not to. Girl reporters have interviewed him, and picked him to pieces. One young lady told about Chrstie from head to feet, and failed only to describe whether he wore a four-in-hand or an ascot necktie. Matthewson has now pitched eight games, and made monkeys out of all the clubs that have faced him. Even the Col. Brassy Galls take a few hours off on bright afternoons and cease trying to sell bum mining stocks to the jays long enough to go out and see him pitch. He has the fanatics all daffy. Even my old friend, Col. Freedman, now goes out to see a game once in a while, and remains long enough to bar an umpire whose decisions don't please him. Matthewson is truly a wonder, and if Dick Croker and John Carroll are wise they will run him for mayor. If Matthewson sticks to the straight and narrow path and cuts out the booze for all time, he will be a big help in bringing the flag to New York.

Honest Beer

The first brewery of Jos. Schlitz was a hut, but the beer that was brewed there was honest. That was fifty years ago. Today the magnificent Schlitz brewery forms a monument to that honesty.

From the very beginning the main object has been to attain absolute purity. In Schlitz beer pure yeast was first introduced in America. In the Schlitz brewery are all the inventions men have made for protecting beer from impurities.

Schlitz beer is even cooled in filtered air; then it is filtered, then sterilized. It is well aged to avoid the cause of biliousness.

Large Orders For New Machinery Placed By Mines.

A Double Air Compressor For the Calumet and Hecla.

Work Progressing on the Stamp Mill of the Adventure.

Houghton, Mich., June 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The extent and magnitude of the new machinery orders placed in the past three or four years by the Lake Superior copper mines has been and remains the marvel of the engineering and mining world. Instead of the orders diminishing, as might naturally be anticipated, they continue in a volume as large as at any time in the past. The improvements made in the past three years by lake mines have furnished steady employment to thousands of skilled workmen in the steel works and machine shops of America.

Among the latest orders placed is that of the Calumet & Hecla for a new double air compressor. No such machine has ever been built before. The new compressors, which are being built by Fraser & Chalmers, of Chicago, are to be installed at the Red Jacket vertical shaft—the deepest mining shaft of the world—in the northern part of the big brownstone engine house in which are installed the 8000 horsepower hoists. The compressors will be known as duplex compound vertical Riedler air compressors, driven by vertical compound condensing King engines. Each of these mammoth compressors will have capacity to compress 14,000 cubic feet of free air, per minute, to a pressure of seventy pounds to the square inch. Figuring the capacity of these machines by the number of drills of average size for which they can furnish air, each would be rated as a 275-drill compressor, giving a total capacity of 550 drills for the two. No mine in the world is now running as many as 500 power drills, and the compressor capacity of the new plant of the Calumet & Hecla will be indefinitely superior to that of any other plant yet erected. The cost of the new compressors will be about $350,000—this without boilers, buildings or accessories of any sort, other than the foundations on which the giant machines will stand.

The Adventure is making excellent progress on the foundations of its new stamp mill. Although the Adventure was the last of the three mines to locate mills south of the new Baltic mill, on Lake Superior, it now looks as though its mill would be the first completed. P. R. Robert, agent at the Adventure, is manifesting a rare ability to accomplish things, and the expansion of the mine and development of machinery and stamping plants are proceeding at a rapid rate. The mine itself is developing a great amount of heavy copper, and, apparently, will be able to furnish a large quantity of mill rock. Owing to the system of parallel lodes found at the Adventure and Mass, the former mine has opened about four miles of territory underground, and Capt. James Wilcox, of the Mass, has expressed himself as satisfied that his mine can easily furnish 500 tons of rock daily for one stamp whenever the mill is ready.

Great progress has been made in the past three weeks at the new mill site of the Wolverine, near the mouth of the Tobacco river. The stone foundations are nearly completed and the steel superstructure can be started this month, if the material arrives when promised. As soon as the foundation at the Wolverine is finished similar work will be started at the Mohawk site, adjoining, where a mill duplicating that of the Wolverine is to be built. The Wolverine work will be given the preference, whenever necessary, as the Wolverine's lease of one stamp at the Allouez mine will expire next spring, and it is important that the new mill be ready by that time. Owing to this preference, it is probable that the Wolverine mill will be finished one to two months before that of the Mohawk.

One thousand tons of steel rails for the Mohawk & Traverse Bay railroad arrived one week ago today, and by Tuesday had been distributed along the greater part of the right-of-way between the terminus of the completed line at the Hebard quarry and the Mohawk mine, and two miles of track laid. It seems probable that the entire line will be laid by the end of next week. The track has been well ballasted, and as it is laid out with easy gradients and curves, and is being furnished with heavy steel rails and rolling stock of superior capacity, will be able to make a fine record in the economical transportation of rock for the Wolverine and Mohawk mines.

The management of the Allouez mine is seriously considering reopening the old workings on the Allouez conglomerate. While these have never been profitable in the past to the Allouez company, they have occasionally made money for tributors who leased them, and with copper at 17 cents per pound could, perhaps, earn a profit if carefully worked.

It is understood that Fred Smith has resigned the superintendency of the Allouez mine, which he has held so long, owing to the great demands upon his time from the Wolverine and Mohawk mines.

The Arnold people are still opening on a fissure vein at the Copper Falls, and but a few men are working in the Arnold proper, though it is anticipated that the force at that point will soon be increased.

The Franklin mill is now running one stamp three shifts weekly on rock from the conglomerate workings at the Franklin Junior mine. The production of rock from the conglomerate shaft will be largely increased in the near future, when work now nearing completion is finally ended.

The surface equipment at the Champion mine is now approaching completion, and will permit a greater degree of expedition in the development of the mine than has yet been secured.

The accession of James MacNaughton to the general managership of the Calumet & Hecla is received with genuine pleasure by the more than 5000 employes of that great mine, and by the people of the district generally. Mr. MacNaughton, who is yet on the sunny side of 40, began work some twenty years ago at the old incline railway running from the Calumet & Hecla mine to the mills at Lake Linden. He was promoted to the engineering staff and rapidly rose in rank until he occupies a position of exceptional responsibility for so young a man, at the Chapin iron mine, where he again rose steadily until he was placed at the head of that great property. His career is one full of valuable lesons and of great promise to the ambitious and capable young men of this and other districts. His rise has ben due to native ability, aided by untiring application, and will be an encouragement to thousands of young men desirious of climbing the ladder of life.

Rumors in some of the Eastern newspapers that the Isle Royale mill is not showing as much copper as was anticipated are evidently inspired by persons whose desires rather than whose knowledge are consulted. As a matter of fact the Isle Royale is surprising even its friends by the quantity of copper that its mill is turning out.

The assessment of $1 per share, levied recently and payable on June 10, is favorably received by share holders. It is known that the money is needed for actual work, and the showing at the mine is such that the shareholders will cheerfully furnish the funds required for the development of the property.

The new "Riedler" compressor at the Baltic will soon go into commission, after which new ground will be opened much more rapidly than during the past eighteen months, as the power drill capacity of the mine has been limited, and so much of the power has been required for stoping that new openings have progressed but slowly.

Nearly 100 men are now working at the Victoria, and 500 to 600 feet of new openings made monthly. The lower levels are showing a great amount of heavy copper.

The Winona, Wyandot and Elm River properties are all making vigorous use of the diamond drill, but as yet without discoveries of marked importance.

HORACE J. STEVENS.

HAD A PREMONITION.

Said He Would Die and He Did.

Lexington, Ky., June 1.—Milton J. McCarty, aged 68, died at a hospital here Wednesday night. Physicians say he died of hydrophobia, but because of remarkable circumstances attaching to the case will hold an autopsy.

Wednesday McCarty's wife left for Cincinnati. Bidding her goodby, apparently well, McCarty told her that she would never see him alive again, as he felt sure he would die that night. Later he visited his son and invited him to be present at his death, which again he said would occur that night. Going home he quickly developed symptoms attending hydrophobia. He was removed to the hospital where death ensued after great suffering.

Physicians attribute his apparent premonition of death to disorders following the use of stimulants.

LEFT HIS PROPERTY

To Son of Man Who Mortally Shot Him.

Moberly, Mo., June 1.—It developed here in the probating of a will of Carl Dolhoff that he had willed the bulk of his estate to Omer Cook, the son of the man who shot and fatally wounded him in a dispute several months ago.

After the affray Cook took his wounded victim to his house and nursed him carefully night and day in the hope that he would recover.

Dolhoff lingered for several months, but finally succumbed to his injury. He said nothing about his intentions as to his property here and in Germany, all of which amounts to several thousand dollars. He had two sisters in Germany to each of whom he left $5. Twenty dollars were bequeathed to a Catholic church here.

Before dying Dolhoff made a statement in which he said that he was to blame for the tragedy, and that he fully forgave Cook.

WEAK, WASTING, STRICTURED MEN Cured While You Sleep, IN 15 DAYS!

19,846--CURES DURING LAST YEAR--19,846

Why the Frightful Tension of Stricture is Dissolved Like Snow Beneath the Sun---IN FIFTEEN DAYS.

Why Weak Men Are restored by the Magic St. James Treatment Applied Locally and Directly to the Affected Parts.

We answer the questions briefly. If you cut an artery in your arm, you do not take internal medicine to stop the flow of blood. YOU USE LOCAL APPLICATIONS. Similarly when the urethral ducts become weakened and relaxed it is ridiculous to take internal treatment, which must pass through the stomach and urine before it reaches the seat of disease. The seminal ducts project into the urethral canal through the Prostate Gland, and are easily reached by local treatment. Dr. Carter's "Gran-Solvent" solution. Bougies will dissolve, digest and forever remove

STRICTURE

In 15 days, without pain, injury or inconvenience. The bougies are inserted at night and act while you sleep. "Gran-Solvent" removes every symptom of stricture, leaving the canal as healthy as when nature formed it. No SURGICAL CUTTING OR DILATING. NO INJECTIONS TO IRRITATE THE MEMBRANE. NO INTERNAL DRUGGING TO RUIN THE STOMACH. The St. James treatment is local, direct and positive.

The St. James treatment is prepared in the form of crayons, very narrow, smooth, flexible and wholly soluble, which are inserted into the water passage at night, where they dissolve and deposit the medication in its full strength upon the Prostate Gland, contracting and strengthening the ducts and FOREVER STOPPING DRAINS AND EMISSIONS, and curing while the patient sleeps.

VARICOCELE

Varicocele is an accumulation of sluggish blood in the veins of the scrotum, due solely to imperfect circulation, and has its origin in a diseased and congested Prostate Gland. Operations in this disease are only temporary, and no mechanical device yet discovered has cured a single case. Gran-Solvent heals the Prostate and restores healthy circulation. Varicocele disappears and the sluggish accumulation is replaced by pure healthy blood.

Thousands of men stricture, weak, wasting and despondent were cured and restored by the St. James method last year. A vast army of men in whom the light of life has penetrated the fearful nightmare of stricture and seminal decay.

WHAT CAUSES DEAFNESS.

The Principal Cause is Curable but Generally Overlooked.

Many things may cause deafness, and very often it is difficult to trace a cause. Some people inherit deafness. Acute diseases like scarlet fever sometimes cause deafness. But by far the most common cause of loss of hearing is catarrh of the head and throat.

A prominent specialist on ear troubles gives as his opinion that nine out of ten cases of deafness is traced to throat trouble; this is probably overstated but it is certainly true that more than half of all cases of poor hearing were caused by catarrh.

The catarrhal secretion in the lungs and throat finds its way into the Eustachian tube and by clogging it up very soon affects the hearing and the hardening of the secretion makes the loss of hearing permanent, unless the catarrh which caused the trouble is cured.

Those who are hard of hearing may think this a little far fetched, but any one at all observant must have noticed how a hard cold in the head will affect the hearing and that catarrh if long neglected will certainly impair the sense of hearing and ultimately cause deafness.

If the nose and throat are kept clear and free from the unhealthy secretions of catarrh, the hearing will at once greatly improve and anyone suffering from deafness and catarrh can satisfy themselves on this point by using a fifty cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new catarrh cure, which in the past year has won the approval of thousands of catarrh sufferers as well as physicians, because it is in convenient form to use, contains no cocaine or opiate and is as safe and pleasant for children as for their elders.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is a wholesome combination of Blood root, Guaiacol, Eucaluptol and similar antiseptics and they cure catarrh and catarrhal deafness by action upon the blood and mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

As one physician aptly expresses it; "You do not have to draw upon the imagination to discover whether you are getting benefit from Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; improvement and relief are apparent from the first tablet taken.

All druggists sell and recommend them. They cost but fifty cents for full sized package and any catarrh sufferer who has wasted time and money on sprays, salves and powders will appreciate to the full the merit of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

UNIQUE CASE.

Damages Are Awarded For the Price of the Coffin.

New Orleans, June 1.—Judge Downing, of the first city court, has decided a case unique in the jurisprudence of the company. A few months since George Berges wired for a coffin to a New Orleans undertaker and it was shipped by the Southern Express company. Instead of putting the coffin off at Lee Station, however, the express company bore it on to St. Louis.

In the meantime the widow had fixed the hour for the last sad rites. Friends and relatives were invited and gathered at the home at the appointed hour, but the casket had not arrived. The guests were there, but the funeral could not take place.

Meanwhile no one could get trace of the coffin, which was taking an excursion around Mississippi. In her anguish and desperation of mind Mrs. Berges sent to the city and secured another coffin in which to bury her deceased husband. It was dark when the second coffin arrived, and plaintiff was compelled to bury the dead by lantern light. The express company claimed that it had entered into no contract with Mrs. Berges to deliver her coffin and that the undertaker was the proper party to bring suit. In rendering his decision Judge Downing said:

"This is the only case of the kind of which I have ever heard. The circumstances upon which plaintiff bases her claim for damages were, indeed, harrowing. The hour had been fixed for the funeral, the mourners, the friends and acquaintances of the deceased were all present to pay their last respects to the deceased, but there was no coffin with which to bury him. There is no doubt but what she suffered great mental anguish and anxiety by reason of the failure of the company to comply with the contract, but such damages are too remote, and could not be foreseen by the parties at the time of making the contract, and, consequently, cannot be recovered. Under the circumstances I can only give a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the expense incurred in the purchase of a second coffin."

O'Brien for $107.22, which includes costs and interest.

SAGE IS WINNER

Supreme Court Sustains Verdict of Stearns County Court.

Settlers Will Have to Vacate or Settle With Owner.

Eighteen Decisions Were Rendered By the High Court.

St. Paul, June 1.—Eighteen decisions were filed by the supreme court of Minnesota yesterday.

Under one, written by Justice Collins, sustaining the Stearns county district court, Dave Crowley and a number of other settlers on lands claimed by Russell Sage, as assignee in trust of the land of the Hastings & Dakota Railway company, will have to vacate. The lands were indemnity lands, a part of 70,000 acres selected by the railroad company. The railroad has been completed according to agreement with the legislature and the grant has been earned. Later the company forfeited this franchise, under a judgment by the supreme court, but within the three years provided by law had transferred the lands to Sage in trust for the stockholders. The courts hold this a valid disposition of the lands. It is held that Crowley, who entered upon the lands after they had been withdrawn from settlement, and after the lands had been earned by the completion of the railroad, is not in a position to attack the company's title.

The supreme court, in a decision written by Justice Lovely, holds that when a county has divided statutory provisions as to a division of the debt between the old and the new districts, if not in violation of constitution, are final and must be followed. The parent county can force the divisions by mandamus proceedings to take up their share of the burden.

The decision is in the case of the county commissioners of Polk county appellants vs. the county commissioners of Red Lake county, respondents, the lower court, which held in favor of Red Lake county, is reversed.

When Red Lake county was created from a portion of Polk county, an arrangement was made by which the debt on the public buildings was to be assumed by Polk county, and after this amount has been deducted from the total indebtedness the remainder was to be apportioned between the two counties.

The Red Lake county people became dissatisfied and the commissioners failed to levy the tax for the payment of their portion of the debt, which was based upon their property valuation.

Under the decision of the supreme court, the Polk county commissioners can, by mandamus proceedings, compel the Red Lake commissioners to levy taxes for their county's proportion of the debt which existed against Polk county before the division, the value of the public buildings retained by Polk county before the division, the value of the public buildings retained by Polk county having been reduced.

The other decisions filed were:

H. A. Wagner, appellant, vs. Preston & Stucky, copartners, respondents. Ramsey county. Judgment affirmed.

Nelson H. Reeves, appellant, vs. Backus-Brooks company, respondents. Hennepin county. Order reversed. Held that all persons having lands on margin of a flowing stream have, by nature, certain riparian rights in the water of that stream, whether they exercise those rights or not; and they may begin to use them when they choose. It matters not how much the owner of land upon a stream has actually used the water, or whether he has used it at all, his right to it remains unaffected for any period of time.

Deering Harvester company, appellant, vs. C. Molheim and J. J. Harder, respondents. Watonwan county. Order affirmed.

J. C. Sylvester, appellant, vs. Winslow Holasek and Mary Holasek, respondents. Traverse county. Order affirmed. Lovely, J.

In re guardianship of W. P. Laplant and Frederick Laplant, John Chadwick, proposed guardian, respondents, vs. Alvena A. Dunham, appellant. Hennepin county. Order reversed. Lovely, J.

Mary Larson, appellant, vs. August Jahsenn and Ole N. Mausten, respondents. Aitkin county. Judgment reversed. Brown, J.

Jone H. Russell, appellant, vs. Minneapolis Street Railway company, respondent. Hennepin county. Order affirmed. Brown, J.

In re guardianship of Morris Levi, respondent, vs. Isidore Longini, guardian, appellant. Hennepin county. Order affirmed. Lovely, J.

Azella F. Smith et al., appellants, vs. George T. Barr et al., respondents. Blue Earth county. Judgment affirmed. Start, C. J.

In the matter of the estate of James J. Little, deceased; Robert Little, proponent, respondent, vs. James J. Little, Isabell Little, William H. Little and Elizabeth Johnson, contestants, appellants. Blue Earth county. Order affirmed. Lewis, J.

Millions of Men

Have Been Wrecked on the Rock of Sexual Vice.

Thousands Have Been Rescued by the Progressive Medical Association,

Specialists for Diseases of Men.

I make no extravagant assertion when I say that millions of men have been wrecked on the rock of vice. The trouble is not so much that they get disease, but rather that they allow it to grow worse through neglect or improper treatment. This fact is responsible in many cases for nine-tenths of the suffering.

You should remember that the sexual diseases are never at a standstill. Neither can you make any compromise with them. Either you must control them or they will control you and render you utterly unfit for the duties of life.

Specifics and Free Samples, Trial Treatments and the like don't cure complaints of this kind, as anyone who has tried them knows.

But if you have Varicocele, Stricture, Contagious Blood Poison, Nervo-Sexual Debility, Rupture, Kidney and Urinary Diseases, or any associate disease or weakness, you owe it to yourself to fully and freely investigate our treatment. My mastery of these maladies is complete. I began a special study of them soon after graduating from college, now nearly a quarter of a century ago, and during all of the years since then, they have been my study and persistent practice. I treat nothing else.

Does it not occur to you, then, that I am better prepared to combat and conquer diseases and weaknesses peculiar to men than the general practitioner, who, instead of concentrating his faculties on a single class of disease, scatters them over the entire field of Medicine and Surgery.

Varicocele and Its New Cure.

Whatever may be the cause of Varicocele its injurious effects are too well known for extended comment. Suffice to know that it depresses the mind, weakens the body, racks the nervous system, and ultimately leads to a complete loss of sexual power. If you are a victim of this dire disease, come to our office and let us explain to you our process of treating it. You will then not wonder why we have positively cured hundreds of cases of Varicocele during the past twelve months. Under our treatment the patient improves from the very beginning. All pain instantly subsides. The pools of stagnant blood are forced from the dilated veins, which rapidly assume their normal size, strength and soundness. All indications of disease and weakness vanish completely, and in their stead comes the pride, the power, and the pleasures of perfect health and restored manhood.

MASTER SPECIALIST.

Stricture Painlessly Removed

It matters not how long you have suffered from Stricture nor how many different doctors have disappointed you, we will cure just as certainly as you come to us for treatment. We will not do it by cutting or dilating. Our treatment is new, entirely original with us and perfectly painless. It completely dissolves the Stricture and permanently removes every obstruction from the urinary passage. It stops every unnatural discharge, allays all inflammation, reduces the prostate gland when enlarged, cleanses the bladder and kidneys, invigorates the sexual organs and restores health and soundness to every part of the body affected by the disease.

Nervo-Sexual Debility—Its Remedy

Men, plenty of you are now reaping the results of your former folly. Your manhood is failing and will soon be lost unless you do something for yourself. There is no time to lose. Impotency, like all sexual diseases, is never on the standstill. Either you must master it or it will master you, and fill your whole future with misery and indescribable woe. We have treated so many cases of this kind that we are as familiar with them as you are with the very daylight. Once cured by us, you will never again be bothered with emissions, prematureness, small or weak organs, nervousness, failing memory, loss of ambition or other symptoms which rob you of your manhood and absolutely unfit you for study, business, pleasure or marriage. Our treatment for weak men will correct all these evils, and restore you to what nature intended—a hale, hearty, happy man, with physical, mental and sexual powers complete.

Contagious Blood Poison Cured Forever

On account of its frightful hideousness, Blood Poison is commonly called the king of all venereal diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted. Once the system is tainted with it, the disease may manifest itself in the form of scrofula, eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, eruptions or copper-colored spots on face or body, little ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, swollen joints, falling of the hair or eyebrows, and finally a leprous like decay of the flesh and bone. If you have any of these or similar symptoms you are cordially invited to consult us immediately. If we find your fears are unfounded, we will quickly unburden your mind. But if your constitution is infected with poisonous virus we will tell you so frankly, and show you how to get rid of it. Our special treatment for Blood Poison is practically the result of our life work, and is indorsed by the best physicians of America and Europe. It contains no dangerous drugs or injurious medicines of any kind. It goes to the very bottom of the disease and forces out every particle of impurity. Soon every sign and symptom of blood poison disappears completely and forever. The blood, the tissue, the flesh, the bones and the whole system are cleansed, purified and restored to perfect health, and the patient is prepared anew for the duties and pleasures of life.

All Associate Diseases Cured

In curing a disease of any kind, we never fail to remove all reflex complications. If the case is Varicocele, the weakness caused by it disappears. If it is Stricture, and has developed into Prostatic, Bladder or Kidney affections, the injured organs are all restored to perfectly healthy conditions. If it is Blood Poison, any and all Skin, Blood and Bone diseases arising from the taint, are entirely and permanently eliminated from the system. If it is Impotency, the many distressing symptoms following in its train and indicating a permanent decline of physical, mental and sexual powers are totally removed and rapidly replaced by the youthful energy of robust manhood. Hence, all resulting ills and reflex complications which may be properly termed associate diseases, and which, in fact, are often more serious than the original ailment that gives rise to them—all, we say, disappear completely and forever with the cure of the main malady.

FIVE MEN LYNCHED

Father, Three Sons and Friend Strung Up at Lookout.

They Had Been Suspected of Stealing For Some Time.

Taken From Officers and Hanged to Stringers of a Bridge.

Bieber, Cal., June 1.—Details have been received here of the lynching of five men at Lookout, Modoc county, early yesterday morning. The lynched were: Calvin Hall, 72 years of age, his three half breed sons, Frank, James and Martin, aged respectively 26, 19 and 16, and B. D. Yantis, aged 27.

As reported here the men lynched had been suspected of petty stealing for some time. Last Saturday they were arrested for stealing barb wire, pieces of harnes and some hay forks. A search warrant was issued and the hay forks found in the house of Hall and Yantis, who were taken into custody and brought to Lookout, where they were being held awaiting examination and trial. Sunday and several days following other searches were instituted, and halters, dishes and table linen, which had been taken from clothes lines were found hidden on the premises of the suspects.

The charge against the elder Hall was petty larceny for stealing the forks hence he was released on his own recognizances. His trial was to have taken place yesterday morning. The charges against the others was burglary, and their examinations had been set for June 2. They were held in custody as they were unable to furnish bail. Pending their examination they were being guarded in the Lookout hotel by Constable Carpenter, assisted by B. Nichols, W. J. Brown and S. Goyette. The former stood guard till midnight, and the two latter took their places after midnight. Calvin Hall was stopping at the hotel so as to be near his sons. Yesterday morning, about 2 o'clock, a mob, estimated at from thirty to fifty people, suddenly appeared at the hotel and, pointing their guns at the two officers on guard, commanded them to remain silent while they secured the five prisoners, placed ropes around their necks and dragged them towards the bridge which crosses Pitt river. They compelled the two guards to accompany them. Frank Hall, it is reported, made such strong resistance that the mob hanged him before it got to the main bridge, under a small bridge crossing a deep slough. The others were taken to the main bridge, and Calvin Hall, the father, was hanged on the north side, and Yantis and the other Hall boys were hanged on the south side of the bridge. As soon as the lynching was discovered word was telegraphed to the district attorney and sheriff at Alturas, and they, together with the coroner, are now on the way to the scene of the tragedy to hold an inquest.

Marvelous Results of Cascarine.

Gift to Sufferers to the Key of Health.

The Cures Speak for Themselves.

The news of the astonishing success of the special form of treating diseases, Cascarine, is truly remarkable and wonderful in its effect. The number of calls that are being received for it at the drug stores do not lessen, showing thereby that the cures being made are creating impressions far and near. This special form of treatment can be had for the small sum of 50 cents per bottle, which in most cases is sufficient to last for one month.

The following is told by one who has been using Cascarine: "I had doctored with my doctors, had sent to New York for treatment, had tried osteopathy and was even thinking of trying Christian Science. My trouble was dyspepsia and intestinal indigestion and I had spent a large sum of money trying to get well. I have now taken Cascarine for three months and it seems to be working wonders on me. What it is I do not know, but I have never taken anything like it before. It is mild and pleasant and you do not have to take a great quantity of it, but it seems to strike the spot. I know of one case in particular, neighbors of mine, who had a daughter who was pale, sickly and completely run down. They doctored her a great deal, but, like myself, the treatment she had received did not seem to do her any good. I know positively that Cascarine cured her in a short time. Cascarine is recommended to cure biliousness, constipation, intestinal indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness and other ills caused by a weak and inactive digestive system. It acts on the liver and one feels so much better after taking it. It is good for children, old people and everybody. You can get it at your drug store, one large bottle for 50 cents. It is in liquid form and not a cheap, nasty tablet as I had been led to believe before I bought it. I wrote to the manufacturers, Rea Bros. & Co., Minneapolis, Minn., and sent them 10 cents in stamps and they sent me a free sample treatment and book on diet and cure. Take Cascarine and keep good health."

WATCHING THE WEST

Wheat Trade Anxiously Scanning the Weather Map.

North Dakota Situation Not Serious But Causing Uneasiness.

Market Advances Sharply and Closes at the Top.

Duluth Board of Trade June 1.—Weather influences continued to control the wheat market today and all the trade seems to be watching the condition in the Northwest. North Dakota is the center of interest and the drouth in that state continues. Fargo, Grand Forks and all points reported clear, cool, dry weather this morning. The weather map gives no promise of rain for a couple of days at least and there is much uneasiness. The situation has not reached the stage where there is justification for alarm but with the memory of last June in mind the wheat trader is anxiously watching for wet weather and does not like to sell the market short. A wire from Fargo this morning said that there was not a pressing need for rain yet as the roots are well down and there is much moisture a few inches below the surface. The outlook is for an enormous crop if the rain does not fall at the proper time. The cables were steady, spot wheat at Liverpool closing ¼d higher and futures unchanged to ½d lower. Clearances were large aggregating for wheat and flour, 1,123,655 bus. Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 300 cars, against 230 last week and 596 last year. Chicago receipts, 115 cars, 2 of contract grade.

There was fairly active trading in futures on the Duluth board. July wheat opened ⅛c off, at 75¾c, sold at 75¾c at 9:30, advanced ½ @ ⅝c at 10:10, rose to 76c at 11:10 and closed at 76¼-⅜c, being ⅜@⅝c higher than yesterday. Chicago and Minneapolis closed ⅝-¾c higher.

Cash sales amounted to 20,000 bus at the July price. Oats and rye were unchanged.

Corn declined ¼c. Cash and to arrive flax closed nominally at $1.50, but none could be obtained at that price. September and September Northwestern flax declined 2c, and October flax was unchanged. Following are the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

There Was a Strong Demand For Wheat.

Chicago, June 1.—Continued dry weather in the Northwest and steady cables created a long demand in the wheat market today. July opened a shade to ¼@⅜c higher at 74⅝@74¾c and advanced to 75⅜@¾c. Local shorts covered freely. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 300 cars, against 280 last week and 596 a year ago. Local receipts were 115 cars, 2 of contract grade. Deliveries were light.

There was liberal realizing but heavy clearances sustained the market and the close was ⅞@1c higher at 75½c, top price of the day.

Corn closed firm, July ⅜c higher at 45¼c.

Oats were steady but featureless. July opened ⅛@¼c higher at 28⅜c, sold down to 28⅛c and reacted to the opening figure. Local receipts were 797 cars.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 1.—There was again very little selling pressure in the wheat market and the tone was strong on continued dry weather through the Northwest. It is not serious damage has been done in any quarter so far, but it is that the tendency is steadily toward a modification of previous crop estimates. There are no indications of rain during the next twenty-four hours. The visible on Monday will probably show a moderate decrease. Clearances for the day were large. Australian shipments are comparatively heavy and liberal, world's shipments are probable. Primary receipts are running below last year and while rains would undoubtedly cause some selling pressure, we think for the time being the long side is the best and wheat should be bought on soft spots. With continued dry weather the market will advance materially. Estimated cars, 85.

The tone of the corn market is strong. Smaller receipts are anticipated for the time-being and conditions are not altogether favorable for the growing crop. Speculative operations are not large, however, and the general tone is steady and firm. Local stocks increased about 750,000 bus for the week.

The oats market is steady. Crop advices continue unfavorable and the country is disposed to buy oats. The general tone of the market is firm and any manipulation is past a shipping demand should appear.

The provision market is steady and without material change speculative operations are small and featureless. The expectation of generally large movement of hogs prevents confident buying and the general local feeling seems to be that provisions should sell lower during the month.

ADVANCE IN STOCKS

Strength at the Opening, Especially In Steel Stocks.

Purchasing Orders For Large Amounts Increased the Gains.

Close Was Animated and Buoyant at the Top Level.

New York, June 1.—Yesterday's strength was continued in the American department in London this morning when United States Steel had risen 3 points and Atchison 2¼ before the opening here. There was rather excited trading here when the market upened and blocks of several thousand shares of a number of stocks were taken. In United States Steel the opening sales were of 30,000 shares at 50 and 49⅝, compared with 48¼ last night. The preferred was also up 4 point, Atchison 2¼ to 85¾, compared with 83⅝ last night and Union Pacific at 110 to 110⅝, compared with 108½ last night. Missouri Pacific rose 1⅜ and there were gains of ¼ point in St. Paul, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Amalgamated Copper, American Tobacco and Atchison, preferred.

Purchasing orders for large amounts of stocks increased the opening gains. The extreme rise ranged up to 3¾ in Union Pacific, 2½ in St. Paul and 4 in Metropolitan. In addition there were advances of 2 points or more in Atchison, Brooklyn Transit, Lackawanna, Erie second preferred, Kansas & Texas preferred, and Illinois Central. United States Steel rose an extreme 2 and the preferred 2¼. Profit-taking in Union Pacific caused it to lose 1⅝ before 11 o'clock, with a sympathetic effect on some stocks.

The early leaders fell somewhat into the background in the second hour and were only steady but aggressive new points of strength developed notably among the grangers and trunk lines. St. Paul rose rapidly 6¾ points over last night, and the preferred 5. The gain in Rock Island was 5¾, Northwestern 4⅞, Great Northern preferred 4¼, and New York Central, Missouri Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande preferred, Lake Erie & Western, American Tobacco, Brooklyn Transit, Manhattan, the United States Steel stocks and General Edectric 2 to 3. Gains of 1 to 2 points were quite numerous. The closing was animated and buoyant at the top level.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, June 1.—Cotton opened quiet and firm, 2 to 5 points higher, on bad weather reports and bullish news from the crop center. There was some reaction after the call on profit-taking, but the market held generally steady all the forepart of the session. Cotton spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 8¼; middling gulf, 8½; no sales. LONDON MONEY.

London, June 1.—Money was not plentiful today, owing to two millions of treasury bills paid off and two and a quarter millions of interest and dividends distributed. Discounts were easier on the prospect of goo supplies of cash during the next few days. Bidsness on the stock exchange was more cheerful, though the usual Saturday's indisposition for fresh engagements produced some irregularity. The better tendency was chiefly attributable to easier money and the rally in consols. Home rails were dull. Argentines were firm and Americans improved in response to New York being mostly arbitrary. The present movements were confined to two or three stocks, which were affected by special influences. The close was firm and quiet, prices being strengthened by the statement that the conflict of interests in Northern Pacific had been settled. Kaffirs were weak.

COL. GRAVES REVIEWS DULUTH'S PROSPECTS

Tells Why Real Estate Here Is a Good Investment ---Building Adjoining Board of Trade a Possibility.

This week's article in answer to the question, "Is Duluth Real Estate a Good Investment?" is from Col. C. H. Graves, whose long residence at the head of the lakes and intimate acquaintance with the city of Duluth during many phases of its growth make him eminently qualified to answer the question. As might be expected, his answer is very interesting and original. It is as follows:

"Once upon a time" a man, after long consideration and careful deliberation, said that it was "a wonderful dispensation of divine providence that large rivers always ran by great cities." He was made fun of because he had put the cart before the horse, and mistaken cause for effect, but really it was a striking way to call attention to an important fact. It is no mere accident that most of the great cities of the world have been built on the great harbors of the oceans, at the outlets of splendid rivers, or at the terminal points of fresh water navigation. The Atlantic has London, Liverpool, New York and Rio de Janeiro; the Pacific has San Francisco, Yokohama and Hong Kong; on lesser seas are Marseilles, Genoa and Calcutta, while the great lakes of America have their terminal points marked by the cities of Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago.

In business affairs the simplest common sense reasoning is the best. Every man of business has in his recollection occasions when the obvious and simple reasons which occurred to him at the first consideration of a question were a far better guide for decision and action than the more far-fetched and elaborate arguments which later confused his mind and warped his better judgment. So let us note the simple and obvious fact that there are four great lakes in the center of this American continent, more important as a highway of commerce and as the outlet of vast agricultural and productive industry than any similar waters on the face of the earth. Lake Ontario has at its western end the rich and beautiful city of Toronto, backed by a thickly-settled province; Lake Erie boasts of Buffalo at its eastern terminus, a hive of industry which has grown steadily and rapidly even during each year of the recent hard times; Cleveland, midway of the southern shore, because the nearest point to manufacturing Pittsburg, is a similar city with similar history, and Toledo holds the western limit; Lake Huron comes down to old and wealthy Detroit, and Lake Michigan brings us at last to wonderful Chicago, at the southwestern limit of lake navigation.

There remains Lake Superior, greatest lake of all, carrying deep water navigation 400 miles farther into the West, and to that Northwestern country which is today but sparsely occupied by settlers, but which is drawing immigrants by thousands and filling up with a rapidity excelling anything in recent history. It is now known that the Northwest is capable of supporting a population as dense as that in the Eastern and Middle states, and it is also known that those last named populations support numerous great cities. Within a radius of 350 miles are found the cities of Boston, Providence, Hartford, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Within the limit of 200 miles Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit have arisen, and 350 miles span the space which contains Milwaukee, Chicago, Indianapolis and St. Louis.

What is the natural and probable outcome at the head of Lake Superior and in the Northwest? The inevitable answer is, A population of 10,000,000 in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana, and cities sufficient to handle products, manufacture and distribute supplies, and serve the varied needs of that empire. The coming of those numbers of people is imminent; the tide is on us today. It would be very interesting to venture into details, to talk statistics, to recount the acreage of arable land, the mineral wealth, and to describe the peculiarly healthful climate, free from malaria and contagion, which conserves and permits steady and rapid increase of the human race, but our limits prohibit that.

The cities which will serve this Northwest must be very large ones, for it will take men by thousands and hundreds of thousands to do the work. They will be well paid for it, can have comfortable homes and will in turn support great mercantile establishments.

If we narrow our inquiry to locate the coming cities and trace probable relative growth of those now in the field, we see that those beautiful "Twin Cities," barring their advantages at head of Mississippi river navigation and at Saint Anthony Falls water power, occupy an artificial position as to commerce. At the present time the position is of great strength by reason of an early start before Lake Superior was practically tributary to Northwestern territory, by reason of splendid railway concentrations there, but railways are eventually obliged to carry freight through to a point of necessary final delivery, either for shipment by water, or for manufacture into finished product, and must then make their principal deliveries at Lake Superior as those of the Central West have made theirs at Lake Michigan. Cities are now built where transportation is cheapest.

Fortunate it is that Duluth has now apparently gotten over that spasm of hostile spirit against all corporations and all capital which a few years ago, incubated by the disappointments and adversities of hard times, threatened to stop progress and keep away capital for improvements and new enterprises, and to fasten dry rot on its prospects and its civil life. Its people are having an object lesson in the conduct of a city not a thousand miles away, whose people are quarreling with all the corporations, and have apparently lost hope. Duluth is doing better and will probably not return to former foolishness.

These are reasons to expect a good city, one in which real estate will be valuable, much more so than today. The speculator who wishes to buy today and sell tomorrow may not find in such reasoning an answer to the question you ask; he had best confine his attention to "five Sep" or "a hundred Nipper," and put up his little margin for a gamble, but the investor should look for such reasons and act on them.

A man who will invest an amount within his means to carry through, on the strength of his conviction that the Northwest is growing, and that Duluth is its port and its market, will find the probabilities of today soon become established facts patent to all, with the timid ones of today anxious buyers at prices which will reward his foresight. There are pieces of property in Duluth, purchased two or three years ago by men more brave than most, that are now paying 15 and even 20 per cent on the cost. Those buyers looked ahead and are rewarded. No better advice can be given to every clerk, salaried man or laboring man than to buy now some piece of real estate in Duluth, make it his savings bank, put in each month or year the installment payments, and have by and by something better than the experience gained by a deal in mining or oil stock. And with the workmen and artisans, the clerks and salesmen of the city owners of property, interested in local government, in taxes and expenditures, votes will be cast in the interest of careful government instead of some "good fellow" or because the candidate has made a happy hit in prompt advocacy of some popular fad of the moment. That will tend to more sound prosperity with higher prices for real estate, and your question will be answered.

C. H. GRAVES.

There is much speculation as to what the United States Steel company is going to do for office room, and the officers of that company are doing at least as much speculation along that line as the public. The latest report is that the 50-foot lot adjoining the Board of Trade building, owned by A. S. Chase, is to be utilized for the purpose, though so far as could be learned no definite arrangements have yet been made. It will probably be impossible for the company to get its offices all together in any existing building, as it desires, so it is generally believed that a building will be erected on the site mentioned. Its nearness to the board of trade will be a feature valuable to the company.

* * *

It has been reported for several days that the Massachusetts Real Estate company, which owns the property at the corner of Superior street and Fourth avenue west, where the Fargusson building once stood, was to improve the corner by a substantial building. William Gallie, the company's agent, denied this report when seen yesterday afternoon, and stated that nothing would be done for the present. "It is true," he said, "that there has been some discussion of the matter, but there has been no inducement offered sufficient to warant the company in building at the present time." The property has upon it a row of one-story brick buildings that would have to be removed if a larger building were put up.

* * *

Bids will be received next Monday for the new 3-story block to be erected by E. W. Peet & Son, of St. Paul, on Michigan street, near Third avenue west. The building is to be occupied by the Zenith Paper company. Construction will proceed rapidly after the contracts are let.

William Kaiser has opened an office at 106 Palladio building, where he will conduct a real estate, stock and bond business.

* * *

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the celebrated writer and novelist, just before his departure for Japan recently for a vacation of several months' duration, instructed his Duluth agent, Wendell P. Mosher, to sell off his property here at the lowest market prices. Under these instructions quite a number of sales have been made, the latest being lot 5, West Fourth street, to Charles Teska, and lots 370, 372, 374 and 376, block 50, Second division, to the church of St. Jean de Baptiste. These lots front on First street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues west, and make a very desirable site for the new buildings which that organization will erect.

* * *

Stryker, Manley & Buck report a good week, though no very important deals were completed. Among the sales of the week made through this firm were the following: A. F. Rudolph purchased a lot on Sixth street, near the normal school; the sale of the Webber row to John D. Brady for $10,500, announced last week, was closed; the deal on the southeast corner of Lake avenue and Superior street from Abram Nesbitt to W. J. E. Sander was closed; Carlies Teska purchased a lot on East Fourth street for $2000.

* * *

One thing that has interefered with very much real estate business is the fact that Friday was the last day for paying real estate taxes without a penalty. Most owners of property put off the payment of their taxes to the last moment, probably figuring that they might as well have the use of their money as long as possible. This kept the real estate agents busy this week settling up tax matters and the effect on transactions has been noticeable.

* * *

T. W. Wahl & Co. have closed contracts for one of their clients for building a 2-story brick and stone flat building on the upper side of First street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues west. It will be a solid brick with four 5-room flats and will be completed about the middle of September.

* * *

T. W. Wahl & Co. report the sale of fifty feet on the upper side of London road, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth avenues east, to C. H. Whitmore, who will erect a handsome residence there this fall. The same firm has sold 40 by 100 feet on Second avenue west, between First and Second streets, and is making extensive improvements thereon.

* * *

First street is the object of all eyes these days. The amount of building in progress and the buildings planned for erection soon indicate a great future for First street as a business thoroughfare, and, incidentally, it is a relief to Superior street business men in that it seems to offer a hope to them of securing lower rents. First street has come to the front rapidly during the past few weeks, and it seems to be a settled uestion among business men that it will quickly become the second best business street, and that soon it will be almost as important as Superior street. In view of this fact real estate men and holders of First street property are beginning to believe that it is the proper thing to improve their holdings there, as they feel assured that they will find tenants for all the buildings that are put up.

DATE FIXED.

Tenth Avenue Viaduct Bids to Be Opened June 17.

Bids for the construction of the Tenth avenue west viaduct will be opened by the department of public works on June 17.

Hundreds of laboring men employed along the harbor front will be interested in that. They have fought, urged and argued for this bridge for a couple of years. The Trades' assembly and other labor organizations have constantly brought pressure to bear on city officers in the interest of the dock laborers who have to cross through the railroad yards at all hours of the day and night. Now there is every prospect of having the viaduct under way in a few months.

The Tenth avenue bridge is for foot passengers only. It will be built of steel and at an estimated cost of $8000. The passageway will be eight feet wide and the bridge 484 feet long, extending from West Michigan street to Railroad street.

The city will build 150 feet, the Northern Pacific 108 feet, the Union Depot company 92 feet, and the Great Northern road 134 feet.

SATISFIED.

Teamsters Said to Like the Sandstone Pavement.

Teams are using the new Michigan street paving between Sixth and Eighth avenues west. Teamsters that have been driving over it to the Eastern Minnesota freight sheds say that the sandstone is easier on the horses than cedar blocks. At present the new paving is very dusty, but the footing of the horses is sure.

Work has already begun on the Fifth avenue west improvement. This street will be paved from Commerce street to the dock with sandstone. City Engineer Patton has found it necessary to do considerable filling in on this street, for years it has been settling down till it is now, in many places, a foot and a half below the established grade. This will have to be re-established before the paving is put down.

The engineer has received a sample consignment of paving brick from Galesburg, and will make a test of the paving from these samples some time next week.

PLANS ARE ACCEPTED

Radcliffe & Willoughby Design For New East End Fire Hall.

Is to Be a Plain and Substantial Structure.

Impossible to Man West Duluth Fire Engine Now.

The board of fire commissioners last evening accepted the plans of Radcliffe & Willoughby for the proposed new East End fire hall, to be located at the corner of Fourteenth avenue east and Second street. This hall is to replace old No. 4, which is in a very dangerous condition.

Owing to the limited amount of money available in the fire department fund, economy rather than architectural beauty, was given chief consideration. The plans selected are for a two-story brick building, which, while not a thing of architectural beauty, will be a very substantial and modern buildign.

The estimated cost of the new building is $6697. It will be 70 feet long and 35 feet wide. The first floor will be taken up with the apparatus room and stables. The second floor will be used for the dormitory, locker and feed rooms.

A resolution of the council calling on the board to report if it were not possible to man the West Duluth fire engine was presented to the board. The commissioners discused the resolution at considerable length, and came to the conclusion that the engine could not be manned with a regular force without exceeding the department's annual appropriation.

However, the commissioners have not lost sight of West Duluth, and at the earliest possible time will man the engine. In the meantime they have perfected a plan by which the engine will be sent to all fires in locations where the chief of the fire department thinks it can possibly be of service.

The impression has gone out that the engine was taken away from West Duluth. Such is not the fact. It was retained in the No. 8 hall, and when an alarm is turned in from the sawmill district the engine is the first piece of apparatus to leave the hall.

Chief Black reports that during the month of May the department responded to twenty fire alarms. The aggregate loss, exclusive of the Pavilion fire was $9114 and the insurance on property damaged was $117,050.

Many of the fires attended during the month were chimney fires and the board of fire commissioners has decided to recommend the passage of an ordinance making it an offense to turn in an alarm for a chimney blaze.

The annual inspection of the fire department will occur next Thursday afternoon at 1:30. The mayor, council, conference committee, board of fire underwriters, water and light commission and civil service commission will be invited to witness it.

Girls Have Majority.

Out of a list of twenty births submitted to the health department this morning, thirteen were girls, and thirteen were from West Duluth. The births were reported as follows:

To Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lindland, 1118 East Fourth street, a boy. To Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Heloman, 208½ West Second street, a boy. To Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nelson, Fifteenth avenue west, a girl. To Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patterson, 1308 West First street, a girl. To Mr. and Mrs. Allan Nuthell, 322 North Sixtieth avenue west, a boy. To Mr. and Mrs. John Winness, Huntington street, a boy. To Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Kilby, 6311 Gosnold street, a girl. To Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wood, 212 Sixty-third avenue west, a girl. To Mr. and Mrs. Ira Frallegh, 6118 Wadena street, a girl. To Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson, 605 Fifty-seventh avenue west, a boy. To Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Olin, 328 Sixtieth avenue west, a girl.

GUESSWORK.

No One Can Tell the Amount of Taxes Collected.

Payments of taxes came into the treasurer's office during the past few days in such a flood that it is beyond the skill of any employe of that office to guess very near the total amount collected. Of one thing they are sure, however, and that is that yesterday was the biggest day the treasurer's office ever saw. When the close for the day was reached last night the office was flooded with coin, bills, checks and other evidences of legal tender, and every clerk had a dishevelled and wild-eyed appearance that suggested an inference that he had just passed through a cyclone of some sort.

Assistant County Treasurer Williamson said this morning that he had no idea of the collections, but he was pretty sure that the footing at the close of May 31 would show at least $400,000.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The secret service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters set things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of strength and vitality, and restore vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

MEN'S SERGE SUITS AND STRAW HATS!

They go together and you can find them here side by side.

$15.00 is enough to pay for a Serge Suit, unless you want a real Clay Serge—$20.00 buys that here.

The $15.00 suits have in them the best American Serge, and they are tailored as well as the $20.00 suits.

But even our $12 Serge suits are made by our best maker, and have hand-padded collar and lapels, and hand-made button holes—very unusual at that price.

Our $10.00 suits are well made of good Serge—and we say the same about them as we do all the Serge suits we sell: If one goes wrong bring it back.

Young men's Serge suits $8.50 to $15.00—and our young men's clothes have a dash to them that you rarely find in ready-made clothes.

HAD A TIP

Cuban Committee Sure Action Would Go.

Convention Will Discuss the Situation.

Havana, June 3.—The Cuban constitutional convention will hold an informal meeting this afternoon to discuss the situation. President Capote and Senor Tamayo saw Governor General Wood this morning, but the general was unable to give them any definite information, saying he expected a communication from Washington, Tuesday, which he will forward to the convention for official discussion. Civil Governor Quilez says that before voting on the majority report, he informed the convention that he did not believe the United States would be satisfied with the form in which the amendment was adopted, including the constitution. The committee, however, positively informed him that they knew the United States would be satisfied.

It is expected that the discussion will disclose the committee's source of information..

SOON HAVE FREE TRADE

Secretary Hunt of Porto Rico Believes That In a Short Time Revenues Will Maintain the Government.

New York, June 3.—Among the passengers who arrived today on the steamer Ponce from San Juan was W. H. Hunt, secretary of Porto Rico. Judge Hunt will proceed to Washington.

Mr. Hunt said that conflicting reports of the decisions in the Porto Rican cases made it somewhat uncertain when he left the island as to what was the true import. Under the decisions, however, he believes it will not be many months before there will be free trade between Porto Rico and the United States. He said that when the new revenue law shall go into operation July 1, the government of the island, with duties collected on foreign importations and with excise taxes, will have enough revenue to maintain itself. Conditions in Porto Rico are improving and hopeful. The people, he said, are adapting themselves to the changed government, and are looking forward to gradual improvement.

THE "AMERICAN PERIL"

Competition of the United States So-Called In France---Advancing Toward Them With Methodical Rapidity.

Paris, June 3.—In the chamber of deputies today, M. Des Torunelles de Constant asked the foreign minister, M. Delcasse, for a statement on the Chinese situation. In the course of his remarks the deputy alluded to American business competition, saying the "American peril" was advancing toward them with methodical rapidity. The Napoleons of American industry declared openly that their enterprise meant the conquest of Europe and her economic ruin. The "Yellow peril" was more distant than the American peril, but the Chinese had given a warning which ought not to be neglected.

M. Delcasse replied in a reassuring manner regarding China. He said the French troops would leave at the earliest possible moment. Two batches had already been ordered home, and he hoped the balance of the expedition would soon follow. The powers only insisted on measures of justice, having the character of reparation for the past and guarantees for the future. Regarding the indemnity, France thought the immediate payminet of a lump sum was preferable. A guarantee of some form or other was necessary, and France believed a collective guarantee was the best. China accepted the principle of an indemnity some months ago, and she now consents to pay the indemnity demanded. It is said she will pay with her customs duties. But commercial relations will not be injured, as it is intimated that China herself will pay the indemnity, which was only just, and also the expenses incurred by the powers.

M. Des Tournelles de Constant suggested that the powers agree not to accept exorbitant private claims, to which M. Delcasse replied that the principle of these claims had already been accepted.

TO DIVIDE.

Attorney Makes Proposition to Settle the Gilman Estate.

New York, June 3.—Sanford S. Gowdy, attorney for Alfred Gilman, one of the nephews and full-blood heirs of George F. Gilman, of Bridgeport, Conn., over whose estate there is now a contest, said today that he had made a proposition to all the heirs, both half and full-blood, to settle the litigation.

"I can only speak as the attorney for Mr. Gilman," said Mr. Gowdy. "We entirely ignore the claim of Mrs. Helen Hall. She is not included in the offer. I am not yet at liberty to give any details, but I will say that they concern the division of the entire property excepting the real estate in this state and Maine, which, of course, is disposed of according to the statutes of those states.

"There is a disposition on the part of all the heirs to meet each other in a spirit of conciliation, and a settlement is nearer now than at any time since the death of Mr. Gilman.

"My proposition, which I hope will be accepted, is to give each cash, and this would prevent the estate from being depleted by costly suits and prolonged bitterness.

UNDER SIDEWALK.

Milwaukee, June 3.—A special from Mineral Point, Wis., says: Seven thousand dollars were found under a sidewalk near the former boarding house of Stewart Jelleff, held here on a charge of robbing the First National bank.

ARE STILL HOPEFUL

No Immediate Danger In the Case of Mrs. McKinley.

Physicians Look For Slow Improvement In Her Condition.

Dr. Osler of Baltimore Has Been Called In Consultation.

Washington, June 3.—Hope of slow improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition was held out by the attending physicians after an hour's consultation this morning in which Dr. William Osler, of Baltimore, joined. Dr. Osler is a professor in the medical department of Johns Hopkins college and has a national reputation as a diagnostician. He was called to add his knowledge and skill to that of the other physicians and the result of the consultation is considered encouraging. Mrs. McKinley had a comfortable night after a rather bad day yesterday and Dr. Rixey did not arrive at the White House until 9 a. m. Shortly after 10 a. m. he was joined by Dr. Sternberg and Dr. Johnston and a little later by Dr. Osler, who had been summoned from Baltimore. They remained in consultation until 11 o'clock and fifteen minutes later Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following statement, dated 11:15 a. m.:

"Drs. Rixey, Sterberg and Johnston were joined by Dr. Osler, of Baltimore, in consultation at 10 a. m., and report that Mrs. McKinley's condition was favorable as could be expected. There is no immediate apprehension, and a slow improvement is looked for."

The statement that there is no immediate apprehension, coupled with prospect for slow improvement, caused some relief to the many anxious inquirers who called at the White House for news from the sick room. Secretary Hay called on his way to the state department to inquire, and Ambassador Cambon came personally to offer to the president his sympathy and hope for Mrs. McKinley's early restoration to health. The president was distinctly more cheerful after the physicians had announced the result of their consultation, and about 11:30 went out for a stroll through the White House grounds.

PRECIPITATE.

Action of New York Central Strikers Is Not Sanctioned.

Toronto, June 3.—A report that President O'Connell of the International Machinists' association had said that the action of the machinists of the New York Central in Buffalo, who struck Saturday, was precipitate and contrary to the constitution of the order, was referred to Mr. O'Connell today, but he declined to say anything until he had interviewed the Buffalo delegation. The matter will come before the convention, but in any event it is expected that the association cannot approve of the strike, as it had not been sanctioned by three-fourths of all machinists on the Central's system, as provided for in the constitution.

AN AFFRAY

Minn Hist'l Society

The Foreign Troops Mix Up at Tien Tsin.

Several Are Killed and Wounded In Melee.

Tien Tsin, June 3.—There was a serious affray yesterday between international troops. Some British fusiliers, who were acting as police here, sought to prevent French soldiers from housebreaking, when they were attacked with bayonets and bricks. The fusiliers, in self-defense, fired in the air. This brought a number of Germans to the aid of the Frenchmen. They numbered altogether 200 men. Five fusiliers fired again, killing a Frenchman and wounding three others. In subsequent fighting, four fusiliers, five Germans and one Japanese were wounded. The arrival of a German officer and a strong guard ended the fray.

LONG TELLS HIS VIEWS

Secretary of Navy Thinks Decision of Supreme Court on Insular Cases Was Justifiable By Law and Precedent.

Denver, June 3.—Hon. John D. Long, secretary of the navy, passed through Denver en route to Washington, after a visit of about two weeks with his family, now stopping at Colorado Springs.

While here he gave out for the first time a statement of his views on the supreme court decision in the Porto Rican cases. It follows:

"The decision of the Downes cases sustains the government and is in accordance with the views of Republicans in congress. I understand that it recognizes fully and clearly the power of congress to legislate in its discretion with regard to the revenue relations of our insular possessions. Any other construction of the constitution than this would have made the regulation of our relations with the new territories a maze of inextricable confusion and inefficiency, and an example of 'How not to do it,' and would have resulted in the stay of our commercial progress. It is not easy to detail the embarrassments in which the administration of insular affairs would have been involved. Their status is so essentially different from that of the states of the Union that the same legislation for both is simply impracticable. This is so clear that it goes without saying, and, this decision is fortunate.

"Now, because of this very thing there will be those who will say that the court has been governed by the necessities of the case and the interests of the administration. On the contrary, I believe no other decision was justifiable as pure matter of constitutional law and of precedent. It is the decision outlined by John Quincy Adams, by John Marshall, by Daniel Webster, by the most eminent authorities and by previous decisions of the court itself. In the old pro-slavery days the effort was made to carry slavery into the territories under the theory that the constitution went there with it, but that doctrine never found favor in popular opinion, which is now confirmed by the present decision of the supreme court.

"The country will breathe freer, and the administration, confirmed in its views and strengthened in its work, will carry it on in the interest of concerned with renewed assurance of universal good results."

A DEADLY EXPLOSIVE

The United States Adopts Maximile, a Secret Explosive Invented By Maxim, Which May Revolutionize Warfare.

New York, June 3.—The Press says: Maximile, the new explosive invented by Hudson Maxim, has been adopted by this country after a series of successful tests at the Sandy Hook proving grounds. The secret of the explosive has been sold to the government by the inventor, and the explosive, it is thought, may revolutionize warfare. It is said to be more deadly in its character than lyddite, yet so safely can it be handled that the danger attaching to its use is less than that incurred in transporting ordinary black powder.

In an interview, Mr. Maxim said: "Should the United States now become involved in war with any other power we will be able to throw high explosive projectiles through the thickest armor of our enemies to explode inside their warships, while they in turn would be able only to penetrate our armor with solid shot, or at least, carrying no bursting charge whatever."

He thought the moral of these new developments is that the ponderous battleship must go, and be replaced by the small, swift torpedo boat or torpedo gunboat and cruiser.

ENGLISH ARE UNEASY

Concealment of News Regarding Operations In South Africa Has Caused the People to Feel Considerable Anxiety.

New York, June 3.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: The uncertainty with regard to recent operations in South Arica is causing a good deal of uneasiness in this country. It is believed that the responsibility for the concealment of news does not lie with Gen. Kitchener. But owing to recent warning from him as to giving news to the public, it is believed that the officials have suppressed almost all the news he has forwarded.

Meanwhile the daily lists of casualties are anxiously studied, but these lists do not fully indicate the actual number of deaths of British soldiers caused by the war. A godo many men invalided home have died in England without being included in the list. At the present moment all the military hospitals in the United Kingdom are crowded with patients, a large number of whom are suffering from enteric fever contracted in South Africa.

London, June 3.—The war office is making no effort to allay the public uneasiness occasioned by the scantiness of the news from South Africa. Nothing has yet come through to illuminate the Viakfontein affair, the only dispatch on the subject since the first official announcement being a three-line message from Lord Kitchener, issued this morning, giving three additional names of officers killed.

Details just received of the relief of Zecrust, by Gen. Methuen, show the town was practically besieged for several months and that its food supply was short.

A dispatch from Pretoria announces that the constabulary have captured Abram Malan, son-in-law of the late Gen. Joubert.

Malan was an energetic, progressive politician before the war, and since it began he has been active against the British and has filled several important commands, including that of Pietersburg, until the British occupied the place.

CLOTHES For BOYS

We have made it clear to many a mother at the "Head of the Lakes" that when clothing is to be bought for the boys—the Boys' and Children's Department of the Great Eastern is the place to buy it. We are all the time studying how to make this department more and more attractive to mothers who are interested in dressing their boys neatly at no greater cost than is necessary. At the same time we are in sympathy with the needs of those who must practice economy and our lower priced lines show a degree of wearing value and handsome appearance that are seldom found in the inexpensive grades. Our department for boys and children occupies the second floor and is light and pleasant and in charge of experienced salesmen. FROM BRAZIL.

B. A. Shuman Writes Interestling of Affairs There.

B. A. Shuman, former secretary of the Y. M. C. A., of this city, but now down in South American Y. M. C. A. work, has written several members of the association a rather interesting letter from Rio de Janeiro, where he is visiting prior to taking up the work in the Argentine Republic.

"We have had cool weather," he writes, "for this climate, which has added much pleasure to our trips about this most attractive of cities—by that I do not mean attractive in her morals, or the condition of the masses of her people, or in fact many other things which are far from desirable—but the city is attractive in many of her public works, ancient and modern, and in her location and harbor, which some say is not excelled in beauty anywhere.

"One of our trips this week was up to Silvestre, a mountain covered richly with tropical growth and commanding a good view of parts of the great city. The electric railway winds along an old moss covered aqueduct, which was built two centuries ago, and which is still bringing clear, cool water from dozens of springs in the mountains. We don't build masonry now that stands for two centuries.

"On another day we went up a cog-wheel railway, which is a marvel in engineering, to the top of a mountain 2200 feet high. Here we had a bird's-eye view of the whole city, and the harbor, the ocean, and the mountains forty miles in the interior. This view is overwhelming in its grandeur.

"Just now business in Rio de Janeiro is rather disturbed by the slow but persistent rise in currency. The government is getting ready to resume interest payments on the national debt June 1. These have been lifted for two years by the money loaners, to relieve Brazil in her time of hard pressure. It is claimed that the government is responsible for the rise in currency in order to more easily meet these payments which must be made in gold.

"I am very much pleased with the association work in Rio. Find a splendid membership, and Mr. Clark, the secretary, has succeeded very remarkably in identifying himself with the Brazilian people, and this has made the association the more useful to them.

"The building is in the very center of the city, near to one of the best business streets. Last Thursday night a reception was given in our honor, and the building was filled, largely with young men. A committee decorated with palm leaves, bunting and flags of the United States, Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay—thus illustrating the association fraternity now being established between these republics. According to Brazilian custom the floor, stairs and the street in front of the building, were strewn with the leaves of the mango and other tropical trees.

"Yesterday eighty young men were present at the men's meeting. I also had the privilege of speaking before a large audience in the Presbyterian Portuguese church. This is the largest Protestant auditorium in Brazil."

SPOILED HER GOWN.

Miss Hunt Causes Another's Arrest.

Lo! how lovely was the dawning when Lizzie Calves went forth! She, fair girl that she is, says that a decollete gown should not be worn by a person who may figure as a rival.

Down on Paradise alley last night, she met a Miss Hunt—a frivolous person, whose svelte torm was more or less concealed in a pink silk waist and skirt to mactn.

Miss Calves cast upon her an Argus eye. She liked not the garb. Quoth she:

"I've seen other swell gowns, but they were worn in their proper place—not in the alley on a quiet Sabbath eve."

Miss Hunt extracted her very deepest blush from her repertoire and replied: "I'll see you again."

Shortly afterward they met in their boarding house. Miss Calves was alone and Miss Hunt was explaining the architecture of the building to a young man from West Duluth.

"Say, if you really want to know the truth," urged Miss Hunt, "I don't care so very much for you."

"Why not, pray?" asked Miss Calves, with her haughtiest look.

"You're not in my class, that's why."

In the mix-up, Miss Calves showed her disregard for pugilistic teachings by directing her efforts against the Hunt gown.

The West Duluthian blushed and rushed to Miss Hunt's assistance. Miss Calves does not like West Duluthians when they are not on her side and in her efforts to grasp further portions of the Hunt wardrobe she carelessly plowed furrows in the young man's face.

Miss Calves was arersted and at police headquarters she put up $15, which she forfeited this morning.

HIS OWN IDEA.

M. S. Burrows Will Carry It Out.

M. S. Burrows, of the Great Eastern clothing store, left last night for a business trip in the East, during which he will not only complete the purchases of the fall and winter stock for the Great Eastern, but will confer with two of the leading New Yorkers for the manufacture of Mr. Burrows' own idea of clothing for men, to be known as the Burrows' form-fitting handmade clothing. His idea is the result of several years of study on the part of Mr. Burrows, along this line, and is said to be a revelation in ready-made clothing wear, that a suit of clothes made according to his idea is in every way equal to custom made clothing. Mr. Burrows reports a very heavy spring trade and anticipates a brisk fall trade, in fact will put in a bigger stock for fall wear than ever before.

The May term of the district court is nearly over, as the business on the calendar is nearly cleaned up. There are a few cases left, several of which have been set for certain days this week and next, and there are several others that may or may not be tried. There was nothing ready for trial this morning, and there was no session in either branch of court.

When the May term of court is finished the "long vacation" will begin, and there will be no court until September, when the next general term will be held. This will leave all of July and August and most of June without any court business, except the special terms every Saturday, and even these will be discontinued according to the usual custom during several weeks in the middle of the vacation.

TRUST DEED.

St. Luke's Hospital Board Has Decided to Issue Bonds.

At a meeting of the directors of the St. Luke's Hospital association held last Saturday, it was decided to issue bonds to the amount of $25,000 in order to secure the money necessary to complete the new hospital on First street at the corner of Ninth avenue east.

This morning a trust deed running to Henry F. Greene was filed, conveying the eight lots on which the new hospital is located to him as trustee to secure the payment of the bonds. It was also decided at the meeting Saturday to sell the old hospital property in order to devote the proceeds to help pay for the new one. The lots covered by the trust deed are lots 1 to 8, block 35, Portland division.

At the meeting Saturday it was shown that the association had raised $30,000 for the building of the hospital, that the lots had been purchased and the foundation had been built. C. G. Hartley agreed to secure funds to the amount of $25,000 to complete the hospital, and thereupon it was voted to issue bonds to that amount. They are first mortgage bonds, carrying 5½ per cent interest and payable in seven years.

The County Board.

The June meeting of the board of county commissioners will be held Friday afternoon. Up to date it has not appeared that there will be an especially large amount of business to be done, and there is nothing out of the routine whatever. There are the usual number of tax matters, road petitions, etc., and there are one or two applications for liquor licenses.

PUZZLING QUESTION

Village of Eveleth Is Ambitious to Be a City.

It Presents a Petition to Judge of Probate Bonham.

A Peculiar State of Affairs as to Law Develops.

The village of Eveleth, one of the smartest and liveliest settlements on the Mesaba range, has developed an ambition to become a city, and it has taken legal steps to reach its goal. As a result of those steps, Judge of Probate Bonham is in something of a quandary over his position in the matter.

A petition in proper form under a law of 1870 has been left with him, asking him to order the incorporation of the village as a city. The petition reached him Saturday afternoon, and he has spent most of the time since then trying to figure out just where the matter stands. He has not yet solved it to his satisfaction, and has referred it to Associate County Attorney Crosby to let him worry over it a while.

Under the law of 1870 an application to turn a village into a city was made to the judge of probate, who signed an order and the thing was done. At the same time he called an election for the new city. In 1895 the legislature passed a law providing that applications were to be made to the board of county commissioners, and that act repealed all acts inconsistent with it. Apparently this repealed the law providing that applications were to be made to the judge of probate.

But the legislatures of 1897 and 1899 both amended the old law, thus treating it as if it was an existing law. This raises the question of whether it is really repealed, or whether it still stands and the probate court has power to act. The application is made under the old law, and if it is still standing, all the judge has to do is to sign the order incorporating the city of Eveleth. If it is repealed, he cannot, and it is a question for the courts to say whether it is or is not repealed. Another question is whether or not the probate court has jurisdiction to pass on whether the law is repealed or not, and if it has not, Judge Bonham has no alternative but to sign the order and let its legality be tested afterwards.

Another difficulty is that the law of 1870 prescribes in what manner the election shall be held. Subsequent legislatures have greatly changed election methods, and those laws have appeared to repeal conflicting ones. This raises the question of whether the election shall be called as the law of 1870 says, or as some subsequent election law prescribes.

The matter is quite important, as if Eveleth is going to be a city it will desire to be one properly, and if a wrong course were taken sometime when an important municipal matter was up somebody might invoke the courts and show that she is not a city at all.

The petition now is signed by 332 voters, purporting to be two-thirds of the voters of the village. It provides that there are to be three wards in the city.

Territorial Pioneers Will Not Visit Duluth.

hTe invitation of the city of Duluth to the Minnesota Territorial Pioneers' association to have its annual outing in this city arrived a little too late, as other arrangements had been made. Judge John R. Carey has received a letter from Edwin Chamberlain, chairman of the executive committee, stating this fact, and saying that prior to the receipt of Judge Carey's letter enclosing Mayor Hugo's invitation the executive committee had voted to make a trip to the interstate park and the dalles of the St. Croix, and the arrangements had been completed. He says: "The early history of Duluth and vicinity is interesting to the pioneers of Minnesota, and no more appropriate place for our association to meet at some future time could be found. Please convey to the mayor and the citizens of Duluth our thanks for the invitation."

Disgraced Themselves.

The council may rescind a resolution passed several weeks ago granting city hall employes a half holiday Saturday. The city hall men celebrated their first half holiday by getting tangled up in a ball game with the court house employes. The score was 35 to 13 in favor of the court house. That is why the council is seriously thinking of rescinding the resolution.

A feature of the game was Detective Troyer's attempt to arrest one of the court house players for stealing a base. It was a wild, weird, wondrous performance throughout.

CAUGHT A TARTAR

Police Force Has a Great Time With a Woman.

Of Great Size and Strength, She Battles Terrifically.

Thought to Be Unbalanced and She Will Be Examined.

"The Moose"—a powerful brunette, possessing billowy, rotund proportions and a tremendous yearning to wreck everything in sight, has caused excitement to careen wildly through police circles since her sensational arrest yesterday morning.

She is over six feet tall and weighs 240 pounds. In her wildest flights it takes from three to six officers to handle her. She has strength in proportion to her height and weight.

Yesterday morning she stood on the corner of First avenue east and Michigan street with a piece of gas pipe twelve feet long, with which she threatened every person that came along. Several children had narrow escapes, and she chased one very stout gentleman for two blocks before he could get out of her reach.

When the police were notified of the commotion she was promoting Detectives Troyer and Irvine went after her. She saw them coming and started to meet them with her gas pipe. Under her arm she carried a bottle of whisky, which began slipping down, and while endeavoring to recover it the two detectives seized her.

It was a great fight. Both the officers are wiry and men of considerable strength. The big woman struggled to free herself, and finding that impossible started to drag the two detectives down St. Croix avenue with her. It was just like a ship in a gale dragging an anchor. Finally Detective Troyer steered her up to a telegraph pole and, with a deft motion, shot her right arm back of her and pulled her up against the pole, while he held on to her arm from the other side of the pole.

Finding that she could not kick Mr. Troyer through the pole, she turned her attention to Detective Irvine and kicked him so vigorously that his limbs are badly cut and bruised. Mr. Irvine then got his arm back of the telegraph pole, and the two officers held her in that position till the patrol wagon arrived.

It took three policemen to load her in the wagon and six to get her from the wagon into the woman's department. On the stairway she slashed around till it looked as if she would get the best of the struggle. When she got tired fighting, she would lay down on her back and it would require a derrick to move her. She finally permitted them to lock her up, and this morning seemed to have quieted down.

She was taken over to police court where she chortled so cheerily and strangely, that the court decided to give her a chance to regain her mental equilibrium and set her hearing for June 6.

Court Officer Cameron started back from the court room with her and out on the Michigan street sidewalk she suddenly dropped her 240 pounds on the quivering pave. The court officer had her by the arm when the crash came, and he, too, was pulled down.

The woman reposed peacefully on the sidewalk for a few minutes and finally consented to walk over to the jail if Detective Irvine would permit her to lean on his arm. He consented and she was again jailed without difficulty.

This afternoon she complained of being ill and one of the headquarters force talked her in to going to the hospital. She consented, but the officer drove her to the county jail.

The woman is a well-known character on lower Lake avenue for many years. Her right name is Louise Woulette, though she always been spoken of as "The Moose" on account of her size and general appearance. She had been drinking some, but the police believe that her mind is unbalanced and she will probably be taken before the judge of probate.

Caught This Time.

Persons giving parties out in the East End have recently been annoyed by boys stealing the ice cream. On Saturday evening Court Officer Cameron was sent out to the home of George Spencer, 203 Sixteenth avenue east, to apprehend the ice cream thieves. He hid himself near the freezer, and just as four youngsters were coming up to the house on tiptoe, a domestic opened a door and threw the light on the officer. The youngsters scattered and the officer gave chase. One of them dropped a hat in the excitement, and from this the police have traced all four. Warrants will probably be served in a day or so.

Appraisal Directed.

There was a distinguished body of judges in the city yesterday. In the party was also H. S. Abbott, United States court comissioner at Minneapolis.

They arrived in a special car on the Northern Pacific train. Capt. Pressnell and Judge Ensign took the party for a drive over the boulevard in the morning. At noon they enjoyed a planked whitefish dinner at the Spalding, and in the afternoon took the tug Record, furnished by Capt. Wolvin, for a ride around the harbor. They left the tug at Superior and the party took the special car again at Superior and left on the Twilight limited for the Twin Cities.

M. C. FRENCH RETURNS.

Situation First Class at Blue Grass.

M. C. French, secretary of the Mountaineer Oil company, and one of the crowd of head of the lakes people who visited the Kentucky oil fields, returned yesterday morning. Mr. French let a contract for sinking three wells on the Mountaineer and also inspected the No. 1 well of the Blue Grass Oil company, of which he was the promoter and organizer. Said he:

"The well was all that we could expect and will be a surprise to all the parties interested. Tanks are being erected and the glycerine is now on the ground to shoot the wells and I expect a wire almost any time now that it has been done. Four other wells will be shot in the same vicinity and the pipe line will follow. The oil was over flowing and the casing was capped Friday until the necessary tankage is erected to take care of it.

"In Cincinnati, Chicago and Louisville the Kentucky oil fields are receiving the lion's share of attention from the newspapers and when it is considered that very few public flotations are on from that section there must be some reason for it besides a wish to advertise the country. A gusher was struck near Somerset, Ky., the other day which went 500 barrels within a little over an hour. People are rushing into the Kentucky fields and there is now a lively scramble for leases."

NEW CARS ARE ON.

Several of the Big Ones Are Running.

The first of the new double truck cars was put into service between Duluth and Superior yesterday. The second car was started, but was withdrawn after one trip because of a slight hitch in the machinery. Today several of the new cars are in operation and more will be aded day by day until the whole ten are running. The cars run very smothly, if not as rapidly as the smaller cars, and apear to be very popular means of conveyance between the two cities. The street car company has torn up the westbound track at the corner near the Alger, Smith & Co's mill and is widening the curve. Beginning with yesterday all of the interstate cars are turned around at the new "Y" at Belknap street and Tower avenue, in West Superior, instead of running through to Twenty-first street in that city, as was formerly the custom.

THEY DENY IT.

Crew of Estelle Claim No Overloading.

The day and night crews of the steamer Estelle which is in the city ferry service to Park Point, are very indignant over the statements made by some woman that the steamer was over-loaded yesterday and that the passengers were allowed to crowd on until the boat was loaded down to the water's edge. The members of the day crew are Capt. Fergusson and Engineer Hilliard Brown, and the night crew is comprised of Capt. Joseph Jacobs and Engineer Frank Jacobs. These men claim that there was no overloading, that there were not more than 125 passengers on the steamer at any one trip, and that the statement that it was loaded to the water's edge is nothing less than silly. The story is pronounced by them to be the result of feminine imagination.

McLAURIN.

South Carolina Senator Withdraws His Resignation.

Columbia, S. C., June 3.—Governor McSweeney today received a letter from Senator McLaurin, in which the latter writes:

"For the sake of the peace, prosperity and happiness of the people of this state, I am willing to hold on to my commission as United States senator and to continue to serve the state as I have done in the past, to the best of my ability."

ONE CENT A MILE.

The Rate Granted to the G. A. R. Encampment.

Chicago, June 3.—The Western Passenger association, it was announced today, has voted against authorizing a rate of 1 cent a mile to the G. A. R. encampment at Cleveland. It is thought, however, that the roads will take independent action, as the Central Passenger association roads already have authorized the rate.

STRIKES.

Labor Troubles In Various Cities of the Country.

Holyoke, Mass., June 3.—Every paper mill in the city except the Whiting mill is shut down today on account of the strike. Conferences are being held this morning with the textile manufacturers, but the indications and expectations are that all firemen in textile mills will go out the latter part of the afternoon. Nearly all the paper mills are running off the finished stock today, but must shut down entirely when that is done.

Hartford, Conn., June 3.—Eight hundred of the men who are on strike here, returned to work today, the companies having granted their demands for a 9-hour day with ten hours' pay, while agreeing to recognize local shop committees, but not the union committees. About 700 machinists from other shops are still out and the lockout at the Hartford Machine Screw company's works still continues. Union officials say this company offered to put a nine-hour day schedule on six weeks from today, but they refused the offer.

Newport, News, Va., June 3.—In accordance with the plan announced several days ago about 300 machinists struck this morning at the Newport News shipyard. All other departments of the yard remain unaffected.

Wilmington, Del., June 3.—The Betts Mills company and the Standard Machine company, employing about seventy-five men, have granted the nine-hour day with ten hours' pay to the striking machinists. The men returned to work today.

Chicago, June 3.—Manufacturers and the 160 striking machinists in this city have apparently settled down for a siege today. The strikers put out pickets, but, so far as known, no attempts have been made to engage non-union men. The pickets are organized on military lines

WEATHER FAVORABLE.

Cleveland, June 3.—The weather bureau predicts favorable weather conditions for the 100-mile boat race tomorrow between the fast liners City of Erie, of this city, and the Tashmoo, of Detroit. Many visitors from various lake ports have already arrived in the city to witness the start of the boats.

KLENSMIRE IN JAIL.

Topeka, June 3.—William Klensmire, arrested at Kansas City suspected of having killed his wife, whose body was found Saturday buried in a ditch on his farm, near Holton, was lodged in jail here today to await the action of the Jackson county authorities. He insists that his wife committed suicide.

WORKMAN SHOT.

Fort Logan, Col., June 3.—J. C. Ayres, a workman employed on the ranch of Judge Rucker of Denver, was killed today by Private Wright of the provost guard. Wright was pursuing an escaped prisoner, and declares the shooting of Ayres was entirely accidental.

HAD FULL FORCE.

New York, June 3.—All along the rapid transit tunnel line, the work was carried on today with what was practically a full force. A vast number of strikers went back to work Saturday, although the strike had not been called off officially.

DONNELLY PRESIDENT.

Chicago, June 3.—Reuben H. Donnelly was today elected president of the Chicago stock exchange. John Mitchell was chosen treasurer.

BEFORE THE GRAND JURY.

Washington, June 3.—The case of Mrs. Lola Henri Bonine, held for the killing of young Ayres, the census bureau clerk, was presented to the grand jury today. The jury will be occupied with the case several days. Mrs. Bonine will not be a witness.

Teachers For the Filipinos.

An army transport which will soon sail from San Francisco for Manila will have a passenger list radically different from those heretofore carried. Instead of being filled with soldiers and munitions of war, it will carry a host of male and female teachers who are to substitute the birch for the rifle in training the young Filipinos of our new possession. The war department has given orders to fit out the Sherman for this purpose, and her next voyage across the Pacific will be as a teacher transport. Accommodations will be provided for 125 female and four or five hundred male teachers, and the first trip will be made early in July. The female teachers will occupy the first cabin staterooms and other comfortable parts of the ship and the men will be quartered on the troop decks. The meals and general accommodations will be equal to the best of those provided for any of the passengers that have made the trip in army transports. The department is anxious that all teachers who have been appointed for the Philippine service shall make every effort to reach San Francisco in time to be hooked for sailing on the Sherman. Should the transport not be prepared in time, owing to the present strike of the machinists at San Francisco, either the Thomas or the Logan will be substituted.

A Scarcity of Sailors.

Sailors are growing scarce. From present indications it would seem that a certain class of the species might become extinct. To secure them now it is necessary to raise them artificially and train them in the duties which perhaps they never desired. For several years past the American navy has been forced to the scheme of drawing boys from farm and field, putting them on training ships and sending them around the world to pick up the tricks of the nautical trade. Now comes word from England that the British navy is in the same dilemma and is unable to furnish half the proper compliment of officers and men. Several British ships that are ready for commissioning cannot be put into active service because of lack of sailors. It is the same story here, the department frequently being compelled to lay up ships in ordinary on account of scarcity of men. Several years ago the navy was forced to adopt the system of training absolutely green hands for work on shipboard. Boys were enlisted in the interior cities and towns, shipped to the seaboard and placed on board training ships. There are now four of these vessels in different parts of the world, each loaded with young men who are learning the sailor's profession. They are the Mohican, Dixie, Hartford and Lancaster. While there is a scarcity of sailors for the navy there is no lack of men for the mercantile trade. There is a great difference between life on a man-of-war and a merchantman, and it is not to be wondered that the sailors prefer the ships with peaceful missions.

Must Pay Their Debts.

The supreme court of the United States has decided that any person receiving a salary from the government is liable for reasonable debts and cannot set up a plea of bankruptcy in order to avoid judgments. The decision, which is exceedingly far-reaching, was brought out in the Shufeldt case a few days ago. Capt. Shufeldt is a retired army officer, having served in the medical corps. His wife obtained a divorce from him some years ago and the court awarded her alimony. Capt. Shufeldt declined to pay the sum decreed by the court and fought payment through many legal contentions. He lived in a house that was built on the border line between the District of Columbia and Maryland and fresh complications were added to the case by his efforts to evade the legal officers of the district of Maryland. When sought by officers of the District, he would step into the back yard and defy them from the soil of Maryland, and when wanted by the Maryland representatives he would skip into the house, where he was safe within the district lines. Finally the fight was carried to the supreme court, which held that as long as Capt. Shufeldt received the pay of a retired army officer, he was liable for the alimony and should pay it. The court further said that no officer of the government receiving a regular salary could plead bankruptcy in order to escape just debts, if the court could only extend its decision to everyone receiving a regular salary there would be great rejoicing in the mercantile fraternity.

GOLF FOR THE OLD BOYS.

In a recent address at Boston, Bishop Mallalieu, of the Methodist Episcopal church, characterized golf as "a silly game for grown up men to play." And then he continued: "It is simply a fad such as we have had in the past, and will have in the future. Croquet was a fad, roller skating was a fad. What is more silly than to see a man take up a club and whack a little round ball with the purpose of placing it in a little round hole out in the field somewhere?" The good bishop is also opposed to football, which he considers brutal, and to bicycle riding, and to women riding horseback atride. In short, he thinks walking is the best and only necessary exercise.

Most people will consider the bishop's view extreme and puritanical, and so it is. Because he thinks walking is the only necessary exercise, he should not deny to others a different view. To refuse to others the right to decide what form of exercise or amusement they shall take is evidence of a narrow-minded spirit that does not do credit to the bishop of one of the greatest religious associations in the country. The good bishop's motives are undoubtedly all right, but he is woefully lacking in liberality.

It may be true that these games that he condemns are to some extent "fads." Football is sometimes very rough, and even brutal, as he says, but it should not be prohibited for that reason. Public sentiment will purge the game of its brutal features. Golf and lawn tennis are probably "silly" to those who are so constituted to think that way. But to those that like these sports they are not "silly," but games that include a great amount of science as well as pleasure. A "grown-up man" had much better recreate occasionally by playing a game of golf than in some other ways that might be mentioned, or not at all. "The "old boys" can derive a lot of fun out of this game, and if Bishop Mallalieu will come to Duluth and visit the golf grounds at the East End some fine afternoon when several of Duluth's ordinarily staid business men are scampering over the green slopes whacking a little round ball as if a fortune depended upon it getting into a certain hole and then note the healthy color imparted to their cheeks by the excellent exercise, The Herald feels sure that he would change his views and exclude golf from the list of tabooed forms of exercise.

It has been well and truthfully said that men and women are only children somewhat sobered by age and responsibility; why should they not play in any innocent way that rests and amuses them? One prefers driving, another rowing or sailing, another fishing or mountain climbing, another billiards, another bicycle riding, another golf; and it would seem best for a teacher of men to commend all, in moderation, each man to play according to his ability and inclination. It would be a sorry world if grown-up children could never play and the "old boys" could not go out into the fields in a red and green golf suit that cracks the scenery.

Children should be repeatedly warned not to nibble any plants or berries while out in the fields or woods. It is even better to go further and not handle plants or vines. The department of agriculture finds on investigation that many poisonous plants and growths are indigenous to the United tSates. Many of them are familiar, and their malignant properties have been heretofore unsuspected. The safest rule is one that is entirely prohibitory, so far as chewing leaves or blooms of any plants, wild or cultivated. That common plant, the lily of the valley, carries a strong poison in leaf and flower, if either is eaten. A safe general rule is to put no leaf or bloom in the mouth, and even too generous inhalation is unwise. The charm of blossom and foliage can be enjoyed to the full without contact with the face and lips.

Russia is discussing water connection between the Black sea and the Caspian by way of the Sea of Azov. The projected canal is to have a depth of twenty-two feet and a breadth of twenty-five fathoms, and is estimated to cost about 1,000,000 roubles. The canal, besides affording a convenient route for trade between towns on the Black sea and the Caspian, would also be of great service to the agriculture of Southeast Russia, as it will be so constructed as to be available for irrigation purposes.

It has not been decided by the government whether the opening of the Indian reservations in the fall shall be a "gamble or a scramble," a decision from the president being awaited. The law empowers the president to prescribe the manner of disposing of such lands. There are several points to be considered in connection with the homestead and general townsite laws and in all probability the whole matter will be referred to the assistant attorney general of the interior department for a decision.

A decision of the California supreme court, recently rendered, holds that the denial to a political party which cast less than 3 per cent of the vote at the next preceding election, of the right to the privileges and protection accorded to other political parties by a primary election law, thereby prohibiting the members of such party from holding a nominating convention, is a deprivation of the right of franchise and a violation of certain other constitutional rights of equality.

The Portland Telegram says: "Duluth has a Home Consumers' club—people who agree to buy home-made products. The idea behind this organization is a good one to act upon here." The Telegram is a little astray. Duluth had a Home Consumers' league, but it appears to have passed out of existence, along with the Good Roads' association that promised to do so much.

Just as a German scientist discovered a way to render tobacco harmless by removing the nicotine another scientist comes forward with the announcement that the nicotine in tobacco is not the harmful part of the weed, but that it is something else which hitherto has been overlooked.

Judge Dittenhoefer, of New York, voices a general sentiment of lawyers as well as laymen: "The supreme court will have, I fear, to tell us in another opinion what was actually and really decided in the opinions handed down in the Porto Rico cases."

A handwriting expert in the Kennedy murder trial in New York created a sensation by admitting that he is not infallible. Many other people have entertained suspicions on that point for a long time past.

THE DAKOTAS.

Three Members of an Ethan Family Die of Smallpox.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Ethan—Mrs. Jane Berry, who lived six miles east, died Saturday of smallpox. Her sister, Mrs. Edith Meyers, and her sister's baby died of the same disease Monday. Difficulty was experienced in obtaining help to bury the dead, and the relatives were compelled to inter the remains at night. The disease is spreading in the country, but there are no cases in town.

Big Stone—The Chautauqua association has just completed a large summer hotel 30x80 feet and three stories, for the accommodation of visitors who do not wish to rent a cottage or tent. The hotel has accommodations for about seventy-five people.

Aberdeen—Fire destroyed the large barn on the Dempsey grounds Friday afternoon. The structure was located among some of the finest residences in the city, but no other property was damaged. A 7-year-old child lost a nickel in the haymow, and lighted a match to search for it.

It is rumored that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul is arranging to survey a line to Helena and is assembling a corps of survivors at Evarts for the purpose.

Sioux Falls—Burdett Thayer, special agent of the general land office at Washington, has been looking over the western portion of Sully county, where he found considerable government land had been fenced by ranchmen. He has ordered them to remove the fences at once under penalty of prosecution for the offense, which is a serious one under the federal statutes.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Grand Forks—Bert McVeety, aged 17, was drowned while swimming in the Red River Saturday afternoon. He attempted to swim through a whirlpool and was drawn in by the undertow. The body has not yet been found. Deceased was employed in the Hotel Dakota, and his mother lives at Graceville, Minn.

Rev. Mr. Thinglestad of Portland has been elected to the chair of Scandinavian languages and German in the state university. He will not enter upon his duties until the opening of the school year for 1902.

IN MICHIGAN.

Houghton Young Man Fell 400 Feet to His Death.

Houghton—Matt Hein, a single man, met his doom at the Isle Royale mine. His death was instantaneous, the unfortunate miner falling six levels, or about 400 feet, and his body being quite badly mutilated. No. 2 shaft was the scene of the fatality, which was the first since operations were resumed at the property a couple of years ago.

Kenlon—Henry Hovey, of Little Falls, Minn., met with a fatal accident here. He had been given work loading some thirty-foot joist onto a flat car, and had piled several tiers, contrary to instructions, on either side of the car, when its swaying toppled two of the piles over on him, frightfully crushing him.

Michigamme—One of the saddest accidents that has ever occurred in Michigamme happened Saturday morning shortly before noon. By an explosion of powder, Nicholas, son of John Peters, aged 18 years, was instantly killed while at work in the blacksmith shop of the Bristol Mining company. Peters was the only occupant of the shop at the time of the explosion. The powder was stored in a shanty adjoining the shop, and there was a considerable quantity of it in the little house. In some manner, as yet unexplained, the powder exploded and Peters was hurled against the wall. The force of the explosion wrecked the shanty but did no damage to the blacksmith shop, so it would seem that the young man's death was caused by the concussion.

A SHOVEL TRUST.

Pittsburg, June 3.—C. C. Loring, of Boston, who was one of the organizers of the American Steel and Wire company, is in Pittsburg to interest the shovel manufacturers of Western Pennsylvania in a proposed combination of shovel plants of the United States Eastern and Western shovel manufacturers, it is said, have agreed to the consolidation, and Mr. Loring expects to secure the signatures of the Pittsburg manufacturers this week. The proposed combination is to be capitalized at about $10,000,000, and will include sixteen of the largest shovel manufacturing concerns in the country.

DAILY STORY.

A JEWEL OF A GIRL.

BY CARRIE CARTER BROWN.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller).

In order to live and present what people call a decent appearance on John's salary, I had been compelled to do all the work outside the kitchen and practically various other economies. This was no hardship for me, and never a complaint did my good husband hear, even after my health became so poor that I could hardly drag about.

We were a family of two and had a small house, but it had simply come to that pass that I could no longer do the up-stairs work, and so it was decided that I should secure the services of a small girl at low wages. Our advertisement was answered by a dozen females. While it plainly specified a "young girl," some of the applicants were women past fifty, and others knew nothing of work outside of scrubbing. I had begun to despair when the right haul to the value of $500, and the robbery was not discovered till morning. The police came again, and again it was their opinion that a "slick man" had made use of a fire escape. The affair was in the papers, and it was given out that they had a clue and would soon make an arrest; but as a matter of fact, no arrest was made. Of course, our new girl heard all the particulars, and if I was a bit nervous she did her best to brace me up by pointing out the fact that "slick" men never entered upon a robbery before being sure that the plunder would pay for the risk. There was some talk of a private watchman on the roofs, but the tenants finally decided against it, and all was quiet for a fortnight. Then the last house in the terrace to the north was robbed. It was occupied by a man and his wife only, and on an evening, when their two servants were out, they paid a call on the family next door. It was an expensive call. The scuttle was pried open, and house, and she was soon settled. She seemed to find things easily as if she had lived in the house for a month, and before the first week was out I was praising her to the skies. Even the cook, of whom I stood in fear, and who had made up her mind that "Miss Annie" shouldn't remain over two days, took a new tack and declared her a treasure.

The new girl had been with us for about a week when there was a robbery next door to the right. We lived in a solid block, or terrace of about forty houses. Access to the house had been gained by the trap in the roof, and the robber had made a pretty big haul of money and jewelry. When the police came to view the house they declared it to be the work of a "slick man," who must have gained access to the roof of the terrace by a fire escape. John took a look at our scuttle to see that it was secure, and by the advice of the police put another bolt on it. The robbery was talked of for three or four days and then dropped. "Miss Annie" did not seem to have much curiosity about it, but I told her the particulars as I had received them.

Ten days after the robbery, or I had better say ten nights, there was a second one in the terrace. A family six doors below had a little party, and at 11 o'clock, while all were at supper, a robber pried open the scuttle and searched the upper part of the house. He made a plunder to the amount of $1500 was secured.

This time the police stumbled over each other, and the papers were not sparing in their criticism. Three houses in a fashionable terrace had been cleaned out by one and the same hand, and if the police were not sharp enough to recognize him by his work they had better go out of the business. The tenants held indignation meetings, a dozen reporters came around for interviews, and it was a hot time all around. A watchman was hired to patrol the roofs, the detectives went looking for their "slick man," and two weeks passed and there were no robberies. Meanwhile our domestic affairs glided smoothly on. The jewel of a girl beed smoothly on. The jewel of a girl became more of a jewel every day. When she had been with us a month she had been out only twice, and then for a brief spell in the evening. As I paid her her first wages she expressed herself as perfectly satisfied, and John complimented me, the girl, the house, our good luck and himself.

At the end of two weeks the watchman was dispensed with, and on the day following the tenant at the upper end of the terrace moved out. That night John was off to his club, and feeling poorly, I went to bed early and was asleep when he came home. We arose at the usual hour, but there was no "Miss Annie" in the house. We were mystified for an hour, and then the puzzle was solved. First came the cook with her story that her trunk had been broken open and rifled of $300 in cash, which she had been afraid to trust to a bank. Then we found our back door open, and our jewel of a girl was traced to the empty house. She had carried all her plunder there and made it up in bundles and gone away in a cab. Yes, she was the robber, as a few articles left behind proved, and as dumbfounded as we were there was still a greater surprise in store for us. We had no sooner notified the police than they put two and two together, in some way unknown to us, and made an arrest, and in the course of a couple of days John and I were asked to visit headquarters and identify "Miss Annie."

I was dragged off much against my will, and when we had reached headquarters the "jewel" was walked out. I was already shedding tears, but my eyes were almost instantly dried. Instead of "Miss Annie" it was a young man dressed in his proper garments, and his face wearing a rather amused expression. John and I sat there with our mouthes open until the police laughed outright. There was no mistake about it. The young fellow, who was four or five years older than he looked, had passed himself on us as a miss and lived in our house for six weeks, and had been caught with the plunder of the three robberies. He was the "slick man," and he had played a slick game. He got five years in prison as a reward, and of course I had to be one of the five witnesses against him. It was hard enough for me, for the papers took it as a good joke, but it was far harder for poor John. He had not only scored the police for not finding the robber, who was in his own house all the time, but he had to acknowledge that as a student of human nature he was a wretched failure.

Superior and Duluth Split Even Saturday and Sunday.

Big Duluths Defeat Fashions In a Pretty Game.

High School Wallops a Picked Superior Team.

Duluth and Superior split even on the Saturday-Sunday ball games. Duluth lost Saturday for want of a pitcher, and won yesterday by terrific hitting in the early stages. In the first game the maroon stockings hit hard enough to win had the hits been bunched. Hanley, the red-top twirler, was touched up for eleven hits. On the other hand Superior treated Young's slants with scant courtesy. He was hit safely fifteen times, netting thirteen runs. Errors were numerous on both sides.

The score was:

SUPERIOR.	A.B.	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.

Although yesterday's game was won by Duluth, it was a slow exhibition. Duluth took a whirl at Augustine, the funk wonder from down in Wisconsin, and knocked him out of the box in three innings. Hansell and Shepard, touched him up for two baggers and Glenny and Shepard lined out screaming triples.

For eight innings Glenny held Superior down splendidly in the face of poor support. In the ninth he let up a little and with the aid of more errors Superior scored five runs.

A PRETTY GAME.

Big Duluth Nine Defeats the Fashions.

Lovell's great pitching and Faulkner's slashing single in the ninth won a pretty game for Big Duluth at Oneota Park yesterday afternoon. When the Big Duluth and Fashion teams come together something faster than the flight of the incline car is due, and this feeling drew quite a crowd to Oneota Park yesterday.

The Fashions started out with the intention of duplicating the performance of the last meeting. In the second and third they scored three runs each. Then Lovell settled down and in the next five innings only seventeen men faced him. Big Duluth tied the score in the fifth and won out in the ninth. Hurd was on second when Faulkner the mute outfielder cracked out a single to left bringing in the winning run.

Cummings pitched a good game for the Fashions, striking out eight men. He was given gilt-edged support.

The score by innings was:

HIGH SCHOOL WINS.

Wallops a Picked Team From Superior.

A team composed of picked men from the Superior normal and Blaine high schools, and the Superior Business college were defeated by the crack Duluth central high school team last Saturday afternoon by a score of 20 to 9. A game had been arranged with the Normals for that date, but the manager of that team found that four of his players were out of town and one in bed, making it necessary to call the game off. The game with the Normals had been advertised in The Herald Friday evening, but by Saturday morning Manager Richards had arranged a game with the Blaine high school, of Superior, to fill the date. When the team turned out in the afternoon it was found to be composed of the flower of both teams with a business university man thrown in for pitcher.

The swamp jumpers went to bat first, and Alworth pitched just twelve balls, nine of them strikes and Superior went into the field. The crowd which was a very small one yelled lustily. But Duluth did very little better. Peterson connected and sent the sphere far out into left field, but Clarence Anderson gobbled it up, Congdon sawed and Al Cummings fouled out. In the second inning Cornell Anderson for Superior went out on first, but his brother managed to make that much-coveted spot, and when Weinstein sent out a sizzling liner to Peterson at short, went at a 10-second gait for second. Peterson made a beautiful catch and sent the ball over to Congdon at first, making a very pretty double play. Berg got his base on balls, stole second and third and came home on Conley's error. In the third, Superior filled the bases, but Alworth was equal to the occasion and fanned two at the plate. Duluth opened up its batteries and hammered out two runs, added five the next, four after that and one in the sixth. In the seventh they got a lazy streak and were goose-egged, but in the eighth they batted around once and three over, noting seven runs. The Superiors made their first runs in the fifth on errors by Duluth. In the sixth they went down with no score, but run in five in the seventh and one in the ninth.

Alworth pitched a great game, giving only six hits and Potter kept up his reputation behind the willow. Berg is getting to be the sort of man that is always under the ball and can always make good at the bat. Capt. Congdon pulled down a liner in the middle pasture with one hand that made the crowd yell, and he chalked up four runs in addition. All the men played well with the exception of a time in the seventh, when everyone seemed to have that tired feeling. The outfield for Superior was especially good, Clarence Anderson making several good catches. Monroe, who pitched looked as though he meant to keep the Duluth crowd guessing, but couldn't keep the pace and was hammed all over the field before the game ended. Puthuck's umpiring, as usual, was satisfactory to both sides. The tabulated score follows:

HAVE NEW ORE FIELD

Robert Whiteside and W. G. Larue Strike Iron In Wisconsin.

Field Is Near Baraboo and Fine Body Shown Up.

The Property Now Under Lease to Some Large Interests.

Discoveries of new ore fields are being reported almost every day recently, and iron ore seems to be considered almost as valuable as gold, since the new steel trust gobbled up such a large share of the known supply. Many of the announcements are of a shadowy nature and but little credit is placed in them except by the uninformed. A new orefield down in Wisconsin is being opened up now, however, about which little or nothing has been heard, and yet it is more than a shadow. It has been leased and development work of large proportions is going on at the present time. It is not an entirely new thing, however, for it was proposed years ago and given up.

Two Duluth men are interested in this new ore find, and have, in fact, been the ones who have caused the opening up of the property at this time. They are Robert Whiteside and W. G. Larue. Associated with them is Herman Grothophorst, an attorney of Baraboo, Wis. The find is located three miles out of North Freedom, Wis., which is a little town nine miles from Baraboo.

W. G. Larue is the man who is responsible for the renewed interest in this ore field. About 1888 the Douglas Iron company began explorations on the property and sank a shaft about seventy feet, but found nothing. Mr. Larue knew something of the operations and felt that the shaft was not sunk in the right place and that the ore would be found deeper. About a year ago he interested Mr. Whiteside, and, together with the Baraboo attorney, they secured options on about 500 acres around there and put diamond drills at work.

The result of their prospecting justified the opinions of Mr. Larue. Eight diamond drill holes were put down and seven of them went into ore. The vein is about thirty feet wide and of good depth. The ore runs from 57 to 64 per cent in iron and is low enough in phosphorus to come in the Bessemer class.

Some time ago a lease of the property was made to a man named Howe, of Chicago. Just who he is is not generally known, and if the owners of the property know, they are not saying. It is known that he represents some large iron interests, however. Under the option for a lease which he has taken, a minimum of 50,000 tons a year is to be mined, and the royalty is on a sliding scale, varying according to the quality of the ore. The average royalty is 27 cents a ton.

The interests that have taken the option are now unloading a large amount of material on the ground and are preparing for extensive development work. The people of the community around there are much excited over the discovery of the ore, and have visions of prospective wealth that will undoubtedly result in the puncturing of the country around with many drill holes.

Outside of the territory immediately around there little or nothing has been heard of the recent developments. A few days ago the deeds from the Douglas Iron county, the old owner of the property, to the men now interested went on record, and that started an interest in the find that promises to spread rapidly.

"NATHAN HALE."

Clyde Fitch's most successful play, "Nathan Hale," is likely to prove a pleasing attraction to the patrons of the Lyceum tomorrow evening. The life of Nathan Hale is one of the nobles examples of patriotic self-sacrifice that American history affords, and it must indeed be a nature that will not throb in sympathy at the thought of this gallant hero who went bravely to the gallows, leaving behind him all that life held dear, without a quaiver, sustained by the inspiring thought that he had contributed his all for his country's good. Howard Kyle, who plays the title role, has attained the reputation of one of the foremost leading men. He is a great metropolitan favorite, and is physically and intellectually admirably suited to embody Nathan Hale.

FRESH AT NIGHT.

If One Uses the Right Kind of Food.

If by proper selection of food one can feel strong and fresh at the end of a day's work, it is worth while to know the kind of food that will produce this result.

A school teacher of Media, Kans., says in this connection: "I commenced the use of Grape-Nuts Food five months ago. At that time my health was so poor that I thought I would have to give up my work altogether. I was rapidly losing in weight, had little appetite, was nervous and sleepless, and experienced, almost constantly, a feeling of exhaustion. I tried various remedies without good results, then I determined to give particular attention to my food, and have learned something of the properties of Grape-Nuts for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers.

I commenced using that food and have since made a constant and rapid improvement in health in spite of the fact that all this time I have been engaged in the most strenuous and exacting work.

I have gained twelve pounds in weight and have a good appetite, my nerves are steady and I sleep sound. I have such strength and reserve force that I feel almost as strong and fresh at the close of a day's work as at the beginning.

Before using Grape-Nuts I was troubled much with weak eyes, but as my vitality increased the eyes became stronger. I never heard of food as nutritious and economical as Grape-Nuts. Please omit my name from print." Name can be given by Postum Cereal company, limited, Battle Creek, Mich.

A DRY MONTH.

May Very Low In Precipitation---Temperature Above Normal.

In all the history of the weather bureau in Duluth, covering a period of thirty-one years, there has been but one May so deficient in precipitation as last month, and that was the May of last year. Last month the total was .97 of an inch, and in May, 1900, it was .62 of an inch. The average for the month during thirty-one years was 3.50 inches, and only in the last two Mays did it ever fall below an inch. The deficiency for the month was 2.33 inches, and the accumulated deficiency since Jan. 1 was 2.12 inches.

The average temperature was 50 degrees, which is 1 degree more than the normal for the month and 3 degrees less than last year. The excess of temperature for the month was 1 degree, and the excess since Jan. 1 was 130 degrees. The highest temperature was 82 degrees, May 16, and the lowest was 34, May 12.

The prevailing wind was from the northeast, and the highest velocity was 43 miles an hour, from the northeast, May 23. There were 12 clear days, 14 partly cloudy days, and only 5 really cloudy days. There were light frosts May 4 and May 14, but no killing frosts. There was a trace of snowfall.

RATES OR STATE WHY.

Order of Railroad Commission to Ore Roads.

The formal order to the various ore carrying roads of the state, demanding that the ore tariffs in effect over the lines be filed with the commission, was served on the roads Saturday. The fact that the commission had agreed with the interested companies to test the question of jurisdiction, has already been printed in these columns. The order refers to the roads as common carriers, and proceeds:

"That said railroad company has neglected to comply with the provisions of section 8 of chapter 10 of the general laws of this state for the year 1887 by neglecting to print and keep for public inspection schedules showing its rates and charges for the transportation of iron ore from and between any and all points on its lines of railroad."

The companies are to file in the office of the railroad and warehouse commission a schedule of its rates, &c., or show cause before the railroad and warehouse commission at its office, on Tuesday, July 9, at 10 o'clock of the forenoon.

EVERYBODY OUT.

Parks Filled With Throngs of People.

Yesterday was a beautiful day and thousands of people found it utterly impossible to remain in the house. So strong was the temptation of the glorious atmosphere that every resort was well patronized, and every possible means of outing had many followers.

The largest crowds, of course, were at Lester Park and Park Point. In each of these places were thousands of people during the afternoon, enjoying the freshness of the woods and the bracing air of the lake. The Lakeside cars were crowded to the roof all day long, and most of the day the park was thronged with people.

At Park Point Perboner's female orchestra played during the afternoon, and their excellent music was heard by thousands. The point was well crowded with campers and visitors all the afternoon, and the formal opening of the season there was a decided success.

These principal places did not absorb all of the crowd that sought the open air. The smaller parks, like Lincoln, Cascade and Portland, had many visitors, and all of them were at their very prettiest. Chester and Tischer's creeks, with their charming little beauty spots, were visited by many, and it was evident that they are becoming known as charming spots for short outings.

Hundreds went driving behind their own horses or animals from the livery stables, which all did a heavy business, and many others went sailing or rowing.

The Ore Shipments.

Ore shipments for the month of May from the docks at the head of the lakes show a great decrease over the same month last year, due to the later start made by the ore carrying boats. The statement of the three railroads for the month is as follows:

Mid-year movement of Muslin Underwear.

The distinguishing feature of these Undermuslins on which we would lay special emphasis, is their refined, high-class character—which makes them pre-eminent in the favor of discriminating women. This economy, and their unusually excellent character, make them doubly attractive to all tasteful women. These crisp, fresh garments tell their own eloquent story tomorrow in windows and in store. GETS A PARK.

Billings Heirs Give One to City of Superior.

Reports indicate that the city of Superior is to receive a magnificent present in the way of a park site, the donors to be the heirs of the Billings estate. The site is a large tract of land along the Wisconsin side of the St. Louis river. Superior has really no park, and the people have for a long time looked with longing eyes toward the Billings tract of forty acres as that most suitable for their needs. The ground has in fact been used for park purposes for a long time past, and has been visited by picnic and other parties, but improvements on the site could not be made, as the city had no jurisdiction in the matter. It is understood that the Billings heirs will not only turn over the park site to the city, but will expend many thousands of dollars in improvements on their own property adjoining the park. The idea of extending the street car line to the park site has been considered by previous managements, and many believe that the present management will look with favor on the project.

HIS LIFE SAVED

By Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I am sure that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at one time saved my life," says A. E. Lafalette, of Gregory Landing, Clark county, Missouri. "I was in such bad shape that the doctors said I could not live. When I was at the lowest ebb, one of my neighbors brought in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and I took it and got instant relief. I soon got up and around. That was nine years ago and I am still in good health. Since then that medicine has always been in my house and always will be. It is the best on earth." For sale at Boyce's drug store.

Choir's First Appearance.

Professor Francis E. Woodward's chorus choir at the First Baptist church in Minneapolis sang last evening for the first time since it was organized. The church was packed to the doors and many people were turned away, something that, it is said, has not been experienced for some time. The work of the choir, which numbers fifty voices, is said to have been very good. Master Shirley Alexander, of Duluth, sang at both morning and evening services and made a fine impression.

The Mesaba Excursion.

In the announcement made in The Saturday Herald of the excursion that is to be given to the Mesaba range by the ladies of Pilgrim Congregational church next Wednesday it was stated that the train would leave the Union depot at 8:40 o'clock. A BULGE IN WHEAT

The July Option at Chicago Sets a Merry Pace.

Rumors That Phillips Is Being Crowded By Bulls.

Fair Rains In the Northwest and Prospects For More.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 3.—Chicago absorbed the interest of the wheat market during the final hour today and every trader watched the quotations of July wheat in that market for there was a sudden rush upward in prices that indicated that somebody was caught short. Rumor had it that young Mr. Phillips had ventured too far on the short side of the wheat market. At the opening wheat was lower on reports of good rains in the Northwest but later there came reports of sudden drouth in many sections and this brought a rush to buy. Wire cables re this brought a rush to buy. Wire cables re this brought a rush to buy. The cables received higher and the crop conditions in Europe were said to be poor. The world's shipments for the week were said to be 8,415,000 bus. and an increase of 592,000 bus in the amount on passage was reported. Later reports from the Northwest were more encouraging and the price again eased off. There was rain at Fargo during the morning, also at Grand Forks and Bismarck and the sky indications were for heavy showers. This was also the weather forecast. The sharp bulge in Chicago gave a strong tone to other markets, however, and weather conditions were forgotten. That the Chicago advance was largely a manipulated affair was shown by the fact that while July was advancing more than 2c September advanced only 1½c.

Statistically the bulls had the advantage. There was a decrease of 3,122,000 bus in the visible supply. Clearances were large, aggregating 1,185,000 bus. New York reported 15 loads of wheat taken for export. Primary receipts were 912,224 bus against 1,636,211 bus last year. Shipments 339,948 bus, last year 280,825 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 602 cars, against 419 last week and 225 last year. Chicago receipts, 93 cars, none of contract grade.

There was fairly active trading in futures on the Duluth board. July wheat opened ⅞@⅞c off at 75¼c, sold at 75⅝c at 9:34, declined to 75¼c at 9:50, sold up to 76c at 10:10 and reacted to 75¾c at 12:20. There came a sharp spurt that carried the price upward almost a full cent, the close being at 76⅝c, an advance of ⅜@⅝c. Chicago July advanced 2¼@3c and Minneapolis 3c.

Sales of wheat were 60,000 bus at July price for wheat to arrive and ¼c under for wheat in store.

Coarse grains were rather inactive. Corn receipts at primary points aggregated 1,311,702 bus, last year 657,914 bus. Shipments 679,408 bus, last year 935,204 bus. The world's shipments last week were 3,-231,000 bus against 4,596,000 bus last year. Clearances were 848,000 bus. The visible supply of corn showed an increase of 1,-602,000 bus. New York reported 30 loads worked for export. Flax was up 1c all around today.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Weather Conditions Controlled Prices In Wheat.

Chicago, June 3.—Weather conditions controlled the wheat market today, and from an early rush to sell on rains there was a quick change of front on reiterated claims of unbroken drouth in large areas of the Northwest. News of poor crop conditions in Europe added to the strength. July opened ½c to ⅝c lower at 74⅝c to 75c, rose to 75⅞@76⅛c, reacted to 74⅝@75c, and then advanced steadily to 76¼c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 993 cars against 419 last week and 925 a year ago. World's shipments were 8,419,000 bus. The increase on passage was 592,000 bus. Local receipts were 93 cars, none of contract grade.

July rose with few reactions to 76⅝c and closed strong 2¼@2¾c higher at 77⅝@78c.

Corn was dull but steady. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 45⅜c to 45¼c on light receipts and held steady at 45¼c. Local receipts, 577 cars, 51 of contract grade.

July corn continued dull and closed steady ⅛c lower at 45c.

Oats were dull. July opened a shade lower at 28⅝c and held steady. Local receipts were 482 cars.

Provisions were easy on lower prices at the yards. July pork opened 2½c lower at $14.62½ and declined to $14.57½. July lard opened unchanged at $8.17½, and July ribs steady at $7.85.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 207 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 3.—The wheat market opened easier on light showers in the Northwest and favorable indications for rain throughout the entire West and Southwest. This made considerable selling pressure at the opening, but the market has since rallied on purely local conditions. There has been large and continued buying of July wheat in this market for several days by prominent commission houses which is supposed to represent a combination of local elevator interests. This buying was renewed this morning. It is estimated that they have altogether bought at least twice as much as the local contract stocks. What this buying may mean, it is as yet impossible to determine. There is, in our judgment, however, a large element that has caused an easier feeling. Local operations are small and developments otherwise featureless. Shipping demand is not urgent. Outs are firm.

Provisions were quiet and shade easier. Receipts of hogs continue liberal and cash demand good but speculative operations are small and the market is without tendency at the moment.

FOREIGN CROPS.

The British Crops Will Be Very Irregular.

London, June 3.—The Mark Lane Express today, in its weekly review of the crop situation, says: "It is already clear that British crops will be very irregular; but we do not despair that wheat will be up to the average yield. Grub and other pests are much in evidence. The crops promise well in Russia, Italy, Spain and Algeria. But there is only a mediocre outlook for France, Austro-Hungary, Roumania and Turkey.

"There is distinctly less than the average promise for Germany and parts of Poland.

"The regions where there is over an average wheat promise may be expected to produce 150,000,000 quarters; the regions with an average promise, 75,000,-000 quarters, and the regions with a deficiency, 25,000,000 quarters. Undeniably these figures are quite sufficient to account for the very quiet markets."

BEAUTIFUL PARK POINT.

Large Crowds Spend the Day There.

The popularity of Park Point as an outing place was duly attested yesterday, where large crowds spent the afternoon and evening. The attraction at the Auditorium was a ladies' orchestra, and the hall was filled to overflowing all the time the orchestra was playing. Luncheon parties were scattered all through the pine woods and on the beach, while the little folks were busy gathering violets and other flowers which are to be found there now in great profusion. All kinds of water craft were in evidence on the bay front, sailing boats, rowboats, launches, while the Superior ferryboats were loaded down every trip, showing that the Point is very popular with Wisconsin people too. The vegetation on the Point is now at its most beautiful stage, and a day's outing there is time well spent.

SOME CHANGES MADE.

B. B. Hardesty Goes to Chicago---Successor Named.

Two important changes have been announced in the city ticket office of the Eastern Minnesota Railway company in Duluth. B. F. Hardesty, the city ticket agent of the company, has been transferred to Chicago to act as city ticket agent of the Great Northern company. John H. Running, former city passenger agent, has been promoted to succeed Mr. Hardesty as city ticket and passenger agent. Both promotions date from June 1. The announcement made that J. G. Mooney, who has been for several years the Northern passenger agent at Duluth, is to be transferred to Pittsburg, is incorrect and premature. Mr. Hardesty was checked out of [illegible] but Mooney will probably assume his duties at Chicago during the first part of the current week.

Road Will Build It.

At a meeting of the board of public works this morning the construction contract of the city's part of the Garfield avenue viaduct was let to the Northern Pacific Railway company.

At tonight's council meeting the department will recommend the construction of sanitary sewers on Fifth street from Twenty-third to Eighth avenues east, at a cost of $4386; and on Fifty-ninth avenue east from the alley south of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad tracks to London road, at a cost of $367.

HOME OPENED.

An Institution For Indigent Confederate Veterans.

Atlanta, June 3.—The Confederate Soldiers' home, a state institution for indigent veterans, was opened today. Owing to the public observance of the anniversary of the girth of Jefferson Davis, large crowds witnessed the opening exercises. Speeches were made by Governor Allen D. Chandler, Hon. Clark Howell, president of the state senate, and others.

'Tisn't safe to be a day without Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the house. Never can tell what moment an accident is going to happen.

REACTIONS IN STOCKS

Were Quite Frequent on the New York Exchange.

Close Active and Irregular, With Steel Stocks at Lowest.

Profit-Taking on Each Rise Quickly Brought Declines.

New York, June 3.—There were substantial gains in prices of stocks at the opening in continuation of Saturday's strength which had also proceeded in the London market before the opening here. The grangers, Southwesterns, Pacifics and trunk lines all showed examples of gains between 1 and 2 points. Rock Island rose an exteremc 3½. Thirty thousand shares of United States Steel sold at 51¾ to 52, compared with 50⅝ on Saturday. Amalgamated Copper rose 1⅞ and the local traction stocks gained over a point.

Traders unloaded on the rise and caused some sharp reactions after prices had advanced considerably above the opening level. The railroads were bought heavily and Rock Island was carried 4½, St. Paul 3½, New York, Chicago & St. Louis second preferred 3 and Baltimore & Ohio, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific 2 points. Good gains were also made by some specialties, Colorado Fuel, General Electric, Hocking Coal, Pacific Mail, Tobacco and Consolidated Gas rising 2@3. Rock Island reacted 2½ and St. Paul 1⅝, and People's Gas fell a point under last night. The market was very feverish at the reaction and showed recoveries in some cases, while other stocks continued to rise.

Prices gave way during the second hour, although there were occasional periods of steadiness on covering by the shorts. Declines from the best were between 1 and 2 points for numbers of the leading groups of stocks. There were a few exceptions, United States Express gaining 5 and Delaware & Hudson and Great Northern preferred 2. A vigorous rise of 3½ in Sugar rallied the market. Continental Tobacco rose 1½ and St. Paul, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and a few other railroad stocks rose higher than before. A feverish reaction of 1⅞ in Sugar unsettled the market again. Bonds were irregular.

Some of the minor railroad stocks took up the advance while the leaders yielded to profit-taking. The reaction ran to 1 and 1½ in the principal stocks. There were gains of 3½ in Chicago & Alton 2 to 2⅜ in Texas Pacific, Kansas & Texas preferred, St. Louis & San Francisco second prefered and New York, Chicago & St. Louis, Atchison, Amalgamated Copper and other stocks rallied strongly to the top and the leading stock advanced between 2¼ and 4 points. The steel stocks in the meantime ran off to the lowest. The closing was active and very irregular.

TO BUFFALO.

The Railroads Announce Prices For the Exposition Trip.

The railroad rates to the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, N. Y., which have been awaited by the people in the Northwest that intend to visit the exposition during the curent month, have been announced. The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road started the announcements with a rate of one fare, plus $1, from Duluth to Buffalo and return. The Soo road and connecting entering this city have also announced a rate of one fare, plus $1 for the round trip.

Circular letters have been issued by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific companies under the date of June 1, in which the time limit is extended on the best rate formerly offered by these companies, but there is no change in rates. It is expected that the Omaha road will announce the same change in time limit either today or tomorrow. The fare for the round trip over these roads remains at $24.50 with a time limit of thirty days instead of fifteen days.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic company will also be the first in the field with excursions to the East. The third annual spring excursion over the road to Detroit will begin June 11 and the tickets are good returning June 26. The excursion leaves Duluth on Tuesday, June 11, and runs to St. Ignace, where the passengers will be transferred to the Detroit & Cleveland steamer for Detroit. The round trip fare for this popular excursion has been fixed at $11. These annual spring excursions have been very popular in former years and crowded trains have been run out of the city.

The best rate given to Buffalo previous to the first of June was one and a third fare, and a definite announcement for June was withheld by other companies until the South Shore road, which has a very direct connection with Buffalo both by lake and rail, had announced its rate.

Four propositions are being offered by the South Shore road, all based on the rate announced. The lowest proposition offered is $17 from Duluth to Buffalo and return over the South Shore road and the Detroit and Cleveland steamers and Buffalo Transit company. The time limit on these tickets is ten days, that is, the tickets are good leaving Buffalo up to and including the tenth day. A 15-day limit is offered at $21.35. Another proposition is by way of Owen Sound, taking the C. P. R. steamers to Sault Ste. Marie. Tickets are $22 and $25.50, according to the 10-day or the 15-day limit. These include meals and berths on the steamers. An all rail proposition over the South Shore and Michigan Central roads is $19 for a 10-day limit and $25.00 for the 15-day limit. Another all rail proposition is offered via the South Shore road to North Bay and over the Grand Trunk road to Buffalo. According to the time limits the tickets are $19.10 and $24.15 respectively.

SUFFRAGE.

Female Advocates Held Executive Session at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, June 3.—The National American Woman's Suffrage association indulged in an executive session this morning to which only delegates were admitted. The topics of discussion were the plan of work submitted by the business committee and consideration of the bazar fund. This afternoon the addresses of state presidents were resumed.

Maud C. Stockwell, of Minnesota, reported the membership doubled in the year and finances flourishing.

Lucretia E. Blakenburg, of Pennsylvania reported on the futile effort to secure the admission of Mrs. Margaret Klinglesmith to the law academy. hSe declared that the subsequent defeat of an amendment to the constitution of the academy forever debarring women from membership presageu victory for women in the near future.

Rev. Olympia Brown reported for Wisconsin that an active campaign of education was being carried on. The membership is small, however, and the hindrances to progress are the large foreign population, the extensive beer interests and the apathy of the women themselves.

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Buffalo, June 3.—Business is improving as a rule. Even the coal trade, which has been very slow of late, has shown some sign of strengthening. There has been a great scarcity of hard coal and little or no soft coal has been offered yet for lake shipment. The Duluth rate, which went down to 30 cents for a few cargoes, is back in line again, vessels refusing to take less than 40 cents. Only twenty-two cargoes were reported for the seven days just ended. There is a demand for coal and it will be sent forward just as soon as it can be had in quantity. The condition of the lumber trade is improving. Vessels are scarce and there are now offers of $2.50 from Duluth, with the regular Menominee and Georgian bay rate $1.75 for the first time this season. There is, of course, complaint on the part of the package-freight carriers on account of the rail cuts that have to be met, but it appears that the lakes are getting the flour. A record of fourteen days shows the receipts of a round million packages of flour, an amount hardly reached before in any two weeks of the history of the trade. Corn has been so demoralized by the May corner that grain receipts are mostly wheat, of which more than 3,000,000 bushels came in during the week in spite of the popular notion that there is very little of it in the West.

FOR THE STARTING POINT.

Detroit, June 3.—Glistening with white paint from stem to stern, and with all her flags flying, the steamer Tashmoo, of the White Star line, left here today for Cleveland, which is the starting point for the Tashmoo-City of Erie 100-mile race tomorrow.

DEFECT IN NEW LAW

Charles W. Nordstrom May Yet Escape Hanging For Murder.

Four Times Sentenced and He Has Had Nine Trials.

Loophole Now Furnished That His Attorneys Will Seize.

Seattle, Wash., June 2.—In the criminal annals of the West there can scarcely be found such a remarkable fight for life as has been made by Charles W. Nordstrom, thrice convicted of the murder of William Mason, at Cedar Mountain, in this (King county) Nov. 25, 1891. Nordstrom has lain in jail over nine years and by a decision of the supreme court of the United States, a few days ago, it appeared that the last hope had vanished, the highest judicial tribunal in the land denying the petitions of defendant's counsel, Col. James Hamilton Lewis, formerly a congressman from this state. It seems reasonably certain, however, that he will escape execution by reason of a grave error of the last legislature. Indeed, the laws regarding the inflicting of the death penalty have been so changed that there is good ground for the belief that no murderer convicted and unhanged, nor any murderer convicted and sentenced to death between this date and June 14, can be legally executed in this state.

The trouble arises out of the failure of the legislature to insert a saving clause in the law, approved by Governor Rogers March 8, amending the existing laws regarding the infliction of the death penalty by providing that all executions shall take place at Walla Walla and shall be under the direction of the warden of that institution. A saving clause would have made the law apply to murder cases arising after the law went into effect. The new act provides that after the prisoner is sentenced he shall be turned over to the sheriff of the county where he is tried and shall by the sheriff be delivered to the warden of the penitentiary, who shall keep him in solitary confinement until the day fixed by the death warrant for the execution, on which day the sentence shall be carried out within the walls of the state prison.

The Nordstrom case is at present being conducted on behalf of the state prosecuting attorney, Walter S. Fulton. Indeed, every prosecuting attorney elected in this county in the past decade has had to do with the action which long since became national in interest.

It has been four times before the United States supreme court, twice before the state supreme court and three times tried by the county court, a conviction being secured in each instance followed promptly by a sentence of death.

In a few days Prosecuting Attorney Fulton will, pursuant to the latest decision of the United States supreme court, move for Nordstrom's fourth sentence of death. The new law becomes operative June 14, and as the present statute provides that the condemned shall be given a thirty days' notice of death, it is clear that Nordstrom cannot be hanged under the old law. And as regards the new act, Fulton has the gravest fears. He said: "I fear that the late legislature by making an inexcusable blunder in the provision of the law relating to capital punishment has precluded the execution of criminals now condemned. By passage the amended law changing the place of execution and adding to the sentence that of solitary confinement pending execution of the death sentence, without including in said law a saving clause to cover present offenses, the execution of murderers in the county jail may be prevented. Had this saving cause been inserted the present difficulty would never have arisen.

"I feel that if the case of Medley, 136 United States decisions, stood alone, there would be very little hope of execution in the case of present condemned criminals.

"This decision, however, has been distinguished and qualified by subsequent decisions of the supreme court. It will be held that the law passed by the last legislature is prospective in operation, and that it does not operate to repeal the old law in so far as the execution of present condemned criminals is concerned."

Several days ago Nordstrom was told by a trusty in the county jail that the supreme court of the United States would soon pass again on his case.

"Yes," mumbled the old man, "I get out in a few days."

The decision of the court has not yet been announced to Nordstrom. It is not likely that the man who has for nine years been convicted of the murder of Willie Mason will learn anything of the status of his case until the time comes for some definite disposition to be made of him. There are several reasons why Nordstrom is the one person among the thousands who have heard of the murder of Willie Mason who know nothing of his own prospects for liberty or his danger of the gallows.

In the first place Nordstrom has come to be a figurehead in this matter. It is said that Attorney Lewis, who has fought to save Nordstrom's neck, has not so much as seen his client for years. Nordstrom's fate has long ceased to rest on facts and come to be a legal issue. A year ago he showed so plainly the dislike he had for the subject that no one has broached it since.

Nordstrom, a Swede, was employed as a farm hand by the Masons. He had some trouble with Mason senior relative to the payment of wages. One night while the Mason family sat at the supper table a rifle shot rang out. William Mason, still in his teens, dropped from his chair dead upon the floor. The shot had been fired through the window. Thirty-six hours later Nordstrom was arrested. He stood trial and was convicted, partly upon circumstantial evidence, the strongest points being that his boots filled the footprints leading from where the shot was fired. The bullet taken from Mason's head was of the caliber used in the rifle carried by Nordstrom at the time of his arrest. It was also shown that Nordstrom was not at home at the time of the murder.

MME. YALE'S HAIR TONIC

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It affords me great pleasure to call the attention of the public to Mme. Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic, which is the first and only remedy known to chemistry which positively turns gray hair back to the original color without dye. It has gone on record that Mme. M. Yale—wonderful woman chemist—has made this most valuable of all chemical discoveries. Mme. Yale personally indorses its action and gives the public her solemn guaranty that it has been tested in every conceivable way and has proved itself to be the ONLY Hair Specific. It STOPS HAIR FALLING immediately and creates a luxurious growth. Contains no injurious ingredient. Physicians and chemists invited to analyze it. It is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary, it makes the hair soft, youthful fluffy and keeps it in curl. For gentlemen and ladies, entirely gray and with bald heads, it is especially recommended.

A SCIENTIFIC MEDICINE.

March 20, 1900.

Dear Madame Yale:—I wish to say a few words in regard to your Excelsior Hair Tonic and Hair Cleanser. I have used both with the best possible results. My hair had been falling out for some time. I had used various remedies with little or no avail. Finally my attention was called to your Excelsior Hair Tonic. I purchased a bottle and began using it. The result was beyond my expectations; after the second application my hair had ceased to fall out, and as I continued my hair seemed to have more life and vigor and new hairs began to come in. After using the second bottle I was surprised to see that my hair was no longer tinged with gray but had returned to its natural color.

I our Excelsior Hair Tonic is certainly a scientific medicine and I believe the only one that treats the hair as a sick member and feeds and nourishes it until it is restored to its natural and normal state of health. I cheerfully recommend it to any one who is in need of a Hair Tonic or Restorer, as I have the utmost confidence in the efficacy of all your remedies. Respectfully,

MRS. C. L. BROWN,
51 Harper Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

DOWIE AS ELIJAH

Makes His Third Appearance on This Terrestrial Sphere.

The Chicago Fanatic Rants to Five Thousand People.

Reminds Them That Liberal Offerings Are Very Necessary.

Chicago, June 3.—"I am Elijah, the prophet, who appeared first as Elijah himself, second as John the Baptist, and who now comes in me, the restorer of all things. Elijah was a prophet, John was a preacher, but I combine in myself the attributes of prophet, priest and ruler over men. Gaze on me, then; I say it fearlessly. Make the most of it, you wretches in ecclesiastical garb. I am he that is the living physical and spiritual embodiment of Elijah, and my coming to earth a third time has been prophesied by Malachi, by God himself, by his son Jesus, by Peter, and 3000 years ago by Moses. All who believe me to be in very truth all of this will stand up."

And over 4000 people rose to their feet and greeted the declaration with cheers and handclapping.

John Alexander Dowie, true to his promises, made this statement from the platform of the Auditorium Sunday night in the presence of 5000 people. It was the culmination of a frenzied speech, in which he denounced everybody and everything not in Zion, cursed the pope and the Roman Catholic church, spat literally at Masonry, the newspapers and the bankers of Chicago, and raged and tore up and down the stage like a madman.

"Understand well what I mean," he continued. "I will take no counsel in my methods of government. I have come to proclaim theocracy, pure and simple, the government of God, by God, and for God, and I will never rest till all other forms of government have been driven from the earth.

"You talk about your democracy. Bah! I tell you democracy has been tried in the balance and has failed. The government of the people, by the people and for the people is twaddle. I stand loyal to the flag and countenance no revolution, but I demand here and now that the name of God must be placed foremost in the constitution of the United States, and the supreme authority of God over all things must be recognized.

"Listen to the first message of the prophet," he demanded. "You must pay your tithes and offerings into the storehouse of God. Accursed be ye if ye would seek to rob His house of its fullness by not obeying this, His will, sent through Elijah."

AT CLOQUET.

High School Commencement Exercises Were a Great Success.

Cloquet, Minn., June 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opera hall was crowded to suffocation Saturday evening, and many were turned away at the high school commencement exercises. The program was gone through in a highly creditable manner, and opinion is generally expressed that this commencement was, in very many respects, the best that has occurred in the history of the schools. The essays by the graduates, Misses Flora Mary Santerre, Nellie Elma Hall and Anna Swanson, were all particularly good. "The History of the Cloquet Schools," by Miss Hall, was really a valuable paper, and ought to be preserved in the archives of the school. The first, second and third prizes, for English composition, were awarded to Grace Morgan, Frank Skemp and Rena Cox respectively. The songs and choruses were all well rendered under the direction of Miss Bishman. Miss Ella Cox was the accompanist, and also in the course of the evening gave a piano solo in an artistic manner. Principal Reed's address to the class was heartily applauded by the audience.

Dr. H. B. Allen left Sunday night to attend the meetings of the State Medical society and American Medical association at St. Paul.

Messrs. Earling and Roswell, president and chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, visited Cloquet Saturday in their private car. They made a tour of the lumber and paper mills, and appeared to be sizing up the situation generally.

Mrs. H. McMillan, of Carlton, was in town Saturday, visiting friends.

Mrs. Clarence Bover, of Virginia, is staying in the city for a few days on business.

The business men of Cloquet should keep in mind the adjourned meeting of the county commissioners, which will occur on June 10.

Dyspeptics cannot be long lived because to live requires nourishment. Food is not nourishing until it is digested. A disordered stomach cannot digest food, it must have assistance. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests all kinds of food without aid from the stomach, allowing it to rest and regain its natural functions. Its elements are exactly the same as the natural digestive fluids and it simply can't help but do you good. Max Wirth.

THE NEGRO QUESTION

Dr. S. P. Long Discusses the Perplexing Race Problem.

Overshadows Social, Political and Religious Welfare of Country.

Negro Must Be Educated or Trouble Is Certain.

At the First Methodist church last evening Rev. S. P. Long, the pastor, preached on "The Negro Question." Dr. Long at the beginning of his talk, impressed on his hearers that the negro did not come to this country of his own free will; that, in fact, he did not want to come, but was brought here by force, captured by the whites and by them bound in chains and brought into a condition of servitude in this country for 250 years, until the conscience of the American people was aroused and the slaves were freed. The first introduction of the negro into America took place in the year 1619, when a Dutch trading vessel brought twelve negroes from the coast of Africa to serve as slaves to the white settlers. Since the time the first cargo of negroes landed here, the colored race in America has increased, until now there are over 10,000,000 negroes in the population of the United States.

Dr. Long touched briefly on the civil war and the emancipation proclamation, and told of the negro's loyalty to the United States flag since the time of the revolutionary war, when one of the first men that fell on the American side was a negro. Their loyalty to their old masters, Dr. Long thought, was most significantly shown during the civil war, when the Southern fathers and brothers for the front fighting the Northerners and against the very principle of the freedom of the slaves, yet, with the South at their mercy, the 4,000,000 slaves in the "black belt" at that time took no advantage of the condition of affairs to burn, destroy and outrage, but stayed on the old plantations and looked after things.

Dr. Long said that congress, at the close of the civil war, rushed through an act that has since been regarded as perhaps a little too hasty by many people, that of making citizens of the negroes as soon as they were freed. He believes that the negro, simple and ignorant as he was when first freed, and with no more conception of a government than a child, should not have been made a full-fledged citizen until such a time as he could have been educated to know the fundamental principles of the government that had freed him. Dr. Long held that that education of the negro been carried out before the ballot was placed in his hands, much bloodshed, riots and bloodshed that have occurred in the South during the elections since the enfranchisement of the negro would have been avoided. He said the old champions of the negro are dying off and there is manifested a tendency among the succeeding generation to let matters rest where they are rather than to take up the question and labor toward a solution. The nation has not done what it ought for the negro after freeing him, in the way of educating him to the duties of citizenship, and Dr. Long said that there are more illiterate colored people in the South today than there were negroes in slavery before the civil war. Dr. Long commented on the efforts that are being made by the educated men in the colored race to uplift and educate their fellows, and he paid a fine tribute to Booker T. Washington and other colored men who by their education and talented accomplishments have been brought before the public eye.

Dr. Long declared that the negro question in this country at the present time is one that overshadows the social, political and religious welfare of the country, and he believes that the solution of the problem lies in the working out of the principles of Christianity. Through the Christian people of the country, he believes, will come the aid to found schools for the education of the negro. Dr. Long urged the seriousness of the problem, and predicted that if in the years to come nothing is done toward dispelling the ignorance of the negro and a racial prejudice existing against the colored race, there will come a time of bloodshed, when it will be a case of black against white. He outlined the work being accomplished by the Freedmen Aid societies, and asked for a substantial support of the institutions.

In closing, Dr. Long said that Booker T. Washington aptly said that the barrier between the white and black race would be broken down, and a better understanding had when the black man is given that which the white man desires.

Dr. Long also touched upon the lynching question and gave statistics to the effect that in the last ten years there have been 1681 people lynched in this country; that during one year there were about 160 lynched, of whom 103 were negroes, two were Indians and the rest were white men.

Dr. Long said that the people of the North should not be too hasty in condemning their Southern brothers for the acts that they are doing in the heat of passion, for, while the act itself is to be condemned, yet he had no doubt that were an outrage to be perpetrated in Duluth, there were men within the reach of his voice that would be among the first to seize the rope or apply the torch. Dr. Long believes that human nature is the same everywhere, and that men when carried away with their passions will contrive just as diabolical methods of torture in the North as they possibly can in the South.

What S. S. S. Does for Children

Children are constantly exposed to all sorts of diseases. The air they breathe is filled with germs, sewer gas and dust from the filthy streets are inhaled into the lungs and taken into the blood. At the crowded school rooms and other public places they come in contact almost daily with others recovering from or in the first stages of contagious diseases. You can't quarantine against the balance of the world, and the best you can do is to keep their blood in good condition, and thus prevent or at least mitigate the disease. You have perhaps learned from observation or experience that healthy, robust children (and this means, of course, children whose blood is pure) are not nearly so liable to contract diseases peculiar to them, and when they do it is generally in a mild form. On the other hand, weak, emaciated and sickly ones seem to catch every disease that comes along. This is because their blood is lacking in all the elements necessary to sustain and build up the body. Poisons of every description accumulate in the system, because the polluted and sluggish blood is unable to perform its proper functions.

Such children need a blood purifier and tonic to give strength and vitality to their blood, and S. S. S., being a purely vegetable remedy, makes it the safest and best for the delicate constitutions of children. S. S. S. is not only a perfect blood medicine, but is pre-eminently the tonic for children; it increases their appetites and strengthens the digestion and assimilation of food. If your children have any hereditary or acquired taint in their blood, give them S. S. S. and write to our physicians for any information or advice wanted; this will cost you nothing, and will start the little weaklings on the road to recovery. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

AT WEST DULUTH

T. W. WAHL & CO.
417 PROVIDENCE.

It was learned today that the preliminary steps toward getting the sprinklig done at West Duluth will be taken at the council meeting this evening, and in answer to the inquiry as to when the sprinkling is likely to begin, a member of the board of public works said this morning that it will not begin for at least two weeks. The council must first vote to have the sprinkling done, direct the board of public works to call for bids to do the work, and must afterward confirm the contracts made for sprinkling. All this will take several days, so that those who expected to see the sprinklers at work this morning, or in fact this week, are doomed to disappointment. The merchants feel some satisfaction, however, in knowing that there will be some sprinkling done, even if they have to wait a little longer.

A TEACHERS' PICNIC.

On Saturday the long-anticipated picnic given by Capt. Mann to the school teachers of West Duluth took place at Fond du Lac. Most of the teachers from the Longfellow school, and some from the other West Duluth schools, were in attendance. In the party were also Dr. and Mrs. Keyes, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bradley and Mr. McCall. The trip to Fond du Lac was made on the steamer Mary Mann, and the party had a jolly time. This was the first excursion party up the river to Fond du Lac this season, and the boat scraped over several sandbars. At Fond du Lac a very enjoyable time was had, one of the features of the day's sport being a ball game, in which Dr. Keyes is said to have carried off most of the honors. The teachers were very much surprised to learn that the doctor was so proficient in the national game.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Yesterday was the opening day at Zenith park and the popular resort was visited by a crowd of visitors all day, most of them going out from West Duluth on the steamer Mary Mann.

Charles Campbell returned on Saturday from British Columbia, where he has been located for the past three years. PASSPORT.

Filipino Gets the Document From the American Ambassador.

London, June 3.—Dr. Regedor Jurado, accompanied by Felix Versosa, a young Filipino, called at the United embassy here today and obtained a passport for Versosa, upon instructions received from Secretary Hay. The officials of the embassy explained to a reporter of the Associated Press that the only unusual part of the affair is that Dr. Jurado, who has, since the insurrection, been acting as head of the Filipino junta, called at the embassy with Versosa. Dr. Jurado is a native of Spain and to the reporter of the Associated Press he said:

"Had they asked me to take the oath of allegiance, I certainly would have refused. I did not go to the embassy as in any way representing the Philipines. Versosa has just completed his education in England and wished to return to Manila."

CITY OF ERIE

Wins the One Hundred Mile Lake Race.

A Close and Exciting Marine Contest.

Erie, Pa., June 4.—The City of Erie crossed the line first. She reached the stake boat one minute and thirty-four seconds ahead of the Tashmoo.

Cleveland, June 4.—Stripped of everything that would unnecessarily catch the wind, the two large modern side wheel passenger steamers, the City of Erie, of Cleveland, and the Tashmoo, of Detroit, lined up this morning for their great 100-mile dash from Cleveland to Erie to decide the speed championship of the great lakes. Steamboat men from many lake ports gathered to see the contest. Special excursion boats from Cleveland, Toledo, Erie, Buaffalo and smaller ports took large loads of passengers to ports along the lake. Throngs of curious people also gathered along the lake shore to catch a glimpse of the racers.

The day dawned bright and clear with a light southwesterly breeze stirring a gentle swell. Long before starting time Cleveland harbor was alive with crafts and the wharves were black with people. Thousands of whistles and bells sounded as the two racers steamed up to the stake boat. They apparently were evenly matched. The Erie is 324 feet over all and 78 feet beam, against the Tashmoo's 320 feet length and 70 feet width. The Erie was built to make fast schedules between Cleveland and Buffalo under all conditions and has twice the power of her rival. The Tashmoo was made for river work, draws much less water than the Erie and is built like a cigar, with a sharp tapering prow.

It is estimated that over $100,000 will change hands as a result of the race. The betting is at evens.

Just before the boats started the wind veered around to north and the racers had a seven-mile breeze against their quarter bows. When the starter gave the signal, the steamers were at a dead stop and on even terms. Much to the surprise of the spectators, the Erie was the first to gain headway and crossed the stake boat line fully two lengths ahead of the Tashmoo.

The Erie crossed the starting line at 9:37:56; the Tashmoo 9:38:31 (official time). Off Nottingham, fourteen miles east, the Tashmoo led by one length. The Erie, apparently, was slowly gaining, however.

A carrier pigeon message from the City of Erie, off Willoughby, about eighteen miles east, says that boat leads by a length.

Cleveland, June 4.—Off Fairport, twenty-eight miles east of starting line, the City of Erie led by nearly a quarter of a mile. The boats were both steaming at a terrific speed.

Off Ashtabula harbor, about sixty miles from the starting point, the City of Erie led by about a length and a half.

Conneaut, Ohio, June 4.—The racing steamers passed a few miles off Conneaut harbor at 12:45 p. m. Apparently the City of Erie was then leading by an eighth of a mile. Conneaut is about seventy miles from Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 4.—The Tashmoo and Erie passed Fairview, Pa., eleven miles from Erie, at 1:20 p. m., central time. The Erie still maintained a good lead, apparently about an eighth of a mile.

THE NORTHMAN ARRIVES

First Steamer From Chicago Reaches Hamburg After a Voyage of Thirty-Five Days From the Lakes.

New York, June 4.—The cable today announced the arrival of the steamer Northman at Hamburg today from Chicago, after a passage of thirty-five days, of which nineteen days had been occupied traversing the great lakes and canals before leaving Quebec for the ocean voyage. The Northman is the first steamer in the new Chicago-Hamburg service to cross the ocean, and her voyage has been watched with interest as a test of the probable success of the undertaking. She was preceded by the Northwestern, a sister ship, but that vessel was detained by a mishap, and lost the honor of being the ship to make the first voyage in the new service. The Northman, which is a steamer of 1496 tons net, sailed from Chicago April 30, in command of Capt. Ross, with a general cargo. She sailed from Montreal May 17 and Quebec two days later. On May 22 she sailed from Sydney, C. B., after coaling. The scheme of going through the canals was to give the vessel the maximum cargo to Buffalo, there partially unload and then after passing through the canals reload at Montreal. The round trip is expected to take sixty days.

REGULATION OF VICE

Woman Suffragists Object to "Certified Examinations" of Women of Bad Character In the Philippines and Enter Protest.

Minneapolis, June 4.—State regulation of vice was one of leading topics at this morning's session of the National American Woman's Suffrage association. The telegram of the Philippine commission to Secretary Root on Jan. 17, 1901, reciting that the military authorities in Manila had for over two years subjected women of bad character to "certified examination" and the course of Gen. MacArthur in defending such policy, was made the occasion for the adoption of a set of resolutions earnestly protesting against "the introduction of the European system of state regulated vice in the new possessions of the United States. The reasons urged against such a course were:

To furnish bad women with official health certificates was contrary to good morals and would impress both soldiers and natives as officially sanctioning vice; it was unjust to subject vicious women to compulsory medical examination not applied to vicious men; official regulation of vice while lowering the moral tone of the community is quite ineffective in protecting public health, as shown by experience in Paris where the system originated, by its abandonment in England, Switzerland and other countries and its failure everywhere it has been tried. The resolutions "protest in the name of American womanhood against introducing in our foreign dependencies a system that would not be tolerated at home."

NO SESSION OF CONGRESS

Washington, June 4.—The cabinet today unanimously decided that existing conditions do not warrant the calling of an extra session of congress this summer. Secretary Root and Attorney General Knox both rendered legal opinions to the effect that the authority to govern the Philippines vested in the president by the Spooner amendment, was ample. These amendments were concurred in by all the members of the cabinet.

The decision was announced after the cabinet meeting in the following statement issued by Secretary Cortelyou:

"The president has determined that existing conditions do not require or warrant of calling congress together during the present summer, or making any change in the policy hitherto pursued and announced in regard to the Philippine islands."

It can be authoritatively stated that the Dingley rates upon goods from the Philippines entering the United States will remain in force as heretofore. The president will put into effect such changes in the tariff duties on goods going into the Philippines as the Taft commission may recommend. The establishment of civil government, so called, in the archipelago, can proceed without interruption as soon as the military authorities consider the time ripe for its establishment.

THE KENNEDY TRIAL.

Examination of Witnesses Will Begin on Thursday.

Kansas City, June 4.—Examination of witnesses in the trial of Lulu Prince-Kennedy for killing her husband, Philip H. Kennedy, contracting agent of an Eastern transportation company, will, it is expected begin Thursday morning. The panel of forty-seven veniremen has been drawn and the case postponed until tomorrow. At that time the state will strike off fifteen names and the defense two. It is believed twelve men will be accepted promptly and that the trial will proceed without delay.

A DIVIDEND.

New York, June 4.—The directors of the American Sugar Refining company have declared a dividend of 1¾ per cent on common stock for the quarter, which is unchanged from the last dividend.

KITCHENER REPORTS

South African Commander Relieves Minds of British Public.

Sends Dixon's Report of the Recent Fight at Vladfontein.

Fifteen Hundred British Were In the Engagement.

London, June 4.—Lord Kitchener, in a dispatch from Pretoria dated June 4, says:

"Dixon's report (of the fighting at Vlakfontein, forty miles from Johannesburg, May 29) just received. On our side 1450 men, with seven guns, were engaged. The force was returning to camp at Vlakfontein when the enemy, under cover of a veldt, fired, rushing the rear guard, consisting of two guns of the Twenty-eighth battery and 330 men of the Derbyshires and the yeomanry. They temporarily captured the two guns. When the remainder of the force came into action the Boers were driven off the guns were recaptured, and the Boer position was occupied. Our casualties were 6 officers and 51 men killed, 6 officers and 115 men wounded and 1 officer and 7 men missing. One officer and 4 men have since died of wounds. Forty-one Boers were killed on the ground. The further Boer casualties are not known. Reinforcements are being sent."

New York, June 4.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: The war office authorities have lost no time in saddling Lord Kitchener with responsibility for not satisfying the public demand with trustworthy news from South Africa. Suspicion, notwithstanding, still exists that the home officials are holding back some information. The war office is being inundated with numerous inquiries because of the currency that has been given to a rumor of a serious British defeat. It would not injure the British army if the details of the Vlakfontein fight, which must by this time have reached Lord Gitchener, were telegraphed home at once, and it would help to relieve the uneasiness felt by a million or more of Englishmen and women with relatives at the front.

STRUCK OIL.

A Train Crashed Into Tank Car and Was Burned.

Pittsburg, June 4.—Passenger train No. 106 on the Pan-Handle railroad, known as the Carnegie accommodation, ran into a tank-car full of oil in the Try street tunnel late last night. The oil immediately ignited and the train was completely destroyed. Fortunately there were only nine passengers aboard, seven of them railroaders, and all made their escape by making a hasty retreat from the rear end of the tunnel. One person, William J. Reese, a telegraph operator, was slightly hurt. The accident was caused by a mistake in signals. The loss to the railroad company will amount to many thousands of dollars.

CEREMONIAL

Side of English Royalty Is Developing Rapidly In London.

New York, June 4.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: As the king has a marked talent for arranging court functions and supervising details, the ceremonial side of royalty is gradually developing. The recent investiture was enlarged into a brilliant and picturesque function, with an abundance of color and gold lace. The gold stick, the silver stick, the garter king-at-arms and the white staves and chief officers of the royal household were in attendance in the throne room with the yeomen of the Guard within the guards of honor outside St. James. The investiture was conducted with an exceptional degree of statliness in the presence of a large company of distinguished officers, including Gens. Roberts, Buller, Forestier-Walker, Pole-Carew, Clery, Brackenbury, MacKinnon, and other veterans of the South African war.

THREE PRIZE FIGHTS.

Will Be Pulled Off at San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 4.—The San Francisco Athletic club has secured three matches for its open-air exhibition, which is to be held at Sixtieth and Folson streets on the afternoon of July 4. Jack Moffat, of Chicago, and George Gardner are to battle for the middleweight championship of the world. Jack Root and Kid Carter, who are now in the light heavyweight class, are to box twenty rounds, while the opening event will be between Al Neill and Charles Thurston.

DEMANDS WITHDRAWN.

Detroit, June 4.—At a meeting today the 600 members of the local street railway men's union decided to withdraw their demands for an increase of 2 cents per hour and a 12-hour day, instead of 12½, which were refused by the United Railway company. An element in the meeting favored striking to enforce them, but the conservatives prevailed.

OSCAR GETS A PHOTOGRAPH.

Stockholm, June 4.—The United States minister here, W. W. Thomas, at special audience of King Oscar at the palace today, presented his majesty with a signed photograph of President McKinley.

EIGHT DEAD

Killed By Explosion In Iron Mountain Mine.

Thirty Children Are Rendered Fatherless.

Iron Mountain, Mich., June 4.—Eight men were killed at the seventh level of the Ludington shaft, Chapin mine, at 2 o'clock this morning by an explosion and suffocation from the fumes of burning powder. All the men in that part of the mine are dead, so the cause of the burning of the powder cannot be determined. All the men, but one, were married.

The following is a list of the victims:
ANTONIO FARNETTI.
JOHN AMONE.
JOSEPH PASSIRI.
JOHN MILANO.
LOUIS TASSI.
JOHN BERTELLI.
RINALDO AUSNINO.
A Pole, name unknown.

Nearly thirty children are rendered fatherless by the accident. Only one man was disfigured, as if by an explosion, and he but slightly. The others were completely covered by black powder soot. The men were using a powder thawing machine and it is thought they neglected to supply it with powder. The machine becoming red hot, set fire to the dynamite and the men were stricken down by the deadly fumes before they could escape. The town is in mourning and work at the mine is at a standstill.

HE WANTED THE CROWN

Religious Maniac Secured Entrance to Vatican and Reached the Pope's Door Before He Was Stopped By Guards.

New York, June 4.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from Rome says: While the pope was at work in his private room a maniac made his way to the anteroom and shouted: "The pope is dead. I am his successor; give me the crown."

The noble guards on duty seized the intruder and prevented him from penetrating to the pope's chamber. But the holy father had heard the shout. He ordered that the man be arrested. He turned out to be Valentino Paterno, a religious fanatic. He was taken to a lunatic asylum.

How he passed the gatekeepers, guards and ushers all the way from the outer gate of the vatican to the very door of the pope's room is a mystery as yet unexplained.

EPSOM RACE CARNIVAL

Famous Sporting Event Opens In London With Excellent Program and Unusually Large Fields of Horses.

London, June 4.—The great Epsom racing carnival commenced today with an excellent program. Unusually large fields are the rule, and the interesting character of the sport attracted big crowds. Tomorrow's Derby has aroused far greater enthusiasm than usual owing to its open character. Nearly every owner represented thinks his horse has a chance, and the same sanguine view is reflected by the public. The betting, consequently, is even more widespread than usual. The field will number about twenty-five. W. C. Whitney's Volodyovski (L. Reiff) remains a strong favorite at 5 to 2 against. All those directly interested in the horse are extremely sanguine, though they somewhat dread the size of the field. William the Third, Floriform, Revenue and Handicapper are all staunchly supported. Besides L. Reiff, the Americans who will ride in the Derby are Maher, on Tantalus; Turner, on Prince Charles II; Henry, on Olympian, and Martin, on Handicapper.

The American horses and jockeys started the day in excellent form, taking the first three places in the initial race, the Craven stakes, as follows: Richard Croker's The Scotchman II (L. Reiff), first; Frank Gardner's Encombe (C. Jenkins), second; W. C. Whitney's Holstein (J. Reiff), third. Seven horses ran.

The second race, the Edgemont plate, handicap of 300 sovereigns, was a similar triumph for the American jockeys. The following was the result: Daniel Cooper's Edmee (Maher), first; Noel Ferwick's Casino (J. Martin), second; Col. Lambton's Handspike (J. Reiff), third. Fourteen horses started.

Escuria (Maher) won the Ashmead plate.

The chief event on today's program the Woodcot stakes of 1000 sovereigns, for 2-year-olds, was won by R. S. Sievier's Sceptre, daughter of Persimmon, for which Mr. Sievier paid 10,000 guineas last year. R. Forcet Todd's Czardas was second, and J. Gubbin's Port Blair third.

London (Maher) won the Epsom plate, a handicap of 500 sovereigns. Turner, on William C. Whitney's Delacey, was seen for the first time in this race, but his mount was not placed.

TWO DEAD.

Italian Shoots Woman He Loves and Then Kills Himself.

New York, June 4.—Francisco Alasko, 22 years old, shot and killed his first cousin, Mrs. Angelina Faia, 27 years old in the woman's home today and then committed suicide by shooting himself in the breast. The tragedy occurred in a tenement at 163 Elizabeth street, a poor part of the city. Alasko was in love with the woman. Faia went out to buy milk and bread for breakfast and in his absence the tragedy occurred. Faia's little daughter, Carraella, witnessed the shooting.

KILLED COOK.

Ranch Owner Thought His Chinese Servant Was a Burglar.

Vancouver, B. C., June 4.—A special from Golden, B. C., says that Hon. Frank Lascelles, a wealthy English ranch owner, residing on Thunder hill, shot and killed his Chinese cook. Lascelles is related to the earl of Harewood and is a cousin of Sir Frank Lascelles, British ambassador to Germany.

Lascelles became demented through brooding over a fancied insult in connection with his being called to give evidence in a suit over the ownership of a horse, and accused his cook, who had served him for five years, of being a burglar. After his arrest Lascelles became a raving maniac. Special interest is taken in the affair throughout British Columbia owing to the prominence of the Lascelles family.

ENORMOUS

Tobacco Company to Be Organized to Absorb Everything.

New York, June 4.—The Journal of Commerce says: It is reported that a new tobacco company is to be formed which is to take over both the American and Continental companies, and also the new cigar company recently organized and now acquiring various cigar plants throughout the country. Another rumor is that there will be a large increase in the capital stock of the American company for the purpose of acquiring the Continental Tobacco and the cigar company. Some surprise is expressed at these rumors, as it was only a short time ago that the American company separated its plug tobacco business from its smoking and cut tobacco business, transferring the former to the Continental company. The American company also recently amended its by-laws so as to permit of the guarantee notes of subsidiary companies whose stock it might own. It is widely believed, as already stated, that the Universal Tobacco company, now being organized, is to be taken over either by the American or the Continental company or by both jointly.

CONGRESS CENSURED

Physicians Have a Grievance Against the Army Bill.

President Reed Tells the Medics About It In Address.

General Meeting of American Medical Association at St. Paul.

St. Paul, June 4.—The general meeting of the American Medical association was called to order by President Charles A. Reed, of Cincinnati in the beautiful Metropolitan Opera house in this city, a little after 10 o'clock this morning. Bishop H. B. Whipple, of the Protestant Episcopal church, delivered the opening prayer. Mayor Robert A. Smith, briefly expressed the cities' felcome to the convention, after which preliminary reports of the committee on arrangements and of the executive committee were read. President Reed resigned the chair to the vice president, Dr. A. H. Calhoun, which he occupied while the president read his annual report.

The army reorganization law of the last congress was inexplicable and inexcusable. It grades the medical department for rank, promotion, and, in consequence, for pay, below every other department and special orps of the army, and with the exception of second lieutenants, it is graded below that line. In accordance with its provisions a medical officer, to obtain a tolerably good rank, must pass through three times as many trials as an officer of either the quartermasters' the subsistence or the pay departments; more than twice as many as an officer of engineers, or of ordnance and nearly twice as many as an officer of the signal corps. The effect of this discrimination is not only to lower the rank and pay of medical officers, but must result in lessening the efficiency of the corps by repelling men of spirit and worth.

When the congress, by the enactment of a law, degrades, relatively the status of an important body of medical men, engaged in a public service, it strikes at the status of every physician in the country. It becomes therefore, the duty of every member of the medical profession, jealous of his rights, his prerogatives, and the fair name he may leave his children, to resent as personal between himself and every member of the congress who voted for this law, the action which cast a stigma upon our profession.

It has been the belief of many enlightened members of the medical profession that the means employed by the general government for the protection and promotion of the public health, are capable of improvement. The conditions today are precisely the same that they were ten years ago.

The era of effective legislative control of medical practice came as the natural reaction from the demonstrated failure to accomplish the same result through voluntary organization. Mixed boards of licensure are now to be found in the majority of the states of the Union. The results of the twenty-five years of statutory regulation of medical practice are in striking contrast with the result of the quarter of a century of attempted regulations by methods of proscription. The proscriptive rule which propogated the very evils it was intended to correct, is rapidly expiring by limitation in the face of new conditions that have been produced in spite of it, by beneficent and catholic legislation. I proclaim, events proclaimed, the existence of a new school of medicine. It is as distinct from the schools of fifty years ago as is the Christian dispensation from its pagan antecedents. It is the product of convergent influences, of diverse antecedent origin. It acknowledges no distinctive title, it heralds no shibboleth. It is a school of human tolerance, of personal independence and scientific honesty. It makes no proclamation of completeness, no pretensions to sufficiency. It recognizes that truth is undergoing progressive revelation, not ending today but continuing through the ages. It greets as a friend him who thinks, though he think error, thinking he may think truth, and thereby add to the common fund.

During the morning session, Dr. J. H. Pennington, of Chicago, presented to the association a picture of the father of the association, Dr. N. S. Davis, of Chicago, who is 85 years of age and unable to attend this convention. The next picture will probably be held in the custody of the church society.

Religion Losing Ground.

The country is becoming agitated over religion. Periodically some one arises and declares that it is deserting. This results in countless discussions until the agitation runs its course, and still religion flourishes. It always will, for it is something the world needs. One of the finest recommendations of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great American stomach strengthener, lies in the fact that it has lived for fifty years in spite of hundreds of imitations, and is renowned for its cure of constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague, and sees to it that the life-giving elemtns of the food are assimilated with the blood. There is nothing "just as good." See that a Private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

CONFERENCE.

National Meeting at the Swedish Mission Church June 24.

Preparations are being made on a grand scale by the members of the Swedish Mission church at Twenty-first avenue west, for the annual national conference that will be held at the church about June 24. Ministers and delegates will be in attendance from all over the United States, some coming from New York and others from California. It is expected that there will be over 400 delegates from outside the city at this conference. One of the features that the local organization has planned for the visitors during their stay in the city is a grand excursion to Zenith park, and two steamers, the Mary Mann and one other, have been contracted for to make the run from the dock at Twenty-first avenue west to the park.

All Members of the Woodmen of the World

HAD ENOUGH.

Dr. Rue's Wife Is Anxious For a Separation.

The former Miss Minnie Bickell, of Council Bluffs, desires to forfeit her legal interest in "Dr." Phil O. Rue, of Duluth.

Rue is Bert Bellinger's double. He is the man that caused all the trouble, disappointment and mental anguish at police headquarters a few weeks ago when he was mistaken for Bellinger by an Omaha officer.

Rue formerly lived in the West End where he was well known. Possessed of nerve, rheumatism, and some personal attraction he went to Council Bluffs one day and entered the office of Dr P. J. Montgomery to apply for a position. The doctor was busy at the time and while waiting for him, Mr. Rue, made violent love to the young lady in charge of the outside office and telephone booth.

Before the doctor was ready to see him, he had her promise of marriage. This so flattered Rue that he forgot to ask for the position he wanted. He introduced himself to the physician as "Dr. P. O. Rue, of Minneapolis, a celebrated specialist."

He then went to Omaha and borrowed $1 with which to get a marriage license and stuck a florist for $15 worth of flowers. They were married and Rue stood the minister off for his fee. They then went to a swell hotel and ran up a bill of $22 for the non-payment of which Rue was thrust behind the grating, and then while in that helpless position he was mistaken for Bellinger.

This morning Detective Troyer received a letter from Mrs. Rue's father in Minneapolis, beseeching him to go to Omaha and identify Phil Rue as Burt Bellinger, so that he might be sent to prison and incidentally give his daughter an opportunity to get a divorce.

The former Miss Bickell yearns more for a separation from Rue than she did for matrimony, when she married him while his creditors waited.

She says that if he cannot be identified as Bellinger and sent to prison she can only sue for divorce on the ground of cruelty and inhuman treatment.

TROUBLE IN SIGHT

For Property Owners Failing to Make Sewer Connections.

Board of Health Decides to Prod Them Decisively.

Some Will Find Themselves In Court Very Soon.

At a meeting of the board of health yesterday afternoon plans for better sanitation were discussed at length, and from the gist of conversation, it will not be surprising to see several prominent real estate agents in the municipal court explaining why they neglected to make sewer connection when ordered by the board.

Last month there were ten cases of diphtheria, four cases of scarlet fever and many more cases of other infectious diseases in districts where the health commissioner has been endeavoring to have the sanitation improved by proper sewer connections.

The agents, and in several instances the owners of property, have paid little or no attention to the warnings of the department, and the board took up the matter in earnest at yesterday afternoon's meeting.

Minnesota Point sanitation was also taken up, and owing to the low position of the camping ground, an order was issued for the campers to use lime and other disinfectants very freely about their property.

The board selected the following health inspectors: Theodore Wold, Hans Lundin and Harry Milnes, to serve for six months; J. C. Wessenberg, Charles Kitchen and L. T. Pierce, to serve for one month.

The city ambulance was awarded to the Stewart Livery company. The present rate for the ambulance is $4 a trip for contagious diseases, and the Stewart company bid $2.75 a trip. The company will also furnish the ambulance service to the city free, and in the contract the board of health will prescribe a limit to be charged for the private use of the ambulance.

Health Commissioner Robinson reported that the department had fumigated 120 rooms during the month and had issued over 1200 notices for the removal of garbage.

AN OUTRAGE.

Chicago Board Members Discuss Peavey Elevator Episode.

Some time ago it was announced that one of thePeavey elevators in Chicago had been declared irregular by the board of trade in that city, pending an investigation. The charges were that corn had been inspected into the house as of contract grade, and when it was delivered proved to be of lower grade. The special committee appointed to investigate the matter charged three officers of the Peavey company—F. H. Peavey, James Pettit and Denman F. Johnson—with dishonorable conduct, and recommended that they be disciplined. The matter has excited much interest in the grain trade in Duluth.

The Chicago Evening Post says that there has been a storm of criticism of the report, and that it is thought that the board of directors will overturn the report. The Post says that to begin with, the Peavey made amends satisfactory to George H. Phillips, who was the party who owned the corn, and that Mr. Phillips agreed to do all he could to induce Mr. Slaughter, who had preferred the charges, to withdraw them. This Mr. Slaughter declined to do, claiming that the latter had passed from his hands. Says the Post:

"Now the question is asked: What more could an honorable man do? The general answer to this is that nothing further could have been done by Mr. Pettit, and the opinion is held that after this adjustment had been reached the charges should have been withdrawn and the committee relieved of the work assigned to it.

"Another matter in which the report is said to be noncomforable with the rules of the board is the accusation of dishonorable conduct against Messrs. Peavey and Johnson. Even if there were ground for bringing this charge against any of the officials, it is said it could not be brought against the entire firm. The accusation, it is said, is against individuals, and the action of one cannot subject the company to the charge of dishonorable conduct. Neither Mr. Peavey nor Mr. Johnson was cognizant of the steps taken in the matter, or of the actions criticised. These matters were handled entirely by Mr. Pettit. Therefore it is asserted there is neither fairness nor justice in accusing the two innocent members of the firm.

"Both Mr. Peavey and Mr. Johnson were out of the city until Mr. Pettit met Mr. Phillips and opened negotiations with him, and it was Mr. Peavey who suggested to Mr. Pettit that an effort be made to adjust the matter to the satisfaction of Mr. Phillips. In spite of this the committee went on with its work and made its report."

The Post interviews some of the leading members of the Chicago board of trade on the matter. Charles Counselman declares the report of the committee is an outrage and conceived in malice, and says he speaks with knowledge of the facts.

James A. Patten, another of the prominent members of the board, says: "If the directors convict the officials of the Peavey Grain company on the charges of the committee, there is no safety in doing an elevator business, for there is not an elevator in Chicago that could not be brought before the board of directors and disciplined."

W. H. Bartlett, of Bartlett, Frazier & Co., and J. F. Harris, also speak in the same terms.

James Pettit, of the company, exonerates Mr. Phillips from responsibility for the charges.

WOULD-BE VILLAGE.

Fall Lake Is the Latest Aspirant.

The northern part of St. Louis county is developing rapidly. Everybody knows that, but the ambition of various sections to assume legal corporate existence, or to change the sort they now possess for a higher grade, are ample evidence of it. Recently the villages of Buhl and Chisholm have been started, and the village of Eveleth has taken steps to become a city. Now come 227 residents of the se¼ of the ne¼ and the ne¼ of the se¼ of section 24, 63-12, and ask the board of county commissioners to make a village out of part of that territory and call it Fall Lake. A petition signed by thirty-five voters of the proposed village was filed this morning in the auditors' office, to go before the county board at its meeting Friday afternoon.

Judge of Probate Bonham has filed a report, showing receipts of $11 in fees during May, and Register of Deeds Lofgren earned $887.90 during the month.

THE DAKOTAS.

Dakota Woman Indicted For Raising Postoffice Money Orders.

Fargo—Ethel Hartness, who was charged with raising two postoffice orders from a few cents to nearly $100 each, was indicted by the United States grand jury and held to the Devil's Lake term of court. She could not give the $500 bail and was remanded to the Benson county jail till court convenes. It is understood she admits her guilt. Miss Hartness had lived at Minnewaukan only a short time, her family being new settlers in that vicinity.

Lidgerwood—Lidgerwood held its first election under the city charter Saturday, when the following officers were elected: Mayor, J. D. Mulloy; aldermen, A. F. Banzer, E. L. McCutcheon, A. Riba, W. R. Mavius; treasurer, E. A. Morris; police judge, J. M. Hynes; city judge, Frank Flint.

Grafton—The eleventh annual commencement of the high school took place Saturday night, at the Opera house. A class of thirteen, nine boys and four girls, were graduated. Each graduate delivered a short address. The diplomas were conferred by Senator J. L. Cashel, president of the board of education.

Neche—A colony of Icelandic farmers of Akra, Pembina county, will shortly locate in the Lake Manitoba country. They will start from this point, and fourteen freight cars will be used to convey their stock and household effects.

Larimore—George Walter Schrank, aged 18, was drowned in Brook's pond. He was an expert swimmer, but was seized with cramps. His parents live in Fort Elgin, Ont.

Lisbon—Measuring worms continue active and their ravages are making the tree tops a rusty brown, noticeable as far as the eye can reach. Elm and box elder foliage seem to be most affected.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Pierre—The Soo road filed in the office of the secretary of state notice of its extension in South Dakota in a line sixty miles long from Ashley to the river. The same notice provides for an extension of twenty-one miles in North Dakota from Wishek to Ashley and one of forty miles from Braddock to Bismarck.

Aberdeen—Rain visited nearly all localities in the north half of the state east of the Missouri river Monday, the precipitation ranging from a quarter to three-quarters of an inch. A few isolated sections were missed entirely.

Sioux Falls—Tilden Watson, a young man who was engaged by the local gun club to guard the grounds of the club on the outskirts of the city, had an exciting experience with an instruder. While making his rounds about 2 o'clock in the morning he discovered a suspicious stranger within the enclosure. He called to the man and asked him what he wanted, and upon receiving no reply, fired a shot into the air. He thought this would cause the intruder to take to his heels, but on the contrary. The stranger promptly returned the fire. Half a dozen shots or more were exchanged before a bullet from the guard's gun found its mark, for with a cry of pain the man disappeared in a grove. As yet his identity has not been discovered.

Deadwood—A special meeting of sportsmen has been called in this city to investigate the charges that dynamite is being used by some persons along Spearfish creek to kill fish. Congressman Martin is one of those who called the meeting. A great many fish are found dead upon the surface of the stream, and the supposition is that dynamite is used.

Fort Meade—Only 130 head of horses have been accepted up to date for the new cavalry at this fort. The time of the contractors has been extended a month in order to allow them to get the remaining 220. Horses are coming in slowly, and it is believed the time will have to be extended again.

Lead—Fred Gerber, well-known in this city, dropped dead of heart failure. He was employed as a general traveling agent for a furniture company of Omaha before coming to the Hills. His family resides at Columbus, Neb. He had been drinking heavily for several days.

This is an extreme precaution. The beer is brewed in extreme cleanliness, cooled in filtered air, then filtered. It seems impossible for a taint of impurity to get to it. Yet we sterilize every bottle.

BARKER GETS IT

Estate Will Do the Filling For Northern Pacific.

Half a Million Cubic Yards of Filling Needed.

Other Large Contracts to Be Let---Officials Here.

The contract for the filling in to be done along the St. Louis bay front on the eastern side of Rice's Point for the Northern Pacific company's new dockage facilities has been let to the Charles S. Barker estate, that dredging firm being the lowest bidders. This is a part of the improvement work planned by the railway company to be carried out this summer and the dredging and filling will take all summer. The contract calls for 500,000 cubic yards of filling. The dock line along the east side of the Point from the Northern Pacific bridge to Twenty-first avenue west is to be extended out into the bay for a width of about 100 feet. This will bring the new dock line close to the government channel. Besides the large contract for the dock filling, there will be about 200,000 cubic yards of filling to be put in between the Northern Pacific company's tracks from the yards at the Union depot to Rice's Point. No bids are said to have been called for by the railroad company for this work, and it is expected that the filling will be done by the work crews of the railway company, and the material used will be hauled on the Northern Pacific cars. It is expected that the company will also do all its yard filling. Some time ago the Northern Pacific company gave all the squatters along the line of its proposed improvements warning to get off within thirty days, and it is believed the improvement work will begin on or before the first of July.

The Northern Pacific company will, however, have other contract work to be done this summer, that of repairing and reconstructing some of the merchandise docks in the harbor. These contracts will be quite large ones. Dock No. 3 near the tug office, docks 4 and 5, formerly of the old St. Paul & Duluth property, are among those on which improvements in the way of crib work and filling in is contemplated.

J. W. Kendrick, the second vice president and general manager of the Northern Pacific road, accompanied by W. G. Pearce, assistant to the president, and A. Lovell, superintendent of the motive power, came up from St. Paul in a private car yesterday afternoon. This morning, in company with Superintendent E. L. Brown of the Northern Pacific company, the party of officials were taken for an inspection tour over the Northern Pacific terminals at the head of the lake, and the proposed new improvements on Rice's Point were considered, after looking over the ground. General Manager Kendrick and party left shortly before noon on a special, and their car will be attached to the Northern Pacific limited to the Twin Cities, somewhere down the line, this afternoon.

To Build Fog House.

The lighthouse tender Amaranth is on the way to Duluth and is expected here this week. She will bring the outfit for the beginning of work on the fog signal house and new lighthouse which is to be erected on the new south canal pier. The contract has been let to a Detroit man, and the work is to be done this summer. The plans include a track to run through the gallery in the pier for use of the lighthouse keepers in rough weather. This will do away with the unsightly timber structure which leads out to the end of the pier.

Progressing Well.

George H. Crosby, under whom all the improvement work on the Lathrop tract beyond Lester river is being carried on this summer, says that the work is progressing very nicely and that the improvements intended will cost much more than was anticipated. The first plan was the expenditure of $10,000 in clearing up and beautifying the tract, but the first pay roll made out today is for a sum exceeding $4000, and the indications are that the first estimate will be very much exceeded before the work is finished.

EXCURSION MEETING.

Business Men to Talk Over Situation.

There will be an important meeting in the city hall this evening, called by the Duluth Improvement association for the purpose of discussing the best means of conducting the excursion business into this city from the surrounding cities and towns. The meeting is called with a view of getting an expression of the business men as to their ideas of how best to run the excursion business and the discussion is to be open to all interested in this movement. The excursion question has stirred up considerable comment among the business men during the past few weeks, many of whom have differed in opinion as to the methods that have been employed in getting excursionists to Duluth, and the idea of forming a business men's association and getting up excursions under its auspices, has been talked about.

Will Send Many.

The indications all point to a large attendance of the Woodmen of Duluth and Superior at the Woodmen's convention that is to be held in St. Paul next week. The various camps from this city and West Superior will send big delegations. In some instances nearly every member in the camp expects to attend the convention.

Bloomer Girl Here.

The steamer Bloomer Girl arrived in port last night from Milwaukee to do an excursion business out of Duluth. She will be managed by the Howard Bros. She was greeted on her arrival by a chorus of whistles. The steamer is one of the handsomest of her size on the lakes. She will carry 300 passengers, and was built in 1895. She is 109 feet long, 21 feet beam and 8 feet deep. She will draw about eight feet.

LERCH IS WINNER

Gets the Decision In His Latest Injunction Suit.

This Was to Prevent Removal to Second Street.

John Berini Claimed to Have Lease For Three Years.

Another injunction suit over the location of R. S. Lerch's livery stable was begun yesterday afternoon and decided this morning in district court. This time Mr. Lerch won out, for a change.

John Berini brought an injunction suit against W. D. Willard, R. S. Lerch and H. D. Sawyer to restrain them from moving the Lerch stable upon lot 70 West Second street, Duluth Proper, First division. He claimed that he had a lease of the property from W. D. Willard, whom he claims is the owner, for three years from last August, and that he had paid the rent in advance, at the rate of $7 per month. He asserted that Willard had made a lease to Lerch, and that they were threatening to forcibly eject him from the premises. He asked the court to compel them to let him alone.

The defendants made answer and said that Willard does not own the property, but Anna M. Willard. They admitted that Berini had a lease of the property, but that Willard did not sign it. It was also claimed that the lease had been cancelled for a consideration paid to Berini. What settled the matter was that the defendants denied any attempt to forcibly put Berini off the land, so Judge Cant, who heard the matter, declined to grant an injunction. Jaques & Hudson were attorneys for Berini and John Jenswold, Jr., for the defendants.

This is the property opposite the residence of A. M. Miller, on Second street, and closely adjoining that of Capt. McDougall. The removal of the barn to that location is already under way.

LOOK OUT!

Penalty Very Heavy For Defacing Government Piers.

Ordinarily there is no particular punishment for "blamed foolishness," such as that of the idiot who inscribes his name as indelibly as may be wherever he can find a nice clean and attractive surface that seems to need spoiling. He can cut his name almost anywhere, and while he will be cordially detested for it and cursed up one side and down the other, the punishment he deserves is not forthcoming.

People who have been in the habit of doing such tricks with impunity should take notice not to attempt them on the canal piers. Some of them have started, and if these would do it probably others might follow their example. This, however, happens to be one of the cases where this vandalism can be punished, for the United States laws define this as defacing government property. And that is no trivial offense, for which a man is let off with a reprimand or "$1 and;" it is a crime that may be punished very heavily. The very least punishment the law allows is $500 fine or thirty days in jail, and it may run from that up to $2500 fine or one year in jail, or both.

Probably if people knew this there would be no more acts of such vandalism perpetrated on the canal piers.

Steel Company Interests Negotiating For a Large Building.

Negotiations for a building for the United States Steel company's interests in this city are reported to be in progress. The size of the interests to be located here is hardly appreciated by the people of Duluth even though there has been more or less said to the effect that it means a great deal to the city, etc. It is reported that the officers of the mining and steamship companies will employ about 10 men and will require a very large building.

It has been rumored that negotiations are under way with A. S. Chase for the erection of a 7-story fire-proof building on his lot adjoining the Board of Trade building, and it has also been stated that in addition to this one whole floor of the Board of Trade building would be required.

A short time ago it was reported that Mr. Chase had offered $50,000 for the corner where the Bevier building is now going up but that Mr. Bevier could not sell because he had leased the property to Bayha & Co. Now it is reported that negotiations are under way to buy off Bayha & Co., and get the corner from Bevier. If there is any truth in this the contractor will also have to be reckoned with.

Another report is that the Massachusetts Real Estate company is being negotiated with to erect a 10-story building on the corner of Fourth avenue west and Superior street.

Licenses to Burn.

Fred C. Rhude, engineer at the Universal mill, was arrested last night on complaint of State Inspector Patterson, charging him with operating a steam plant without a license.

This morning Mr. Rhude walked into the municipal court and rudely pulled out licenses to show that he had permission to run pretty nearly everything but a saloon or an employment agency. His engineering license was satisfactory and the case against him was dismissed.

GETS SICK.

Joseph Sheehy had an attack of heart trouble in the municipal court this afternoon. He was a pretty sick man for a while, but recovered sufficiently to roast his attorneys and go on the witness stand later in the session.

He is being sued for $75 by Thomas J. Hamilton, who claims that as an employment agent, Mr. Sheehy, on Dec. 5, 1900, falsely and fraudulently secured $2.60 from himself, Louis Kenning and E. W. Kenning. They claim that he hired them to go to Hibbing to work for the Swan River Logging company, and received their fees, when he was not authorized to hire for the Swan River company. Each of the three men sue for $25, and the two Kenning claims have been assigned to Hamilton.

The case has been postponed from time to time at Mr. Sheehy's request, and the last time the plaintiff's attorney only agreed to have the case set over on condition that Mr. Sheehy would pay $7.24 costs.

When the court convened this morning the costs had not been paid and the defendant did not seem overly enthusiastic about putting up the money. Eckman & Stevenson, attorneys for the plaintiff refused to take up the trial till the payment was made. Mr. Sheehy finally produced $5 and said that was all he had. He then turned to Porter J. Neff, one of his attorneys, and endeavored to borrow the remainder. Mr. Neff said that in view of the fact Mr. Shehy had engaged another attorney, he would loan him the money if he would let him out of the case. It was finally settled, however, that Mr. Neff should stay in the case. John Norton is the other attorney engaged by Mr. Sheehy.

OFF FOR A TRAMP

The Duluth Militia Leaves For Its Annual Outing.

There Will Be 126 Duluth Men, Including the Band.

Drum Major M. McGuffin's Long And Interesting Career.

The Duluth National Guardsmen leave tonight at 1:15 for Milaca, the rendezvous of the Third infantry. Tomorrow the regiment will start its six-day march from Milaca to Brainerd.

The Third Regiment band will take out 28 men, Company C over 50 and Company A about 48. Maj. F. E. Bidwell will be in command of the first battalion, and Maj. Reseche will command the Third for a day, and will then have to return to this city. Lieut. C. C. Salter, of West Duluth, will be adjutant of the first battalion.

It is expected a great many people will be at the Armory and depot tonight to see the soldiers off for their annual outing.

There has never been a National Guard outing at which there was not a well organized "pipe dream" committee. The committee this year is a wonder. Last night it circulated the report that the Mille Lacs Indians were gathering from all parts of the reservation and holding a war dance preparatory to resisting the march of the Third across their reservation.

The boys caught the idea and had lots of fun out of it. They even expressed the opinion that there must be something to it or the colonel would not have made provision for advance and rear guards during the march.

Col. Van Duzee intends to give his regiment a lesson in practical campaigning, and a regiment out in field service without guards thrown out would certainly be a novelty.

Col. Van Duzee has secured permission from the war department to cross the Mille Lacs reservation, and the soldiers will probably have a pleasant trip through the Indian country, providing they don't leave the equipment or valuables lying round.

The companies to take the march are:

Company A—Capt. H. V. Eva, Duluth.

Campany B—Capt. A. F. Pratt, Anoka.

Company C—Capt. Richard Little, Duluth.

Company D—Capt. E. F. Davis, Zumbrota.

Compan E—Capt. Tourtelotte, St. Paul.

Company F—Capt. S. R. Adair, Brainerd.

Company H—Capt. H. H. Nuenberg, Olivia.

Company I—Capt. Delahunt, Morris.

The regiment expects to reach Brainerd next Monday and will put in several days at target practice and field duty, coming to Duluth on June 15.

HAVE DRUM MAJOR.

M. McGuffin, of St. Paul, has enlisted with the Third infantry band and will be the drum major. He came to Duluth Sunday. Mr. McGuffin is a very interesting character. He is a retired drum major of the regular United States army, having served about thirty years or more in the service of Uncle Sam. He is a man of great physique, being six feet tall and built like a giant. As his name would indicate, he is a son of the Emerald isle, and a right jolly one he is, too, full of good nature and with a manner that attracts at once. But he is a stern drill master and knows how to put the musicians through the drill of the regular army. He is delighted with the Third infantry band. "They are a fine lot of boys," said he. "When we come back from the march we will be in great shape. I drilled them for a little while on Sunday and they are already in finer shape than some bands that have drilled for a year. They take to it willingly, and seem to appreciate what it is for, and that is all that is necessary. They play great music, too, and we will have some great times on the march. When we come back to Duluth at the end of it we will be able to make a great parade of the regiment."

Mr. McGuffin's career has been one of remarkable interest. He was with Admiral Farragut, at Mobile,, being then in the navy, where he was an engineer. He was the engineer in charge of Admiral Farragut's private launch at the battle of Mobile. After the war he entered the regular army and was at St. Paul for twelve years or so as drum major. Then he went to Texas and afterward to Fort Leavenworth, where he was in the government school. Later he came to Fort Snelling and was drum major there for nine years with the Third infantry, regular army.

When the Spanish-American war broke out he went with the Third regiment to the front and singularly enough went into camp at Mobile on the very ground he had been on in the civil war. He served through the Santiago campaign and was at San Juan hill. The band had no instruments there except Krag-Jorgenson rifles and they were in the trenches with the soldiers and fought with them. When he came out he went to Montauk Point.

Since then he has been at St. Paul and about a year ago retired from the service.

TRAIN DERAILED.

Miscreants Unlock Switches on Bayfield Railroad.

Milwaukee, June 4.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Washburn, Wis., says a passenger train on the Washburn, Bayfield & Iron River railroad between Washburn and Iron River ran into an open switch and was derailed, necessitating assistance from a wrecking train. After proceeding the train ran into two other open switches. It is though: the unlocking of switches is the work of some discharged employe.

LETTER FROM HERRON.

Sent to Congregational Church at Grinnell.

Grinnell, Iowa, June 4.—Professor D. Herron, charged with conduct unbecoming a minister, was called for trial today in the Congregational church here. Thirteen churches of the district, represented by twenty-six jurors, eight of whom are said to favor expulsion, even before hearing testimony. No defense was expected and evidence introduced in the Herron divorce suit was expected to form most of the testimony. Considerable surprise was expressed, therefore, when it was announced that Dr. Herron had sent a letter in his own defense, dealing with his specific, individual case, and not with marriage and divorce in general.

The writer states that he was called on a divine mission as a sort of new prophet and that his wife will not give him her sympathy and appreciation, so that the home atmosphere was unconcenial. He and his wife discussed the matter many times, he alleges, and finally agreed to separate and he went away, that the desertion plea might be acceptable in court.

NO CHANGE.

Condition of Mrs. McKinley Remains About the Same.

Washington, June 4.—Drs. Johnston, Sternberg and Rixey were in consultation over an hour at the White House this afternoon. At 11:30 o'clock, Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following statement:

"Mrs. McKinley's physicians report that she has had a comfortable night and that her condition has not materially changed since yesterday."

Dr. Rixey called at the White House at 2:15 p. m. and remained about fifteen minutes. He reports that Mrs. McKinley was resting easily.

Alleged Corruption In Hawaii.

It is claimed that corruption is prevalent in Hawaii in its boldest forms. The people with a pull are said to have been able to work a graft by means of the bubonic plague scare which has made them independently rich. Delegate Wilcox, who is in this country, tells a story of the way money was squandered during the excitement, that is peculiar to say the least. "I have never yet been convinced," he said, "that the disease was as serious as was represented. At any rate, the people were thrown into a panic of fear and the authorities resorted to the most extreme measures to prevent spread of the contagion. Houses were burned by the block and property destroyed recklessly. There was no session of the legislature at the time to appropriate money for relief purposes, but Mr. Dole called his council together and they authorized the expenditure of $2,000,000 to aid the people. This was taken out of the public treasury and expended in what I regard as a very extravagant and prodigal manner. I have been told that many a man got rich out of the distribution of the funds. Every doctor in the islands appears to have gotten a big rake off and certain druggists and grocers were given tremendous contracts for furnishing supplies. I know of doctors and tradesmen who were absolutely poor prior to the plague who are now driving about in fine carriages of their own. The plague is still being worked for the benefit of those with a pull. The legislature passed an act authorizing the appointment of a commission to pass on claims for loss of property in the effort to check the advance of the plague. There is no money in the treasury to pay these claims, and about the only beneficiaries are the commissioners, who are getting fat salaries." It seems rather strange that with a member of the legislature cognizant of such facts that no action has been taken in the matter. Probably the ones benefited have too strong a pull with the new government.

The Spread of Leprosy.

The fact that leprosy is spreading in the United States is causing some alarm and steps will be taken by the government to more thoroughly control the disease. According to scientific investigations, directed from Washington, which have been going on for several months, there are about 275 reported cases of leprosy in the United States. It is thought probable that the real number may be nearer a thousand. For various reasons physicians who have cases of this disease, in many instances either fail or refuse to report them. Seventy-four of the known cases are in New Orleans, chiefly among the Italian population. There are twenty-three in Minnesota, mostly among Scandinavians in the rural settlements. There are fifteen cases in North Dakota, and two in South Dakota, among the same people. Chicago has five cases and New York six. The figures which are being compiled represent a great deal of careful work. A circular letter was sent out to every city and county physician, every health officer, every responsible head of a hospital, in the country. It called for volunteer information covering cases of leprosy in the community in question; the name of the leprous person, the sex, age, social condition, place of residence, whether town or country, and name of attending physician. In all 8000 of these letters have gone out, but replies to date have been received from only 2000 of them. There may be several times 275 cases in the 6000 districts from which thus far no replies have come.

It is the intention of those who are compiling the figures to make a report to congress, including such recommendations as may seem warranted. One of these recommendations will be for the erection of two large hospitals for lepers, one in the South and the other in the North, both to be under government supervision and control, and to be built from government funds. Eminent physicians have at different times been before committees of congress to urge the erection of leper hospitals, but nothing came of these visits, the government having no reliable data covering the prevalence of the disease. Next winter, however, with full information on the subject, it is believed that congress will act promptly. It is noteworthy that nearly all of the 275 reported victims are foreigners. The Scandinavians seem peculiarly susceptible to the disease. They either had it when they landed in America, or contracted it shortly after landing. Every one of the cases in the Dakotas and Minnesota is located in the country, in localities rather remote even from small towns. The disease seems to be spreading most rapidly in Louisiana, and for several years there has been agitation there in favor of efficient supervision and control of all leprous patients, either by the state or by the government.

CHANCES IN PORTO RICO.

Naturally enough the minds of many young men in the United States turn to the possibilities for them in our new possessions. Some desire to better their present conditions, others seek employment. Opinions are varied as to the advisability of locating in the tropical countries, but it seems to be the general opinion that unskilled labor should at least remain away. For skilled men there are opportunities which may be profitably taken advantage of in limited numbers by those who so desire.

In a special report to the department of labor, Dr. Azel Ames gives some valuable advice for people desiring employment in Porto Rico. Better bakeries than are now found in Porto Rico are much needed. Fine horseshoeing and architectural blacksmithing rarely exist, and the demand for cooperage is increasing steadily, as is also that for carpentering, bridge building, etc. There are few or no steel, copper or zinc engravers in the island and the work for them will increase. There are few modern artists in working gold and silver, the work being done chiefly on old lines. Armorers are few, poor and not familiar with the latest devices. Harness making cannot profitably compete with the great, cheap producers in the United States, but good workmen are sadly needed for repairs. Small machinist work is with difficulty obtained. There are a few decent establishments, but better tools and plants, better methods and later trained men are needed and must ere long be had. The work of masons and bricklayers varies; that in stone is much of it excellent, but the wall work at times makes trouble.

The standard American brick is needed and workmen to lay it who are used to it. Painting and interior finish need American methods, material and workmen. Paper hanging is an art very little understood, but entirely possible with success, if proper wall papers, glue, pastes, sizing and skill are used. They cannot now be had in the island. Plumbing and steam fitting have not now half a dozen competent exponents in the island. The demand must steadily and rapidly increase and must be met from the states. Good printers, compositors, pressmen, lithographers and electroplaters are increasingly wanted. Good quarrymen and stonecutters and artificial stone workers are scarce and the well organized ready-making shops for light goods, with best machinery, would thrive. There is a fair opportunity for all of the following named professions: Apothecaries, architects, artists, chemists, clergymen, dentists, engineers, lawyers librarians, musicians, photographers, physicians and surgeons, surveyors and teachers.

Dr. Ames gives the following interesting statement of the miserable condition of part of Porto Rico's inhabitants: "One is painfully impressed, whether in the streets of city or town, or in the hill country, by the number of human wrecks, the many beggars and the sunken-eyed, pallid, anaemic men, women and children. Extreme poverty, inanition and decrepitude are found, and, although the island is one of great resources and has a good record for thrift, there is reason to believe that from the earliest days of the Spanish occupation this condition of things as to the laboring classes has been only to prevalent—at times worse, in some respects, than at present. Tradition indicates that the natives were well nigh exterminated in the first century of Spanish rule by the barbarity of their conquerors and the severe labors enforced upon them. Whatever the later years of settlement and better civilization, of established church and government and of foreign and alien observation may have done to ameliorate the conditions of the enslaved indigenes, the evidence is conclusive as to the cruelty and oppression of the early Spanish invaders. Never, for a century at least, did the native bondman receive any more thought or consideration from his taskmasters than was essential to continue his effectiveness as a working machine."

The New York Sun makes a partial review of the trust organization of 1901 which indicates that they far exceed those of any preceding year. It gives the recorded capitalization, so far as it could be ascertained, at $5,000,000 for February, $220,250,000 for March, and $1,326,515,000 for April. The figures for January are not definitely given but they amount to over $100,000,000. For May the figures are not completed. Among the great combinations announced last month were the Allis-Chalmers machinery trust with $50,000,000 of stock, the shipbuilding trust with $65,000,000 of stock, the cotton duck trust with $50,000,000 and the locomotive trust with $50,000,000.

The students of the Woman's college in Baltimore who have had the happiness of studying calculus and the theory of equations gave a "mathematical" dinner the other night. The invitations were in algebraic form. The "decorations were parabolas and hyperbolas of daisies with a centerpiece in the form of a paraboloid." The strawberries were enclosed in conicoids of sugar. The ice cream came in parallelopipeds. All the vigor of mathematics was turned to favors and to prettiness. The young women are much more original than the young men. All the latter can do in testimony of their mathematical tolls is to "burn Legendre."

IN EXTREMIS.

Not only when my shuddering heart shall faint,
When Death's last arrow shall my flesh assail,
But when I face the strong demand of Life,
Let me not fail.

When I shall take my hand from off the plow,
Or, tired, slip the burden, shun the heat,
From ease and shade to furrow or to road
Turn Thou my feet.

When I the higher note no longer hear,
But Earth's poor piping follow with the throng,
Quicken again my heavy ear and dull
To heavenly song.

When, blurred by greed, my eyes are beauty-blind,
And gilded prizes lofty aims efface,
Or for low gains I barter my high hopes
In marked place,

When my soul swoons, when my ideals fade,
Strength of my strength, come then unto my old,

THEY SNEER NO MORE.

Minneapolis Times: The fact that when certain changes of registry have been completed Duluth will take the lead of all the ports on the great lakes in registered tonnage, great as it is, creates comparatively little comment. If, however, when Proctor Knott sneered at "the Zenith City of the unsalted seas" some Minnesotans of prominence—C. K. Davis or Alexander Ramsey for example—had intercalated the prophecy that within a generation those unsalted seas would bear a commerce greater by far than that of the Mediterranean and that Duluth would be the principal port of entry and departure on those seas, the laughter that greeted Knott's satirical speech would have been redoubled. It is not safe to make light of the pretensions of Northwestern towns.

A Second Pillsburg.

Wauseon, Ohio, Republican: "Illustrated Duluth," is the title of a neatly printed booklet compiled by Thomas E. Hill and published by the Duluth Improvement association. It contains much instructive matter of a city which is the largest primary wheat market in the world. As there is a large area of the best wheat land in the world tributary to that city which is estimated as capable of producing 250,000,000 bushels of wheat annually and as Duluth has the largest registered tonnage of any port on the lakes the city will continue in the lead as a grain port. With a deep waterway from the head of navigation on the Maumee river to the Ohio river the products of Duluth and all the country tributary to the lakes could reach tidewater on the gulf of Mexico and the Orient through the Panama anal. When the great water power at Duluth is developed a second Pittsburg may spring up.

DAILY STORY.

BY FIRE OR WATER?

BY JOSEPH BAUGHER.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

Paul Ingot was born, not exactly with "a silver spoon in his mouth," but with the prospect of having that metaphorical utensil placed there some time—if he should live long enough.

He managed to get along quite well until in an evil moment someone suggested that he might "anticipate" his future prospects. He promptly acted upon the suggestion, obtaining a snug sum of money, which he invested, and which he promptly lost.

He found the "anticipating" scheme such an easy matter that he several times drew upon the future, but always with the same disastrous results.

Ingot had several things besides prospects to his credit, among which were a pleasing person and address, but against these was scored indecision of character. He allowed opportunities, like so many golden apples, to roll by, when, with but little effort, they should have been his. The more obtainable and alluring ones he grasped, but they were "dead sea fruit," and they turned to ashes within his hand.

"Anticipating" comes high, but Ingot held that nothing was too high to pay for a thing if one really wanted it, so he paid accordingly.

"I am always in hock," he said to himself one day, and finding he had arrived at the end of the "anticipating" process he sold the remnant of his "birthright for a mess of pottage," and went his way rejoicing that he had not been defrauded of the pottage.

When he found his resources nearly gone he wrote a short story, which nearly caused his premature undoing, for while it was accepted and paid for by the publishers, he continued to write, but he turned out such miserable stuff that when asked by a publisher what had been his previous occupation he had replied "nothing much."

"Drop literature, then, and go back to your former trade."

Of course Ingot did not know that nearly everyone could write at least one acceptable story in a lifetime, and that he had happened in his first attempt to "hit the nail on the head," only to receive in subsequent efforts bruised fingers and crushed spirits. He sought to mend his spirits by application of some of the article kind. These failing, he resorted to narcotics.

"I will at least dream of a heaven I may never enter," he told himself.

"What is the matter with me?" he soliloquized one night, as he walked the streets, his last dollar gone.

"I have had more show than is allotted to most men, but what is it I lack?"

"Decision!"

Ingot stopped and looked over his shoulder. He was sure he had heard a voice.

"Decision!" Yes, that's it. No one knows better than I."

"But what am I to do?" he continued.

"That is for you to decide!"

Ingot stopped and looked about him.

"I think I have heard that voice before," he told himself. "It always comes when I have been out of the drug for some time. I expect I am getting 'daffy' again.

"I'll take your advice, my boy, whoever you are," he added, addressing the invisible speaker. "I decide right now. The river has a pleasant sound—murmuring, inviting, seductive." Then, after a pause, he thought:

"Still, I'd like to accomplish something—do just a little good before I make my exit."

"That, also, you must decide," the voice seemed to say.

"How?" said Paul. He turned the street that led to the river.

At that moment he heard a cry of "Fire!" and a woman's call for help. He saw almost at the river's edge, from the crevices of whose lower doors and windows smoke was pouring, and every now and then little tongues of flame, creeping through, lapped the outer sills.

"Break in the doors—the windows!" a woman's voice cried from the window above. "The flames are rising!"

"Quick! For God's sake! Save me!" she implored. Paul hesitated.

"You must decide now—now!" he heard his mentor say. "You have your wish!"

"It is your last chance to do a good deed!" the voice continued. "Do not let it pass. Save her!"

"To die by drowning is a pleasant death, but it is suicide," Paul told himself. "The coward's refuge; that's what they will say. And I will have accomplished nothing."

"And if you rescue this woman, it is also true that you may die—he—by fire. A lingering, painful death! But what of that, Paul? You will have saved a human life—you will have atoned! Which shall it be—by fire or water?" asked the voice.

And still he hesitated.

The cry of distress again rang out through the increasing smoke and flame.

"Quick! Quick! Decide!" the voice pleaded.

The rumbling of the fire engines and the clanging of bells grew louder and louder.

"Decide, before it is too late!"

"I—have!" cried Ingot.

The river and the burning house lay immediately before him, and he started in that direction.

As he stepped from the curb an engine dashed around the corner. The lead horse struck him. He fell and the wheels passed over his body.

It was not too late, for Paul Ingot had already decided.

But—how?

SELLS OUT.

Tower Logging Road Goes to Tower Lumber Company.

The Tower Logging company has sold to the Tower Lumber company its entire holdings near Tower, including a logging railway, equipment, sawmill at Bear Head lake and about 40,000,000 feet of pine. The consideration is said to have been $225,000. The Tower Lumber company took possession yesterday. This purchase will place the lumber company in the front rank of the interior lumber industries. The logging railway is twenty miles long extending from the Iron Range road at a point near Tower to Bear Head lake. The railway has standard gauge tracks, and its equipment consists of three locomotives and about 100 logging cars. The sawmill at Bear Head lake has been built and in operation for about two years. The railway formerly hauled logs for the Howe Lumber company before its plant was burned. The Tower Lumber company was organized to succeed the Howe Lumber company. The company has been buying pine heavily during the last year and is said to have enough pine to keep its mill active for about fifteen years. The new deal means a great deal for Tower in that the pine will now be manufactured in that town. William Allen, former president of the logging railway company, was in the city yesterday and confirmed the report of the sale. Mr. Allen will be identified with some of the Northern Minnesota lumbering interests, but is not yet ready to announce definitely his plans for the future.

PURSUED BY BEAR.

Manitoba Woman Has an Exciting Adventure.

Winnipeg, Man., June 4.—Mrs. A. Rutherford, of Manitou, had an exciting adventure with a bear. Her husband and the men were away in the fields and she was in the stable looking after some of the animals when she saw a large black bear jump from the pig pens. She rushed back into the stable and closed the door just as the animal approached her. The bear tried to force the door open, but failed. Shortly afterwards she heard the brute on the roof of the low building and then she saw its ponderous head peering through the opening left for ventilation. Mrs. Rutherford then unbolted the stable door and ran in terror to the house, with the bear after her. She succeeded in reaching a place of safety before the animal could get her.

BRUTAL.

A Woman's Skull Fractured By a Negro Robber.

Kansas City, June 4.—While sitting rocking a baby in her home at Second street and Woodland avenue yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Mary Schuler was struck down with a hatchet by a negro who appeared suddenly before her. Mrs. Schuler's skull was fractured and she may die. The negro escaped and is being searched for by a large number of neighbors and policemen. The motive was robbery.

Neighbors were attracted to the Schuler house by the woman's screams. Mrs. Schuler staggered from the house, bleeding from the wound in her head, inflicted with the hatchet. On the floor near where she had sat rocking the baby, there was a pool of blood. Bureau drawers had been searched, trunks had been ransacked and bedding had been dragged from the bed by the negro in his search for valuables. Mrs. Shuler was able to repeat weakly "nigger, nigger" and then lapsed into unconsciousness.

Later during a period of momentary consciousness she described her assailant and a crowd that had gathered, aided by a squad of police, began a search of the neighborhood. The house was situated in a poor district in the east bottom near the railroad tracks, and as the search for the man grew in proportions, the belief gained that he had escaped on a passing train. As news of the affair circulated the excitement became intense and threats of lynching were made freely.

Half a dozen arrests were made, but no tangible evidence against any of the suspects was found. Mrs. Schuler was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where examination disclosed two severe, but not necessarily fatal fractures of the skull. An operation was necessary.

VERY DARING.

Masked Men Hold Up Citizen In City of Newcastle.

Newcastle, Pa., June 4.—One of the most daring hold ups ever perpetrated in this part of the state took place in Elwood City yesterday afternoon. Three unmasked men met Costar Burns, an aged and wealthy resident of that place, who started today to his quarries with $2100 to pay his hands. Just in the rear of the Elwood Seamless Tube works, almost in the heart of the town, he met three strangers in a rig. They accosted him and he entered into conversation with them. Suddenly one of the trio, a large man wearing black goggles, stepped into Burns' buggy and seized him by the throat. One of the others seized the satchel containing the cash intended for the quarrymen and jumped into his own rig. The man with the goggles followed and the three lashed their horse to a run and disappeared before Burns could recover from the attack. A posse was hastily organized and came upon the highwaymen about two miles from the scene of the robbery. A heavy exchange of shots took place between pursuers and pursued. One of the robbers was crippled by a shot and was an easy victim while the leader, the man with the goggles, was captured after his ammunition was exhausted. Over $400 was found on the second robber's person but the third man escaped and is yet at large with $1700 of the stolen money. The prisoners are strangers here and absolutely refuse to talk. The man who escaped went in the direction of the Ohio line.

AT CASS LAKE

An Attempt to Destroy the Ellis Block By Fire.

Cass Lake, Minn., June 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fiendish attempt to destroy the Ellis block by fire was made here during Sunday night, and it was only through heroic work of the fire department that the attempt of the incendiaries was not successful. It was about 2 o'clock Sunday morning when Lee Burns, night clerk at the Endion hotel, saw two men running at full speed from the alley in the rear of the Ellis block. He gave chase, but the men eluded him and made their escape into the woods which surround Cass lake. The men were seen by other parties, at a distance, to run from the rear of the block, and in a moment after they started running flames were seen to rise from underneath the stairway and rapidly spread over the walls. An alarm of fire was turned in and soon the department was on hand. After an hour's hard work the flames were entirely extinguished, with but comparatively small damage to the building. There were several families sleeping in the second story of the building at the time of the fire, and they barely had time to get out before the entire second floor was filled with dense smoke and the fire department had streams of water turned on all parts of the floor. There is positively no clue as to who set the fire.

The O. R. C. excursion on Sunday from Grand Forks, Larimore and other intermediate points west to Cass Lake brought a large crowd to Cass Lake to enjoy a day's outing on Cass Lake and its tributaries. The main attraction here was a baseball game between the Cass Lake team and the Grand Forks club of the North Dakota league. The locals had strengthened considerably for the game, having Piggemier, of the Minneapolis Western league team, for pitcher, and Lehman, of the Toozle team, of Minneapolis, catcher. Several other players from outside points were also in the game. The game was a rather loosely-played one, the Grand Forks team winning by a score of 17 to 10.

Senator Daugherty, of Duluth, arrived in Cass Lake Saturday and will remain here for several days. His four sons are expected here today. Mr. Daugherty will secure a pleasant camping ground for his sons and they will remain here for an outing of several weeks.

RING RECOVERED.

Diamond Lost Twenty-Five Years Is Found.

Marshalltown, Iowa, June 4.—Mrs. D. W. Cunningham, a prominent resident of this city, has again come into possession of a diamond ring which she lost while working in her garden twenty-five years ago. The ring was her wedding ring and although she knew where she had lost it, the most careful search on many occasions resulted in failure. It was found a few days ago by a neighbor who saw the glitter of the diamond while walking across the lawn, and restored it to Mrs. Cunningham, who doubly prizes it, since her husband, who presented it to her, passed away but a few days before.

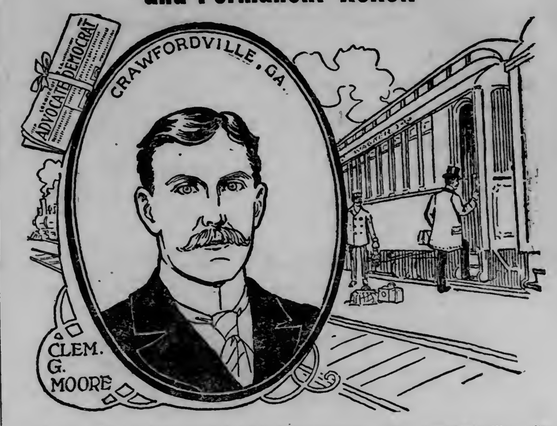
MATRIMONIAL DISPUTE.

Young Bridegroom Sent Home to His Mother.

Glenwood, Iowa, June 4.—The marriage of Delbart Huey and Miss Maude Coombs of Pacific Junction, has developed one of the worst complicated matrimonial cases that has ever been before the courts of this county. The young people were married a week ago, when the mother of the groom swore to the age of the girl as 18 and gave her consent to the marriage in behalf of her son. Now the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Coombs, has taken forcible possession of the bride and sent the groom home to his mother. She has had Mrs. Huey arrested for perjury in swearing to the age of the girl, whom she says is but 15. The bride has signed a petition to have the marriage set aside, stating that she was married against her will.

FOR SYSTEMIC CATARRH

Peculiar to Summer Pe-ru-na Gives Prompt and Permanent Relief.



Clem G. Moore, editor of the Advocate-Democrat, of Crawfordsville, Ga., writes the Peruna Medicine company as follows:

Gentlemen—"After four years of intense suffering, caused by systemic catarrh, which I contracted while editing, and traveling for my paper, I have been greatly relieved by the use of Peruna. I gave up work during these years of torture, tried various remedies and many doctors, but all the permanent relief came from the use of Peruna. My trouble was called inadigestion, but it was catarrh all through my system, and a few bottles of Peruna made me feel like another person, noting the improvement after I had used the first bottle. Peruna is undoubtedly the best catarrh remedy ever compounded."—Clem G. Moore.

Capt. Percy W. Moss, Paragould, Ark., says: "I think Peruna is undoubtedly the finest and surest catarrh cure ever prepared, and it has taken but two bottles to convince me of this fact."

Judge William T. Zenor, of Washington, D. C., writes from 213 N. Capital street, Washington, D. C.:

"I take pueasure in saying that I can cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna as a remedy for catarrhal trouble and a most excellent tonice for general conditions."—William T. Zenor.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, president of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

JUMBO NAP.

New York Man Takes Sleep Two Years In Length.

Binghamton, N. Y., June 4.—Michael Doran, who has slept for two years, has been discharged as cured from the Binghamton state hospital. When he was sent to that institution his case puzzled the doctors. He had an unconquerable desire to sleep and his naps became longer and longer. All efforts to awaken him proved unavailing and finally he went to sleep and remained in a somnolent state for two years, his only movement being to turn from one side to the other as though restless. It was found necessary to feed him artificially, and he remained in this state until four months ago, when the attendants noticed an occasional flutter of the eyelids. This lasted for several days and then as a man carrying bread passed through the ward, he asked for "bread," the first word spoken in two years. It was given him, and from that time he recovered rapidly until he was able to go out in the sunshine. This quickly restored the use of his limbs and now he has been discharged as perfectly cured of any desire to take lengthy naps.

HANNA AND HEATH.

Talk of the Republican Ticket For 1904.

Chicago, June 4.—Perry S. Heath and Richard S. Kerens, national committeeman from Missouri, while protesting that it was too early to talk of presidential nominations, yesterday declared that Senator Hanna would make an ideal candidate for the presidency. Also both declined to see anything to object to in the possibility of McKinley for a third term. Rather, they enthused over the latter proposition almost as much as they did at the mention of Hanna and the office of chief executive.

A group of politicians had gathered about Heath and Kerens in the lobby of the Auditorium annex. After the Hanna presidential boom had been talked about some one asked: "How about the mention of your name for the vice presidential nomination, Col. Heath?"

Heath laughed and replied that some ill-advised friend of his had used his name in that connection, but Kerens and the others said:

"Certainly." "Just the man." "Make way for Heath and Hanna."

Committeeman Kerens said he thought Senator Hanna "a noble man, stronger with the laboring people than any other public man in the country." He added:

"Senator Hanna's course thus far in life has endeared him to the people. He it was who settled the anthracite coal miners' strike in Pennsylvania and settled it in favor of the miners. His record is flawless both in public and private life. I don't know whether the third-term idea is popular in this country or not; but in the case of McKinley, his magnetic, lovable personality and surpassing career in the service of the people, make it popular if it is not so now."

OLD MARRIED COUPLE.

Have Celebrated Seventy-Fourth Anniversary.

Appleton, Wis., June 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Sherman R. Hopkins of the town of Dale, near this city, are the oldest married couple living in the country, having celebrated their seventy-fourth wedding anniversary a few days ago. They are 93 and 91 years old respectively. Mr. Hopkins was born on St. Patrick's day, 1808, at Middlebury, N. Y. He left his father's farm when he was about 18 years old and moved to Michigan, where he was married a year later to Miranda Thorington. He made his home in Michigan a few years and in 1836 moved to Milwaukee, where he remained until 1859, and then moved to Stevens Point, where he lived about twelve years before coming to his present home. Despite their age, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins are still hale and vigorous.

IS NOT A FAIR TEST

Condition of Marshall-Wells Hardware Company's Paving Brick.

Not Laid Under Conditions Favorable to the Brick.

The Company Makes No Complaint Against the Brick.

Since the property owners on Superior street petitioned for a vitrified brick pavement and the council ordered it, every piece of vitrified brick pavement that is to be found in the city has been subjected to more or less examination. There are not more than two or three, but the only one of any extent is at the new Marshall-Wells Hardware company's establishment. The driveways around the building and the space in the rear running from the building to the concrete dock is all laid with vitrified brick. What is still more interesting is that it is laid with the Purington brick made at Galesburg, Ill., the very brick that is to go down on Superior street.

Examinations made of the condition of the brick laid there within a few months are not calculated to arouse any great enthusiasm over vitrified brick as paving material. It is badly chipped and broken and presents no such smooth and uniform surface and general appearance that is desirable for Superior street.

Nevertheless, those who condemn vitrified brick as paving material because of an inspection of this piece without investigating further, pass judgment hastily. A. H. Comstock, of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, when asked yesterday as to the brick, said:

"To pass judgment upon vitrified brick as paving material upon a mere inspection of the brick around our place is unfair. The conditions under which it was laid were anything but favorable to the brick. When we selected brick it was with the idea that it would best serve our purpose, and we took the Purington variety after convincing ourselves that there was no better made. At the time the brick was laid we were forced to get into our building as quickly as possible, and we did not wait to lay the brick under favorable circumstances. Some of it was put down on frozen concrete, some on sand, and in general in any way we could get it down at the time. We could not take time to put in the filler just as it should be. Our object was to get it down just as quickly as we could. We have no complaint against the way the brick has worn. We expected when we laid it to have to take it all up again some time and lay it over. You will see that in places it has settled as much as two inches, and it is uneven throughout, and it would be impossible for it not to be chipped and broken when laid that way.

"At the same time I wish to say that I have not been favorable to a brick pavement for Superior street. In the first place it is a dusty pavement. Dirt will lodge in the little crevices, and when the wind blows there is a great dust, and it is almost impossible to keep it down. Then, again, it is a very noisy pavement. I know that well, for at Saginaw the banking institution with which I was connected was on a street paved with brick.

"Saginaw has tried nearly all pavements—cedar block, etc—and finally, some little time before I left there, settled upon vitrified brick, and the people thought they had found the ideal pavement at last. Miles upon miles of it were laid. It did not take them long to get tired of it, however. The next course of the evolution through which the city had passed led to ashphalt. When it went down, and the people compared it with the brick pavement, it was impossible to get up a petition for brick pavement in the town.

"Of course, there are different kinds of asphalt, and unless the best is obtained it will not be satisfactory, and will be really worse than none. Saginaw has been fortunate and has had good material put down. The city, too, invested about $2500 in a repairing outfit, and keeps it in good shape.

"As I say, I am strongly in favor of asphalt, and hope when the street is paved further east that material will be used. It may be that the brick experiment on Superior street will be a good and cheap one, for I think it will not be popular."

"NATHAN HALE."

The complete production of Clyde Fitch's powerful revolutionary play, "Nathan Hale," will be given this evening at the Lyceum just as it was seen during its long run at the Knickerbocker theater, New York. All the elaborate scenery and costumes used in the original presentation will be seen here, and the occasion promises to be of more than ordinary interest to theater-goers. "Nathan Hale" is a representative American play, on an essentially American subject, written by an American author, and it will be interpreted by an American company, each one of whom has been especially selected for his individual aptness. With Howard Kyle as the patriot spy, an excellent performance should seem assured.

A POWERFUL SPEAKER.

Rev. Olaf Bodien to Lecture Here.

The Young People's society of the First Swedish Baptist church has arranged to have the Rev. Olaf Bodien to deliver his famous lecture here on "The Dawning of the Great Religious Movement in Dalarne, Sweden, in 1840." The lecture was postponed from May 29 and will take place this evening, June 4, at the church on Nineteenth avenue west and First street. The society is delighted at having Mr. Bodien here, as it undoubtedly will prove to be of exceptional interest. Rev. Mr. Bodien has for years been pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church in Minneapolis, and has gained great popularity in that city. He is considered one of the best Swedish speakers in the United States.

POLITICS.

Rev. H. W. Knowles Believes In the Political Preacher.

Rev. Harry W. Knowles, of the Grace Methodist church, argued in favor of the political preacher at yesterday's meeting of the Duluth-Superior Ministerial association. "We may pray till the crack of doom," he said, "but it is the politician that holds the answer." If reformation and moral leading is desired he thought the preachers should be in the thick of it. The preacher must study politics and be a party man outside the pulpit, taking his place in the primaries up to any place duty may call him. Speaking in a general way of the politicians he had met as chaplain of the lower house of the Minnesota legislature, he said that there is no money in politics, and that if the remuneration were larger a better class of men would be attracted.

In conclusion, he said that the wonder is that so little wrong is done when so little reliance is placed in God. The meeting was held on the lake shore of Park Point, and was attended by sixteen ministers. Mrs. La Framboise entertained the gathering at dinner. Rev. Alexander Milne read a biographical sketch of Frederick Robinson, and Rev. B. R. Patrick, of the First Baptist church, spoke of George Adam Smith.

EDUCATION NECESSARY.

Some Things About the New Cars.

It is evident that some of the traveling public will need to become familiar with a few things connected with the running of the new double truck cars on the interstate line before the comfort and convenience of the new vehicles are fully appreciated. In the first place, the cars lose very little time at a crossing picking up passengers. If a passenger does not stand on the right corner the car will not be stopped, and there has been more than one instance where expletives have been wafted after the motorman and conductor on a car that whirled by groups of passengers who expected to get on the car in the middle of a block, or at the wrong corner. As soon as the last passenger gets on the step of the car the signal is given the motorman and the gates are closed by means of a lever within the motorman's reach. These gates are closed very quickly, as the latterer who has had his heels pounded by them will testify. The cars have been running since Sunday, yet there are comparatively few people riding on them that know the proper way of signalling the conductor when they wish to get off. In the window casing at each seat, or on either side of the rear door, will be seen small pearl covered push buttons with electrical connections, and all that the passenger needs to do is to push the button, which rings a bell on the rear of the car and the conductor in turn signals the motorman. Some of the contortions undergone by passengers not familiar with this arrangement, to stop the car, has prompted the more experienced and charitable minded passengers to give them a little information on the subject, but it is sometimes very laughable to see a woman on the front seat stand up, facing the rear of the car, and wildly waving her hand or parcel to the conductor on the rear platform to stop the car. The big bumper on the rear end of the car has its enticement for the small boy who wishes to steal a ride, and yesterday, while a youngster was taking a free ride in this manner, the conductor suddenly dropped the window above and pulled the boy into the car through the window. The boy was turned over to the police and locked up at police headquarters for the balance of the day, as an example for the other boys following this practice.

REST FOR TOLSTOI.

The aged novelist is not likely to be molested by the government, and all talk of exile in his case is without foundation.

LICENSE GRANTED

Charles Sellman Can Sell Liquor But Will Move.

Present Location Has Been Strongly Objected To.

The Building of Gates For the Ferry Ordered.

The council last night:

Held a strictly routine session.

Renewed Sellman saloon license.

Introduced patrol limit amendment.

Ordered revolving gates on ferry docks.

Saloon and anti-saloon factions of Twentieth avenue west fought a two-round draw before the council last night. The bout was quick and honors very even.

The fight was over the renewal of Charles Sellman's license at 22 Twentieth avenue west. Several weeks ago the anti-saloon element of that vicinity suggested a knock-out jab as the proper handling of Mr. Sellman's application for renewal. The suggestion was accompanied by a long list of names. The temperance people were against the saloon because it was close to one of the largest churches, and also because they did not care to have saloons on strictly residence thoroughfares.

The long anti-saloon petition was followed up with a longer petition, signed by West End people, and the fight became interesting.

Last night the police and license committee reported in favor of renewing the license. There was a delegation of anti-saloon people present, headed by J. O. Milne. When asked for their side of the controversy, they said that they had been informed, since coming to the meeting, that valuable concessions had been made for Mr. Sellman's removal as soon as he could get a Superior street location. Alderman Frank Schaffer confirmed this statement, and the license went through with only two votes against it.

Later in the evening Alderman Olson introduced an amendment to the patrol ordinance, which, when adopted, will legislate the Sellman saloon out of existence, if he has not secured a new location. The amendment was given its first reading. It simply abolishes the patrol limits on Twentieth avenue west.

For several weeks past there has been an intense fight on for the contract to furnish the city with lumber for the coming year. This contract calls for about 450,000 feet. The fight became so interesting that it was carried outside the department of public works and into the council. Last evening, on motion of Alderman Cochrane, the council, temporarily at least, decided to leave the matter with the department.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the preliminary steps looking toward the condemnation of a lot next to the old reservoir, at Fifteenth avenue east and Fifth street. This is for the purpose of building an auxiliary pumping station, to be used in furnishing the water for the new normal school, and also for the station of the upper system when that is instituted.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the extension of the East Superior street from Twenty-second to Twenty-fourth avenues east.

The council received a communication from the fire commissioners, asking for the passage of an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to pull an alarm for a chimney fire. The matter was referred to the fire department committee and the city attorney.

Alderman Krumsieg introduced a resolution authorizing the department of public works to build a suitable wooden fence with revolving gates on the Lake avenue and Minnesota Point docks of the Park Point ferry, to prevent the crowding of passengers. The resolution was adopted.

The board of fire commissioners reported that the funds now at the disposal of the department will not permit the manning of the fire engine at West Duluth, but that as soon as possible it would be put in commission. In the meantime the engine will attend all fires in certain localities where the board thinks it could be of service.

The council was invited to attend the annual inspection of the fire department, which will be held Thursday afternoon.

President Cromwell announced that Alderman Krumsieg, of the Second ward; Alderman Cochrane, of the Eighth ward; Alderman Moore, of the First ward; Alderman Schaffer, of the Sixth ward, and Alderman Johnson, of the Fifth ward, would constitute the committee to represent the council in the coming Fourth of July celebration. This committee will invite the officials of all surrounding cities and towns and look after their entertainment while they are Duluth's guests.

BOUND OVER.

Luke Harcourt Must Answer to the Grand Jury.

Luke Harcourt, of Eveleth, was given an examination in police court yesterday afternoon and bound over to await the meeting of the grand jury, for shooting Pat Shields, a foreman of the Cloquet Lumber company.

Harcourt was employed by the settlers to keep off trespassers on the strip of land at Cedar Island lake. Shields, as foreman of the Cloquet Lumber company, was on the other side in this dispute. The two men met in Frank Ansay's saloon at Eveleth and a quarrel followed.

Shields started the fight by remarking that Harcourt was afraid to step outside the saloon and fight him. Harcourt pulled his gun and shot Shields twice. The foreman was in court yesterday and seemed little the worse for the shooting.

The hearing was brief and the testimony taken was wholly against Harcourt. He will, it is said, make his fight before the grand jury which meets in September.

IS RAMPANT.

Hold-Ups In New Mining Towns Are Common.

Reports from the Western Mesaba range would indicate the need of strong measures to stop the career of crime that a large body of men seem to have embarked upon there. Almost every day there are held ups and other outrages in that section, until it is said that it is dangerous for men to be out after night except upon the most populous streets, and there are many men of considerable nerve that would not make a night trip between Hibbing and Buhl for a good deal of money.

Several hold ups on the road between Hibbing and Buhl have been reported in the papers, and a man who has recently been up there says that there are a great many that do not become public. Buhl is a new town, and a lively one, and lawlessness is often to be found in new mining towns. The village of Hibbing itself is probably lawful enough, but it is a very dangerous thing for a man to display any money and then start out alone on any of the roads in that vicinity. There is always a good deal of travel on these roads, nevertheless, and this gives hte criminals that seem to infest the region a chance to make an honest dollar on the Dick Turpin plan.

Sunday night Engineer C. E. Jones, of the Eastern Minnesota, was bringing in a work train from Buhl and near Hibbing he was fired upon by a gang of drunken men and, severely wounded in the shoulder. Last Friday night a company of miners armed with rifles bombarded a saloon at the new town of Chisholm, north of Hibbing. Luckily nobody was hurt, but the place was riddled with bullets.

Chisholm and Buhl are both new towns, with crowds surging in before the local machinery of government is ready to check the lawlessness with a strong hand. The result is that law and order seem to be little respected by a large number of the men, and the blind pig and the highwayman flourish in the land.

After the new towns settle down and the local government is in good running order, this carnival of crime will undoubtedly cease, but at the present, according to the reports of men coming down from that section, the country wears the appearance of a frontier community, and outsiders need have a care to their personal safety while traveling there.

THE LIBRARY.

Corner Stone to Be Laid on Fourth of July.

At last night's meeting the library board agreed with the arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration, and the corner stone of the new Carnegie library will be laid on that day. A letter was read from the grand master of the grand lodge of Masons accepting the invitation to lay the corner stone.

Miss Lydia Poirier, the librarian, was authorized to attend the national library convention, which meets at Waukesha, Wis., July 1.

The contractors on the new library were allowed an estimate of about $5000, and the regular monthly bills were allowed and the purchase of a number of new books decided upon.

Radcliffe & Willoughby, the architects, whose plans were once accepted but not used because of the change in plans for the building, were offered $750 in settlement of their services. They had presented a bill at the regular architect's rate of 3½ per cent, amounting to about $1600.

The old officers of the board were all re-elected as follows: President, R. E. Denfeld; vice president, R. C. Mitchell; secretary, Dr. C. L. Codding. The old standing committees were reappointed for another year.

WHERE'S THE USE?

Drugging With Coffee and Keeping Sick All the Time.

A coffee drinker is liable to a smash almost any time and without much warning. A New York man, C. W. Bedford, 1065 Lex. Ave., says that when he was in apparently perfect health, weighing about 185 pounds, with good appetite, he suddenly had a severe attack of gastritis. He lost his appetite and the doctor put him on a rigid diet and gave him remedies, but all to no purpose. He says, "Everybody I met had a cure, and I tried a lot of them. I lost weight until I reached 144 pounds. I had those nasty gastric staggers.

About the middle of the summer, when on a vacation, a friend asked whether I drank coffee or not. Being told that I did, he suggested that I quit it and take Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts breakfast food. I laughed at him and told him that I was through with special articles of diet.

One day the nerves had another bad smash, and I concluded to quit coffee and see if that was really the cause of the trouble.

Next morning I had Postum for breakfast, and it was well made and tasted good. I also had Grape-Nuts for breakfast, and from that day my troubles began to fade away.

I am steadily gaining in flesh, can sleep naturally, and can eat whatever I want. What is the use of a man's drinking an article like coffee that poisons him, and causes such troubles as I have had, when you can have a delicious Food Coffee like Postum that builds up instead of tearing down. Health is worth more than all the coffee on earth.

DROUTH IS BROKEN

Copious Rains Over Almost the Entire Wheat Country

Brings Flood of Selling Orders From the Northwest.

Shippers Were Heavy Buyers---Uneasiness Over Chicago July.

Duluth, Board of Trade, June 4.—There was jubilation among the wheat traders this morning. The drouth in the Northwest was effectually broken. There was rain in Fargo, rain in Grand Forks, rain in Bismarck, rain in Jamestown, rain in Winnipeg, in fact there was rain everywhere on the map except a few points in South Dakota. Instead of local rains, there were only local dry places and few of those. This timely rain is believed to make certain a great wheat crop in the spring wheat sections this fall. There is, of course, the possibility of bugs, etc., but the chances of those are as nothing compared with the dread drouth. The rains of last night and today are held to "clinch" the crop.

The local market was flooded with selling orders from the Northwest at the opening and they continued to come for some time afterward, order after order reading "sell 10 Sept. Raining hard here," was received. This could not fail to break the price and the general course was steadily downward but there were sharp rallies now and then and strong buying was in evidence. It came from the shippers and Spencer, Moore, Ames-Brooks and A. D. Thomson were all purchasing. Both July and September were in demand. Trading was the most active the Duluth board has seen since last fall and option dealing ran up into the millions. The price of July closed 2¾c off which was ⅝c up from the low point.

At Chicago there was a very nervous feeling at the opening. There had been a heavy advance on the curb after the close of yesterday. The opening ranged all the way from 78 to 79c and there was an advance to 79¾c. The interests that have been on the buying side appeared as heavy sellers, however, this with reports of rains in winter wheat sections where there has been drouth carried prices steadily downward. Later there was a rally on buying by the long interest and the close was about 1c off from yesterday. There is an uneasy feeling among the July shorts in Chicago and there are many rumors of a squeeze.

Liverpool was up today although the advance was not equal to that in American markets the close being unchanged to ¾d higher. Primary receipts of wheat were 499,000 bus, last year 629,000. Shipments 261,000 bus, last year 301,000. Clearances of wheat and flour were 83,000 bus. Bradstreet reported a decrease of 3,500,000 bus in the world's visible.

At Duluth July wheat opened ⅜c off at 76¾c, sold down to 73⅝c at 9:32, reacted to 76c at 9:35, fell off to 75¾c at 9:40, recovered to 75¾c at 9:42, declined to 75¾c at 10:04, sold at 75¾c at 10:06, slumped to 73c at 10:16, rose to 74c at 10:17, sold down to 74⅝c at 10:25, was quoted at 74¾-⅞c at 11:11, declined to 74⅛c at 12:00, recovered to 74⅝c at 12:23 and closed at that price a decline of 2¾c. As Chicago there was a decline of 1¾c and at Minneapolis off 2¼c.

The brighter conditions in the Northwest had an effect on the price of cash wheat today and while July price was paid at the opening the price was afterward dropped to ½c below. Sales were about 60,000 bus.

Flax, too, felt the effect of the broken drouth. hTe September option declined 4c and the October 2c. Rye was up 1½c and other coarse grains were unchanged in price.

Following are the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Intense Excitement Prevailed In the Wheat Pit.

Chicago, June 4.—Intense excitement prevailed in the wheat pit here today. Shorts, frightened by yesterday's developments, made a rush to buy at the sound of the gong July opened ½@¾ to 1⅝@1¾c higher at 78@79½c. Large lines were put out by the house credited with attempting to form a corner and the shorts were fed with a lavish hand. Under this selling and reports of rain in the Northwest, said to be copious in the Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska, July declined to 75¾c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 323 cars, against 198 last week and 198 last week and 554 a year ago. Local receipts were 174 cars, 4 of contract grade.

Covering carried the market back to 77¼c. After another drop to 76c, the market rallied to 77c. The close was weak, 1@1½o lower, at 76¾c.

Corn was in fair demand at a lower range, due to large receipts. July opened ½@⅝c lower to 44½@44¾c and rallied to 44½@44⅝c. Local receipts were 643 cars, 63 of contract grade.

July closed steady, ⅜@⅝c lower, at 44¼@45c.

Oats were easier with corn. Offerings were light and there was no good outside demand on the decline. July opened ⅛@¼c lower at 28¾c and sold down to 28¼c. Local receipts were 434 cars.

Provisions were dull and firm in sympathy with higher prices of hogs. July pork opened 5@10c higher at $14.65 and declined to $14.60. July lard opened 5@7½c higher at $8.22½@8.25, and July ribs 2½c higher at $7.87½.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 4.—Conditions in wheat were entirely local. After yesterday's strength there was a rush to cover shorts early which brought heavy selling and the decline which followed caught stop orders. At the decline, however, there was renewed buying. We do not think the manipulation of July wheat is over, but that it will continue to control prices of the immediate future. There were quite general showers throughout the West, Southwest and northwest. While the rains are not heavy in any quarter, they were enough to relieve the uneasiness in regard to the crop. We think the general speculative sentiment is rather bearish on legitimate conditions, but manipulation of the July, if continued, is likely to unsettle the whole market.

In corn, the shipping demand continues poor and receipts liberal. The conditions of weather are more favorable for the growing crop. Speculative support is not very encouraging and the tone of the market is soft and the tendency seems to be lower.

The oats market was quiet. The weather is favorable for the crop, and the shipping demand is not urgent.

The provision market opened a shade firmer, but is closing at yesterday's prices. Shipping demand well maintained.

"SOONERS."

Their Presence Is Probably Irritating the Indians.

Denver, June 4.—Gen. Merriam, commander of the department of the Colorado, today received the following telegram from Lieut. Col. Lee, in command at Fort Wasahkie, Wyo.:

"It is reported today that an Arapahoe sheep herder was killed last Friday on the reservation, thirty miles north of the agency, by a white sheep herder. This, if true, has no connection with reported disturbances, though it might incense some of the Arapahoes. The agent of the reservation has heard nothing of the matter and everything is apparently quiet."

Troop E, First cavalry, is stationed at Fort Wasahkie, and Gen. Merriam believes they are sufficient to meet any emergency. The ill-feeling among the Indians is due to the presence of "sooners."

NERVOUS FEELING

In the Stock Market And Prices Were Irregular.

Sugar Was Forced Down Early Under Large Offerings.

Soft Spots In Final Dealings And Closing Active.

New York, June 4.—Prices were generally higher at the opening, but there were few exceptions among the internationals in sympathy with lower prices in London. Reading, Union Pacific, St. Paul and Rock Island were off a fraction and Sugar dropped 1¼. Amalgamated Copper, Denver & Rio Grande preferred, Atchison preferred and Ontario & Western rose from 1 to 1¼ and Des Moines & Fort Dodge was up 2¼. Dealings were large and well distributed.

Stocks which are not usually prominent in the dealings were advanced from 1 to 3 points, but meanwhile the prominent stocks were being sold heavily under cover of this strength. Large blocks of Sugar were offered, forcing it down 5¼ to 147½. St. Paul lost 2⅜ and Amalgamated Copper, the Readings, Pacifics and Atchison dropped 1 to 2 points. Ontario & Western was a conspicuous exception, rising 2¾ on the reported acquisition of the Delaware & Hudson canal. At 11 o'clock prices were about the lowest, but speculation was nervous.

Special stocks were lifted sharply, but without attracting any large demand for the general list. These included the tractions, New York Central, Wabash preferred, Norfolk & Western, Reading and the Chicago terminal issues, which rose 1 to 2¾ and General Electric advanced 13 points on light dealings. The Pacifics, Grangers and United States Steel stocks were unloaded on every rise. Union Pacific fell 3¼ under last night. The whole market gave way in sympathy. Bonds were lower for the leading issues.

There were some new points of strength developed while realizing at other points made the market irregular. Pennsylvania was advanced 3 and Wheeling & Lake Erie from 1 to 4. Rock Island extended its rise to 6½. United States Express 5, Peoria & Eastern 5, St. Joe & Grand Island second preferred 2 and People's Gas 1¾. When there was selling to take profits it induced some reactions of a point or more, but rallies set in again. Southern Pacific rallied to the best and very heavy buying of Erie was seen. Soft spots developed in the final dealings. The Closing was active and irregular.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, June 4.—Cotton opened steady unchanged to 1 point higher, an indifferent response to firm English cables and drouth news from Texas. Soon after the call shorts were made uneasy by several half-point advances in near months abroad and by foreign buying of near months here. But the room trade was bearish on all positions except July which was regarded with suspicion owing to the scarcity of offerings. Trading was tame and almost entirely professional.

Cotton spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 8¾c; middling gulf, 8¼c; sales, 1206 bales.

COMING SOON.

F. E. House Expected to Arrive Within a Few Days.

F. E. House, of Pittsburg, whom it was reported was to be the head of the railroad interests of the United States Steel company, is expected to arrive in Duluth almost any day to take charge of his new field here. It has been somewhat difficult to learn just what the plans of the company were as to Mr. House. It was first announced that he was to head the railroad interests, but nothing was heard of this for a long time, and none of the officers of the company ever confirmed the report that he was to do this. This reluctance was explained by some as being because of the threatened opposition to a consolidation of the two range roads.

Now Mr. House is coming, it is said, and he is reported to be about to assume the position of general manager. Later, it is reported reliably, he is to be elected president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad and of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, so that he will be at the head of the two roads.

Whether Mr. House is to live in Duluth or not is not known, but it is supposed that he will, as all of the other officers who have been placed in charge of the various departments connected with the mining and shipping of ore are to live here.

If the plan of electing him president of the two roads is carried out it will cause a good many changes about the general offices of the two roads, and what these changes will be is not known at this time.

A LIMITED.

Lester Park Residents Petition For an Exclusive Service.

Residents of Lakeside and Lester Park are out with petitions today to have the Duluth-Superior Traction company run through cars to their happy suburban homes. The idea is to have Lester Park cars run from Second avenue east to Lakeside without a stop, during the rush hours in the morning and evening.

By this servoce the patrons of the line figure on saving much time and annoyance. It is claimed that the Lakeside cars are filled before reaching the East End, and that the passengers there crowd the cars more than necessary.

It the petitions are received by the street car company with as much enthusiasm as it is by the suburban patrons the through service would probably be installed without delay.

OFFICERS

For General Synod of Presbyterians Reported By Committee.

Des Moines, June 4.—A meeting of the Publication society, and the selection of officers for the ensuing year, was the most important work before the general synod of the Evangelical church today. While the board was in session the synod took a recess. The committee on nominations of officials for the ensuing two year reported as follows: President, Dr. W. B. Freas; secretary, William E. Fisher; executive board, renominated, with the exception of Dr. J. B. R. Snyder and Dr. W. C. Steaver, who are succeeded by Rev. T. C. Billheimer and T. B. Patton.

Reports of the society were then submitted, precipitating a discussion which lasted until noon.

The report of the board of publication showed the following net value of the assets—real estate $65,775, securities $3600; cash $4781; total, $157,331, or with the rung legacy included, $161,245. This, it was stated, is surely a fine showing. In 1891 the assets of the society amounted to $93,056. While the profits of the publication have been reduced by $12,857, there was satisfaction in the fact that the church had saved $5973 in royalties to the general synod, and $2816 in donations to the mission Sunday schools.

Constitution Meets Disaster While Out on Trial Spin.

Newport, R. I., June 4.—The cup defender Constitution was dismasted while on her trial spin this afternoon. The accident happened while the yacht was off Brenton's reef lightship, about three miles out from Narragansett pier, about 2:15 this afternoon. To all appearances the Constitution is badly crippled. From the shore the mainmast appeared to have broken about half way up. The boom swung to the lee side and the mainsail and its rigging were carried overboard.

MACCABEES.

Biennial Convention of Knights and Ladies at Mankato.

Mankato, Minn., June 4.—The biennial state conventions of the Knights and Ladies of the Maccabees opened in this city yesterday and will continue through today. The attendance of the Knights thus far is 250 and that of the ladies is about sixty. By today these figures are expected to be 400 and 100 respectively. The special train from the Twin Cities over the Chicago Great Western brought in 100 and these were met by the local tent and a band and escorted to the hall. Among those present are Supreme Commander D. P. Markey and Supreme Medical Examiner Moss, of the Knights, and Mrs. L. M. Hollister, supreme commander, and Miss Bina West, supreme record keeper, of the ladies, all of Port Huron, Mich. There are two supreme representatives to be elected and the fight has now settled down to John B. Ogle, commander of the Mankato tent, J. F. Gorman and George McKay, of St. Paul; J. E. Murtaugh, of Albert Lea, and Alex. Stewart, of Duluth. I. N. Chellew, of St. Paul, the state commaner, has withdrawn from the contest, and will undoubtedly be re-elected to his present position. Brainerd is an applicant for the next state convention.

When the convention was called to order Mayor Nic Peterson and Commander Ogle welcomed the visiting delegates and State Commander Chellew responded. A committee on credentials was appointed consisting of J. F. Gorman, J. Pierce Wolff, of Moorhead, and E. E. Barmore, of Tower.

State Commander Chellew was presented with a handsome gavel by Supreme Commander Markey, a gift to the former from his friends in the state. The ladies were welcomed by Commander Mrs. W. B. Torrey, of Minerva hive, and State Commander Mrs. Welch responded.

The knights and ladies were given a drive around the city in the afternoon. Last evening the knights had their regular review at which a school of instruction was held. The degree team of Unity tent, St. Paul, fully exemplified the degree work in a large class of candidates.

Last evening Minerva hive of Mankato gave the visiting ladies a reception at Schiller hall, where they are holding their convention. Afterward the secret work was exemplified by Unity hive, of Minneapolis, assisted by Mankato Guards and banner bearers.

The reports of officers show that there are 199 tents of Maccabees in the state with 6063 benefit and 1580 social members. The total membership of the order is 501,398.

WIDOW IS BRAVE

Fighting a Railroad Company That Pulled Down Her Fence.

Is Little But Has a Rifle and Plenty Nerve.

Daughter of Brian Baru Takes Stand For Her Rights.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 4.—Mrs. Mary Kelly, of 159 Davenport street, is being called the bravest woman in Cleveland. If she's not the bravest she is an intrepid as any, and she is waging a unique warfare with her humble home as a battle ground, which any brave man or men might hesitate to mix up in. She has declared unconditional war against the Pennsylvania Railroad company, one of the richest corporations in the United States, for having infringed on and destroyed her property.

"I'll fight the Pennsylvania road till I die in my tracks," she exclaimed.

"I'm fearless and dauntless, and I'll fight the whole crew single handed. If a single blackguard of 'em steps on my land again I'll shoot him full of holes." And she exhibited a rusty, but faithful-looking shotgun to bear her testimony.

Mrs. Kelly is a little bit of a woman, wizened and gray. Every move betokens concealed energy and a powerful will. Her steel-blue eyes flashed fire as she told the story of her conflict thus far with the powerful corporation.

Mrs. Kelly is a widow, and she has no sons to fight her battles for her. She owns the small property on Davenport street, and sublets a portion of the house to gain her livelihood. In order to protect her property from what she declares is the encroachment of the railroad she is forced to wage single-handed warfare, and she is driven to unique strategic moves to circumvent her powerful enemy.

Several nights ago a gang of section men came to the rear of the widow's house and proceeded to undermine a fence that separated the tracks from her property, and which was a menace to any chance passenger who might put his head out of a window of a passing train. Chains were attached to the fence, and with the help of a freight engine it was pulled completely down. This act aroused the ire of the dauntless Widow Kelly. Her wrath, which had been smoldering for many months, burst forth into flames in an instant. She did not hesitate for a minute, but took her position on the railroad track in front of moving trains and for some time held the awe-stricken train hands at bay.

"I'll do it again if I'm called to," said she. "I'm not afraid of the company, and it will never make me knuckle down. I'm a daughter of old Brian Boru, who never said 'nough, and before I'm through with 'em the Pennsylvania company will wish they'd left a poor lone widow's property alone. They say they're going to put a fence up. They'll stick it over about 10 feet on my land, after they've stolen eleven feet for their old tracs already, the robbers. I'l fix them. The first man, be he the president or what not, who starts to monkey about my back yard, I'll fill him full of lead."

And the fearless woman looked every word she said. In the corner of her humble sitting room is a menacing-shotgun. In the back yard is a neat pile of substantial looking bricks.

"I'll shoot 'em or I'll brick 'em: I'll fight 'em any way at all; come one 'r come all. The whole bunch of them can't down a poor lone widow from Ireland."

Mrs. Kelly was arrested because she delayed trains, but she was discharged.

MURDERED.

Edward Forshay Killed Miss Stokes, an Actress, In Chicago.

Chicago, June 4.—Edward Forshay, of Kansas City, an actor and assistant manager of theatrical companies, last night shot and killed Miss Edna Stokes, an actress whose home is at Sedalia, Mo., with whom he was deeply in love. Forshay claims to have met Miss Stokes in St. Louis six years ago, when they were both playing an engagement. The couple played in different cities of the country until last fall, when they came to Chicago and became members of the stock company playing at the Victoria theater. Forshay evidently intended to take his life after killing the woman, for upon his person when he was arrested were letters bidding farewell to his mother, Mrs. J. M. Forshay, 1223 Broadway, Kansas City, Mo., and another to Chief of Police O'Neill, of this city.

The couple had engaged in a desperate quarrel three days ago and Forshay is said to have beaten the actress badly, cutting her head in two places. Miss Stokes gave orders to the proprietor of the Vernon hotel, at which she was stopping, that Forshay should not be admitted to her pdesence and although he called there twice during the early part of the evening he was compelled to leave by the attendants. Later he called and the proprietor told him that he could wait in the parlor where Miss Stokes would see him. She came down from her room and the couple talked for about ten minutes when Forshay suddenly drew a revolver and fired two shots, one passing through the right lung and the other close to the heart. She died almost istantly.

After killing the woman Forshay ran from the building and was closely followed by James Helm and William Kennedy, the porter of the hotel. After pursuing him a short distance Helm overtook him, and throwing him to the sidewalk, held him until the arrival of the police. When taken to the police station Forshay said that he intended to kill himself as he could not live without Miss Stokes' love, but that his nerve failed at the last minute.

Nothing tastes good. Nothing gives pleasure. The mind is dull and sluggish. The will is weak. Little things cause great irritation. What's the matter? The probabilities are that the stomach is deranged and the liver involved.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes a man who is run down and dispirited feel like a new being. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, stirs the sluggish liver into action, and increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so that there is an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Mr. Edward Jacobs, of Marengo, Crawford Co., Indiana, writes: "After three years of suffering with liver trouble and malaria I gave up all hopes of ever getting stout again, the last chance was to try your medicine. I had tried all the home doctors and received but little relief. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I am stout and hearty. It is due entirely to your wonderful medicines."

AT CLOQUET.

Half Breed Woman Struck By Train and Badly Hurt.

Cloquet, Minn., June 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Joe Frank, an Indian half-breed woman, was struck by a Great Northern train on Monday morning, and badly injured. The wonder is she was not killed. The accident occurred within the village limits. The train was going at a high rate of speed, and the woman, walking on the track, attempted to get out of the way, but did not succeed. It is considered time the village authorities called a halt on the rate of speed at which trains are run in the yard limits. Ore trains sometimes dash over the crossings at the rate of 20 to 35 miles an hour, and while no one has any business walking on the tracks, they are compelled at times to cross them, and some day there may be sacrifice of human life.

The Biennial Report of the Board of Church Extension.

Statistical Secretary Presents Satisfactory Figures of Work.

Des Moines, June 3.—This was church extension day in the general synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church. The annual report, read by Rev. H. H. Weber, of York, Pa., was adopted. The sixteenth biennial report of the board of church extension showed a total of gifts amounting to $122,250. Taking out the balance on hand, the net receipts for the two years were $113,044, an excess of $21,941 over the past biennium, an increase of 24 per cent, making the finest record in the church's history.

The total number of individual congregations assisted by loans was 62, and by donations 120. The assets, including church balances, are $366,677. The board recommended that the general synod apportion among the district's synods the sum of $40,000 annually for church extension, beginning with April, 1902.

The report of the statistical secretary was read and adopted. The report contained the following: In 1900 there were reported 156 churches, an increase of 16 over the last report; preaching stations, 186, a decrease of 2; 1613 prayer meetings, a loss of 173. In the same year 237 students for the ministry were receiving instruction, 44 less than in 1898.

The church continues to increase in number of its catechumens, 38,230 receiving instructions during the last biennium, a net gain of 422 over the preceding biennium. There has been a net decrease in losses as well as in accessions, the net decrease being 862. The accessions were:

By infant baptism, 21,192, a decrease of 1146; adult baptism, 5137, decrease, 858; confirmation, 17,792, decrease, 950; certificate, 10,146, increase, 82; restoration, 2957, decrease, 316; a net decrease in accessions not including infant baptism, of 2042. The present reported communicant membership is 198,428, an increase over the last biennium of 629. A comparison of the losses and gains shows a net increase of 11,324.

The estimated value of the church property in the general synod is $12,365,556, a gain in value of $235,612. On this property the indebtedness is $1,221,146, a decrease of $43,362. The total expenses of the congregation were $2,694,456, or $1339 less than in the preceding biennium.

The number of Sunday schools reported is 1638, an increase of 94. The schools have 23,839 officers and teachers, an increase of 214; a scholarship of 195,035, an increase of 3340. The contributions of the schools for local objects were $236,112, and for benevolence, $98,713. In our young people's societies there is an enrolment of 42,269, and they contributed for local objects $67,842 and for benevolence, $24,322.

The congregations report contributions for benevolence amounting to $566,437, an increase of $89,302. The grand total of contributions was $3,332,739, an increase of $110,083. During the biennium receptions of ministers into the general synod were 86, and the losses 54.

AT WEST DULUTH

The report this morning that the city council, at the meeting last evening, ordered the board of public works to advertise for bids for the sprinkling of certain streets in West Duluth was erroneous, for the board of public works reported to the council the petition fer the sprinkling, and no further action was taken last evening. It is expected that the council will take the matter up at the next meeting and direct the board of public works to advertise for the bids. There seems to be no objection on the part of the city officials toward installing the sprinkling for the benefit of the West Duluth merchants, but it was simply a case of not reaching the matter before adjournment last evening.

THRILLING INCIDENT.

Last Saturday the teachers of the public schools at West Duluth and some of the teachers at Duluth were given an excursion party to Fond du Lac, on the steamer Mary Mann, and a very enjoyable time was reported. It has since been learned that the trip was not without a thrilling incident, that the young ladies, for obvious reasons, kept quiet as long as they could. One of the teachers, from Duluth, it is said, while riding in a row boat about the river, was tipped out and fell into the river. Her companions showed great presence of mind, and there being no gentlemen present to assist, they got her back in the boat after several narrow escapes from capsizing it. The young lady that was pulled out of the water was taken to the steamer and remained in the engine room, close to the boiler, until her clothes dried out.

Professor Pumpelly Visits the Clergues at the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie—Professor R. Pumpelly of Newport, R. I., and D. E. Woodbridge, of Duluth, were here on their way to the Michipicoten iron range. They were accompanied by Messrs. F. H. and E. V. Clergue, manager and assistant manager of the vast industrial, mining and railway enterprises here. Professor Pumpelly was the man who organized and carried out the great economic survey of the Northern Pacific, the most important work of the kind ever undertaken under any but government supervision. He has for some time been locating large bodies of ore lands in Ontario.

Calumet—The Wolverine and Mohawk Mining companies have commenced laying rails for the Mohawk & Wolverine railroad, between the mines and the quarries. The grading was done last year, and it is expected the rails will be laid in time to receive the first shipment of steel by rail from the Wisconsin Bridge and Iron works, at Milwaukee, Wis. The present track is narrow gauge, but it will be made standard when the Hancock & Calumet widens its tracks.

Four new boats belonging to the Calumet Transportation company are now tied up at the smelting works of the Calumet and Hecla Mining company, at Lake Linden, on Torch lake, on their initial trip. The fleet is composed of two steamers, R. S. Warner and F. A. Flagg, and consorts, Thompson and S. D. Warriner.

Houghton—Mrs. Nora Power, a well-known and highly respected lady of Houghton, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Healy, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. She was surrounded by all the members of the Healy family, who had realized for some time that the end was near.

The new Hanna steamer Flagg, which left Torch lake early Monday for down-the-lake ports, carried nearly $1,000,000 worth of copper from the Calumet & Hecla stamp mills, which will be taken to the company's works at Black Rock, near Buffalo, for smelting. On the way down the Flagg stopped at Marquette, where it took its consort, the Warriner, loaded with iron ore, in tow. The Flagg on its preceding down trip had on board $800,000 worth of Calumet & Hecla mineral.

The big Pan-American dredge, at work at the canal, again had a stroke of hard luck, when the shaft of the swinging engine broke. The work of repairing the machine was started at once.

Brings peace, comfort, mental and physical happiness to the whole family, if taken this month. Nothing half so good as Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents. Ask your druggist.

Chinese Emperor to Make the Trip In 1902.

New York, June 4.—According to a Berlin dispatch to the Herald the London correspondent of the Tageblatt learns from the Chinese legation at London that the emperor of China with the consent of the dowager empress, will visit Europe in 1902. The Berliner Tageblatt comments upon the London Times dispatch regarding the intended annexation by the French of Hai-Nan as follows:

"Such a step would be a direct breach of the declaration powers that they would respect the integrity of the Chinese empire and it would force the other powers to demand compensation which would be the signal for the partition of China."

Mayor Black learned that secret meetings to arrange for an onslaught on the jail were being held and taking advantage of the temporary quiet that reigned, had the prisoner removed to this city.
